MOTOR CARS WRECKED.

COBALT, Oct. 6.— (Special.) — Trucks loaded with blankets from the relief train here were taken to Haileybury last night. Within an hour all the blankets were distributed by the relief committee to the five hundred men, women and children who still remain in the town, crowded together in some thirty-five buildings which escaped the flames in the northern part of Haileybury. A hundred persons are crowded in the High school in this part of the town.

On the way to Haileybury last night eight cars were counted on the side of the road that were wrecked, having collided in the dense smoke in the rush from Haileybury the night before last. People were injured and several are believed to have been killed in these accidents alone. Amongst the refugees rushing to Cobalt on foot were an old man and woman. The clothing of the woman caught fire and her husband vainly tried to extinguish the flames. He was so severely burned that he had to abandon his wife in the ditch.

North Cobalt and Haileybury looked exactly like the ruins of the devastated area of France. Small

CURZON'S VISIT TO PARIS AN AMICABLE ONE

Every Expectation of a Peaceful Solution of Near East Problems at Early Date.

GUARDS ARRIVE

LONDON, Oct. 6. — (Canadian Press.)— Indications were this afternoon that the entire Near East situation was tending toward what it was before the signing of the Allied note of September 23, in which the Allies promised to support Turkish claims to Thrace provided the Nationalists would undertake not to sent troops either before or during the peace conference into neutral zones or cross the Straits of the Dardanelles or the Sea of Marmora.

Lord Curzon's visit to Paris is an amicable one, it is explained, and he is carrying instructions from the Cabinet to persuade the French to adhere to clauses of the Allied note which would bar the Turks from insisting upon entering Thrace before the conclusion of the peace conference.

CHRISTIANS RE-ASSURED.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 6. — (Canadian Press.) — Continued arrival of British naval and military units has had a further re-assuring effect on the Christian population of Constantinople. The Canadian steamer Empress of India came in yesterday with the Grenadier Guards, the latest troop reinforcements.

Application for passports have decreased somewhat and reservations on the Orient express are again obtainable. Steamship companies are still maintaining inflated prices for outward passages, with first-class rates ruling for third-class accommodation.

The business situation in Constantinople continues depressed.

Women Gave Birth to Children in The Midst of the Disastrous Fire

TORONO, Oct. 6.—(Canadian Press.)—Tales of two women giving birth to children while lying on the shore of Lake Temiskaming with their feet in water, of one woman who two days before the great fire had become a mother, perishing on a mattress suspended by half a dozen other women standing waist deep in the lake, of charred bodies among piles of smoking debris, of franic efforts of about four hundred people kept alive by constantly dipping thir heads under water and facing the storm whipped surface of the lake for relief in waves from the frenzied fury of the fiery heat that hovered by the shore. These and other harrowing word pictures broken betimes by sobs and desperate moanings, were the first direct reports to Toronto got from refugees who arrived in their flight from the now barren sites where on Wednesday had been thriving towns.

KNICKERS "GET" JUDGE'S "GOAT" IN U. S. COURT

Tennessee Jurist Orders Arrest of Woman "Masquerading as Man."—Came as a Witness.

A WARM DEBATE

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Oct. 6.— "A woman wearing knickerbockers is a nuisance."

This was the decision of City Judge Martin A. Fleming after his court had been interrupted by the advent of a figure which calmly took a seat on the front row of benches. It was that of a woman garbed in knickerbockers and puttees, carrying a derby hat. Prisoners tittered, while all eyes were turned on the intruder, but she was calm and unconcerned.

The judge looked her over, apparently at first would not believe his eyes. Then he frowned and turned to the clerk:

"Make out aa warrant for that woman, she is creating a nuisance," he declared.

Came as a Witness.

The woman, Mrs. Ed. Friddell here with a street fair concession, was amazed and dumbfounded. She had come to court as a witness in another case.

"Madam," demanded the judge, "may I ask why you came to court garbed in such attire?"

"I have no other clothing," she replied, "These are women's clothes, ladies' knickers, to be exact, and everybody wears them."

"You say you have no other clothing," demanded the judge.

Had Nothing Else.

"Nothing eles, except two slips, and I hesitated to come to court in slips. I can see no harm in wearing knickers in this or any other court," and she turned around like a model displaying a style.

"That's enough," hastily declared the judge. "I've stood for this freedom pretty long and overlooked a great many things but I do want some mark of distinction between a man and a woman retained. There is a state law in Tennessee against a woman masquerading in men's clothing. You are committing a nuisance and are under arrest."

The case awaits final disposition, and there is a warm debate in Chattanooga among the women whether they are committing a nuisance when they wear knickers. Mrs. Friddell insists she will wear a slip when she returns to court.

WOULD NOT FORCE ANY CHURCH INTO UNION.

Such is Emphasized Policy of Rev. Dr. J. Smyth.

TORONTO, Oct. 6. — (Canadian Press).—"I would rather that another vote were taken on Church union than to draw into Church union by the nape of the neck any part of any Church against its wishes," was the emphatic declaration of Rev. Dr. James Smyth, Principal of Western College, Montreal, when he precipitated a warm debate on the principles of Church union at this morning's session of the Methodist general conference by his criticism of delay in bringing into being the proposed United Church of Canada. Dr. Smyth's declaration had reference to the opposition of a certain section of the Presbyterian Church to union, and his address followed the explanation of a proposed United Church Act by Hon. W. Rowell, K.C., chairman of the Committee of Tax and Legislation, in which he endeavored to make clear certain proposals apparently foreign to the minds of laymen and clerics.

SOMERSET, Pa., October 6.—Mike Hancher, a miner employed by the MacGregor Coal Company, has displaced Pat Flynn as the champion big pay miner of Somerset county, his last pay for a two weeks period amounted to $291.50, and in the two preceding weeks he earned $239.50, a total of $530 for the month. Until Hancher turned in this record breaking pay Pat Flynn had held all honors in this field for large pays. Hanncher says if he continues to earn money at this rate he will return to Slavonia in a few years and buy a castle.

ORGAN COMPLETED AT GEORGE STREET

Big Program Provided for Sunday Next—A Noted Preacher Here,

The work which has been in progress for some time on the organ of the George street Methodist church, was finishd to-day, and the instrument is now in condition for use at the services on Sunday next.

Mr. Leonard Downey of London, who has been in charge of the repairs, is well pleased with the work, and pronounces the organ now the equal of any in this part of the province. About 250 pipes have been for a long time defective, and all these have been placed in first class condition. In addition two new sets —a Vox Humana and a Vox Celeste, —which aggregate over 100 pipes, have been installed, the range and flexibility of the organ being thus much increased.

Mr. Renwick will give short recitals on the instrument before the services on Sunday, beginning at 10.45 and 6.40 respectively. The reopening of the organ, together with the presence of Rev. Trevor Davies, the noted preacher, author and religious leader, who is to be the preacher of the day, will make the anniversary service on Sunday memorable in the life of the church and city.

THERE'S DANGER IN BURNING LEAVES

Extra Precautions Should Be Exercised This Dry Period.

Until we have some rain it would seem that the burning of leaves promiscuously, as is being done at present, is more or less dangerous. Everything is so dry, the majority of our buildings are shingled with wooden shingles, and there are so many oil and gasoline stations around, where there might be a leakage, also adds to the danger from fire.

Then again the burning of leaves on the road is bad for a road bed. After two or three years of oiling streets, the oil has penetrated into the road an inch or more, but this penetration would be destroyed wherever a fire was made above it. With the Haileybury disaster right with us, would it not pay to be extremely cautious just now in the foregoing regard.

Instructive Addresses on Live Topics Before the Local Chamber of Commerce—Large Audience Found the Occasion Worth While.

DREAD DISEASES

Members of the local Chamber of Commerce and a number of non-members listened last evening to interest-holding talks on timely subjects. Major G. B. Johnson, Canadian Trade Commissioner to Scotland and Ireland, gave an illuminating address on trade conditions in the Mother Country; City Clerk S. R. Armstrong spoke of civic problems, and Dr. Gordon Bates, representing the Canadian Social Hygiene Council explained the need of the movement to check the spread of venereal diseases.

President Joseph J. Duffus of the Chamber of Commerce prefaced the proceedings with a short talk on the progressive work of the local Commerce Board, in the course of which he expressed confidence that next spring would see a fish hatchery established in the Otonabee River. He also fully expected that representation by the Chamber of Commerce would result in the building of a provincial highway from this city to the Kawartha Lakes district:

Mr. Duffus called attention to the intention of the Chamber of Commerce to organize a Young Men's Club Board of Trade in the near future and concluded by asserting that the Chamber is accomplishing satisfactory work, but still requires additional interest by citizens in general and invited an increased membership

Definition of Trade

Major Johnson in a most instructive talk on trade outlined his world wide experience in this connection and defined trade as an exchange of commodities at home and abroad, by which exports and imports should at least balance each other. Turning to trade conditions in Britain he sounded a note of optimism for the near future, as manufactures are once more nearing a status of normal production, while ship building is expected to shortly reach a prewar level. All things considered, he contended that the old country, free of any serious industrial disturbances, is on the eve of a great trade revival. He also emphasized the significance of Scottish imports consisting largely of English and Canadian products and urged that the time is opportune for Canada bidding for a bigger proportion of Scotland's trade

As for Ireland, the speoker reviewed that island's industrial activities and opportunities and contended that she is more favorably situated for extensive world-trade than any country of her size, due in part to her remarkable productiveness in many lines, and her comparative small national debt.

In conclusion, Major Johnston pointed out that one way of wiping out Canada's big national debt is to foster production of her natural resources and cultivate increased trade with Scotland and Ireland to say nothing of England and Wales.

Civic Affairs

City Clerk Armstrong in the course of a concise address on civic affairs, explained how every cent of Peterborough's taxation is applied to the best advantage pointing out that 70 6-10 cents of every dollar is out of control of Council, being used for educational, provincial and Dominion purposes. Referring to the need for raising $443,000 by debentures for construction of the sewage plant and the need of money for other improvements, the speaker next dealt with the problem of changing the dates for this city's municipal elections, so that they will not fall during the Christmas holidays. In council circles it had been projected that nominations should fall on the

ALLEGE FRAUD IN RACING TAX

Quebec's License Officer Charged With Theft of $39,672 From Government.

MONTREAL, Oct. 6. — That the Quebec government has been defrauded of $39,672.90 through false returns respecting amounts collected by Frank H. Dunn, as Superintendent of Licenses, in 1921, when he was charged with collecting parimutuel and amusement taxes at the Connaught Jockey Club, was the testimony of several witnesses heard here yesterday when Dunn appeared for enquete on charges of theft, and making false returns. He was arrested six weeks ago following investigation of racing matters by the provincial government.

T. P. Gorman, secretary of the Connaught Park Jockey Club testified that Dunn had requested the directors of the club to pay the taxes in cash through J. B. Watson of Ottawa, Auditor of the Connaught Jockey Club. This had been agreed to and Watson authorized to pay Dunn in cash.

Henri Girard, accountant in the employ of the Provincial government, testified that examination of the pari-mutel totalization sheets showed a deficit of $35,226.70 in the amount which should have been paid to the government as tax on parimutuels and a further deficit of $4,446.20 in the amusement tax collection in the entrance receipts of the same period.

The hearing of the case was adjourned to October 17.

Seeking Downfall of Lloyd George

Unionist Opinion Ascribes Ulterior Political Motive to Independent Liberals.

LONDON, October 6. — A section of the Unionist press, though it has grown rather lukewarm in support of the Coalition, derides the present activity of the Independent Liberals over the Near East question as obviously a political move.

"They are less interested in the fate of Turkey than in bringing Lloyd George down," says this section of the press. "France had suddenly become the object of their admiration because they think France has smitten Lloyd George under the fifth rib."

The Birmingham Post declares that amongst those who have made a real study of Eastern politics the word "atrocity" is now received rather sceptically, and suggests that since Gladstone's day the member of Parliament who comes forward with evidence of such will often be found to have gained his evidence very much from second hand sources.

NOVA SCOTIA TOWN SUFFERS FIRE LOSS.

An All-Night Struggle in Liverpool — Damage About $200,000.

LIVERPOOL, N.S., October 6 (Canadian Press). — It was not until five o'clock this morning that the firemen were complete masters of the conflagration that started last evening and damaged the business and industrial part of the town to the extent of $200,000.

According to reports, there is comparaivly little insurance on the damaged property, and the loss will be a great blow to the owners, also to the town in general, as the industrial plants destroyed gave employment to a large number of men.

EGG PRICES.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 6.— (Dominion Live tScok Branch.)—Several hundred cases of eggs are moving for export this week and further inspections are being made daily. A market letter received from London, England, under date of September 23, reports a great many countries shipping to Great Britain but outside of Irish, Danish and Dutch there is nothing that will compete to any great extent with Canadian. It speaks well for the advertising done by the co-operative concerns on the Pacific coast of the United States to find in this report Californians quoted. The situation in Canada remains practically unchanged. Markets from coast to coast are very firm.

Toronto unchanged. Poultry receipts increasing. Poultry pickers back at work at reduced scale.

Montreal specials 45, extras 39, firsts 34. Dressed poultry quiet, year old turkeys 38 to 40, young 35 to 36, chickens 2 5to 32, milk-fed 35 to 36, ducks 35 to 36, geese 25 to 30.

BRACKEN HAS BIG MAJORITY

Premier's Opponents Likely to Lose Their Election Deposits.

THE PAS, Man., October 6. — Premier John Bracken was elected for this constituency in the Manitoba Legislature yesteray by an overwhelming majority. The election was deferred when the general election was held on July 18th last. At the main poll the premier had a majority of 131 over his nearest opponent, Herman Finger, Independent; Dr. P. C. C. Robertson, and R. H. McNeill, both Independents, polled only a small vote.

It appears certain that Mr. Bracken's three Independent opponents have lost their deposits. With four polls to hear from, the Premier had 353 votes, Finger 79, Robertson 65, and MacNeil 26.

SAYS HIGH PRICES MAY DEFEAT TARIFF.

Reginald McKenna Believes U. S. Duties May Be Nullified.

NEW YORK, October 6 (Canadian Press). — The new tariff probably will cause increased prices in this country, which in turn will allow foreign competitors to remain in the American field, Reginald McKenna, former British Chancellor of the Exchequer, said yesterday in an interview with newspapermen at the convention of the American Bankers' Association.

Mr. McKenna emphasised that he was speaking as an individual English banker, and entirely unofficially.

"The immediate effect of tariff," he said, "will unquestionably be to lower your imports considerably. This will result in a corresponding decrease in your exports. This probably will be mitigated by higher prices in this country, which no doubt will enable foreign competitors to leap the tariff barriers."

FIFTEEN BODIES RECOVERED FROM HAILEYBURY'S RAIN SOAKED ASHES; ONLY TWENTY RESIDENCES REMAIN

Hundreds of Persons Who Had Sought Safety in Lake Temiscaming Were Saved From Death By Sudden Change in Direction of Wind — Cobalt Narrowly Escaped Its Neighbor's Fate — Spirit of People Unbroken By Disaster.

RAIN FELL 24 HOURS LATE.

COBALT, Oct. 5.—(By Staff Correspondent of Canadian Press).—Fifteen bodies had been found in and around Haileybury up to a late hour this afternoon. There are fears that the number will be exceeded. Some of the dead have not been identified. Mrs. T. A. Cobbold, wife of the County Court Clerk, lost her life when she and her husband attempted to rescue an aged uncle. Mr. Cobbold was successful in getting the old man out, but both the rescuer and rescued were badly burned. One of the bodies since identified was that of H. Elthie, 45, single. He was an ex-president of the Porcupine Mining Company.

Only Twenty Residences Left.

The fire which consumed Haileybury started in a potato patch where the potato tops and other refuse was being burned. Once it was caught up by a wind that bowled along at eighty miles an hour, the fire fighters were powerless to stop the rush of the flames. Of all the beautiful town only about 20 houses remain. Hundreds, perhaps, thousands, of people owe their lives to the veering of the wind. Crouched along the bank of the lake, water on one side and fire and smoke on the other, the danger grew greater and greater. Then the wind changed, and the choking, frightened people were saved.

Cobalt's Narrow Escape.

The town of Cobalt had a narrow escape last night. The flames were within half a mile of the town and the buildings of the Hudson Bay mines were consumed. The courage of the people of Haileybury is enthusing. "Sure we will rebuild," said Ray Gibson. "We will build a bigger and better Haileybury than ever before."

HEAVY RAIN FALLS TOO LATE.

OTTAWA, Oct. 5.—(Canadian Press).—The danger of the forest fires in the Haileybury district is passed, according to a telephone message received here tonight from the Canadian Press staff correspondent at the scene of the conflagration. It had been raining in torrents for some time, the correspondent reported. It was 7.30 p.m. then.

The number of dead in Haileybury and district is definitely placed at fifteen, he reported.

FEDERAL RELIEF WAS EFFECTIVE.

OTTAWA, Oct. 5.—(Canadian Press).—"Indications are that suffering and exposure will be reduced to a minimum," Premier E. C. Drury wired from North Bay to Hon. George Graham, Minister of Militia, tonight. The telegram was an expression of appreciation for the supplies of 10,000 blankets and other Government stores to the stricken districts.

The message follows: "Please accept my thanks and the thanks of the entire Province for your prompt action in placing militia stores at our disposal for relief of sufferers in Northern Ontario. Situation here well in hand. Considerable property damage, but small loss of life. Indications are that suffering and exposure will be reduced to a minimum."

Hon. Mr. Graham has issued orders to the military authorities in Toronto to instantly forward any further relief supplies requested.

SAYS CARELESSNESS CAUSES FIRES

MONTREAL, Oct. 5.—(Canadian Press).—J. Grove Smith, Dominion Fire Commissioner, who is in Montreal today in connection with the observation of a fire prevention week, is leaving for North Bay, Ont., tomorrow to take charge of the Government's relief plans, for those in the areas devastated by the forest fires. Mr. Smith stated today that he knows, from past experience, that the fires are due to the carelessness of campers who do not take the trouble to extinguish fires after they move their camps.

Asked whether railway engines scattering sparks may not have caused a large portion of the fires, the Fire Commissioner stated that he has found that very few extensive fires start that way. Where a fire occurs near the railway lines, the fire patrols of the railway quickly get it under control, he said.

NURSES SENT FROM TORONTO

OTTAWA, Oct. 5.—(Canadian Press).—The Canadian Red Cross Society sent a detachment north from Toronto specially outfitted for the emergency, particularly for the keeping of records. Nurses are being held in readiness as soon as word comes of the need. Dr. J. W. Robertson, Chairman of the Red Cross, who lives in Ottawa, stated today the organization was ready to do anything to help.

Magrath, Chairman of the Executive Council, communicated their willingness to serve to Dr. McCullough, Chief Health Officer for Ontario, in a wire today.

RAIN IS CHECKING FIRES IN QUEBEC.

SHERBROOKE, Que., October 6 (Canadian Press). — The forest fires situation in this district and in the vicinity of Lake Frontier was reported to he considerably improved last night following the rainfall yesterday afternoon. Although a heavy rain is badly needed, the light rain that fell yesterday assisted the fire fighters considerably in checking the progress of the flames.

FOREST FIRES REACH FARMS IN QUEBEC.

QUEBEC, Que., October 6 (Canadian Press). — Gustave C. Piche, Chief Forester of the Province of Quebec, received word last night that the forest fires in the township of Shawinigan had reached the settlement, and that a number of farm houses, including the barns containing the crops, had been destroyed.

The Government, Mr. Piche said, was going to fight every fire that broke out.

The situation was very bad.

CANADIAN BANKING SYSTEM A SUCCESS.

Address By Sir Frederick Taylor at Bankers' Convention.

NEW YORK, October 6 (Canadian Press). — Sir Frederick W. Taylor, general manager of the Bank of Montreal, yesterday morning spoke on the branch bank system before the American Bankers' Association convention, replying to the critics who, in a previous debate, had attacked the Canadian branch bank system as "dangerous."

Without attempting to tell the bankers whether branch banking would be good for the United States, he declared it had worked out well in Canada, proving of exceptional value in the agricultural regions.

Farmers, he said, frequently were able to borrow greater sums for crop handling from the great banks that had branches in their communities than they would be able to obtain from privately-operated banks.

EIGHT WITNESSES AGAINST BANKER.

Subpoenaed For Trial of Sir Montagu Allan.

MONTREAL, October 6 (Canadian Press). — Subpoenas were issued at the Court House yesterday morning for eight witnesses who will appear for the Crown against Sir H. Montagu Allan, president of the defunct Merchants' Bank of Canada, when he faces trial on a charge of having negligently signed a return to the Federal Government which contained a false statement in connection with the bank's financial position.

D. C. Macarow, former general manager of the Merchants' Bank, was recently acquitted of the charge of making the false statement.

The date set for the hearing of the charge against Sir Montagu is 12th October.

POTATO BOAT SERVICE.

ST. JOHN, N.B., October 6 (Canadian Press). — The Government Merchant Marine have announced plans for a potato boat service from this port to the United States to commence on 20th October, with the Canadian Gunner, and to include the Canadian Sapper on the same route if the business will warrant it.

LONDON, Oct. 6. — In a note dated October 4, the Angora government thanks the allies for recognizing its rights in Thrace and asks that Russia, the Ukraine and Georgia be invited to the peace conference.

The reply states there is no disagreement in principle with the allies regarding the freedom of the Straits, securing the safety of Constantinople, and the Sea of Marmora and the safeguarding of minorities, within limits compatible with Turkey's independence and sovereignty and an effective Near Eastern settlement.

UNSATISFACTORY NOTE FROM HARRINGTON.

LONDON, October 6. — The purpose of the late Cabinet meeting was to consider a despatch from General Harrington, which was very incomplete owing to a breakdown in the radio. So far as it goes, the despatch discloses an unsatisfactory condition of affairs, and the Government has asked General Harington to repeat the text and to remain in Constantinople until further instructions.

THE SOCIAL HYGIENE COUNCIL.

The organization of a branch of the Canadian Social Hygiene Council in Peterborough is a matter of vital importance to the community.

It is not a pleasant subject, this matter of the social evil and its effects upon humanity.

But trying to shut our eyes to the conditions does not help drive them away.

They are here before us and must be faced.

The Social Hygiene Council is endeavoring to arouse Canadians to the menace of venereal disease, to its far-reaching effects, to the fact that it is filling our asylums, our institutions for the blind, that it is responsible for much of the expenditure that has to be made every year for the upkeep of such institutions.

The movement has the support of Dominion and Provincial Governments, because it is tackling a vital problem in a business-like way that promises to be successful.

Too long have we been complacent in our attitude towards this question, too long has its evils been underestimated, too seldom has there been a sincere effort made to deal with the problem.

There is real work for the Social Hygiene Council, and it should have the co-operation of every citizen worthy of that name.

EXTENDING THE HIGHWAY.

The communication received by the Chamber of Commerce from Hon. F. C. Biggs that serious consideration would be given to the recommendation that the Provincial Highway be extended from Peterborough to the Kawartha Lakes is satisfactory—so far as it goes.

Great pressure could be brought to bear upon the Government if the request for this extension were to be backed up by the special committee which has been investigating hotel conditions and the question of tourist traffic.

The Hotel Commission visited Peterborough and some of the lake resorts.

Travelling by car over the portion of the roadway that it is desired should be added to the Provincial system must have given the members first-hand proof of the necessity of improvement.

At the same time the desirability of good roads if Ontario's lake section is to come into its own must have impressed the members.

The local member, Mr. Tooms, is a member of the Commission, and with his assistance the support of the special committee might be secured.

At all events, nothing can be lost in calling the attention of the committee to the desired extension.

THE CIVIC SLIDE.

The proposal to construct a civic toboggan slide at Riverside Park has been hailed with enthusiasm by Peterborough's young people, and the Council need have no worry that their action will not meet with popular approval.

It sometimes appears as if Canadians do not sufficiently capitalize the benefits of the winter season.

They are inclined to stay indoors too much in the cold weather, breathing bad air in over-heated rooms, instead of giving their systems the tonic effect of a few hours in the frosty, healthful atmosphere of a Canadian winter's night.

Tobogganing is one form of recreation that will see to it that Peterborough's young people get their fair share of oxygen this winter.

A splendid slide can be built at Riverside Park, and it is to be hoped that in undertaking to provide the necessary facilities the Council will not be niggardly in their appropriation for this work.

If the thing is worth doing at all it is worth doing well, and that should be the spirit of the City Fathers in approaching the matter.

Handled properly, a civic slide can be made to a large extent self-sustaining.

SCHOOL MEDICAL SERVICE.

The report presented by Dr. A. W. McPherson to the Board of Education the other night as to the work done by himself as school physician and by Miss Jory as school nurse indicates that the school children of Peterborough are receiving careful attention in the matter of health.

The work is of the most vital importance.

Canada learned during the war, as shown by the experience of the enlisting officers, that a very large proportion of the men of military age were physically unfit for service.

The majority of the applicants were suffering from defects that, had they been taken in time, might have been eliminated.

A system of inspection such as is now being carried on in Peterborough's schools should produce splendid results, especially as free medical treatment is furnished in cases where it is impossible for parents to pay for attention.

The Board of Education deserves credit for its foresight in inaugurating the school medical service, which is evidently being very efficiently conducted by the school physician and nurse.

Children who would otherwise be handicapped by defects are being given a chance, and from the standpoint of education alone that is a result of great importance.

TRADE WITH AUSTRALIA.

The Canadian Government announces its intention of sending a representative, on the invitation of Premier William H. Hughes, to Australia, in order to establish mutually increased trade relations between the two countries, says the Hamilton Spectator. The Minister of Trade and Commerce, Mr. James A. Robb, is mentioned in this connection, and, it is said, he will sail from Vancouver at the end of the month. Australia is the only member of the commonwealth which has up to the present declined to take advantage of the preferential tariff granted by this Dominion to Great Britain and the sister dominions which, in return, extend preferential treatment to Canada. The consequence has been that trade between Canada and the commonwealth has languished, and that many of the commodities produced in Australia have been purchased outside the Empire. This is specially true in the case of wool. Though Australia is a larger wool-producing country than the United States, last year of $3,000,000 worth of wool imported by Canada, only $17,000 worth came from Australia.

There is a market in Australia for Canada's lumber, paper, agricultural and other implements and certain other manufactures. Imports from Australia into Canada more than doubled during the last twelve months, but the amount of exports from Canada was reduced in that period. In the year ended August last Canada sold to Australia goods to the value of $13,595,138, compared with $15,169,966 in the corresponding period of last year, a decline of approximately a million and a half, while imports from Australia rose from $652,542 to $1,362,782. There are difficulties in the way, as pointed out by the Montreal Gazette. The market for Australian exports being so restricted, the Canadian Government will have to offer the Australian exporter who wishes to sell in this country some corresponding benefit, and it is not easy to see how such an offer can be made. "The situation will be better understood," remarks the Gazette, "when attention is given to the fact that more than half the Australian products now coming to Canada enter this country duty free. In the fiscal year ended March, 1921, this trade amounted to $701,980, an inconsiderable figure in itself, and only $326,214 of the goods entered were dutiable. It is only in regard to dutiable goods that the Canadian Government can negotiate, as it is obvious no concessions are possible in the matter of commodities that are already free, so that the basis from which this country approaches the question of a reciprocal agreement is an extremely narrow one."

THE UNITED STATES AND THE TURKS.

(Montreal Star).

People who think that they can keep the United States permanently out of foreign politics should get a little practice first by keeping water from running down hill.

The United States is powerful, populous, unusually well-read, wealthy, interested in "games" such as international manoeuvring, with possessions in two hemispheres, and with traders, missionaries and travellers scattered all over the globe. No such people have ever lived in the world before who did not take part in the greatest "game" of all, international politics. They have all and always been what critics of limited intelligence and narrow sympathies love to call "Imperialistic."

Of course, the American people will play a part in the future of the world. They did not join the League of Nations—for obvious reasons. They would not have entered the Kingdom of Heaven at that time—if Woodrow Wilson had been trying to force them into it. But they did enter the Great War as soon as the poisonous results of a half-century of "pacifist" teaching had been shaken off.

The sudden explosion of indignation and anger throughout the American Union over the incidents at Smyrna shows how easy it would be for an appealing moral issue to arouse our neighbors and lead them to compel the most time-serving and timorous Government at Washington to act. When our Washington correspondent tells us that more demands for action are pouring into the White House and Department of State these days than did during the excited period just before the Americans went to war with Germany, we have no difficulty in discounting the hasty conclusions of some who imagine that the American refusal to join the League and their reluctance to aid the recovery of Europe to-day mean that they have retired permanently from world affairs.

Mr. Lamont's plain talk to the bankers will have its effect. But it is just as well to remember that the financial leaders across the line are far more fully informed and more deeply concerned in the detailed results of a harsh policy of debt collection toward the Allies than are the people as a whole. The American financiers have always been anxious to make some sort of a practicable and profitable arrangement. They know that it is no simple matter of collecting coin or getting the European Governments to send them the money they would otherwise spend on battleships.

But the people as a whole can be stirred by just such an appeal as the sharp outcry of their representatives in Asia Minor against Turkish atrocities and the cruel persecution of local Christians. On less clearly-cut questions, they are suspicious of the good faith and unselfish intentions of European nations. They have the natural reluctance of a shrewd man, faced by a new game, to be drawn into it by veteran players. They firmly believe that all European Governments are seeking selfish ends and that any effort of theirs to help them will only be utilized to attain these unworthy ends. So they hold back from ordinary demands or those without a moral basis.

But this spectacle of Great Britain standing alone as the sole obstacle in the path of a Turkish sweep which threatens to engulf Christian communities among whom American missionaries are laboring, stirs the admiration and emulation of the American people, and they want to stand with her. Here is something they can understand. So we find published prominently in an influential New York paper such a trumpet-toned poetic appeal as this:

ENGLAND AT THE STRAITS.

England, let them accuse you as they will—
Charge that your helm Expediency steers,
To make you come off best, through all the years,
And aye your sails with winds Favorian fill,
But, when all this is said, record it still:
On danger's bound, with front defying fears,
England is there! And with or without peers,
She stands the red blood from her veins to spill!

So, at this moment, men behold her braced—
The hope-forlorn of bleeding Christendom,
On, ready, too, again that cup to taste
Which at Gallipoli was mixed with tears . . .
Let voices in reproach awhile be dumb,
Or say, The Virtue of her faults inheres!

—New York Times.

MR. M'KONE ENDORSED TECHNICAL SCHOOLS

In fairness to Mr. J. A. McKone, of the Board of Education, Mr. T. Tooms, who on Wednesday evening gave an address on technical education would like it known that Mr. McKone endorsed the proposal for a technical school at the last meeting of the Board at which the vote was taken. A large number of citizens have gone out of their way to congratulate Mr. Tooms on his efforts to secure a technical school for the city, and the able manner in which he presented the case to the Trades and Labor Council.

AN ESCAPE IN THE DARK

Violet gazed at the situation before her in horror. Dupont was helpless in the grip of Renard, although he struggled desperately to break the clasp of the fox's arms, strove to raise his head, to resist the numbing pressure against the back of his neck.

For several moments no one else moved. The other members of the band seemed fascinated by the kaleidoscopic happenings; first the wholly unexpecred appearance of Dupont, through the secret passage, then the dramatic arrival of the missing Renard in time to foil the hypnotist.

Violet's heart sank low, she felt herself yielding to utter despair. Still ringign in her memory was the scream of terror from Aunt Julia, perhaps the last earthly cry of that unfortunate spinster. In Renard's ruthless grasp the girl had been hurried out to the waiting machine in full daylight; had been carried off without so much as a curious glance from the afternoon crowds in Washington Square. Renard's companion, whom she had not seen, had remained behind. Again and again, in some corner of her brain, Violet heard the echo of the scream. She did not know for a certainty the fate of Miss Sutton; she only remembered the tragic killing of the woman's brother little over a month before.

"Dont' let him—don't let him get you with his eyes," cautioned Renard, growing breathless with Dupont's struggling.

Suddenly Violet realized that Dupont had not given up, was not giving up so long as an ounce of energy remained within him. And she? Had she not yielded all hope at a moment when possibly she might help him? Had she not forgotten her own grapple with Vera Collins in Mesma's studio, the time when she had demonstrated her own hidden strength and resource and courage?

She glanced about swiftly. Near her stood Evil Eye, his face covered even in the excitement. Priest of the cult, his particular charge was the altar, a black-covered pedestal directly at his hand. Here burned a chemical flame of some sort, without smoke or odor, furnishing the only illumination in the sweep of the two rooms. It was an uncertain ligh , however, dancing up and down and casting flickering shadows on feature which seemed unreal in their chalkiness. As the faces stood out, like mummers' masks at a festival of ghosts, or merged into the gloom, as though evil spirits incarnate sought here to dematerialize, Violet was reminded vividly of her nightmare and the Cavern of the Skull. Yet she must shake off the spell; must aid the man who had risked so much for her happiness.

At the intrusion of Dupont, Evil Eye had dropped his hold upon her arm. Dupree, or Clews as she knew him, had likewise released her after conducting her to the altar and to the side of Evil Eye. Lydia and Case, an old and gloatingly evil couple even in the shifting unearthly light, were together near one of the barricaded windows of the room back from the altar. So close that the hunchback could touch them were the struggling Dupont and Renard. Behind Renard was the bulking figure of the Strangler. Later Violet grasped that the Strangler had found and released Renard in hurrying to the headquarters following his murder of Miss Sutton. Vera Collins stood in the doorway between the rooms, on the other side.

With the swift impulse of thought Violet acted. Perhaps the memory of the conflict with Vera helped. She sprang, so suddenly that the gangsters were utterly unprepared, throwing the whole of her weight against Evil Eye. He stumbled, as she had planned, into the altar, setting it to rocking. Then before he could call our or disengage his arms from his robes she was upon him again, pushing, clawing, bending him back over the flame. It an instant it was over. The altar fell with a crash, splashing fire across the floor. Into the wreckage, toppled Evil Eye.

Violet leaped for Vera Collins, forgetting her hampering skirts, her sex, her former fear of the woman and of the gang. Vera somehow stood in terror of Violet now. Her resistance was half-hearted. Violet literally threw her over upon top of Evil Eye. For a moment it seemed that the flame from the fallen altar would start a conflagration, that the fire would spread to the garments of Evil Eye and Vera. Instead, like burning alcohol, they died or were snuffed out almost immediately.

In the brief second of half illumination Violet dashed to the side of Dupont. As the rooms were dark she groped for Renard. Her hands closed upon his face, her fingers upon his eyes. Only half realizing the pain she caused she pressed in upon his eyes with all her strength, until the fox, with a cry of agony, released the hypnotist.

MILLBROOK FAIR OFF GOOD START

Quality of Exhibits Better Than Ever—Big Day Today.

MILLBROOK, Oct. 6. — The Millbrook Central Exhibition, October 5th and 6th, is off to a good start judging by the number of entries which came in on Thursday, the first day of the Fair. The fine weather on Thursday of last year made the disappointment more keenly felt when the steady downpour continued all day Friday, but if the weather proves favorable this year there is no reason to doubt that the directors' aim, "bigger and better than ever", will be fully realized. From early morning on Thursday the officials and the various committees in charge were on the grounds, and the busy hum of activity in the building, and out-of-doors as well, showed that every-thing possible is being done to satisfy the public and make this year's show the success it deserves to be. The quality of the exhibits is first-class, the judges, who were busy all afternoon on Thursday, expressing themselves as being well satified with what they had to work upon; Millbrook Fair, though somewhat smaller than those held in the larger centers, deserves to be classed amongst the best when quality is considered.

The mid-way promises to be a a centre of attraction, quite a number of tents and booths being erected three of the latter are in charge of the C.S.E.T. organization of the Anglican, Presbyterian and Methodist church, while the Ladies' Aid of Grace church will serve hot meals on Friday. The good purses offered for speeding in the ring have brought many entries, and keen competition is promised in these events. Three concerts have been arranged for, one on Thursday evening at 8.15 p.m and two on Friday, the first at 6.15 and the second at 8.30 p.m. so those going home early, and those remaining until a latter hour may be accommodated.

Ailing Children Get Well on Laxative Syrup Pepsin

A small dose at bedtime brings relief and laughter by morning

HOSPITAL and doctor's records prove that 75 per cent of human ills has its origin in the intestinal canal, complicated with what is commonly called constipation. Realizing what that figure means, mothers should contrive methods of handling their children while they still control them that will prevent these future dangers. Teach children regularity of bowel movement, and be especially watchful of young girls. Insist on two passages a day until the age of 18, when one is usually sufficient. Give plenty of oranges and apples, plenty of butter because it lubricates the intestines, and encourage the drinking of water.

If you detect restlessness, belching, gas or wind on the stomach, sleeplessness, or lack of appetite, examine the tongue and you will find it coated, accompanied by unpleasant breath. The child is bilious, constipated. According to age, give from one-half to a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin, which children never object to taking as they like the taste. By morning the youngster will be well again. Likewise if the nostrils are stuffed up or there is persistent sneezing, a dose of Laxative Syrup Pepsin will break up the fever and cold.

ANY FAMILY MAY TRY IT FREE

Thousands of parents are asking themselves, "Where can I find a trustworthy laxative that anyone in the family can use when constipated?" I urge you to try my Laxative Syrup Pepsin. I will gladly provide a liberal free sample bottle, sufficient for an adequate test. Write me where to send it. Address Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 22 Caldwell Building, Toronto, Ont. Do it now!

Mr. A. F. Lithgow of Montreal, keeps his family well in that way, and Mrs. E. Whalley of Winnipeg, Man., has been using Laxative Syrup Pepsin for her baby, her mother and herself. Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin is a vegetable compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with agreeable aromatics. The formula, however, is on every package. Druggists have sold it with satisfaction to their customers for over 30 years, and it is now the largest selling family laxative in the world. Buy a bottle today. It will last you for months, and the cost is less than a cent a dose.

A FINAL WARNING.

The public has been warned repeatedly to lay in substitutes for coal for the fall and spring, because Canada will not receive more than 50 or 60 per cent. of her supply of coal for this winter.

There is no better or cleaner fuel for grates than peat, and it is one of the best and most convenient substitutes for fall and spring use, at any time.

We are advised that all available peat this season will be harvested and shipped within the next two weeks. So leave your orders with J. E. A. Fitzgerald, while they may be filled, and thus save future regrets.

CONTROL PRICE OF COAL IN QUEBEC.

Legislation Will Be Presently Passed Similar to Ontario's.

MONTREAL, October 6 (Canadian Press). — The Fuel Controllers of the Province of Quebec will, before many weeks have passed, have the power to regulate the price of coal in this Province, the same as have the Fuel Controllers of Ontario and other Provinces.

This was the announcement made yesterday morning by Premier Taschereau at the Government offices, when he declared that immediately the session of the Legislature opens, the Government will introduce a measure giving to the Fuel Controllers the necessary powers.

"The Fuel Controllers of the Province are being blamed in some quarters," declared the Prime Minister, "because they are controlling the price of coal in Quebec as they are doing elsewhere. But we are in the unfortunate position that there is no legislation that empowers them to deal with the situation as they do in other Provinces. They can simply act in an advisory capacity at present, and I believe they are being of some assistance in this regard."

A DEADLOCK IN MUDANIA PARLEY

Cannot Be Resumed Until British and French Confer

LONDON, Oct. 6. — (Canadian Press).—The Mudania conference is not ended, it was officially stated at the conclusion of the British Cabinet meeting this morning, but it is deadlocked and cannot be resumed before the British and French Governments have conferred over the situation.

The Turks' Demand.

A new crisis has arisen in the Near East situation which had seemed on a fair way to settlement. The armistice conference officials, Greek and Turkish military leaders at Mudania, was adjourned suddenly yesterday after a dramatic passage, in which Ismet Pasha, representing the Angora Government, demanded that the Turks be allowed to occupy Eastern Thrace as a precedent to any peace conference. Ismet Pasha told the Allied Generals that if the Turks could not have Thrace peacefully, "we have means to enforce our determination." Earlier in the day the Greek delegates had declared, in no less certain terms, their readiness to fight, if necessary, to retain the province.

CAIRO, Oct. 6—(Canadian Press) — Two French officers were killed during an attack on an automobile of Islim Pasha, Governor of Hauran in French Syria, as the Governor's party was leaving the capital yesterday, according to a report from reliable sources. Islim Pasha was wounded in the leg, and his chauffeur and secretary were injured.

COURTESY FOR GREEKS.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct, 6. — (Canadian Press). — Detailed despatches from Turkish sources in Mudania, telling of the arrival of Colonel Plastiras, chief Greek delegate to the armistice conference, say the Greeks are not given the privilege of active participation in the conference, but are acquainted by the Allies' representatives with all the decisions taken as an act of courtesy.

MR. G. N. GORDON APPROVES OF THE BOARD FOR C.N.R.

Mr. G. N. Gordon said to-day that he was very much pleased with the selection of the Canadian National Railway Board, made by the Government. He said the appointment of Mr. Richard P. Gough, who is one of Canada's leading busness men, and a former Peterborough boy, was a first class selection; and that the appointment of Tom Moore, who was a sane, moderate and faithful labour man, to represent labors interests on the Canadian National Railway Board of Directors could not be improved upon.

Mr. Gordon said that, with Mr. Gough on the Board, Peterborough manufacturers who desired to deal with the Canadian National Railways would be sure to have their cases properly heard, and carefully considered.

The delay in appointing the Board, according to Mr. Gordon, was caused, to a large extent, by the illness of the Hon. W. C. Kennedy, Minister of Railways and Canals; but the Board is a strong one, and the new President, Sir Henry Thornton, is said to be one of the most outstanding railway men in the world. He has been in charge, latterly, of the Great Eastern Railway, which has the largest passenger service in the world, and his management of that Company has been an unqualified success.

Warkworth Fall Fair Drew a Large Crowd

Exhibition Officially Opened By Mr. G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P.—Another Big Day Anticipated—Splendid Fair Grounds.

WARKWORTH, Oct. 6. — Between five and six hundred people attended the Warkworth Fall Fair yesterday. Although to-day is supposed to be the big day in this event, with extra special attractions, yesterday's mild weather brought out a large crowd of both young and old from the district. The horses and stock sheds showed some fine entries, the cattle less in number than at other exhibitions, but of excellent quality. The poultry section, a tented area filled with the cackling, squawking and crowing of various types of the feathered kingdom, was filled with hens, ducks and geese, big tan Wyandottes and black Hamburgs vieing with the monstrous Toulouse geese and wattled gobblers. Mr. H. T. Lush of Peterborough is the judge in this section.

Warkworth has a particularly good fair ground, with plenty of space for concessions, a good turf track and a roomy grand stand. The large main building was arranged in a most thorough and attractive manner, the lower floor devoted to exhibits of war trophies, of cooking, of grain, fruit and vegetables, the upper section containing the fancy work, bestowed in a manner that reflected considerable credit on the painstaking committee in charge of this section.

War Trophies.

The exhibit of war trophies, in charge of Capt. Webber, of Ottawa, were splendid. Arranged on the four sides of the long room, they were the centre of attention for various crowds. Here were displayed all the implements of modern warfare; the saw-edged bayonets, curved, wicked-looking German swords, aerial and French machine guns, "pine apple" and "egg" bombs, shell carriers, a German periscope, gas masks and gas flappers, hospital kits, cases of German decorations, a piece of the glass window of Soissons cathedral, a copy of the proclamation of the excution of Edith Cavell, with many more interesting and terrible reminders of the Great War.

There was a pretty arrangement of ferns, foliage and flowers and the home-made cooking exhibit showed some marvellous eamples of frosted and colored cakes. Delicate embroideries of every variety, in pure white and in colors, alternated upstairs in a fine showing of feminine work, with drawings and paintings, water colours of flowers making an especially bright spot of colour.

Canada's Flag.

A pageant entitled "Making Canada's Flag" was the contribution of the school children, a bright little entertainment that showed in successive stages the growth of Canada, right from the time of Columbus to the Great War, with Indians, soldiers and Red Cross nurses accompanying the brief addresses by impersonations of the famous characters in Canada's history. The pageant, led by Willie Dawkins and Jack Herbison, was in charge of Mr. Morley Smith, principal of the Warkworth Public school, this school winning the prize of ten dollars donated by the Warkworth Agricultural Society. The judging was done by Capt. Webber, of Ottawa.

Several bright and well-patronized side shows, with a dozen or more refreshment booths, made up the midway, the Warkworth Girl Guides and the local Chapter of the I.O.D.E. having charge of two of the booths.

The Warkworth Boy Scouts' band, under the capable direction of Bandmaster A. C. Twiddy, provideded some excellent music during the afternoon session.

Official Opening.

The fair was officially opened by G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., who was accorded a rousing reception. He was introduced by the chairman, Mr. Richard Honey, president of the Fair committee, and spoke briefly but eloquently, to an attentive gathering. Alluding to the pioneers who made this wonderful country what it is to-day, he considered that the responsibility at present devolving upon the shoulders of their descendants was the lightening of the burden of national debt which to-day rests on the nation, when two and one-half billions of debt requires all the thrift, energy and progress of young Canada to help in its decrease.

"In the three Western provinces there was a crop this year of 370 million bushels, with between 60 and 70 millions milled in this country, leaving 300 odd million bushels for foreign markets."

Mr. Gordon referred to the Quaker Oats Company in Peterborough, one of the best flour mills in the world, "which is now running at full capacity and shipping western wheat to Europe." "This is our responsibility to develop the agricultural possibilities of our country, as as far as we are able, and help to pay off the present debt of our country."

The Bacon Market.

The speaker also recommended the raising of a better class of Canadian hog for the foreign bacon market ,and predicted that the cattle embargo would shortly be lifted. Speaking of the exodus from rural districts to urban centres, he asked parents to give their sons a better chance on the farm by treating their desires with more sympathy, and giving them a greater share in the privileges and responsibilities of farm life. He spoke of the change effected in many supposedly stupid children by correcting diseased vision or other defects and referred in complimentary terms to the system of medical examination in the Peterborough schools.

Milton Maybee, Conservative M. P. for East Northumberland; Wesley Montgomery, U.F.O. member in the Provincial house, and Major (Rev.) Belford, Conservative candidate in the riding, followed Mr. Gordon, recommending co-operation in the successful carrying out of the Fair.

Two races were scheduled for yesterday afternoon. The first, in the 35 class was won by Cy. Winger, 1-1-1, owned by Wm. Elmhurst of Keene, against Carry John, 2-2-3, owned by Jos. Vasson of Trenton, and Frank McCarrow, 3-3-2, owned by Chas. Fife, of Keene. In the 18 class, four heats were run, the final to be run to-day. Darky Top, owned by M. Storey of Peterborough, won the first two heats, his final score standing at 3-1-1-2, against Harry H. 1-4-4-4, owned by Dr. Johnston of Port Hope, whose second horse, Roy Mack, stood 2-2-2-2-3, and Lady Barnsgill, 4-3-3-1, owned by F. Montgomery of Peterborough. Wilbert Nelson is chairman of the race committee and George Tice of Belleville, acted as starter.

To-day's programme includes a 25 class, a running race, and a free-for-all, which includes Liberty Patch, owned by Cowan Bros., of Picton and Bessie Brooks, owned by F. Montgomery, of Peterborough. The Campbellford band will be in attendance, and a baby show will take place in the large rest tent erected on the grounds.

Ross, Lorne Evans, A. Runciman W. A. Kelly, W. S. Nelson, J. A. Armstrong, Geo. Hutchison, F. L. Walsh. Auditors: F. H. Meneilley and A. Weatherson. Honorary Board: S. Black, G. Runciman, W. R. Losie, R. Walsh, P. S. Ewing and W. Stewart. Committee for Ladies Work: Mesdames T. Allen, A. C. Twiddy and Maycock.

CHICAGO "PIT" PRICES.

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.— (Canadian Press.)— Wheat moved upward in price here to-day, higher quotations at Liverpool counting as a bullish factor, together with renewed difficulties about peace with the Turks. The close was unsettled at net gains of 1-4 to 1 1-8c., December $1.07 to $1.07 1-8 and May $1.08 1-4 to $1.08 5-8. Corn finished 5-8 to 3-4 and 7-8c. up; oats off a shade to 3-8 and 1-2c. and provisions showing a rise of 5 to 37c.

According to some authorities, the Liverpool advance, which came as something of a surprise to most traders here, was due largely to scantiness of offerings from this side, a circumstance growing out of transportation difficulties, especially east of Chicago. In connection with the Liverpool advance, however, much notice was also taken of the fact that for the first time the direct approach to Constantinople was being menaced by Turkish cavalry and that the signing of an armistice was being delayed.

OVERSEAS PRICES.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 5.—(Canadian Press.) — The British cattle market report for the week ending Oct. 5, compiled from cables to the Dominion live stock branch as follows:

Birkenhead sales of Canadians were 234 head, from 17 3-4 cents to 18 3-4c. in sink. Irish 15 1-4 to 16 3-4c.

Glasgow reports a poor demand, under extra heavy marketings. Best Scotch 1 11-2 to 14 3-4c. Twelve hundred Irish cattle sold from 8 3-4cc. to 10 1-2c. live weight. This week's Canadian arrivals not yet sold.

London, Canadian dressed sides of middling quality sold from 14 3-4 to 15 3-4c. Weather improved, trade still slow.

Bacon market:

Canadian lean and leanest 130s. to 135s. Prime 125 to 130s. dull. Prices showing a general cut of 5s. American 98 to 108s., steady. Irish 148 to 158. or 3s. off. Danish 147 to 152s. or 5s. off. Danish killings 36,087 head.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 5.—(Canadian Press.)—Following the higher opening as the result of stronger cables, the local wheat market showed decided strength yesterday and at the top October futures were 1 5-8 above Wednesday's close and November 1 7-8 higher. Good export buying and only moderate selling pressure were contributing factors to the higher prices. The volume of trade throughout the day, though not large, was fair. The transportation situation which is stated by shippers to be still serious, is undoubtedly curtailing new business. The close was firm.

Trade was not heavy in the coarse grain markets, but prices in sympathy with wheat maintained a steady tone.

The cash situation was easy with premiums about unchanged. Very little wheat changed hands as the bulk of the offerings were applied to old sales. No. 1 northern was quoted at 1-8 over the October price while the lower grains continued unchanged.

Inspections totalled 2,023 cars, of which 1,777 were wheat.

WINNIPEG LIVE STOCK.

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 5.—(Live stock.)—Receipts 1,475 cattle and calves, 420 hogs and 530 sheep and lambs. The general run of offerings on the cattle market maintained a firm tone yesterday morning. Feeder steers ranged from 4.25 to 4.50. Choice stocker steers around 4.00; best butcher cows 3.00 to 3.50; handyweight butcher steers 4.00 to 5.00.

The hog market remained unchanged at 10.50 for selects.

—And That's That! by Jack Lait

LOVE has been defined, analyzed, diagnosed, blue-printed, vivisected, shredded, pulverized, dramatized and x-rayed. Love is a commodity as well as a passion. Dressmakers live off it, hotels bar it, young women yearn for it, old women burn for it, widows juggle it, brides giggle over it, bungalows shriek with it, night-boats rock with it, moving pictures can it and censors ban it, musical shows sing it, jazz-hounds syncopate it, the whole world lives for it and half the world lives on it—and nobody knows yet what it is!

So what's the use of speculating on why Chester Wripley thought that the sun rose in Gay Massmore's brown eyes and set in the highlights of her chestnut hair?

The why of love is for poets to discuss. Then it may have rhyme, but no reason. This discussion is not in the hands of a poet, and therefore it is freely granted at the outset that Chester's infatuation for Gay had neither rhyme nor reason. He was simply cuckoo over her—and that's that.

Gay was a hard, cold, classy show girl. She had discretion enough to eschew jewelry and to wear gowns that revealed her marble charms, but did not challenge the proprieties. One could take her anywhere—if she'd go—and not be afraid that she'd fumble the ball or do a hick. She had been around and she knew the language of every approach by rote. Any man could start any sentence and she could finish it.

The obvious view of "gold-digging" is the itch for the "gold." That isn't so in all cases. Gay, for an example, craved the chase, itself, and the kill, rather than the meat. She would rather have taken a man with a small fortune for all of it than a man with three times as much for only twice as much. Men were made for her and she figured that they owed her what they had.

The Wripleys were of the best blood. Chester was an only son. His sister had married into a family whose name was only whispered in the dark. She was as unapproachable as the crown jewels. She knew only a few persons, and spoke to only a few of those she knew. The only thing between earth's cement footing and heaven's mysterious convexity that she really loved was her brother, Ches.

And Ches fastened all his interest around Gay Massmore, the star collector of Broadway, who had those eyes and that hair, rounded lying lips, chilly alluring arms, glistening hooking fingers, and all the rest of the necessary equipment except a gun and a horse.

Ches wanted to marry her. He told that to his sister. The wealthy and snobbish Mrs. Cromwell-Clarkson almost fell off her Louis XIV. chaise-longue.

"Marry her! Oh, Chester—my dear, dear boy!"

"But, sis—drat it, I can't live without her."

"Twaddle. She is preposterous. I shall never forget that time when I went to that unspeakable restaurant at your absurd request to look at her. She sat there watching you as you talked to her—earnestly, furiously, like the simpleton you are; she sat and listened like one might fancy a money-lender giving a prospective victim a hearing and computing the percentages while hearing shrewdly. I know very little of what you might call 'life,' but a child could appraise that impossible woman on sight. Chester, you are going to break my heart, disgrace your family, ruin your future, and pay heavily for the privilege of making yourself miserable and absurd. I beg of you, dear——"

Chester shook his head.

"I know all that you are going to say, sis. And I confess the truth of all that you have said—potentially. But there is a chance that love like mine will soften her, mold her, bring out in her the spark that somewhere in such an exquisite creature must be latent. She tantalizes me, she haunts me. I tell you, dear, I'm hit hard. I shall never have a happy moment again unless Gay marries me."

"You will never have a happy moment again if she does."

"Well, darling, wish me luck—I'm going to ask her, to-night."

And he kissed his sighing, worried society sister, adjusted his immaculate tie, called for his hat and stick, and went to his rendezvous with Gay, the nooky little foyer of a smart little cafe just off the avenue.

Gay Was in Black That Night, and Black Was Her Most Becoming Wear Although She Was Dark. Her Gown Fitted Tightly and Revealed in Every Move of the Sheen Silk Her Every Ripple of the Form Which Made Thousands Gasp in the High-priced, High-spiced Revues.

Gay was in black that night, and black was her most becoming wear, although she was dark. Her gown fitted tightly and revealed in every move of the sheen silk her every ripple of the form which had made thousands gasp in the high-priced, high-spiced revues.

Her hat was a simple little affair that had cost a pretty shekel, her own design, nothing like any other anywhere, yet unobtrusive and in admirable taste.

Chester's good-looking, thoroughbred features lighted up at the sight of her as she rose to greet him. He pressed her hand and led her into the room where a table for two had been reserved and set. Cocktails waited in bouillon cups. Chester lit a cigarette for Gay and one for himself, and he sat for a full minute in silent contemplation of the face and neck and shoulders that had enthralled him.

"Gay," he said, at last, "I love you."

She smiled a smile that just missed being a sneer.

"You know that I love you. You know how I love you. I love you not with that Broadway love that means a beautiful companion for the jazzeries, all-night parties, slumming and stepping. I love you as a man loves the woman who is to be his wife."

Gay put down her cigarette and looked at him.

"Is that a proposal, or are you trying to show me a good time?" she inquired.

"It is a proposal. When shall we be married, dearest?"

"Whoa," called Gay. "Whoa, Mr. Millionaire. Shift gears—you're skidding."

"Not at all. I have myself under perfect control."

"Well, that's fine. Keep right on controlling yourself."

"But——"

"'But' is right. But—don't start in controlling me. I'm willing to skate along like we've been doing, with no doors locked behind and no bridges blasted. But when you get talking about marriage—go easy."

"Why? I love you. Isn't it logical that I should want to marry you? What's to prevent it?"

"I am. And I guess that's one of the best little preventers you ever heard."

"But, I don't understand. You care for me—a little——"

"Yep; a little. Is that enough to start a marriage on? What kind of fathers and mothers do you millionaires have, for John's sake, that you grow up with such immoral ideas of this marriage thing."

"But I love you as much as any man ever loved a woman—as tenderly—as completely—and I want to prove it by the best and sweetest proof a man can give a woman of his affection for her."

"Yes. But you don't seem to understand. You want to marry me to prove you love me. But what would I be proving? You can't marry me without me marrying you, too."

"And what is so seriously against that? I have plenty of money, I am young, my name is a good name——"

"You're still whacking away without hitting the main object, Chester. I'm afraid I have to rub it in to make you quite understand. You love me—all right. But I do not love you. Do I make myself entirely clear?"

"Entirely. Yet——"

"Not so entirely, I see. However, I may still get you to understand the lowdown on this marriage thing as I view it—I who have cruised the main and who have a rep as the baby without a soul, a heart or a conscience.

"I have never been married. The phoney love that I've scattered around, and the tin imitations of golden passions that I have distributed as souvenirs of my strut at the head of the million-dollar show girl line, meant nothing to me and mean nothing to me yet.

"I've never loved a man in my life. And, how'd you like to know that no man ever loved me in my life—so far."

"Nonsense. I love you, and——"

"Yes? You love me? Like hell you love me. You love me with your eyes. You know my character. Do you admire it? You don't have to answer that one. You know considerable about me. Do you relish what you know, or deplore?

"In your heart you disapprove of everything about me except my appearance, which, I grant you, is some appearance.

"But that's the first thing I'll lose. My character, my traits, my habits, my viewpoints, they'll all—or mostly—remain."

"Not necessarily, Gay. As my wife, among the well-bred people——"

"Oh, chuck that. I'm as well-bred as you are. My mother was one of the most effective washerwomen in Brooklyn, and my father was a copper who didn't graft any more than all he could get his mitts on. That makes me a blooded filly. What are your people going to teach me? To bawl out servants? I can give 'em lessons at it now. To wear clothes? I can make 'em look like chambermaids now. To flirt with other women's husbands? I can cop the husbands they cop away from those who cop 'em now. To dish dirt with a flock of blue-book janes? Say—I know a few society secrets now that they never will find out, about themselves and their men, their men's women, and their women's men.

"It isn't breeding that I lack or polish that I need. I've played millionaires's daughters with all the footlights on me and all the millionaire's eyes, too, and made 'em like it—so I must have that stuff. What I need is somebody to love me. And when that man comes along he won't have to have a nickel."

"But I tell you I love you. I will forgive you anything, I will start in to become part of your life, part of you. Between us we will strike an average——"

"That begins to sound like sense. But you don't mean it. You may think you do, but you don't and never could.

"Do you know why girls like me can't make happy marriages with men like you? I'll tell you. We're not your sort. You may fall for our faces and figures, and if the cocktails agree with your nerves, you may talk marriage. And that's fine when you do, because it's nice to at least talk about it.

"But if a girl like me marries a man like you, you never forget. You start in with a notion that you want me to live down something and live up to something. And that's deadly. When I marry, it will have to be some man who knows all about me and thinks well of it.

"The answer is that I'll probably marry a crook. Several of the girls in the show have turned down clean, fine millionaires who wanted them to go bungalowing, and took on yeggs.

"You see, what you think is detestable in me, but which you think you are willing to condone because you have a crush on the tilt of my nose and the arch of my eyebrows, some gun or gambler would think was clever and nifty.

"In other words, I have to find somebody as bad as myself before I can find anybody who can really love me.

"Your station is a long way from my station. When I meet the right bird, he and I'll get off at the same station.

"He'll hear with pride in his eyes of how I worked a chump for a grand and smiled a sap out of a mess of junk and how I took a mug for the sassiest li'l apartment on the quietest street in this ballyhoo burg.

"He'll brag about me to his pals—that he landed the smartest trimmer in America.

"Would you brag about that to Mr. Van Duzendyke, or to your sister whose pictures I see in the enameled magazines, or to your cronies at the dear old club? Yes, you would!

"Society would lift its naked, skinny shoulders shruggingly, and yawn that Ches Wripley, one of its own, had gone and done the conventionally unconventional thing—married one of those wretched theatrical things—and a couple o' mammas with debbing flappers would start grooming them to catch you as you fell out of matrimony with me.

"Say—I'd like first rate to marry you and become one of the elect elite. But I haven't a chance. All I'd get out of it would be those twin rewards for the show girl who hooks up with a silk sock—alimony and publicity.

"And I can do as well on my own in both directions, thank you, and still save a few illusions—or delusions, if you want to be fussy about it—for the man who's going to waft in and pull that marriage wheeze on me and give me the jumps.

"When that bimbo opens his lips and gets through the first syllable of that word, Chester, I'll be in his lap, cooing 'Yes, daddy—yes!'

"Marriage is the only sin I haven't committed yet. It's the only one I've got any respect for. I've been a co-respondent, but never a wife. I've been guilty of larceny, but never of matrimony.

"To marry a man in order to trim him isn't artistic or sportsmanlike. Any woman can shake down her own husband. But it takes a champ to keep on assessing revenue against men who have other wives or none at all. Many stories tell you different, but I tell you it's so. The average man shivers when a woman not his wife asks him for dough—she's a panhandler, a vamp, and worse than that. But when his wife puts on the bee, he comes clean and hopes he'll get a better break toward a night for it, maybe.

"No, the adventure is all out of it after that 'I do' racket, unless—ah, that unless! Unless the woman really loves the man and the man really loves the woman. Then it's the greatest adventure that comes to a woman, I guess.

"Now let's have this understood, Ches. I'm pretty fond of you. You're a nice, clean, upstanding chap, considering the tough start you had in life, coming out of one of the best families of high-grade burglars and intrenched sharpshooters and blue-nosed aristocrats. And we could have gone on T. F.—which means indef—if you hadn't crabbed it with this marriage suggestion.

"It's very flattering, and for that I have to give you credit. So much so, that I can't in fairness continue to play you for a gold-plated sucker. You see, when a man only wants to frolic with a girl, he's hers—legitimate picking, because she peddles and he pays. But when a guy wants to marry a dame, she can nick him on his weakness, because he'll come strong and go far in the hope that he's getting somewhere nearer landing her.

"So, you see, it's cold.

"Marriage is the only thing on earth left to me that might be high and holy. And you want to show that up to me, too. You don't want to leave me a thing to look forward to.

"Well, how'd you like to know that when I Chicago to the altar with the man I'm going to marry, he's going to be a man that all the world will never pry loose from me?

"He's going to be one of my sort. The risk is too great to take a shade the worst of it right from the barrier.

"And you're not that man—so go home and set your sister's heart-beats back to normal, pumping the ice water through her light blue veins.

"And this is our last party. I won't marry you and now I can't flimflam you.

"So it's the air, Chester. And the air will cool your fevered brow and do you a heap of good. You're probably the first Wripley who got any of it in many a generation.

"And remember, when you ask another girl to marry, that you've got to love her, not forgive her; enjoy her faults, not shut your eyes to them; cherish her frailties, not put her on probation.

"And don't marry anybody to elevate her. If you don't think she's 100 per cent perfect already, she isn't for you.

"This marriage bunk is the greatest thrill, the most marvelous invention, the most sacred and glorious institution in all this rotten world—take that from Broadway's best gold-digger. Please call a taxi."

Operating Small Hotel Exclusively For Women

MRS. LOIS PIERCE HUGHES.

By MARIAN HALE.

A small hotel exclusively for women, operated within one of New York's largest and busiest ones, is the now thriving business which was once only a dream of Mrs. Lois Pierce Hughes.

Some years ago it occurred to her that many women from all parts of the world came to New York annually without friends or relatives, and that Broadway or Fifth avenue was about as far as they ever got, just because there was no interested person to tell them what to do or where to go.

Something should be done, she figured. So she went to the proprietor of a hotel and told him so.

"We don't care to cater to women," he told her. "They're too fussy—always wanting something. They get into difficulties with the bell-boys and drive the clerks wild with their questions."

Which led Mrs. Hughes to reply: "That shows they want something you don't give them. They require a different type of service."

Converts Hotel Man.

Mrs. Hughes is a convincing talker. She soon converted the proprietor to her idea. So he gave over to her a floor of 75 rooms in his new building and told her to go ahead and see what she could do.

In a short time she had established a shopping service consisting of a corps of young women who knew all the New York shops and just where to buy what.

She assembled a force of chaperons who would meet young girls at the train and look after them as carefully as their mothers would while in the city, besides directing them to the places where the real New Yorkers instead of the tourists go.

A playroom for children, with a capable nurse in charge, was another innovation that immediately was welcomed and taken advantage of by mothers. A beauty shop and a library and some cozy parlors were soon added because they seemed necessary.

Her Own Home There.

But more than this, she moved her own belongings to the sixth floor and made her home there—and she regards the women on the floor as her guests.

"Women say it's the home they want when they are away," she explained. "Women want to talk to another woman—to tell her their troubles and their plans.

"When I was a child, I used to travel with my father and often we stayed at hotels. There was never anything for me to do all day but to talk to the chambermaid or bother the clerk.

"The dreariness of it all must have sunk deep into my subconscious mind, for when I found it necessary to leave my home and go into business my first thought was to do something to humanize a hotel.

"I decided not to give up my home life, but merely to transfer it to another place, where possibly it might be more far-reaching.

"I do a great deal of work for men—men who are stopping on other floors, but who want to take presents to their wives or get information for them.

"I advise women about everything from their love affairs to their baggage transportation. I've never found them fussy or ungrateful in any way. And the men who were so skeptical about my undertaking are now my most enthusiastic backers."

A REDUCTION IN PROPOSED POWER RATES, WARKWORTH.

But Hitch in Submitting By-Law to Ratepayers Has Yet to Be Ironed Out.

WARKWORTH, October 6. — The Police Commissioners of the village of Warkworth, who have been negotiating with the Hydro-Electric Power Commission for a supply of electric power for their village, have been advised by the Commission of a reduction in the proposed rates offered them some time ago.

The consumption rates for domestic purposes have been lowered from 11 cents to 8 cents per k.w. hour for the first block of power used, while the rates for commercial purposes have been lowered in the different sections from 22, 11 and 2.2 cents per k.w. hour to 16, 8, and 1.6 cents.

The delay in procuring Hydro power for the village is occasioned by some hitch in the arrangements for the by-laws.

THE SCHOOL FAIR OF NORTH SMITH A PLEASANT EVENT.

Ideal Weather and Excellent Attractions Assured a Large Attendance — Numerous Exhibits.

YOUNG'S POINT, Oct. 6. — On Friday, September 22nd, the annual rural school fair of North Smith township, was held at Young's Point. The weather being perfect the event was attended by about 500 people. The exhibits were numerous and of an excellent quality. The six schools belonging to the district were all represented in the parade and acquitted themselves most creditably in marching, singing, etc., as well as in the neat appearance of their uniforms.

At 2 o'clock the procession headed by a decorated car driven by Miss Agnes Young, and following the North Smith band, which provided excellent music during the day, left the school and wended its way down the village street. The order of merit was: S. S. No. 7 Smith, Mr. C. Frost, teacher; 2, S. S. No. 8 Smith, Mr. J. Raddon, teacher; 3, "Tillers of the Soil," S. S. No. 10, Smith, Mr. Hutchinson, teacher.

The other schools which took part were "Pine Grove," Douro, Miss G. Sage, teacher, S. S. No. 12, teacher, Miss Rankinn.

Only two entries were made in the public speaking contest, the first prize going to Ethel Wilson, S. S. No. 8, Smith, whose subject was "Our School Fair," and the second to Elsie Northey, S. S. No. 7, who spoke on the comparison between the schools of to-day and the schools of yesterday.

There were seven entries in the singing contest the prizes being awarded as follows:

1, Loreen Nugent, S. S. No. 14, Douro.
2, Daisy Wilson, S. S. No. 8, Smith.
3, Mary Webster, S. S. No. 7, Smith.

The booth in charge of Mr. and Mrs. A. Holden of Peterboro, did a thriving business, the order of the day being 'hot dogs.'

In the course of the afternoon races were held for the children, which were enjoyed by all.

RAPID PROGRESS FOR GOVT. SAVINGS BANK.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 6. — (Canadian Press).—Since its establishment a little over two years ago, the Provincial Government Savings Bank, with two branches in Winnipeg, has made rapid progress, and to-day there are more than 10,000 depositois wrth deposits totalling $4,200,000.

The bank was founded when the Provincial Government found it necessary to secure funds for rural credits societies, which the regular chartered banks of the country had refused to finance. On the date of its first anniversary it had deposits amounting to $2,650,000, while the number of actual accounts was 6,300. Since that time deposits have increased at the rate of approximately 450 a month.

"We have taken care of all advances ever made by the Government, have paid for all our equipment and still have a surplus in addition," states E. A. Weir, chairman of the board of trustees. "In addition to paying the 4 per cent. interest on deposits, it has not cost the citizens of Manitoba, or principally of Winnipeg, a dollar to maintain the office," he states.

"In order to ascertain the particular attractions this bank has for the people of Manitoba, Mr. Weir has conducted some investigation, with the result that he has found that in addition to the higher rate of interest, and the longer banking hours, the fact it is entirely a Manitoba institution, with the money being kept in the Province for its benefit, has also been a deciding factor.

BLOOMER DRESS BEST FOR SPORT.

Sportswomen have solved the ideal costume. After much discussion of bloomers pro and con a satisfactory compromise has been reached in the bloomer dress.

It's a plain slip-on dress with round little collar, either short or long sleeves, wide patch pockets and a skirt that slits up to give one plenty of freedom and buttons fast to give one necessary decorum.

Bloomers with wide cuffs are made of material to match the dress.

These costumes are shown in all summer materials and are beginning to appear in jersey and homespun as well.

Keep the car looking new by re-varnishing it about every six months.

Rain will come and go at your own will, in the future

This possibility is another prediction for the field of radio.

It was made by Marconi the famous inventor, at his recent visit to America. Other radio engineers also have expressed the opinion that the control of rainfall by radio is possible.

Just as a bolt of lightning and thunder are forerunners of a rainstorm, says Marconi, so might radio produce the same result.

"We undoubtedly will accomplish this wonder some day," he says. "And then we will becom the lords and masters of life on this planet. We will be able then to obey any amount of power almost without effort.

"All the work will be done by the sun. Man will merely press the button.

"The developers of water power and of the radio transmission of electrical energy produced by water power will become exporters of electrical energy to less fortunately situated countries."

PLAY SOFT BALL LAKEFIELD RINK

A League Will Be Formed Fall Activities Have Started in Northern Village.

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 6.—The Lakefield Rink is being utilized at present for Indoor Base Ball and according to accounts will be a splendid place. The ever shortening evenings do not allow for evening games and as the players are all hard working business men, the rink has solved the problem of a lighted building suitable for the game, Baseball was never as popular in this vicinity as this summer, devotees of the game, motoring to Belleville, Cobourg, Lindsay, and Oshawa to say nothing of Peterboro for the games.

It will be good news to many enthusiasts that the season is not over yet and that there may be many games yet. A soft ball league is being formed and it is not unlikely that a championship cup will be forth coming.

The Fall Season

The fall season has opened and various organizations are renewing activities. The Catholic Woman's League are holding an "At Home" in Riverside Pavilion on Tuesday evening next. In case of bad weather the "At Home" will be held at Hotel Lakefield.

The A.Y.P.A. are holding a supper party or banquet for members and friends on Monday evening in St. John's school room.

Mrs. A. T. Le Fevre has arrived from England, where she spent the summer months.

George H. Walton has been transferred from Lindsay to Hamilton as manager of one of the Dominion Stores in the latter city. This is a decided promotion and is gratifying to his many friends in Lakefield.

AVIATORS IN DANGER AT SEA

Seaplane Wrecked and Afloat Above Ravenous Sharks—Crocodiles Near Land.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—(Associated Press) "Below us were sharks; near the land crocodiles. Would we float near enough to ground our inverted top hamper and signal some one ashore, or risk swimming for it? . . . Then our hopes were shattered, for an undercurrent caught our submerged planes and fuselage, and faster than we could near the land, we were pulled away from it. Quickly it faded and our hopes sank . . . We were utterly helpless and at the mercy of the wind and the tide."

The above sentences are taken from the long and thrilling narrative which records the terrible experiences of Captain Norman Macmillan and Captain Maillins while afloat for 60 hours on a wrecked seaplane in the Bay of Bengal. They were engaged in a round-the-world flight organized by the Daily News.

"Suddenly we noticed an alteration in the trim of our craft," continues the narrative. "Round and round we plunged, water pouring over us, hanging on tooth and nail, and soaked by the repeated wash that broke completely over us. Evidently we were in a tide whirl."

Perhaps the most impressive thing in the story is Captain Macmillan's account of their abandonment by a native brig which passed near them when they were almost spent. "Maillins could hear beautiful instrumental music," writes Macmillan, "and I the sound of the pipes playing laments in the distance. We did not mention this to each other at the time. We were afraid of that . . .

"Suddenly we saw a sail away down south. Was it coming up? Yes, slowly.

"A windjamer. Soon its yards appeared. Gradually it came along. Standing up we could see the hull. It was all we could do to remain upright.

"We waved our distress flag, signalling the international S.O.S. The brig was coming straight for us. She almost ran us down. She could not fail to see us.

"Was she changing her course? Surely not, but she was.

"She turned off, not half a mile away, and steadily passed us within half a mile, with two men looking at us from the poop.

"God what inhumanity Surely it could not be.

"Maillins frantically waving, slipped and fell half overboard, cursing at his hurt, cursing the brig and her crew, and writhing

"Standing on our rocking float, I waved and halloed and fired pistol shots.

"But steadily she swept past, a native brig. Two men on the poop ran forward as she was abreast of us. They saw us, undoubtedly, and were possibly terrified of ghosts and visions.

"But in mercy let them know what we felt like."

The two aviators were resuced some hours later by a steam launch sent out search of them.

VALUABLE PAPERS ON FISH PROBLEMS.

Prepared By Members of Department of Biology, Toronto University.

TORONTO, ONT., Oct. 6.—(Canadian Press).—A series of papers prepared by members of the department of biology of the Toronto Univeristy deal with various phases of fish problems. Each of the articles has more or less of an economic bearing and the volume forms a valuable contribution to fishery literature.

The first paper by Professor B. A. Bensley, head of the department, presents a plan for the biological investigation of the waters of Ontario. Professor Bensley states that a definite organization has been established in the department for the study of the scientific aspects of fishery problems. This work will be carried out under the title "Ontario Fisheries Research Laboratory." Considerable equipment for field work has been purchased, and Dr. W. A. Clemens has been appointed Limnobiologist to supervise field operations and laboratory work. Much work has already been done in Lake Erie and Lake Nipigon, and a series of reports is being published. Dr. Bensley emphasizes the importance of our inland waters as fish-producing areas, reviews the development of research in fresh water biology and outlines some of the lines of investigation to be followed.

In the second paper, Dr. W. A. Clemens reports the results of his study of the ciscoes or fresh water herrings in Lake Erie, carried out at the request of the Biological Board of Canada. Four kinds of ciscoes were found to occur, namely, the Jumbo, the longjaw, the Lake Erie and the Lake Huron, all extremely important commercially. The jumbo attains the largest size and a study of the scales show that it grows much more rapidly than do the others. The third paper by Dr. Clemens and N. K. Bigelow shows that the ciscoes in Lake Erie feed largely upon miscroscopic swimming and floating animals known as Etomostraca. These tiny animals are strained from the water as it passes in at the mouth and out the sides of the neck over the gills. The enormous numbers of these small ortanisms which must be present to support the millions of ciscoes is amazing. In the deeper water of the eastern end of the lake a shrimp-like animal known as Mysis relicta is a very important food item. J. R. Dymond, in a fourth paper says Lake Erie is one of the most important fresh water fishing areas in the world.

Another paper by N. K. Bigelow deals with the occurrence and distribution in south-western Ontario of a group of microscopic animals commonly known as water-fleas (Gladocera). These are extremely important as food for fish, particularly for ciscoes and young of practically all kinds of fish.

Professor A. F. Coventry in the concluding papers gives a very interesting account of the nest-building and spawning behaviour of the land-locked sea lamprey in the Humber River, which empties into Lake Ontario at Toronto. The Lamprey is very abundant in Lake Ontario and is a serious menace to our food fishes in that it attaches itself to these fishes by a sucking disc surrounding its mouth. The disc is lined with chitin-our teeth by means of which it rasps the body of its prey, and sucks the blood and body fluids.

RLY. RESTAURANTS IN RUSSIA OFFER FOOD IN PLENTY.

Normal Conditions of Travel Are Being Restored and Restaurants Opening Again.

TVER, Russia, Sept. 6. — The old time scenes at the American railway junctions, when the brakemen came through the train shouting "Blankville, 20 minutes stop for supper," are being duplicated in Russia, as the normal conditions of travel are being restored and railway station restaurants, foodless and closed for four years, are opening again.

Passengers during the revolution had nothing to eat on long journeys except what they brought with them but now practically every station restaurant offers almost a pre-war bill of fare.

As the trains pull in a scramble for food ensues that would rival an American quick lunch counter during the rush hours.

Some of the more important through trains have dining cars, but they are patronized only by first-class passengers and even many of these enjoy the rush at the station restaurants more than the decorum of the wagon restaurant.

HAD A VARIED CAREER WITH MOUNTED POLICE

SASKATOON, Sask., Oct. 6. — (Canadian Press.) —A pioneer of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and the first officer to be appointed in the Peace River country, Major C. H. West, after 34 years' service with the force, retired recently on pension.

Major West had a varied career with the force, acting in many capacities during his long service. The history and traditions of the force appealed to him, and after studying medicine in London, the Major came to Canada in 1888 and immediately joined the Mounties. He graduated in medicine and surgery in the Northwest Territories and six years later he came to Prince Albert for the first time with the rank of hospital sergeant.

In 1900 he was appointed medical officer at the time when the Dominion government made its treaty with the Indians in the Athabasca country and the following year he had charge of the R.C.M.P. in the Peace River country. During this period [illegible] for long practically cut off [illegible] vilization, receiving mail [illegible] once a year. Mrs. West, [illegible] the late Senator T. O. Davies, a daughter of Col. C. E. A. Patterson, of Montreal, was one of the first white women to visit the post.

After occupying many posts throughout the west, in 1919 he was again returned to Prince Albert.

The Mayor is now living in British Columbia.

"I did admire that last piece of yours, Mr. Lyon," remarked Mrs. Newcch. "Was it your own competition? It had a wildness and freedom about it."

"Indeed, madam," seplied the musician. "I was putting a new string on my violin."

War Debt Ethics

To the Editor of the Star,—In view of the renewed interest in the allied debts, a presentation of the Canadian point of view may be permitted. I suggest that we approach the question with a judicial mind, eliminating sentiment, and applying to the facts those principles which would govern an American court in a similar case between individuals.

The allies and Canadians consider that they have fought for all nations that did not desire a kaiser-ruled world, and that the United States, therefore, had a stake in the war even from its commencement. Had Germany won she would have had control of all Europe, all Africa and most of Asia. She would have probably made an alliance with the rest of Asia. Her eyes were already fixed covetiously on South America, and with the vast resources then at her disposal, what would she have cared for the Monroe doctrine? The United States would have had to face the rest of the world alone. I do not press this point, however, for I do not suggest that the United States owes anything for the early years of the war. I begin with the day she herself declared war, April 6, 1917.

Even if the United States had an interest from the beginning, it does not follow that she should have acted at once. Her people needed time to understand the issue. Her distance must also be remembered. If a fire breaks out in a city block, the interest of the neighbors is in proportion to their distance. The houses immediately adjoining ar in greater danger than those a few doors removed. In this case the conflagration began in central Europe, but at once spread to the adjoining houses, France and Russia. Between them and the United States there were other houses, Britain and the British dominions.

In the absence of a league of nations to act as general fire brigade, each nation had to decide for itself whether it should join the fire-fighters, and, if so, when. Being furthest removed, the United States was naturally later in cooperating. By the time she did come in the flames were raging in all the adjoining houses, and some had already collapsed. There was danger that they might make a clean sweep. Whether she could have intervened earlier is hardly for outsiders to say. We may, however, ask, what would have happened if she had intervened at the time of the Lusitania incident? The war would have been shortened by two years, millions of lives and tens of billions of dollars would have been saved, the condition of the world would not be what it is, and these debts would not exist. This, however, is of sentimental interest only. We must begin with her declaration of war.

How did these debts arise? For a year after the entry of the United States the tension was at its height. Each nation had to utilize to the utmost every resource it possessed. The United States required time to raise, equip, train and transport her armies. During that terrible year the allies had to hold the enemy back with little assistance from her in man-power. France, the British empire and Italy kept 6,500,000 men in the field, and of these 1,000,000 were killed. The allies could supply men, but were already bled white financially. The United States could not yet supply men, but had a plethora of wealth. Each contributed what it could,—the allies men, and the United States military supplies and food, or rather funds to purchase them. It was a time for action rather than for commissions to discuss mutual obligations, so that the acknowledgements which the allies gave took the form of notes. These are the debts which the allies are now asked to pay.

Supplies were the one form of assistance which the United States could render from the moment of her entry. American manufacturers were already turning out artillery and munitions on a large scale. The government furnished these indirectly. Their claim now rests on the fact that they supplied the cost of the materials instead of the materials themselves. Is the difference very great?

Had the American armies been then in France these munitions could have been used by them. Because they were not yet there, and these shells were fired by allied troops against the common enemy, must they also be apid for by French and British taxpayers? Should not Americnas rather rejoice that by these supplies they were able to take an effective part in the struggle.

The services of the men placed by the allies in the fighting line were given to the common cause. The lives sacrificed during that year were given, for alas, they cannot be restored. Should the contribution of the United States be on a different basis, a mere loan to be repaid? Are dollars more valuable than lives.

Our next question is why did the United States advance these sums? Reasonable self-interest is the basis of all business tansactions, and I think we will agree that it was also the prime motive actuating the various countries. France had no option, for she was invaded. Britain's bond to defend Belgium was powerfully seconded by self-interest, for it was better to fight with France as an ally than to fight later alone. In like manner it was better for eh United States to fight with 6,500,000 veteran troops as allies than afterward to fight alone. I do not mean that there was no altruism in the motives of the United States and Britain, for there was, but as the events recede in time, we realize that self-interest was in every instance a dominant factor. It was a case of helping others—and one's self.

France and Britain threw every available man into the field because it was to their interest to do this. Britain also advanced huge sums to her allies because it was to her interest that they should make a strong resistance to the common enemy. She certainly did not make her loans as commercial transactions. Why did the American government make advances? For the same motives that actuated Britain. It was to her advantage that the allies should make an effective resistance while her armies were getting ready. Had she not done this the war—her war—might have been lost before she could strike a blow. To claim that these advances resemble ordinary commercial loans is to ignore facts. They were advances to associates to be used in the joint enterprise, for the benefit of all; and they were made because it was to the advantage of the American government to make them. Incidentally, they were made under the supervision of the U.S. Treasury Department.

Let us imagine a case between individuals. A banker and a farmer own large adjoining farms. They put in a drainage ditch for their joint benefit. There was a great rock ledge to cut through and the work was costly and dangerous. The farmer supplied and paid the large number of workmen required. The banker supplied money to purchase tools and blasting powder. The banker now demands payment of the cost of the materials he supplied and allows the farmer no credit for the men he employed. Were not the services of the workmen as important as the tools and powder? The workmen needed tools, but tools were useless without workmen. What would any of you hard-headed busines; men say if you were that farmer? Would not a court hold that the parties were not ordinary debtor and creditor, but associates; that this was not an ordinary loan, but an advance to be expended in the work in which both were interested; and that if the farmer had expended more than the banker he had a complete offset and owed nothing.

Even when the American troops did arrive in force and began to take their glorious part in bringing the war to a conclusion, they were still very deficient in artillery. In many cases they advanced under he protection of a screen of shells from French or British artillery. This was ideal co-operation. It saved untold thousands of American lives and brought victory. Yet much of this artillery and of those shells had been purchased in the United States, and their cost forms part of the so-called debt.

In killed and seriously wounded France lost in the war 2,100,000; Britain 1,500,000; and Italy, 1,000,000. In men actually killed, the allies lost 2,650,000. The United States lost 50,000 killed. Canada lost 52,000.

Prior to the war, the wealth of Britain was estimated at $85,000,000,000. She now has a debt of $35,000,000,000, or say 40 per cent.

France's wealth was estimated at $65,000,000,000. Her debt is now about $30,000,000,000, or nearly 50 per cent.

The United States has an estimated wealth of $220,000,000,000, with a war debt of 22,000,000,000, or 10 per cent. If the amount now claimed to be repaid, her debt will be reduced to $12,000,000,000, or a little over 5 per cent.

The allies, from the day each entered the struggle, applied all their resources in men, money, and materials to the prosecution of the war, giving everything they had without stint. Should the United States, with her vast resources, contribute practically nothing for a year after her entry? Was she not as wholehearted as her associates?

During the Napoleonic wars Britain made heavy advances to her allies, and these she freely cancelled. It was felt that the most wealthy nation should properly contribute more financially than the others.

To sum up: These advances were made after the United States entered the war; they were made exactly as were the contributions in men or money of the other associates; there is no reason why contributions of one associate should be treated as loans while those of the others are treated as gifts; these advances were not ordinary loans, for they were made for expenditure for the benefit of all the associates and because the United States desired those expenditures to be made. If these advances be treated as mere loans, the United States made no effective contribution to the joint war for a year after her entry, and has not borne her reasonable share of the joint burdens; and, finally, the allies have counterclaims which should be a complete offset.

These claims have no basis in equity, and as to law, I submit that if the case were between individuals an American court would reject them. That Britain admits the debt merely means that she prizes the friendship of the United States too highly to have a dispute, and agrees to pay rather than tarnish her national honor in the eyes of any one.

These views are held by many of your eminent citizens, including such an outstanding legal authority as Justice Clarke of the United States Supreme Court. I quote from an address made by him:—

'Consider what our condition would have been with Germany victorious . . . Such is something of the abyss into which we should have been plunged if we had not joined with the allies and made victory possible. . . .

'What saved us from the immeasurable calamity of such a war? It was the French, British and Italian soldiers who held the battle line in Europe for the year that was necessary for us to train and equip and transport to France the great armies which, thank God, proved sufficient to cast the deciding weight into the wavering balance of war. No amount of money can pay for such a service . . . More than a million soldiers of our allies were killed, and another million gravely wounded, during that fateful year. . . .

'Our first and indispensable service, the only one that we were able instantly to render, was to furnish to our all but financially exhausted allies the advances to enable them to hold the battle line until we could come. What was the money loaned for, and what was it used for? Supplemented by other billions, which the allies themselves provided, the money was used to purchase the cannon and ammunition, the clothing and food that maintained the six and a half millions of soldiers who for that year of unparalleled carnage held back the common enemy, not less for our country than their own . . .

'In length of service, in loss of life, even in money spent, the sacrifice of our allies was so much greater than ours that we shall never be able to convince them, or to convince impartial history, that these loans, used in the common cause, should in justice be returned to us by our prostrate friends. . . .

'The war was the noblest joint enterprise in the history of mankind, and our country discharged the part assigned to it in such a high fashion that the glory of it will be the most precious possession of those who shall come after us for centuries unless we despoil them of it by making America the Shylock among the nations by the collection of these debts.'

(I protest, however, against this phrase being applied to my American friends, for I know well that if they appear to take that position it is because of ignorance of the facts).

'To make payment, the nations must impose crushing taxes on their people . . . condemned to pinching poverty year after year to pay a debt which not one of them believes to be morally or justly due. . . .

'We should tell the truth to the country. We should say to the people that these loans are neither a moral nor a just obligation, because if they were paid we should not have borne our just share of the burden of defending the great common cause.'

Surely the opinion of this great American jurist should have weight.

The allied peoples do not ask a donation. They ask only justice. It should, however, be realized that this claim is one of the prinicpal obstacles to the rehabilitation of Europe and of the world. The lessening of the burdens of taxation in countries, where they are of crushing weight is a first essential. But for this claim there would already have been a wholesale cancellation of interallied debts and probably other adjustments. Payment of these demands would mean a further addition to the taxes in Britain of from 5 to 7 per cent. on all incomes from 100 pounds sterling up.

It is sometimes said that cancellation of these debts would encourage Europe in further war expenditures. This is certainly not true of Britain. As for other countries, how can their action be influenced by insisting on a claim which they consider unjust and do not intend to pay? In any case, would that create a debt if none now really exists?

And now I rest my case. The judgment of the American people is sound, but they must hear both sides. My own conviction is that when they understand the facts they will demand that their government cancel these claims gladly, and without condition. They will pay their way.—Washington Star.

HOUSEGOWN

It's Been Lifted From Lowly Estate to Beauty's Realm.

The acquisition of pretty frocks for indoor wear is the simplest way to convince a woman that her place is in the home.

And it should be easy to do these days since what used to be known scornfully as a "house dress" is now a thing of beauty—and decidedly a thing of fashion.

Sketched are two models which need not even be house frocks in other materials. They are shown in plain and plaid ginghams, but would be equally good looking in twill or jersey.

One of them has the new sleeve that is full above the elbow and slants to a narrow cuff. Another has the modish bib front. Both show longer skirts and the still-favored round neck.

RECIPES

Fried Tomatoes on Toast

Now that tomatoes are at their best and cheap, one should use them often and serve them cooked or raw at almost every meal. When a tomato is stuffed with meat, or egg, or fried and served with a cream sauce it is a hearty dish for either luncheon or supper. The following recipe supplies all that is needed except a sweet

6 large tomatoes
6 slices toast
2 cups milk
4 tablespoons butter or bacon fat
3 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
1-8 teaspoon pepper

Wash, cut tomatoes in halves, roll each piece in flour seasoned with salt and pepper. Fry in butter or bacon fat until a nice brown, and soft but not broken.

Make a sauce by melting butter, adding flour and seasonings; add milk and cook until smooth and thickened.

Toast bread quickly on either side. Dip each slice in the sauce, and place on a platter. On it put the fried tomatoes, and pour around them the remainder of the sauce. The dish may be garnished with strips of bacon fried crisp, and parsley.

Molded Rice with Fruit

Rice lends itself to many treatments and easily becomes a different dessert. It may be cooked in water, but is richer and has more food value if cooked in milk. Skimmed milk may be used and cream served with the rice. All kinds of fruits—dried, canned or fresh—may be combined with the cooked rice.

The following recipe is a good cold rice dessert:

1 cup washed rice
4 cups milk
1 teaspoon salt
1 strip of lemon or orange rind
1 cup sugar
1 cup cream beaten until stiff
½ teaspoon vanilla
2 cups cut-up fruit

In a double boiler heat the milk and add the rice, salt and lemon or orange rind. Cook about one and one-half hours, or until the rice is tender.

Add sugar remove from fire and cool. Then fold lightly in the beaten cream, and turn the mixture into a mold.

Thoroughly chill, and at serving time turn from mold and surround with the fruit.

LONDON, Oct. 6. — (Associated Press).—Through the generosity of John D. Rockefeller, London, is soon to have one of the finest medical schools in the world. Work has already begun on the first part of the building program, on which more than $1,000,000 is to be spent. Houses in University street and Huntley street are shortly to be pulled down in order to make room for this large scheme. Later an open-air ward for septic cases and further research laboratories are to be built. The project will reach completion some time in 1925.

MODERN BURGLAR'S QUEER EVOLUTION

Change of Methods Harks Back to the Days of the First Dinner Operator.

Methods of criminals, like those of other craftsmen, change with the times. If the criminal of twenty-five years ago returned to-day to his former occupation he would be quick to realize that he was working under new and strange conditions. The old-time burglar would find much to stump and startle him. He would discover that houses were built on a different plan and that there were traps of all kinds to anticipate his visits.

Like the business or professional man, the modern burglar, if he expects to elude capture, must keep abreast of the times. He has had painful experiences with burglar alarms and other burglar-catching devices. These experiences ave made him canny, and when he starts to work with his tools in his pocket, he makes a ferfent prayer that the "cops" will not get him. Ordinarily, he has no desire to emulate those bold, bad burglars of the past, who delighted to break into a flat when its occupants were peacefully asleep, make off successfully with the family jewels and heirlooms, and then join their cronies in a friendly saloon where, over their glasses, they would discuss the big adventure.

It used to be the accepted thing for these burglars of the older and bolder type to work exclusively at night. In those days a burglar who would get on the job before the midnight hour was either a novice at the game, or a fellow who was rapid y losing his sanity. No self-respecting cracksman would so far forget himself as to tackle a job before the prescribed, ordained witching hour. If he were a regular burglar it was equally important that he should hie himself home to bed long before the first pale flush of dawn should streak the horizon.

Just when burglars began to change all of this is not definitely known. Unfortunately, police historians have neglected to chronicle the time when these well-intentioned housebreakers threw form and etiquette and the clock to the four winds, and, upsetting a cherished tradition, went to work when and where they pleased.

Took Cue from Dinner Burglars

The change, nevertheless, radical and revolutionary, took place. It began with the published chronicles and adventures of certain "dinner burglars" so-called because they "burglarized" while their unsuspecting victims were gathered about the dinner table at the evening meal. The first accounts of this new and heretofore unknown type of burglar caused everywhere a profound sensation. Everybody was hoping and praying that the police would apprehend the bold fellow, and everybody, including the police, were speculating on what manner of criminal he could be. The regular members, however, of the housebreaking fraternity paid scant attention to the excitement the new type had provoked, but quietly pursued their old method of robbing places in the wee, small hours.

It was not strange that dinner burglars should spring up in all sections of the country. The old cracksmen refused to become interested; they merely sneered, shrugged their shoulders and predicted that the craze would shortly die out. At first, dinner burglars had sprung up slowly by dozens, later they appeared by the hundreds, and became eventually so common that they ceased to cause the faintest ripple when criminal affairs were being discussed.

They were succeeded by a "gentleman" burglar who caused as profound a sensation as the first dinner burglar. Victims who had caught a glimpse of him described him as tall, handsome, athletic and exquisitely groomed. He appeared at times in different dress. He had been seen in evening clothes, silk hat and opera cloak, a cane in one hand and a pair of white gloves in the other. He was as bold as he was well dressed and handsome. Retiring and bashful ladies had encountered him in their boudoirs unexpectedly. At such times he would grab a handful of rings and trinkets from a dresser and with panther-like agility disappear through window or door.

He had been seen scaling the sides of a building like a monkey or jumping like a squirrel from one roof to another. He was always too quick for his pursuers. On more than one occasion when the police believed they had him trapped he managed to elude them. They finally caught him after a long pursuit. He turned out to be the black sheep of an old family. When they searched his abode they found that his wardrobe had not been exaggerated. He had half a dozen trunks filled with the most approved creations of the tailor's art.

None Equaled the Original

Although his career was cut short, he had enjoyed considerable notoriety, and it was not strange that, like his predecessor, the dinner burglar, he should be followed by a veritable epidemic of gentlemen burglars. None of his successors, however, equalled him in good looks or elegance. There were plenty of them, but somehow none of them ever achieved his distinction. Many of them had no just claim to the title of gentleman, and it was a mystery how some of them ever came by it.

"If this fellow is a gentleman burglar," cried a detective on locking up such a thief who had aspired to the title, "then God save the name gentleman. Look at this fellow! He's wearing a dinner coat, a fancy flowered vest and a pair of Scotch plaid trousers. He carries a cane and twirls his waxed mustache. When I searched him he was as clean as a whistle. His clothes were made a good many years ago, and he picked up most of them in different flats he robbed. He says he's hungry, and I believe him."

These were followed by other freak types such as the phantom burglar, so called because he flitted here and there like a ghost, and eluded many police traps, and the luncheon burglar, who instead of appearing at the dinner hour, appeared at the hour for the midday meal; the humorous burglar, who liked to stuff the clothing of his victims in out-of-the-way places behind radiators, on fire-escapes and in vases, and the soft-hearted burglar who, after listening to a sad tale from his victim, returned the fruits of his theft, and departed weeping.

These have all appeared and had their day. Although the old type burglar is not altogether extinct, he is very much on the rocks at present. His successor is for the most part a craven fellow who prefers to rob a flat or a house when it is vacant. He usually satisfies himself that no one is at home before he ventures to jimmie his way inside. He has no regular hours of work, but as a rule day time rather than at night. At the first sign of danger he runs for cover.

Although he is a coward at heart, he is dangerous like a rat when cornered, and will fight back. If he believes his life is at stake or he is in danger of arrest, he sometimes will not hesitate to shoot to kill.

POWER BY RADIO

By CHARLES P. STEINMETZ, Noted Electrical Wizard.

CHARLES P. STEINMETZ.

There may be a time when power to turn the wheels of industry will be furnished by radio.

In some respects radio power transmission exists today, for the message you receive by radio has been carried by the power of electromagnetic waves from the sending to the receiving station.

The problem of power transmission essentially differs from that of the transmission for communication in that in power transmission most, or at least a large part, of the power sent out by the generating station must arrive at the receiving station to make it economical to transmit the power.

Hence the problem of radio power transmission is that of directing the radio waves so closely that a large part of their power remains together, so as to be picked up by the receiving station. Much successful work has been done in directing radio waves. For instance, our trans-Atlantic stations send out most of their power eastward. But still, even as directed, the power scatters over the coasts of Europe from Norway to Spain, so that it is impossible to pick up an appreciable part of it.

The second possibility of radio power transmission—at least theoretically—is by resonant vibration or standing waves.

A station tuned for the same wave length as the sending station would resonate with the standing electro-magnetic wave issuing from the sending station, thereby stopping its passage by absorbing its energy. It would, as we may say, punch a hole in the standing wave sheet coming from the sending station.

Power would then flow into this hole. The sending station would begin to send out additional power to maintain the wave.

WHAT THE ROBIN THOUGHT

Said the sparrow to the robin;
"I should really like to know
Why those anxious human beings
Rush about and worry so?
Said the robin to the sparrow:
"Friend, I think that it must be
That they have no Heavenly Father
Such as cares for you and me."

BROWN FOOTWEAR

Colonial styles in pumps are becoming more popular daily and are causing the strapped and latticed models to feel some alarm for their position. Brown is the leading color in footwear as well as in frocks.

It was John Ruskin who said: "There is no music in a rest, but there is the making of music in it."

Speaking of rests reminds me of some beautiful verses I read the other day, which I would like to quote, as their meaning will be clearer to our musical friends than to others:

"The great Composer writes the tyemes,
And gives us each a part to play;
But some He gives long bars of rests,
With ne'er a note along the way.

"He who directs the singing spheres,
The music of the morning stars,
Needs for his full creation's hymn,
The quiet of the soundless bars.

"Yet be thou watchful for thy turn.
Strike on the instant, true and clear,
Lest from the grand, melodious whole
Thy note be missing to His ear."

Mr. Armstrong also urged local support for the bill regarding water rights in Ontario, to be voted on by Legislature at next session; and in noting the relative taxation standing of this city with 24 others in Ontario he said. Peterborough stands sixteenth in the list $28.72 per head lower than the highest taxed city and $4.83 higher than the lowest taxed city.

Venereal Diseases

Dr. Gordon Bates, who is here to organize a local branch of the Canadian Social Hygiene Council, the aim of which is to stop the spread of venereal diseases and improve social conditions, proved an interesting speaker on serious topic.

He stated that in Montreal General Hospital 26 per cent. of its inmates are suffering from venereal ailments, while many sufferers are abroad mingling with and spreading this dread disease among thousands of people. Sketching the cost to the nation, in wealth and health, of venereal troubles, he opined that were no adequate check forhtcoming Canada's manhood and womanhood will face eventual degeneration. Speaking of efforts to ameliorate conditions in this regard, the doctor referred briefly to the formation of Dominion and Ontario committees to combat venereal diseases, the plans of which he cited as follows:

1.—To show how serious this venereal disease is to everybody.

2.—Citizens to be organized to fight against its spread and development.

3.—Parents to be educated so that they can instruct their children.

Dr. Bates wishes the citizens of Peterboro to unite in a local organization, he is establishing with the above objective in view.

By Stuart P. West.

NEW YORK. N. Y., Oct. 6.—(Special.) — To-day's stock market paid some attention at the outset to the latest Turkish news. When it was found, however, that the break off of the peace negotiations was only temporary, and that the conference will probably be resumed the first of next week the incident ceased to exert effect. No great amount of interest could have been aroused in the possible recrudescence of the European war scare when the other markets outside the stock exchange were so unconcerned. Sterling exchange came down rather sharply for a while, but this was exceptional. Foreign government bonds, after starting in slightly lower regained the loss. Neither cotton nor the still more sensitive wheat market was affected at all.

From a Wall Street point of view the most interesting news of the day was the second big recapitalization plan announced by a member of the Standard Oil group. The 200 per cent. stock dividend to be paid on Standard Oil of New York follows the 100 per cent. declaration earlier in the week by the Standard Oil of California and the reason is the same in both instances, namely, that earning capacity and treasury assets have outgrown capital account. The immediate result in the market naturally enough was another eager rush of buying orders into Standard Oil stocks, both in and out of the stock exchange. However, an object lesson was given in a rather abrupt decline in Standard Oil of California shares, thus demonstrating that it is possible for the effects even of the most liberal "melon cutting" to be exaggerated. This lesson had a sobering influence upon the afternoon dealings.

As the day went on the price movements became more and more confused while the Standard Oils were being bid up, Mexican Petroleum seaboard were breaking sharply. Such speculative favorites as Baldwin Locomotive and Studebaker were activley sold, but while this selling was going on the railway shares were taken up.

Everybody knows, of course, that the general motive back of investment speculative operations in railway stocks is the certainty of exceptionally large earnings and a record breaking traffic movement at least during the rest of the autumn and winter.

But what Wall Street is more interested in is to what extent these more profitable results for the transportation industry will be passed along to stock holders. It was the possibility of dividend increases that was in the minds of blyers of stocks like Atchison and New York Central.

MARKET OPINION

To say that the bull market is over is to admit that rehabilitation is an insuperable task—which is folly. Re construction has only begun.

Investigations in important quarters draw out information suggesting that many standard stocks have gone into very strong hands in the last few days of market unsettlement.

The largest short interest is reported in professional quarters to be in the motor and steel groups at present.

Inquiries in specialist channels produce intimations that scale down absorption of rails has been of high grade during the last ten days.

A canvass of prominent houses shows a growing belief that the technical position of the market will soon be unusually strong as a result of liquidation of accounts which were not strong.

There is a difference of opinion developing as to the investment outlook. It seems to be felt in some quarters that the coming Government refunding will force miscellaneous issues to a back seat temporarily.

Common stocks of companies in a good position to benefit from coming inflation are being carefully bought on reactions, according to reports from well-informed interests

Reports from general trade continue to produce evidence that business is persistently expanding.

The stocks of the metal companies whose managements have a good record are being accumulated an recessions, according to reports received from many houses.

Gradually firming money will be looked upon in banking circles as evidence that business is demanding more credit for increasing activities.

The reaction on the stock market should satisfy those who have been talking of an unwieldy brokerage loan account.

Rails, equipments and utilities continue to be the favorite purchases of a majority of those who have not been scared by the set-back, according to inquiries noted in many quarters of the Street.

A REACTION—NOT A REVERSAL

That the recent setback is only a natural reaction in the bull market and not a reversal of trend is looked upon in prominent Wall Street circles as being proved by a survey of the two columns of influential bullish and bearish factors as enumerated below:

Bullish

Market weakness removed by reaction.
Sound U. S. Financial Condition.
Removal of the soldier bonus menace.
Large investment money supply.
Large crops selling at good prices.
R.Rs. overwhelmed with trafafic.
Growing coal and oil supply.
Signs of renewal of inflation.
Huge gold resources of U.S.
Business at peak of the year.
Disappearance of unemployment.
Increase of general buying power.
Administration working constructively.
Sharp recovery in steel trade.
U. S. war debt refunding operations
Tariff uncertainty removed.
Big labor troubles past.
Coming corporation mergers.

Bearish

Turkish war scare.
Rolling stock shortage.
High production costs.

Attention is called to the fact that if the Turkish war scare means war, it will also promote temporary inflation; if it disappears, then the factor is removed from speculative consideration. And the rolling stock shortage does not mean loss of traffic—merely postponement of transportation thereof.

The conclusion is that the decline in the market, in view of the balance in favor of the constructive side, afford an excellent buying opportunity for active investors, speculators and traders.

BARING'S LETTERS

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Grain—Wheat rose about a point and the May option can be bought near 107.

Stocks

To-day's market was exceedingly irregular with great strength in some stocks and then quite a sharp set back in some of the Mexican Oils I look for further strength tomorrow and Saturday in which case profits should be taken on most of the stocks that have advanced so much since Saturday.

Mexican Petroleum which I had told you would sell near 190 again rose to 189 1-4 where you had a chance to take profits on the scale purchases that had advised last week down to 178. I should have another rally to about 190 and Pan American to 81.

Marine preferred which I had urged you so strongly to buy around 57 to 5 and 55 rose three points more to 66 3-4, hold for 69.

Aes—also made a new high on this move and should be held.

Aic—rose above 38 and is still a purchase around 37.

Rubber—1st preferred declared the regular dividend as I said it would and I consider the common a purchase near 52.

Msv—rose another point and I should be held for higher prices.

Famous Players—rose another point and profits may be taken on further good bulge on Saturday or Monday.

Pittsburg Coal—is a purchase anywhere under 60. Will reach 70 again.

In short as stated above I look for further strength to-morrow and Saturday in which case the highest prices of the week are made Saturday profits should be taken on most of your holdings.

UNFAVORABLE NEWS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Stocks opened low on unexpected entanglements arising in the Near East situation and were lower on continued active trading. Few stocks showed signs of resisting the selling which developed on sudden unfavorable news. Stocks were extremely active, Mexican Petroleum in supply and got down to 182¼, while Studebaker was also offered freely, getting down to 131. Woolworth touched a new record high at 197. Business and profits were larger than ever this year and an extra payment of $2 a share is looked for at next meeting.

Efficient Housekeeping

The modern idea of efficiency extends into the household as well as into every branch of business. Most housewives pride themselves upon the fact that their homes are conducted in an efficient, business-like manner.

Every housewife knows, too, that the business of running a house, providing for the wants and needs of the different members of the family and meeting the almost daily emergencies is second to none.

The Want Ads. in the Examiner are a great boon to the efficient housewife. In securing helpers, in purchasing various articles of household equipment, disposing of discarded furniture, in fact in countless ways, the Want Ads. are the housewife's most valuable assistant.

"What's the News?"

WHEN Columbus and his caravels returned from the New World, the first question shouted from the shore was, "What's the news?"

That's always the question of paramount importance. Years ago folks asked it of the post rider, the soldier returned from the wars, the man who had been down to the settlements, or the neighbor back from the general store.

To-day, you find the answer in your newspaper. Through the newspapers the news of the world and of the community quickly becomes public knowledge. And remember this—it takes two kinds of news to make a modern paper complete.

The first tells of happenings near and far—of fires, sports, elections, accidents, marriages, deaths, great men, great events.

The second tells of things you eat, wear and use—things you buy, things being sold to your friends and neighbors. This news is advertising.

It's just as important to keep up-to-date on the advertising in this paper as it is to read about what's doing in the world of events.

Advertising is an essential news service. It is distinctly to your advantage to be guided by it.

Capitol Entertainment

The opening of "While Satan Sleeps" at the Capitol last evening, revealed to a large audience, one if the season's best dramas, featuring Jack Holt. It is a powerful, gripping story of a man who learned to play a bad hand well and is taken from the novel, "The Parson of Paniment." Fritzi Brunette is leading woman with an excellent cast in the supporting roles.

Jack Holt has the usual role of a fighting parson in his latest Paramount picture "While Satan Sleeps." He is not actually a parson in the story, for he only assumes that disguise in order to safely spy out a little town which he and his pal plan to rob. But even at that, there is no disguise in the way he fights, especially when a dying girl shows him the error of his ways and another beautiful girl proves to him that she loves him for the man he appears to be. Then he fights not only his enmies, but wages a terrific battle for the regeneration of his own soul. Which is all by way of saying that the picture is one long punch from beginning to end, and that it teems with heart interest.

Dorothy Devore in the latest educational-Christie comedy, "Fair Enough," plays the role of a "Jail Bird" in a story of many novel twists. Both she and the leading man (Earl Rodney) spend much of their time in jail, because when they are first landed there they occupy adjoining cells, and they like their own soul. Which is all by way of each has on being freed is to get back as quickly as possible.

The usual preliminary features complete an excellent Capitol programme.

Last night saw the opening performance of the farewell revue by the popular Jimmie Evans Co. at the Grand, and must say the present offering of "Auld Lang Syne" is fully up to the splendid standard set in all their past revues during the five weeks the company have been in Peterborough. The comedy skits last evening were particularly funny, and all the song numbers and specialties as given by the clever little artists were fully as pretty and entertaining as ever.

Mr. Evans was given a rousing reception when he mentioned the possibility of the company returning to Peterborough later on in the season, and there is no doubt that should they do so they will be greeted with capacity houses, for it has been a long time since we have had the pleasure of enjoying a more refined and varied form of real entertainment in Peterborough. Capacity audiences should be the rule for to-night and Saturday to say "Au Revoir."

"LISTEN TO ME"

A GREAT SUCCESS

"Listen to Me," a fantastic extravaganza, which has already been proclaimed the success of the year, is coming to the Grand Theatre Monday, Oct. 9, presents a fairy-like story, entwining a novel setting of scenic splendor.

The book, lyrics and music are by Charles George, one of the youngest writers of the day, who bids fair to become a genius in his chosen vocation.

The novel spectacle opens with a scene o'er the roof tops along the picturesque sky line of Times Square, New York City. Through cleverly contrived mechanical devices, this scene passed into a lurid presentation of Dante's inferno, where Satan vainly stalks administering punishment upon the immortals that have ben condemned to his majestic palace. From the miraculous touch of a condemned immortal Hades is thrown into a chaos of transfusion from which everything takes an astral appearance of the Frigid Zone. The bellowing flames issuing from the ovens of Hades transform into sparkling snow flakes settling about the North Pole. The ovens are remodelled into Eskimo huts, while massive caldons expand to the shape of gigantic glaciers of glittering ice. A frenzied blizzard sweeps about the isolated huts, with dog teams and Eskimos serenely revel amid the fury of a snow storm in the distance. The fantastic theme conveys the scene from the frozen North to the mystic realm of Candyland from where the temples of sweets gradually dissolve into the vicinity of Cupid's post office.

The feature novelties and wonderful transformations of "Listen to Me" leave nothing undone to the imagination, which is pronouncedly strengthened by the remarkable cast, including Joe B. McGee, Billy Murphy, Betty Dawn Martin, Bessie Delmore, Chester M. Gates, Barbara Bronell, Ross Robertson, and others—supported by a clever chorus. Of the score or more musical numbers, "Listen to Me," the title song and "Where is the Girl For Me?" the waltz theme, have caught the public's fancy.

WILLIAMS VERSUS SCOTT TOMORROW

Hillcrests Favorites But Belleville May Surprise Toronto Crew.

Everything is set for a big game between Hillcrests and Belleville at Riverside Park to-morrow, and indications point to a record crowd.

Belleville are running a special train and will bring hundreds of rooters, while Hillcrests are sure of a big following from the Queen City.

The is called for 3 o'clock sharp and will be in charge of Umpires Muir and Bradley of Hamilton.

Local opinion varies as to the result of this crucial battle, but the majority of Peterborough fans seem to think Hillcrest's chances are the better.

On paper they may be, but if the Belleville Indian wizard happens to have one of his best days and is half decently supported by his team mates he will make lots of trouble for Nip Dwan and his famous crew. Neither team played good ball on Wednesday, but they should be back in from to-morrow, in which case the fans will see a memorable game.

Williams of course will pitch for Belleville ,and there is little doubt but that Cannonball Eddie Scott will be on the firing line for the Hillcrests.

PREMIER DRURY MAKES STATEMENT

fires were still burning last night. Except for a few standing walls of the local buildings practically the whole town had been razed to the ground.

About 35 buildings in the north end of Haileybury, which is the residential section, remain untouched and it is in these that five hundred occupants have crowded. Many of these are the families of prospectors who are at present out in the mining district at work and don't know of the loss of their town. In other cases many of the men in Haileybury have been separated from their families and are still seeking for them.

J. D. McDonald, former manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia, told this story: "The town of Haileybury did not realize the danger the town was in on Wednesday until 12 o'clock noon, when the fire brigade was called out. They battled with the flames for some time until the water supply was cut off. At that time, the north western end of the town was ablaze and all hope of saving the town was abandoned. It was then a case of getting out to save your life."

Element of Humor

Notwithstanding the pathos of these people who have saved only their lives at the cost of practically all their worldly possessions, there are incidentes that have their element of humor. For instance, last night one of the first to alight from the train was a little girl tightly clutching to her breast a white cat which she had wrapped in a red sweater coat .A young man, a typical northerner with a big mackinaw coat and shoe packs, was greated with surprise by three girls, whom he gleefully told he had seen the whole show. Directly from the station most of the refugees go to the basement of the various churches in the town, where hot meals are ready for those coming in. Some are taken directly to the homes of friends where they are cared for. If they have not enough clothing, there is a plentiful supply at the G.W.V.A. headquarters where clothing of all sizes and shapes and colors is on hand then to the town clerk's office, where Clerk W. N. Snider, and his assistant Mr. Emerson Ballien, Register them for their billets or give them free transportation to any place where they wish to go. It is this free transportation that is one of the best features of the relief work. No matter where they may live, they are given a free ticket. So far, nearly a thousand have come down from Haileybury and of these the clerk's office estimate that nearly six hundred have been given free transportation.

Pembroke and Montreal are favorite destinations for the fire victims, with some going to Toronto. The greatest distance for any to travel is to Campbellton, N. B. The rest are all Ontario cases in nearly every instance with a few going to the West. Citizens here provided accommodation for a thousand refugees, but only half that number stayed here. The hotels of course have long been filled and sleeping accommodation is at a premium. The refugees coming out of the burned area have harrowing tales to tell, tales of standing for hours in ice cold water, of mad races with the flames that threatened to cut them off, and of cozy homes which were entirely wiped out.

Refugees Removed

Relief trains have been running between Cobalt and North Bay and rail communication between here and Cochrane has also been resumed. No railway trackage between Cochrane and North Bay has been destroyed and about thousand refugees have been removed to North Bay. It is known that hundred settlers south of Charlton have lost all their property Their struggling efforts at farm and home making have been wiped out. How many of them also lost their lives it is impossible to state. It is now definitely reported that North Timiskaming is wiped out but Manager Kennedy of Pascoe Mine of Gowganda brought word here tonight that Gowgando and Elk Lake have escaped. It is also definitely known that fire did not spread north of Englehart.

Relief Work

NORTH BAY, Ont., Oct. 6.—(Special .—"At this time last night I was standing up to my neck in ice cold water," said a man as he stepped up to the town clerks desk here, last night. "To-night you have given me clothes," he added. "You have fed me a good warm supper, and now are giving me a railway ticket out of the district."

This statement expresses in a nut shell the work that is being done by the local relief committees to aid the fire refugees.

The citizens of North Bay have thrown open their homes and have united both in public bodies and as private individuals to bring comfort and cheer to the sufferers.

Since the first train with refugees pulled in at 7.15 yesterday morning there was no ceasing all day in the work. Now ,though the fire has stopped, and people in the danger area may live there in safety. No one stopped over from the last two trains last night and only a few more are expected here. The fire victims have been clothed and fed they have been billited in private homes and given free transportation to the homes of friends in other places. But much as the people have done, it is little compared to the losses and the horrors which hav befallen hundreds of them who have fled here.

The arrival of a refugee train is a scenes that one will never forget. As the train pulls in the platform at the station is packed with people. They are people who do not cheer but which anxiously seek to recognize the faces of relatives or friends. As they walk out through the narrow lane kept open by the police, The refugees appear more like people walking in their sleep. Their faces are deeply lined with weariness and suffering, as they plod along, looking neither to the right or to the left. There were three special trains from Cobalt to here yesterday. The first at 7.15 in the morning, the second at 5.30 p.m. and the third at 8.30 p.m. The third brought the last batch of refugees.

NORTH BAY, October 6. — A train loaded with supplies from Toronto for the towns and villages laid waste by fire pulled into North Bay last night.

"Toronto always comes across," said Chairman Lee of the T. and N. O. Commission; "when anyone is in trouble you can depend upon Toronto." Premier Drury accompanied the relief train as it hurried forward to Haileybury. Doctors and nurses were on the train and an abundance of supplies for the use of stricken people filled long line of cars.

"I would like to express my appreciation for the whole-hearted and generous and efficient way the people of North Bay have rallied to the emergency," said Premier Drury before he left. "With almost a thousand refugees reaching here with scarcely any warning they have every one been cared for in a way that is deserving of admiration of all. I wish to especially refer to Mayor John Ferguson and Councillor T. J. Patton who had charge of the arrangements, but I wish also to thank all the citizens who have helped so willingly."

Will Use Tents.

TORONTO, October 6. — To-day for the second time in history tent cities will spring up in northern Ontario. They will by strange perversity of fate, house the country's inhabitants in the time of their greatest devastation, just as they housed them in the famous early days of the "boom" era. The scene will probably lack much of the picturesqueness of earlier time, which it will be to so great an extent duplicating.

The rugged background, forming the tent cities' backgrounds, will be to a large extent charred into bleakness and people instead of looking forward to the prospect of sharing the riches of one of nature's treasure chests, will be facing realization that they have been dispossessed of fruits of years of labor.

Taking Stock.

COBALT, October 6. — With ravaging fire demon subjugated by life-saving rains falling over the whole flame-swept area this disaster-stricken district is beginning to take stock of its wounds. There is however ,but little rejoicing over the stopping of the fires. Too many horrors are coming to light each hour to permit of real gratitude to Providence yet being expressed. So far 34 people are actually known to have perished. Six others are reported dead but this is not confirmed. Local reliable estimates place the list of dead at about 60 persons.

Relief Supplies.

A base from which all organizations that can contribute to the relief of these sufferers is being organized. The provincial government has sent food, medical supplies and tents capable of caring for thousands, and the policy which is guiding administration is that all steps that will alleviate conditions of the disaster's victims must be taken, regardless of expense. The Board of Trade has its representatives upon the ground and the association's entire membership is prepared to support them to utmost of their resources in projecting works of mercy. Extensive private aid furthermore is being tendered to the authorities from various sources.

Families Missing.

COBALT, October 8. — Mrs. Cobbold, wife of the district court clerk at Haileybury, lost her life in an heroic attempt to save her 90 year old uncle when their house was devoured by the flames. Other citizens learning that she had gone into the building and had not come out dashed in among the flames and saved the old man but could not reach Mrs. Cobbold. Felix Desjardins, an old man suffering from paralysis, perished in Haileybury hospital ruins, as he could not get out of the doomed building, and the rescue work of the brave Catholic Sisters was stopped by the flames before he was reached. The bodies of the Bond family at Heaslip were discovered in a root house in which they had vainly sought to escape from the raging fire which swept across this tiny settlement. In addition to the known dead great numbers are reported to be missing but it will be some days before it is known whether they are alive or not as the refugees are scattered, families divided and no one knows yet who is saved or who has perished. Mothers in Cobalt are franctically bemoaning the death of children who in all likelihood are safe in North Bay. The relief work has progressed smoothly all day. Most of it has been splendidly handled by the T. and N. O. officials.

THE HOMELESS.

NORTH BAY, Oct. 6.— (Canadian Press.)—Many of the refugees who last night and the night before were in crowded houses in Cobalt will to-night be camping on hills of their former homes. These pioneers, even women, treat lightly the prospect of living in tents in weather like this. Indications to-day are that the death list will be larger than was at first supposed. While evidently the number of victims in the fire at Haileybury will be under a dozen, there will be heavy and tragic list from farming districts. Few more bodies have been identified. Woman given last night as Mrs. Boon is Mrs. Samuel Boon, while the body found in the ruins of the pretentious residence once owned by the late Col. Hayes, is believed to be Miss Rose Tubby, who was housekeeper there. H. H. Alfyk, who lived in the house, is reported missing, as is also James Other, a cripple. Another body is identified as that of a seguine. G. Ste. George, resident of Haileybury, was badly burned and is in New Liskeard. John Killeran was badly burned, but his wife, formerly reported dead, is alive and uninjured.

If you are accustomed to wake up with coated tongue, foul breath or a dull headache; or if your meals sour and ferment, you have a real surprise awaiting you.

To-morrow morning, immediately upon arising, drink a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. Those subject to headaches, backaches, bilious attacks, constipation or stomach trouble, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store and begin enjoying the morning inside bath.

Just as hot water and soap cleanse, purify and freshen the skin, so hot water and a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Limestone phosphate is an inexpensive

No Decision In Second Game of World Series-Pitchers' Battle

DARKNESS ENDED THE GAME OF TEN THRILLING INNINGS

Second Game of Series Marked By Stubborn Pitchers' Battle Between Shawkey and Barnes — A Record Crowd.

SCORE THREE ALL.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(Canadian Press).—The Yankees and the Giants fought furiously, but to no avail today in the second game of the World Series. They had the score tied at three runs each at the end of the tenth inning, when the umpires, seeing the approach of twilight, called an armistice. When hostilities break out anew tomorrow the teams will be in the same position as before today's game, the Giants having one victory and the Yankees none.

BARNES.

Tens of hundreds of the 37,020 spectators who paid to see the thrilling encounter were angered when the umpires ruled it was a no-decision bout. They had come to see a knockout, these fans had, and as they swarmed over the field they screeched their disgust to the high heavens and to every person they encountered who was of any importance in baseball affairs.

They told Manager McGraw of the Giants they wouldn't come back to his old Polo Grounds again for anything in the world. They hurled mean words upon the umpires, saying that anybody with good eyes could see it was still light enough to keep on playing. Then they rushed to the box where Baseball Commissioner Landis sat with Mrs. Landis.

Booed Landis.

The leading actors in the crowd barked questions and comments at the Commissioner, and the chorus behind them booed with vigor. To hear them, it seemed they wanted to know what kind of an outrage the Commissioner thought the Giants and Yankee clubs could get away with.

Unmoved, Mr. Landis put his old black hat over his flowing locks and returned to his hotel.

The other thousands who went straight home seemed to feel they had seen one of the most remarkable battles in the history of the titular autumn baseball classic.

Yankees Fought Back.

They had seen the Giants rush into the lead in the first inning when "Irish" Meusel belted the ball into the bleachers for a home run with two men on bases. They had witnessed the dogged, relentless, uphill climb of the Yankees, first cutting down the Giants' lead to two runs, at the end of the first inning, then to one run in the fourth when Aaron Ward lashed a home run over the fence above the left field bleachers. And, finally, with Bob Shawkey getting better and better so that the Giants could not even threaten to score, they had seen the Yankees tie the game in the eighth inning on two base blows from the bats of Babe Ruth and Bob Meusel, brother of the home-run hero of the first inning. Nor were the innings that brought scores the only ones of high endeavor. Several times the crowd had the fine thrill of watching an infielder hurl himself at a hard-hit ball, be knocked to the ground by the force of it, and then jump up and throw out the batsman at first base. This experience came three times to Frankie Frisch, the fast second baseman for the Giants. Another time he went far back of second base and pulled down a drive from Everett Scott's bat with his bare hand. It bowled him over, but he came up with his grip still tight on the ball.

Grob's Great Play.

Once Heinie Groh, the Giants' third baseman, leaped after a ball and caught it while sliding in the dirt. It was in the first inning, from the bat of Whitey Witt. Groh hopped up from the dust and threw Witt out at first. This may have saved the Giants from defeat, for a moment later, through an error by Bancroft and a single off Pipp's bat, the Yankees scored a run.

Pitchers' Duel.

The game was a pitchers' battle between Jess Barnes, the tall Giant right-hander, who twice defeated the Yankees during the 1921 World Series, and Shawkey, one of the stellar Yankee veterans. Shawkey, after the second inning, improved steadily and the Giants made but three hits off his service in the last eight innings.

Barnes, spotted to a three-run lead before he even walked into the box, was often in trouble. But with perfect support at all times he would have won, as the Yankees earned but two of their runs, while the Giants cleanly hammered all three of their counters across the plate. Both Groh and Frisch had got on base with singles before Meusel's homer sent them across the plate.

It would have been a heartbreaking game for either Shawkey or Barnes to lose. Each was found for eight hits, although four off Barnes went for extra bases; each issued two passes and the detailed pitching analysis reveals that Shawkey pitched 146 balls, while Barnes threw only one more to the plate.

Barnes was hit harder than Shawkey toward the close of the game. But except for the fourth, when Ward belted his homer, and a brace of doubles by Ruth and Bob Deusel in the eighth that tied the score, he held his rivals in check.

Barnes pulled himself together in the sixth after apparently losing control. He issued three straight balls to Pipp before forcing Wally to fly out, walked Meusel and fanned Ward on a called strike after the count had reached two and three.

The Yankees threatened in the ninth, but again Barnes rose to the emergency. Scott singled, after Ward fanned, but was forced by Shawkey. Witt then singled to left and Yankee hopes were high until Dugan fanned with the count two and two.

The Extra Inning.

The Giants made a strong threat in the tenth, when Bancroft drove to centre field. Witt grabbed the ball on the first bounce, and with a fine throw caught Bancroft as he tried to make two bases on the hit. Then the Yanks went out one, two, three, and the umpires called off the fight.

It was just the day for a pitchers' battle, hot and sultry as mid-summer.

The crowd was bigger than on any day during the 1921 series and the money paid to sit in on today's session—$120,544—was the highest sum ever deposited into baseball's coffers for one game.

BENTON WINS FOR ST. PAUL.

BALTIMORE, Md., October 6 (Canadian Press). — Mainly because of some wonderful pitching by Rube Benton, former big league southpaw, the St. Paul Club evened up the series with Baltimore by capturing the second game yesterday afternoon 2 to 1. Benton held the hard-hitting International League crew to three hits, and after McAvoy had driven in Baltimore's only run in the second inning with a short single to right was never in danger. Score:

St. Paul	000110000—	2	8 0
Baltimore	010000000—	1	3 2

SWEATER COATS FOR QUEEN'S RUGBY TEAM

Two of the Regulars May Not Play Against McGill on Saturday.

KINGSTON, Ont., October 6 (Canadian Press).—Queen's players were presented with very beautiful Queen's coloured sweater coats yesterday afternoon at the Richardson Stadium by Professor Nicol of Queen's University, following the practice of the regular squad.

Professor Nicol, in a short address, gave a brief history of Queen's football events and imparted some good advice to th players.

The sweater coats are very fine ones, and were gratefully accepted by the players. Mr. Awrey and Billie Hughes also received one.

Carson is laid up and may be out of Saturday's game.

Dave Harding's injury is giving some trouble, and he may not be able to extend himself in the McGill game next Saturday, if he plays at all. Red McKelvey is still in the hospital.

PSYCHOLOGY OF THE WORLD SERIES

By BRANCH RICKEY

Manager St. Louis Cardinals

There are other elements in a world series besides arms and legs and brains.

No baseball player deliberately quits, but I've seen a club lack snap in its play. I've seen men fail to run out their hits and I've seen clubs give up when they were behind.

The most trivial and insignificant thing mentally upsets some players. Failure of new bats to arrive, when expected, due to the fault of some official of the club, will make droopers. Quarters in an upper berth is food for discourse for a week. Bad pitching in batting practice, an inconvenient jump for an exhibiton game, feeling of managerial favoritism, a slight domestic difficulty—all may cause trouble.

Discovery of some opponent signals, or inside knowledge of the opposing club gives a club additional confidence and tones it up for the next game.

The temporary loss of a player frequently causes a club to fight harder.

The promise of prize money held out as Napoleon held out the promises of booty to his soldiers on the eve of battle, has a good effect on the fighting spirit of a lot of players.

The Giants won the pennant on Sept. 23.

The Yankees were not mathematical winners until several days later.

That may be a good break for the Yankees. It surely is if the Giants were to let up in their play. I thought there were unmistakable signs on the part of one or two of the Giants to take things easy in the last game played against the St. Louis club. That sort of thing will beat the Giants sure, if it were to become general.

Frank Frisch's play in the last game against my club was Frank Frisch at his best. He played as though that were the deciding game. Nine men like him woud make a team 99 per cent. effective every day.

Now, if the Giants have the Frisch determination to win—why they'll probably win, whether the Yankees have all the pitchers or only four to McGraw's one.

When a whole ball club makes up its composite mind not to lose, such a team can't be beaten, that's all.

Injuries, criticism, poor pitching—all weaknesses become the least possible handicaps to the team that believes in its own strength.

I believe the Yankees and Giants are so evenly matched in playing strength that the club which shows and which has this superior confidence in itself will win the series.

Huggins Relaxes on Solid Literature

By ROY GROVE.

"Of course I'm grouchy, I'm the grouchiest guy in the world," yelled Miller Huggins, "while I'm on the ball field."

And from the outside world he has all the fans to back him in his grouchiness.

But he's far from the individual the fan thinks he is. First, it is not grouchiness, it's severe seriousness.

Worked Too Hard.

"I have worked too hard in my day," says Huggins. "I have gone at everything with my mind, and neglected my physical health."

That's some statement from the man who has developed the greatest gang of athletes in the world and made the "Mighty Babe."

But it's exactly that. A small, nervous man who doesn't weigh much above a hundred and twenty, but who's always thinking.

That's His Hobby.

That's his hobby. Just to sit and smoke and think, and THINK HARD.

Entering his hotel room, you look around and find him hidden deeply in a chair in some far corner, one leg thrown over the arm, nothing near him but a single magazine on the floor, and from the veil of curling smoke from his half-lit pipe, his steel eyes look out, THINKING.

Huggins' greatest hobby is his mania for heavy literature. During the day when most folks think he has it pretty soft, seeing a ball game for nothing, in reality he is working his head off.

Wants to Relax.

When the game is over he wants to relax, to get away from the game, to hide in his room. He doesn't care to hob-nob with people, for they think he wants to talk baseball. That's just what he doesn't.

On the particular day The Examiner representative called he was absorbed in the Wall Street Journal. He was fairly radiating joy at an article chock full of figures and dates.

"New York? NO! You can tell the world I don't like that town. I am from the west and when a fellow is brought up among the green trees and grass it's a hard habit to break!"

HUGGINS

By this time you know Miller Huggins. It only takes a few minutes, and you find out that he isn't a GROUCH. He's a regular guy. He can laugh and play and joke, but all the time he's thinking, that serious thinking.

ONLY AN ATHLETIC ROMMEL HAS WON AS OFTEN AS BUSH

By Billy Evans.

Connie Mack is nothing if not original.

Regardless whether his team finishes first or last Connie Mack keeps breaking into print.

As a developer of players the Athletics' tall leader is in a class by himself. On practically every American League Club there is some star player who received his early schooling under Mack.

Once upon a time the fans could talk about nothing but Connie's famous $100,000 infield, composed of McInnes. Barry, Colins and Baker.

Great Pitching Trio.

Then there was his great pitching trio, Jack Coombs, Chief Bender and Edie Plank.

American League batters were happy when these stars passed out of the big league.

The Athletics of to-day boast of Edwin Americus Rommel, the pitcher with a thousand and one deliveries.

American League statistics have recorded the deeds of Joe Bush, Urban Shocker, Herman Pillette and other pitchers belonging to first divisions and pennant clubs, but what about a pitcher on a near-eighth placer winning as many games as the leading pitcher of a pennant winner?

Then There's Rommel.

There's the case of Rommel.

For Rommel, with the Athletics, has won as many games as Bush with the Yankees.

Rommel blew into the American League without any brass band reception Like a flock of other minor league kids he reported to Connie Mack in the spring of 1920 at the training camp at Brownsville, Tex.

A year before he had been turned down after a brief trial by John J. McGraw, but Mack, trying to rebuild a pennant machine, was willing to gamble with anything and Rommel was one out of a lot of 20 young pitchers that spring.

Barring a knuckle ball, Rommel did not boast of anything out of the ordinary.

Best in the League.

But gradually he perfected this freakish shoot, until to-day he is regarded as the greatest pitcher in the Americn League.

ROMMEL

For a pitcher with a second division club to be voted the second most valuable player in the league there is unusual glory, and Rommel in the vote of eight baseball critics, ranked next to George Sisler.

Rommel was born at Baltimore, Oct. 13, 1897, stands 6 feet 2 inches and weighs 180 pounds.

We may not be able to take the credit for winning the war, but we gave the credit with which the war was won.—Asheville Times.

SHORT TERM CREDITS

How the Government Co-operates With Local Associations.

There is one distinctive difference between the system of long-term loans and the system of short-term loans recently inaugurated in this Province. Those who have followed the preceding articles will have observed that long-term loans are made direct by the Agricultural Development Board, 5 Queen's Park, Toronto. In contrast to this, no short-term loans are made by the board, but are made solely through local associations organized for this purpose.

Short Time Credits Described.

The reason for this difference in method of operation lies in the difference in the nature of the security and the nature of the loan. In the matter of long-term loans, the security is a first mortgage on land, and the personality of the borrower, while important, is secondary. In the short-term loans, the security is a note or lien on chattels, and the personality of the borrower, and his reputation in the community, is one of the big determining factors. Then, too, the loan is usually a small one. With $2,000 as the maximum, the average loan will no doubt be a good deal under $1,000. It would, therefore, be physically impossible for any central office to grant and supervise loans in all the different sections of the Province for small amounts. No other system of granting short-term loans on personal or chattel security by a central office for a whole Province is in existence. Such loans may, however, be granted with reasonable safety by local committees familiar with all the circumstances.

Not So Difficult.

Accordingly, a plan of organization of local farm loan associations has been devised, and this is not so difficult as might at first appear. A membership of thirty is required, and each member must take one share of stock, value $100, and make a payment of 10 per cent., or $10. This stock represents capital, and is held in reserve. There is little likelihood of any farther payment ever being required on capital account. After the necessary membership is signed up, the township council and the Government are each asked to appoint two directors, and subscribe for one-half the amount of stock subscribed by local members; this to be added to the reserve. When these directors have been appointed, the association elects a president, vice-president and one director. These officers, with the two Government directors and the two township directors, constitute a board of seven, which, thereafter, looks after the business of the association. A secretary-treasurer is appointed, and he is the only paid officer permitted. When the association is thus formed it continues from year to year with the usual annual election of officers, and applications for loans can then be made from time to time to the secretary-treasurer, who will arrange to have them considered by the directors.

In practice, it will probably be found desirable to have meetings at stated periods for the consideration of the loans. In this way, loans may be passed without any inconvenience either to the borrower or to the directors.

Associations Already Formed.

Although this plan has been before the farmers of the Province for only a few months, ten associations have been formed, and are doing business, while two others have been formed, but have not yet passed on loans. Loans granted range from $125 to $1,800, in individual cases, and are for all manner of purposes in connection with farm work. They are repayable at the end of the year with interest at 6½ per cent., but, of course, may be renewed for another year if the directors feel that such renewal is justified.

Each applicant submits to the association a detailed statement of his assets and liabilities, and also signs a promissory note. The application is then endorsed by the president and secretary of the association and sent in to the board for approval and for issuing of cheque to cover the total amount loaned to an association. While, therefore, the subject is approached from the standpoint of helping the man on the land in carrying out his farming operations, it will be seen that due regard is paid to the question of security, and if reasonable discretion is exercised there is no reason why any of the money so loaned should go astray.

Well Distributed.

The number of associations now doing business is regarded as a very satisfactory start. With the new system it was not expected that such associations would spring up in a night all over the Province, nor was it regarded as desirable that such should occur. The associations now in existence are well scattered over the Province. The Board of Directors selected includes some of the very best farmers in the country Their interest in the matter and their public-spirited efforts to assist their neighbors in the matter of finance gives the associations organized a good standing in their respective communities.

The future of this plan is now in the hands of the farmers themselves. It was placed on the Statute Book as an alternative system of merit in itself, and of value as an alternative where other agencies were found inadequate or unsatisfactory.

GORDON CUP GAME.

The football feature for Saturday is the Gordon Cup game at King Edward Park between the Comrades and Canadian Woollens teams. This is expected to be one of the most interesting games of the season and should attract a large crowd. The Woollens teams has been chosen as follows: Goal, Williams; back, Cridland and Perry; halves, Monkman, Reid and Roberts; forwards, Hopkins, Gaskell, Shuttlo, Chambers and Downs; spare, Griffin.

Average annual mileage of automobiles in the United States is 5,000.

GREETING CALLERS WITH A SHOTGUN JUST BAKER'S WAY

BAKER.

By ROY GROVE.

It's kinda hard on a guy when he walks into a ball player's hotel room for an interview and finds him sitting there with a 12-gage shotgun in his hands—pointing your way.

A fellow jus' don't know how to begin.

But that's the way I found Frank Baker of the Yanks, and it was a relief to know it was just his hobby he was working on, and not a general form of greeting.

Frank's a shooter on the farm when he's not balling on the diamond. He's got all the works.

Selects and Classifies.

He's even got three farms outside of Trappe, Md., where he can sort of select and classify his game into ducks, rabbits and fishing, if he cares to do so.

Every year after the season closes there is a dark cloud of smoke over the Baker reservation. That's when Eddie Collins, Shawkey and Frank get together for a blooie bee.

Outside of his general hobby of shooting his secondary hobby is reading about shooting and everything relative to it. His hotel room is littered with folders, circulars and illustrated advertising of every sort from gunneries all over the earth.

Day and Night.

These things he peruses during the fireside hours and bulges his pockets with through the day.

"That's about all there is to it," says Baker, "shoot in season and farm in season. I do most of my motoring on a tractor. That's the best way to tour if you want to see the country.

"Well, so long, if you want anybody shot just drop me a line."

WAYS OF CROOKS ARE SUCCESSFUL.

So Successful That Almost Impossible to Guard Against Them.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—(Canadian Press). The devious ways of crooks appear to be so numerous that it is almost impossible to guard against them, and even the most cautious and experienced business man may be taken in by a trick that is new to him, or has new phases in it. The well-known jewellry firm, Mappin & Webb, who have shops in various parts of Europe and Canada as well as in London recently suffered the loss of a diamond ring valued at 300 pounds sterling, through a carefully planned and successfully executed fraud which was carried out at the Piccadilly Hotel here.

A man who posed as "Mr. J. Bolman of New York," engaged a suite of rooms on the fourth floor of the Piccadilly Hotel. He slept there the night he engaged the suite, and next day he called at the Regent Street premises of Mappin & Webb. He looked at a number of diamond rings and asked for several to be sent down to the hotel for his wife to make her choice. The manager was rather suspicious. He sent one of the most experienced assistants of the firm and another employee to the hotel with the rings and they were warned not to permit the jewellry to go out of their sight.

At the hotel they were received by "Mr. Bolman" in his private sitting-room. He asked if he might take the rings across the corridor to the bedroom in which he said his wife was lying ill, at the same time nodding to the half-open door. Suspecting an old trick, the chief assistant promptly said that he was not at liberty to let any ring out of his sight until it was paid for. The man protested, but at last began examining the the rings himself. He picked out one of the finest and then suddenly pushed the assistant away, dashed through the door, and closed it.

Both men jumped after him, but when one seized the doorknob it came off in his hands. The screw securing it to the central pin had been removed. They ran to the bell and found that the rope had been cut. Then they tried the house telephone but got no answer, as it had been put out of action. Finally, they went to the window, and succeeded in attracting attention, but by the time they were released from the room in which they had been trapped, the mysterious "Mr. Bolman," has vanished with the diamond rings.

There had not been any woman with him at the hotel, He had explained her absence to the hotel people the previous day by saying that she was following later with the luggage, and in that way had disarmed any doubts there might have been as to the genuine nature of his visit.

THE pride that every woman feels in the possession of an Overland Sedan is founded on the worth and beauty of the car itself.

See how beautifully and staunchly the body has been built. See how comfortable and roomy the seats are, how deep and resilient the cushions, and the wonderful Triplex Spring suspension just seems to remove every bump and rut from the road.

And it is so easy to drive—the motor, which uses remarkably little gasoline, seems eager to go on, no matter how steep the grade or how heavy the going. There is a feeling of power to spare.

No wonder people everywhere are buying Overland Sedans.

PRESENTATION TO MRS. T. H. KELLY OF BRIDGENORTH

Leaving For Peterborough Is Presented With Cut Glass By the Ladies' Aid

On Wednesday, 4th October, the Bridgenorth Ladies' Aid Society held a meeting in the Methodist Church, at which Mrs. J. W. Kelly was presented with a beautiful piece of cut glass.

Mrs. Kelly, who has acted as vice-president of the Ladies' Aid during the past year, is leaving the village shortly and will take up her residence in Peterborough.

The presentation was made by Mrs. Wm. Udy, a senior member, while Mrs. Garbutt D. Mann, president, read the following address:

Dear Mrs. Kelly,

The members of the Ladies' Aid Society of Bridgenorth have learned with regret of your intended departure from our midst, but hope that you may many times be permitted to join with us in our meetings at some future date.

You have always been untiring and unselfish in all your work, which has been much appreciated by all your co-workers.

Please accept this remembrance as a token of our love and esteem for you.

"Remembrance is a golden chain
That naught on earth can sever;
The passing years may roll in vain,
True friends are friends for ever."

Signed on behalf of the B. A. L. S.
Mrs. Garbutt D. Mann.
Mrs. Thos. Black.
Miss Lillie Udy.

Mrs. Kelly, although taken completely by surprise, thanked the ladies in a few words, and expressed the wish that they might meet some time in her new home.

HAVANA TO NAME STREET IN HONOR OF BRAZIL

HAVANA, Cuba, Oct. 6—(Association Press). — To compensate somewhat for Cuba's failure to send a special diplomatic mission to the Brazilian Centennial and erect an exhibit at Rio de Janeiro, the city council has approved a motion to change the name of Teniente Rey street to Brazil. The change will be made with appropriate ceremonies as soon as the mayor approves the ordinance.

BOYS FOUGHT DUEL

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Oct. 6.—(Canadian Press).—Last Hallowe'en, Chester Linkfield and Asa Carpenter, 15-year-old local boys, fought a duel with pistols, the consequence of their courtship of the belle of a community party—twelve-year-old Ernestine Burnett.

Carpenter who shot Linkfield and is serving a term in the state reformatory, has just learned that, although he won the duel he lost the prize.

Parents of the Burnett girl and the Linkfield boy admitted that the couple were married by a parson at Catlettsburg, Ky. A special permit was obtained.

CONDEMNS ATTACK ON GOVERNMENT.

Use of Crisis in Near East for Political War Deplored.

LONDON, Oct. 6. — (Canadian Press Cable.)—The British Weekly, a journal which stands primarily for non-conformist thought, but those general outlook and highly literary tone often arouse interest in wider circles, in its issue yesterday commends a letter recently published by Lord Byng in which he condemned those who were using the crisis in foreign affairs to attack the government. The British Weekly expresses the wish that a more generous tone had been adopted in the manifesto issued on Tuesday by the Independent Liberal leaders declaring that isolated British action in the Near East would be politically unwise and military unsound and would constitute a grave danger to the Empire.

This manifesto is contrasted by the British Weekly with the action of the Unionist statement who in 1914 instantly and frankly supported Premier H. H. Asquith in the war policy of his government.

"By far the most serious aspect of the situation," says the British Weekly, "has lain in the fact that British opinion, as represented in the newspapers, is so sharply divided, except in the determination not to be dragged into war. There is no division on this subject. The Government has to face the fact that not only labor, but a great section of the public, is not even convinced of the necessity for the freedom of the Straits."

The British Weekly notes that the same division is seen in the government's attitude towards former Greek Premier Venizelos, as shown by one reputable newspaper man declaring that there is "no more moderate, sensible man in Europe," while another publicist just as reputable, describes Venizelos as "more dangerous to the peace of Europe than a whole carload of mute Turkish Pashas because he sian honest vissionary with a silver tongue and an unending flow of talk which sounds convincing until you analyze it."

CHILDREN JUMP INTO THE LAKE

TORONTO, Oct. 6. — Canadian Press.)— According to a despatch received from Haileybury, 115 convent girls, between the ages of four and sixteen, jumped into the lake at Haileybury to escape the fire that destroyed the town. They were all brought to safety and are now beeing set to their homes.

TAYLORS ARE SAFE REACHED COBALT

The many friends here of Evangelist Sam Taylor and Mrs. Taylor, nee Miss Muriel Hartshorn, will be glad to know thta they with Miss Carrie Saunders, have succeeded in escaping from Haileybury when that town was swept by fire on Wednesday. SUCCESSFULLY FIGHTING THE MINNESOTA FIRES.

DULUTH, Minn., Oct. 6.—(Canadian Press).—A decided feeling of optimism prevailed throughout most sections of the Northern Minnesota forest fire zone to-day. Fire-fighting crews were able to make considerable progress yesterday, and last night foggy weather and decreased wind materially aided them.

CALL CONVEYANCES BY HELP OF RADIO.

CALLING A CARRIAGE BY RADIO AT THE WESTCHESTER BILTMORE COUNTRY CLUB, RYE, N. Y., WHERE IT IS BEING USED SUCCESSFULLY.

Familiar carriage calls at hotel, country club entrance and such places may soon disappear altogether. Radio is the cause.

Thus the uniformed "monkey" will no longer have to call, signal with arms and so forth. He will become much more dignified with the use of the radiophone.

There are so many uses for the radio that it will be a long time before even a small percentage of them are utilized. The radio carriage call is the latest.

But one might have expected this when aerials were perfected for autos. Now autos have sets that require no aerials, or other cumbersome attachments. Why not the carriage call? It is just another step.

Just give your name to the footman. He picks up the radiophone—and your carriage is there in a jiffy.

COUNTING THE FIRE LOSS IN NORTHLAN.

Farms Are Now a Blac Desolation—Large Majority Are Returning to Friends in all Parts of Ontario.

FIRES ALL OUT

NORTH BAY, Oct. 7.—(Special.)—The North Land is counting up its loss. In the first horrors of the fire's destruction there was only one reckoning. It was between death and life and there was complete relief in the bare gift of being alive.

But the menace has passed. Being alive has become again a commonplace affair. People now are thinking of the other things which have been lost — the homes, the money, the comforts which represented the sum of life's effort. They are asking what lies in the future of this life which has been saved. These people face the future with bare hands. There are scores of men in the north country this morning without a copper cent, without habitation, without clothing, without means of sustainance and with wives and little children trusting them to provide.

Up near Charlton is a farmer who was the envy of the countryside. By skill and industry he had carved a home from a bush. He had found prosperity. His farm was rich, his cattle fat, his home comfortable. He had money in the bank. He looked forward to an old age of well deserved ease.

On Wednesday afternoon he rushed from his house to open fields in his shirt sleeves. His farm is now a black desolation. His cattle are dead. His home is ashes. His money burned with the bank in Haileybury. He looks forward now to an old age of unremitting effort in which he must slowly regain the things he has lost.

There are scores like hm. These men have nothing but determination to live.

But there is that determination. Every train leaving here for the north yesterday carried men returning to the wilderness with the determination to start again. Yesterday the city clerk issued transportation to fifty such men bound for north Cobalt and Haileybury.

And more are leaving this morning. They are going back to see ruin of their homes, to collect what fragments of their possessions may remain, and to choose a place where they may face the task of livelihood.

As yet no transportation to the north is being given to women or children, and they are waiting here until their men may find a place to live. In the meantime North Bay is feeding them, clothing them and giving them shelter.

Those who are returning, however make only a small fraction of the numbers who have poured in here during the last few days. The great majority are going to relatives and friends throughout Ontario and of these few intend to return.

RELIEF WORK.

TORONTO, Oct. 7.—(Canadian Press)—Practical work toward re-establishment is now actively augmenting works of compassionate relief amongst northern fire sufferers.

A representative from provincial agricultural development board is now in devasted area endeavoring to work out scheme for government loans to dispossessed farmers who wish to start anew and who are representatives of provincial insurance department left yesterday in order to open an office in centre of burned district and to afford free assistance to victims of disaster in adjustment of their claims.

The Ontario Government it was announced yesterday at the Agricultural Department at the Parliament building was financially interested in burned regions to extent of $800,000 which represent total of loans made to settlers for purchase of land, erection of buildings and removal of encumberances.

Conditions of these loans department stated had been indeed fortunate for settlers concerned in as much as government had required that all farms upon which advance was made should be fully insured.

FRESH HORRORS.

COBALT, Oct. 7. — (Canadian Press).—Every hour that passes brings to light more terrible details of Northern Ontario greatest disaster. The list of dead continues to mount. The flames are known to have taken the toll of at least 51 lives. So far 33 of the dead have been identified, while two others are reported missing. The tales of horror and heroism in that awful night, when men, women and children fought for safety, are related by every refugee. The sufferings of survivors may be told, but the horrible plight of families annihilated in the dread flames will never be described. It is known that 16 townships were completely wiped out. On the best farming land of Northern Ontario scarcely a build-

"FIRE BABY" IS BOUNCING BOY

Son of Haileybury Carpenter, He First Saw the Light While Fire Raged.

HAILEYBURY, October 7. Canadian Press. — Baby Wallace Kennedy Richardson, born here last Wednesday night, while the fire raged through the town, carrying destruction and death in its trail, is known as Haileybury's "fire baby." He is the son of Lawrence Edwardson, a French Canadian carpenter, is a bouncing nine pounder, and is healthy and well. His mother is also well and happy despite her terrible experience, but her fortitude and courage is only characteristic of the pioneers of New Ontario, who are carrying modern development to the end of civilization and hewing towns and cities out of the great northland forests.

Mrs. Edwardson abandoned her home at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening when the fire was sweeping close to her home. Unassisted and in very scanty clothing she made her way to the water front, and owing to the heat she was compelled to seek relief in the water.

After standing there for more than an hour she was taken on a truck through the town to a vacant house on the lakeshore road. It so happened that a woman who declared she was a nurse was nearby, and here in a town of dread with the glare of a fire laden sky showing through the pall of smoke and bare windows, little Wallace Kennedy Edwardson was born, and greeted by Dr. G. F. Jackson, and Miss Kennedy, nurse investigator of the Mothers' Allowance Board, of the district.

PROPERTY DAMAGE IN NEW ONTARIO EIGHT MILLIONS

Eight Thousand People Are Homeless — Fire Originated From Burning of Stumps.

TORONTO, October 7 (Canadian Press). — Eight thousand people homeless and eight million dollars' property damage was the estimate given by Provincial Premier Drury on arrival at his home at Crown Hill, Ont., this morning from the devastated districts of Northern Ontario.

Mr. Drury said the stricken country needed all the help it could get.

A meeting of the Ontario Cabinet will be held on Monday to confer with the executives of the relief organisations in regard to systematic assistance and reconstruction.

The Premier gave as the original cause of the fires, the burning of stumps, fanned by an unexpected gale. It was like a prairie fire, he said.

RELIEF SHIPMENTS FOR THE NORTH COUNTRY.

The local agent of the Canadian National Express Co., Mr. W. F. Skitch, has received instructions from his superintendent that shipments consigned to Ontario Government relief trains, care of G. M. Lee, Commissioner, T. and N. O. Railway, may be way-billed free of charge.

SENSATION IS CREATED BY A LETTER TO-DAY

reat to Leave France ithout Support on he Rhine if She Con inues to aid the Tuks.

PRESS COMMENT

LONDON, October 7 (Canadian ress). — A sensation has been aused by a letter from Andrew onar Law, upholding the British overnment's attitude in the Near astern crisis, which is given conpicuous publicity in all the newspapers this morning.

The pronouncement is held to be equivalent to a direct threat to withdraw the British troops from the Rhine, and completely terminate the Entent unless France comes into line with the British policy in the Near East.

Greater interest could scarcely have been secured by the letter were its author still a member of the Cabinet. His position as potential head of a potential Conservative Government in the near future and his intimate relations with several of the present Cabinet Ministers are regarded as giving his view special weight.

Indeed, it is surmised that the Cabinet members, especially Prime Minister Lloyd-George and Colonial Secretary Churchill, had something more than mere previous knowledge of the launching of this utterance at the moment of Foreign Secretary Curzon's mission to Paris.

The most sensational statement in the letter, that relating to France's reported encouragement of the Turks, is:

"We cannot alone act as policemen of the world. Our duty will be to say plainly to France that if she is not prepared to support us we shall be unable to bear the burden alone; but we shall have no alternative except to imitate the Government of the United States, and restrict our attention to safeguarding the more immediate interests of the Empire."

The Morning Post sharply condemns the Unionist leader for issuing his communication at this time, but a much more general opinion is that his utterance is altogether timely and commendable.

GENERAL AGREEMENT.

PARIS, October 7 (Canadian Press). — The general agreement and British Cabinets, which are in will now be submitted to the French session, and will be referred to Rome by the Italian representative here.

There is considered to be little doubt, however, that all will accept and that details will be worked out this afternoon so that the Allied Generals at Mudania can resume their conference in full agreement with each other as to the terms to be offered the Turks.

The solution agreed upon provided three steps for the return of Thrace to the Turks as follows:

First—The Greek Army and those of the population desiring to leave, must evacuate immediately.

Second—The Turkish civil administration will be installed at the same time the Allied troops take the place of the Greek forces to preserve order.

Third—The Turkish Army will be allowed to cross the Straits of Dardanelles and enter Thrace only upon the conclusion of the Peace Treaty.

EXCEEDED INSTRUCTIONS.

LONDON, October 7. Canadian Press. — There is reason to believe, says a despatch to the Times from Constantinople, dated Friday, that the French Government has reprimanded M. Franklin-Bouillon for exceeding his instructions.

The despatch adds that Ismet Pasha's attitude is causing increasing uneasiness in local French circles.

A correspondent of the Daily Express says he understands on high authority that the British government has definitely decided not to oppose a crossing of the Bosphorus by the Turks into Thrace. The Turks and the Greeks are to be treated alike on the basis of complete neutrality. The British, however, will hold Chanak and Gallipoli.

PROBLEM FOR GREECE

ATHENS, October 7. Canadian Press. — "The government is faced with the alternative of accepting the terms of the allied note regarding restitution of Eastern Thrace to Turkey, or of offering combat at Tchatchalja, and risking the very existence of the state," said a semi-official note published by the newspapers yesterday.

The note adds: "The leaders of the country, particularly the military leaders, will be called upon to express their opinions, and decisions will be taken accordingly."

Fourth Game of World Series Played To-day, Although Rain Fell Freely—Base Path, Pitchers' and Batters' Box Blanketed Under Heavy Canvas all Morning.

POLO GROUNDS, New York, Oct. 7.—Murk and mist lay cupped in dark hollows of the Polo Grounds this afternoon, when Yankees meet Giants in the fourth game of the World Series. A drizzle during the morning had dampened the playing field, making the prospects of a contest dubious and uncertain. The base path, pitchers' and batters' box were blanketed under heavy canvases. The outer gardens were in need of rain, and there the drizzle served only to allay the dusty top soil.

BUTTER, EGGS AND POULTRY HIGH IN PRICE

ll Farm Produce Plentiful on the Local Market But Buying Was Duller This Morning

THREE LOADS WOOD

The damp chill of the morning evi dently hadn't much effect on the rural dealers who make their weekly visit to the farmers' market. The usual number of carts lined both sides of the curbs, but the buying was duller than in brighter weather. There was plenty of variety in the offerings, with a large number of apples. Small Snows were selling at 25 cents a peck; Wolf River at 25 and 30 cents, or from $1 to $1.25 per bag. Large red Baxters were 40 cents per peck, while Tolman Sweets were $3.25 for a barrel. A very toothsome looking apple, which the dealer had no professed personal knowledge of, but thought they must be good eating, "because the children like them, and they know a good apple," were 35 cents a peck.

Potatoes were plentiful, and of good, dry quality, at a general price of $1 per bag. A dealer who offered his lady customer a cut price of $2.75 for three bags responded with an incredulous look to her assertion that she could get the same quantity for $2.35 'over there.'

Grapes, ripe and luscious, in blue, red and green, were 20 cents a measure; or 40 cents for a basket; corn, in small lots, was 20 cents a dozen; red cababge 10 cents a head; green and red tomatoes 35 cents per basket. Shoats by the pair were selling for $14 a pair. Little yellow tomatoes were 35 cents for a sizable basket. Honey in the comb was 15 and 20 for the dark and light brands, in five pound pails; 75 for the clover and 65 for the mixed. Heaped-up baskets of spinach were 40 cents a peck; celery 10 cents a bunch, white onions 50 cents a peck and pickling pears 40 cents a peck.

Upstairs, there was quantities of produce, both dairy and farm yard. Fowl was everywhere, of assorted colors and ages; at a general opening price of 30 cents a pound for chicken, and from 25 cents to 28 cents for maturer hens. Geese were in evidence at 35 cents a pound, ducks at 30 cents. Butter and eggs were plentiful also, the former selling at from 3 8to 40 cents a pound, eggs from 36 to 40 cents a dozen. Cream was 35 cents for a pint, and a few late red raspberries 25 cents a box. Several women's and church societies had sales of home-made cooking and candy on the market this morning and some bright bouquets of marigolds and phlox were on view. Downstairs, the fish man was doing a brisk business, principally in salmon trout, the auctioneer was just as silvery-tongued as in the sultry days of summer, and a seller of marvellous cement, with another gentleman expounding the desirability of ownership of a certain type of fruit and vegetable parer, attracted large groups.

There were several loads of wood on the open market this morning, large loads containing the better part of a cord selling for eight dollars, mixed and cut; nine dollars, long mixed slabs and ten for a load of cut and mixed. The nine dollar load, if cut in stove lengths, would sell at somewhere around eleven dollars, according to the dealer.

FATHER CHAINS GIRL TO RAFTER

Police Finds Young Victim in Attic of Home; Punished for Poor Studies.

DETROIT, October 7. — On Thursday afternoon Hamtramck police received a hurried call, sent in by neighbours, that John Sall was abusing his daughter, and the child at that moment was chained in the attic of her home.

John Sikorski and Edward Remann, police sergeants, received no answer to their knocks at the door, and after breaking down both the outside door and the one leading to the attic, they found Wanda, chained with uplifted hands. They took her to the St. Ann Community House, and a search was instituted for the father.

Two hours later Sall walked into the Hamtramck police station, demanding to know why the police were searching for him, and that if he could not discipline his children as he saw fit. He was locked up.

"Wanda has been a bad girl the last six months,' Sall told the police yesterday. "Her mother and I have tried every way to make her stay at home at nights and study, but she would not. We came to Detroit from Poland four years ago, and both her mother and I have worked hard to give her an education. When we found that whipping did no good, I locked her in the attic. That was on Wednesday, but when my wife came home from work at six oclock Wanda had taken the lock off the door and was gone. She came home at 1 a.m. on Thursday and would not tell us where she had been. On Thursday afternoon before I left for work I put the chain on her. I thought I would scare her into obeying us. I figured chaining her wouldnt hurt her as much as a whipping, and besides the whipping didnt do any good."

At St. Ann Community House, Wanda said that she did not want to go back to her father and mother.

"This is not the first time I have been chained in the attic,' she said. "This latest trouble started when my teacher, Miss C. Rowlader, of the Holbrook School, sent a note to my father that I was not studying hard enough. This made my father angry, and when he said he would chain me to the rafters in the attic, my mother agreed to the plan."

The girl will be held at the Community House pending the outcome of the father's trial. He is charged with extreme cruelty.

HARD TO BELIEVE

On 4th October a man walked into the office and related the following as his own personal experience:

"Three months ago I was going around on crutches from Rheumatism, had Gall Stones and Gravel so severely that my urine was bloody, the doctors had given me up, and was altogether discouraged. One of your Representatives induced me to try your Blood Purifier and Kidney remedy. Look at me now—I do not need crutches, and the other troubles have disappeared. Not only that, but other hard cases in my neighborhood have been helped in the same way."

This man has been selling our goods to his neighbours and sold $160.00 worth for cash in eight days. He is able to work and earn big money as a result of using our Remedies. His name and address will be furnished any one calling at the office, and we will cheerfully corrobrate the above. This is not an isolated case, but we have dozens similar. WORLD CRAZED FOR PLEASURE AND GAMBLING

Men and Women Forget They Have a Soul, Declared Rev. F. Wilkinson at All Saints'.

HARVEST FESTIVAL

Of a specially joyful nature was the harvest festival service in All Saints' Anglican Church last evening, when a large congregation gathered to give thanks for one of the most bountiful harvests in the history of Canada. The sacred edifice was tastefully decorated with fruits of the field, garden and orchard, pleasingly interspersed with sheaves of grain and samples of the baking craft in the shape of huge loaves and the staff of life in wreath formation. The altar, pulpit, chancel equipment and baptismal font all presented a colorful picture in their red and white floral embellishments and harmonizing tracery of delicate green foliage. While the decorating had not been overdone, the building showed to advantage as emblematically remindful of a harvest reaped, rich in variety and abundant in quantity.

The service itself, bright and cheerful and partially choral, with commendable contributions by a harmoniously balanced choir, under the leadership of Choirmaster George Chandler, was exceedingly worthy of this thanksgiving occasion. Rector R. B. Grobb enjoyed acceptable assistance by Rev. Dr. Mever, assistant at St. John's, while Rev. F. Wilkinson, rector of St. Peter's Church, Toronto, was the special preacher.

Reason For Rejoicing.

The sermon preached by the reverend visitor was typically harvest thanksgiving in context, and mainly spiritual in application. He found abundant reason for rejoicing when recalling that in the months of September and October every year hundreds of thousands of earnest Christian people in Canada gather together in acknowledgment of the blessings of a harvest resulting from God's providence and man's industry. It is no small spectacle, he said, this annual gathering together of church men and women, on a week night and in such large numbers, to express with heart and voice their thankfulness for the gifts of a harvest reaped, always coupled he hoped, with the thought of the presence of the living God. In the harvest's beauty alone he recognized the old-time evidence that there is in truth a God, the designer and creator of all things, for no chance ever was responsible for the divergent beauties of the pansy and the rose.

Canada's Dependence.

Emphasizing the dependence of Canada upon each year's recurring harvest, the speaker noted with satisfaction that the time had come when Canadians are learning to gather in their crops with greater care than heretofore. But for all that, the waste of field and garden products, he regretted to say is appalling, for thousands of tons of fruit and vegetables at times lie

ELECTION OF PROGRESSIVE MEMBER DECLARED INVALID

R. M. Johnston, Federal Representative of Moose Jaw, Made False Returns In Connection With His Election Expenses.

JUDICIAL DECISION.

MOOSEJAW, Sask, Oct. 7.—(Canadian Press)—The election of R. M. Johnson, as Progressive member for the Federal constituency of Moose Jaw on December 6 last year, was declared void in a judgment handed down today by Mr. Justice Embury and Mr. Justice Mackenzie Mr. Johnson was found guilty of corrupt practices in making false returns in connection with election expenditures.

Immediately upon hearing the judgment Mr. Johnson disappeared, and could not be located to make any statement.

The specific charges preferred against Mr. Johnson were, first, that a false return was made in alleging that certain expenses were paid under the authority of an official agent, when as a matter of fact, they were not; second, failure to show as election expenses two certain payments of expenses, properly to be classified as election expenses, made by the responsible person through the official agent.

Under section fifty five of the Dominion Controverted Elections Act, it is provided that in case where a candidate shall be found guilty of corrupt practices in an election, such election shall be void.

Counsel for the respondent concluded his arguments by asking that his client be given the benefit of the provisions of Section Fifty Six, (A) of the Controverted Elections Act, which states that candidates or official agents shall not be made to bear the consequences of acts which have by sufficient evidence, been shown to be due to inadvertence, omission or accidental miscalculations.

"We do not see however", read the closing paragraphs of the lengthy judgment, "that we can extend the benefit of this section to the respondent in the present circumstances, primarily of proving his good faith.

"Counsel for the respondent urged us, when dealing with the petition, to take into consideration the large majority by which the electors returned his client in the said election. Such a request appeals strongly to our sympathies. It is however, impossible for us to give effect to it, because the unqualified provisions of the statute quoted above leave us no option in the matter."

The office of the Chief Electoral Officer here has not yet been advised of the unseating of Mr. Johnson.

Mr. Johnson has the right of appeal and may carry the case to the Supreme Court.

WET BLANKETS SAVE HOUSE

Old Woman Loved Home too Dearly to Leave It to Fire After Others Left

OTTAWA Ont., Oct. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Alive after a mad ride with death through roaring lanes of fire between Haileybury and Cobalt, Mrs. J. W. Draper, a tired little woman, surrounded by four children, one of them a babe in arms, arrived here yesterday and told of a terrible trip to safety packed with others "like sardines" in the bottom of a motor truck. Covered with wet blankets, almost suffocated, scorched by the terrific heat and unable to move, this little band of refugees finally reached comparative safety only after their truck had collided with an automobile on the smoke darkened road. Practically all members of both parties were injured in the smash, and one woman, a Miss Belanger, had to be rushed to the Miners' Hospital at Cobalt.

The onrushing flames played many curious pranks, survivors relate. After surrounding the car barns of the Nipissing Central Street Railway they swept on, sparing the building. The North Cobalt Railway Station was destroyed, the garage of the station agent a few yards away escaped.

The love of home, faith and hard work saved the home of an old-time pioneer from destruction, and, incidentally, the lives of his family. Mrs. Jack Matheson refused to leave her home. Others deserted her, but when survivors returned next day they found Mrs. Matheson, not only safe, but her home still standing. The lady with her two children had practically covered the roof with wet blankets in a sublime faith that it would be spared.

Mrs. Draper brought news of the north country people reported dead or injured. Mrs. Norman McCaskill's baby, reported smothered, was alive, she believed.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Chene spent six hours in the lake with their heads and bodies protected from the heat and flames by wet blankets. They are worn out but apparently none the worse. Mrs. Milton Austin was also saved by the lake. She supported her two small children in her arms during the whole period.

Refugees reaching here are in many cases in a pitiful condition. Half clothed, nervous, trembling, evidently shocked and discouraged, they are being cared for by friends and relatives. Taxi drivers were the only men to welcome the early morning trains, and these affected most of the transportation free of charge.

FINE WEATHER HURTING TRADE

Retailers of Dominion Report Improvement in Business, But Quietness Also Noted.

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 6.—(Canadian Press)—Trade report for this week issued by the Canadian Credit Men's Trust Association Limited states:

Halifax, better weather in Nova Scotia has somewhat improved trade conditions amongst wholesalers. Retailers report an improvement over last month. Collections somewhat better.

St. John, improvement is felt in wholesale trade, volume of business being well sustained. Very little change in manufacturing trade. Retail trade having fall sales and are looking forward to a more active business. Collections are better.

Montreal, wholesale and manufacturing trade in all lines report steady improvement with increasing orders but retail trade, on account of continued good weather is not quite what it should be. Collections are a little better.

Toronto, not much change over last week though, owing to the warm weather ladies and men's clothing trades are finding business quiet.

Winnipeg, wholesale trade runs—druy goods fair. Owing to fine weather seasonable fall goods however, have nto been moving. Hardware reports business only fair. Boots and shoes while improving, except a greater improvement. Retail trade, however, is very quiet though the last few days have shown a better demand for late fall goods. Collections are varying, some trades report money beginning to come in, others say not yet really started.

Regina reports wholesale trade brisk but retail trade quiet. Collections improving.

Saskatoon wholesale trade is only fair but retail trade is improving. Collections just beginning.

Calgary wholesale trade is a little on the quiet side and retail trade is about the safe as similar period of last year excepting in mining centres where business is exceptionally good. Collections only just starting.

British Columbia wholesale trade reports an improvement in business. Manufacturing trade, dry goods report business normal, but boots and shoes good. In the retail trade drygoods report business quiet, grocery and hardware improving, boots and shose slowly improving. Collections improving.

The general export business of Canada is somewhat below that of last year but considerably better than earlier months of this year. There is also to be noticed a stiffening of prices in many commodities including foodstuffs.

PROBABILITIES.

Fresh north-easterly and easterly winds, mostly cloudy and becoming showery.

RELIEF OF HOMELESS FAMILIES IN FIRE SWEPT NORTH IS SWIFTLY ORGANIZED UNDER DIRECTION OF PREMIER DRURY

"Every Sufferer Taken Care Of," He Said, After All-Night Toil — Known Dead 29 and One Missing Friday Night's Official Report — 6,000 Persons Suffered From the Fire's Devastation.

THREE BABES BORN.

ENGLEHART, Ont., Oct. 7. — (Canadian Press Staff Correspondence.)— With the conclusion of a conference with townspeople here, at which complete arrangements were made regarding the care of fire sufferers, Premier E. C. Drury and his band of provincial officials, together with George W. Lee, president of the T. and N. O. Railway and other railway officials, finished their self-allotted task of finding out at first hand just what the needs of the stricken people of Northern Ontario are after the ravaging blaze which literally wiped out sections in this part of the country on Wednesday afternoon.

"My work is finished now and I feel sure every sufferer will be taken care of," the Premier told a Canadian Press representative later. He entrained for Toronto and will be home to-morrow, Mr. Lee and other officials will reach home on Tuesday. Hon. Beniah Bowman was with the Premier.

6,000 Fire Sufferers.

It transpired during the meeting here that there are 29 known dead, missing and 500 families homeless approximating 6,000 fire sufferers. This is from reports secured all along the line. The property loss cannot be estimated as yet, neither can the exact casualty list owing to utter lack of communication with outlying portions of the fire swept area.

Relief Organized.

Premier Drury, who many times urged upon his hearers that it was their duty to take hold of the relief work now that they had been given a start and also stressed the need of strict economy, outlined the policy of the government officials which was briefly, to have a central committee in Toronto, three smaller committees, one in Haileybury New Liskeard and Englehart and further local sub-committee who would have the help of government officials and government police. Also a system of registration of sufferers. Two nurses came out with the Premier and one doctor, Dr. F. W. Routly, and A. R. Fennell, of the Canadian Red Cross will remain here for a few days.

Mayor Frank Korman, of Englehart, Mayor John Vanier of Iroquois Falls, and several others were named a committee to co-operate with the central committee in ordering supplies which will be sent immediately.

Similar conferences were held with men at New Liskeard, Heaslip, Charlton, Thornloe, Earlton Junction and Cobalt. At each of these places ample supplies were put off the train both food and clothing, also bedding. More is being sent to-day.

Drury's Laborious Vigil.

It was a harrowing sight early yesterday morning as the relief train pulled into what were once thriving settlements. A few smouldering embers, two or three grimy faced men waiting for the train, debris of burnt freight sheds and cars, this was Thornloe. Special policemen had to erect a tent to house relief supplies. Not a stick is left. Premier Drury stayed up the whole night and personally impressed upon those to whom the supplies were issued that the government had had to act almost instantaneously and therefore some things needed might not be available at the moment. Happily, however, there is no actual suffering now, all refugees being cared for by those who were fortunate enough to escape.

It was a thrilling sight to see how these people of the north country took their misfortune. At New Liskeard, for instance, when the relief train pulled in at half past four a score or more men with autos were on hand to give a hand in the good work. Less than ten minutes 1,000 or more pairs of blankets, milk, meat, butter, sugar ,tea, boots and shoes, dresses and men's wear, had been unloaded and were being given to those with lists of names of those most in need. Neither did a cold, biting rain damped the ardor of the workers, in fact rain is the best friend of the inhabitants here have.

Wind Saved Engehart.

Englehart got the worst of the fires between four and half past five. Starting in the northwest corner of the town, it struck straight for the railway depot. Women and children were already loaded on cars ready to be moved away. Then, as at Cobalt, the wind changed almost completely around. Twenty residences, in the shape of a fan, were wiped out, but there were no casualties. Except for the capricous tactics of the wind, nothing could have saved Englehart.

Heaslip, three miles south of here, is no more. It was there that two families were wiped out, one by taking refuge in a root house. The corpses are here for burial, probably to-morrow. Fires are still going at Heaslip, but continuous rain in the localities. Cochrane and other towns on the north side have given nobly towards relief. Whole car loads of food and clothing have come in. Cochrane town council also gave $500.

Three Babies Born.

No fewer than thre cases of child birth during the conflagration are reported. Only in one case is the new born not doing well.

Individual cases of heroism are countless. A. McLennan, a Stratford, Ontario, youth, who works in the Union Bank at Haileybury, drove a motor truck loaded with refugees until, blinded by smoke he ran into a tree. Then he piloted the party across a ploughed field to safety. Another lad, operated on last Saturday for appendicitis, walked to safety.

Found House Safe.

Many weird escapes occurred, Eli Thib rushed home from Toronto to find his was the only house in Charlton left standing. His wife and ten children were quite safe.

A case of loving care indeed was that of Mr. and Mrs. James Desire when the flames began to spread, Mr. Desire carried his spouse from hospital and into the shallow portion of the lake until the danger was past.

The nuns of the Holy Cross convent left last night for Montreal.

Telephone Poles Gone.

For two and a half miles south of Heaslip not a telephone pole was left standing. Much valuable timber was lost in this area, Maybrook, another settlement of 100 souls is also obliterated. Yesterday the weather was clearing, but the temperature remained low. Train service was completely restored, and telegraph wires will be up on Monday.

Deaths Surprisingly Low.

One cannot travel across the blackened area without astonishment that the death list was not trebled. For ten square miles in one spot sprucewood was eaten up like tinder. Everybody here is suffering from smoke and sore eyes, but no one is complaining. The T. Eaton Co. has given a car load of family supply parcels similar to those given by this firm to Halifax disaster sufferers.

CASH GRANTS NOT NEEDED -IS PREMIER'S OPINION.

COBALT, Ont., Oct. 7.—"I hardly think it will be necessary for the province to give a cash grant to the relief fund," said Premier Drury to

START REBUILDING HAILEYBURY

HAILEYBURY, October 7 (Canadian Press). — True to their words of yesterday, the men of Haileybury are determined to build immediately.

Turks Demand Entry Into Eastern Thrace

MAYFLOWER TO MEET WINNER

Proposal in Challenge Issued to Owners of Schooners in Fishermen's Race.

BOSTON, Oct. 6. — The United States or Canadian schooner winning this year's International Fishermen's series, to be held off Gloucester commencing October 25, has been invited to meet the Boston schooner May flower, twice debarred as a Cup contender, in a matched race for a purse of $5,000. After a meeting today the Mayflower Associates, owners of the Mayflower, telegraphed challenges to the skippers of all the schooners entered in both the United States and Canadian elimination races in which a Canadian defender and sent to the American Fishermen's a United States challenger for the International Fishermen's Trophy will be chosen. A telegram was also sent to the American Fishermen's Race Committee at Gloucester accepting the offer of that body to manage the proposed special race, should the Cup winner of this year accept the challenge of the Mayflower.

The message to Hilliam J. MacInnis, chairman of the American Race Committee, was as follows:

"As suggested in your letter October 3, regarding a race between the International Cup winner and Mayflower, we have this day wired the managing owners of each contender the following:

"'If you win the International Race are you willing to race the Mayflower on the following day,

Seek to Secure Full Civil Possession When Allied Control Is Withdrawn—Conference Adjourned On This Point.

ITALY SUPPORTS TURK.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 7.—(Canadian Press.)— The following statement given to the Associated Press yesterday explains the present crisis in the Mudania negotiations from the British viewpoint:

"The Turkish Nationalists demanded entry into eastern Thrace as soon as a Turkish civil administration was established here and Allied control was withdrawn. Discussion was upon the point whether the Turkish troops should be allowed to enter Thrace or should be required to wait until after a peace treaty was signed. The Allied generals felt that this was more of a political question than a military one and that they were not qualified to decide it upon their own authority."

SUPPORTS TURKS.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 7. — (Canaidan Press.)—Italy has ordered General Mombelli, its representative at the Mudania conference, to support the Turkish claims.

As Vital as Milk to Your Growing Child

DO you know how important it is that your children should eat frequently and plentifully of Oatmeal?

Do you know that oats should be their daily food of foods—that the oat contains more units of nutrition than any other grain food—that oatmeal builds muscular bodies and gives energy to the brain? In fact, it is just as important that every growing child should be educated to eat Quaker Oats at the first meal in the morning, as it is that the child should be taught to drink milk.

Your physician will tell you that oats do not produce fat—they produce bone and brawn. He will explain that oatmeal is an easily digestible vim-food indespensable to the growing child.

Quaker Oats are the best you can buy, because they consist of the very finest oats grown. All the puny or imperfect grains are discarded and in the Quaker carton you get the queen grains only—just the rich, plump, flavoury oats. That is why Quaker Oats has always dominated and why it should be the basic breakfast for your children. Quaker does most and costs less than one cent per dish.

Start NOW to educate your family to the value of oatmeal—good for children and grown-ups alike—but be sure to give them Quaker quality.

Include Quaker Oats on your grocery list today.

SATURDAY, OCT. 7TH, 1922.

THE VALUE OF PUBLICITY.

A contemporary points out that the World Series is the best possible boost for the value of publicity.

There is a whole lot of truth in that statement.

Here in Peterborough hundreds of people are discussing with assurance and confidence the playing of the different teams, the work of the various players and the judgment of the rival managers, just as if they personally knew everybody connected with the series.

The funny part of it is, the majority of them have never seen one of the players.

The chances are that the majority never will see one of them.

Yet they are as interested as if they lived in New York.

Why?

Because they read about the players every day in the newspapers.

The sporting pages tell them everything of interest connected with the game, and they become World's Series fans even if they are thousands of miles away from the actual scene of the games.

Publicity, that's the secret.

Without the newspapers baseball would not be paying fabulous sums for players or building huge stands.

Publicity has made baseball just as advertising makes business.

THE VINDICATION OF BASEBALL.

To-morrow an expression from the vernacular of the game, professional baseball made a home run with the bases full when it secured Judge Landis as Commissioner and gave him dictator's power in handling the affairs of baseball.

Thursday, in the second game of the World's Series, the umpires called the game in the tenth innings with the score tied, because of the near approach of twilight.

To the majority of spectators it appeared possible to have played an inning or two longer, and immediately the opinion sprung up that the clubs desired an extra game, with the accompanying large gate receipts.

The public scented a scandal and there was naturally indignation.

They failed to take into account Judge Landis.

The Commissioner lost no time in bringing the two clubs together and in layin down the edict that the entire gate receipts of the game should be devoted to charity.

The result is that over $120,000 will be divided among the disabled soldiers and the various charitable institutions of New York, and that the integrity of professional baseball under the Landis regime is like Caesar's wife.

Judge Landis and the railway president who once remarked, "The public be damned," have evidently nothing in common.

AN AMERICAN OPINION.

There is a significant coincidence about the fact that volunteers of Dutch and British nationality are flocking to Cape Town, to offer their services if Great Britain is involved in war in the Near East. Those who realize what German propaganda was during the war, when we tested and rejected the lies circulated about our allies, do not remember the viciousness of German propaganda during the Boer War. It went to the length of picturing the faces of Colonial Secretary Chamberlain and the late Queen Victoria in cuspidors and other ignoble vessels. It was foul beyond conception, and in nothing fouler than in lying about the "ill treatment" of Boer women and children in the concentration camps. And yet the Germans learned nothing from the concession of complete independence to a united South Africa, with a certain overwhelming majority of Boers in every colony but Natal, within three years of the suppression of the Boer republics. In spite of all the German propaganda circulated few wars in history left less bitterness or had a nobler result.

Subject to the enforced absence from their homes, the wives and children of the very Boers the British were fighting were far better treated than our immigrants at Ellis Island. It is true that the British committed the outrage of inviting the children to learn to read and write their own language—Holland Dutch. So far from resenting the provision made for their dependents, the fighting Boers were tremendously amused and considered they had "put something over." It was not in that way that Germany handled the Belgians. The Boer republics were corrupt to an almost unbelievable degree and shamelessly exploited by German and European Dutch adventurers. Great Britain "took up the white man's burden" exactly as she took it up in Egypt, in 1822, and exactly as she is asked to take it up, for the benefit of the whole world, in the Near East. She has never expected thanks, but perhaps for once in a while those who do not love the British might refrain from absolute calumny.

So far as Germany's African Empire is concerned, it was their injured friends, the Boers, who wiped out that vaunted colonial expansion. It is the same "oppressed" Boers who are volunteering for another service in the cause of civilization.—Barron's.

OLD AGE AND POVERTY.

As things shape up now, we'l probably call him a poor old man. He stood on the corner of one of the city streets, and stopped a passer-by to inquire where to get to a certain doctor's house. He wanted to see this doctor, as friends in the town he came from had told him he could help him recover from a physical disability that had overtaken him in his declining years, says The London Advertiser.

He was poor, and admitted it, and yet he was certain if he got the proper treatment he would be able to get to work again, and earn his way at a trade of which he was master, and which had stood him in good stead as long as he was able to work.

Then, as though to show his credentials, his hand went deep in the inside pocket of his coat, and he drew forth a parcel wrapped in a handkerchief. Inside the handkerchief was a paper wrapping, and further inside in a little bag was tucked away a medal given for service in the Fenian Raid.

Yes, in his prime, he was able to put a musket on his shoulder, and he had a heart brave enough to go out and face the enemy that threatened the country at that time. There was a touch of pride in the voice as he lovingly held the little medal with its ribbon, in a hand that shook from the passing of years and that had been made hard by the toil of time.

He had done his part, he had tried to make a living, and he had done fairly well a. it, but old age came on, and in this fast pace at which we travel there seems to be so many places where an old man doesn't fit in. We are so hundred per cent. efficient in all our ways that it's very easy for the man who has not youthful energy and power at his disposal to get shoved off to one side, and once he gets off to one side he finds that he is in the company of a large number of others who have committed the crime of living to the point where they can't measure up to 100 per cent. efficiency.

No, it's not a pleasant thing for old age and poverty to walk hand in hand. We're in such a hurry to get things done that we claim we have not the time to stop and listen to the troubles of those on whom poverty and old age have come at the one and the same time. In too many cases they sacrifice all their chances when in their best years in order that their children may have every chance, and one of the saddest commentaries ever written on this is the fact that we had to place a law on our statute books to compel children to care for their parents.

Some of them may carry medals showing their willingness to serve in war if necessary, while others carry the medals of sacrifice in the interests of others. Their want at times and their privations and loneliness is a rebuking monument to our stinginess and our mad chase after the almighty dollar.

DISUNION AMONG THE ALLIES.

If the present Turkish crisis, and the conference which has been called to settle the affair, have the effect of impressing upon French statesmen that the policy of antagonism toward British interests, that they have manifested for so long, is detrimental to the whole scheme of European peace and progress, it will not have been altogether in vain, says The Brantford Expositor. Only for the firm stand of Britain at the Dardanelles, there would have been another conflagration in the Balkans which would almost certainly have involved the whole of Europe.

The threatened Kemalist triumph has already given rise to significant statements in Berlin in regard to the French policy on reparations. The speech of Dr. Wirth to a meeting of bankers and industrialists, and the remarks of a German newspaper in Berlin afford fresh evidence in support of it. The Chancellor, conveniently oblivious of Brest-Litovsk and Bukarest, protests against the "madness of the squeezing out of the nation like a lemon," and denounces the whole policy of payments on "due dates." This, he declares, is "the vivisection of Europe," and he adds that it must be the aim of Germany and of all Europe to set the world free from this policy of "due dates." He would hardly have spoken quite so frankly before the Greek retreat, nor would he have proclaimed so loudly that there is "no peace," and that all the parties to the war must get round a table to make "the real peace." The President at the meeting had the courage to deplore the failure of the negotiations with Belgium, "in spite of the ardent efforts of the Government and of the Reichsbank."

What these efforts were are well known. After wasting several days in making verbal proposals which varied from hour to hour, the German negotiators at last made a formal proposal which was wholly different from these, and was also quite unacceptable. The Belgians suggested plans which did not involve gold guarantees. The Germans met them by showing a fixed determination to have the payment of the bonds deferred for from six to eighteen months beyond the six months originally granted them. The German newspaper referred to wants to know whether England is not sorry that Germany is disarmed, as had she been still armed she "might possibly have prevented further bloodshed!" All this is very instructive, and is worthy of being pondered deeply by French statesmen.

The French have encouraged Kemal Pasha and the Nationalist Turks to enforce by the sword a revision of the Treaty of Serves. The French may find that their fatuous policy has had the effect of exciting opposition in Germany to the payment of reparations on the scale demanded by France, or, indeed, on any scale.

STRICKEN COBALT.

The sympathy of the whole Dominion will go out to the Province of Ontario in the great disaster that has befallen the Cobalt district. For the second time in its history it has been swept by a terrible forest fire. Entire towns have been wiped out, and the death toll is already known to be over thirty, while fears are expressed that it may eventually be found to exceed that number materially. Quebec joins most sincerely in the expression of sympathy, and will be both ready and anxious to take part in the move which has already been begun to give that sympathy practical form.

Thousands of people have been rendered homeless, and although the conditions might be worse, there is urgent need of immediate aid to provide them with the necessities of life until they are able to start afresh. The Ontario Government has taken prompt steps to relieve the most pressing needs, but there will be plenty of room for help from Quebec and the other Provinces, if the disaster turns out to be as bad as the first reports indicate, and the latest news certainly seems to point that way.

Haileybury, the Dawson City of the Cobalt rush years ago; North Cobalt, New Liskeard, Engleheart, Charlton, Heaslip and possibly every other settlement between Cobalt and Dane, have all fallen victims to the onrushing flames. Every foot of this district is rich in the romance of mining, and all the places mentioned have figured more or less prominently in the story of Ontario's silver north. The great majority of the buildings were flimsy, and proved easy work for the fire to demolish. But all these towns and settlements will be rebuilt, and a greater Cobalt will arise from the ashes of the past. The indomitable optimism that has always been a salient characteristic of the Canadian miner will come to the aid of the people who have lost their all, and they will set to work at once to establish themselves anew. In this they are assured of liberal aid from all over the Dominion.

The lessons taught by the disaster are definite, and it is impossible to ignore them. The new Cobalt district must be much more substantially built; there must be better co-ordinated fire protection; the land in the immediate vicinity of towns and settlements must be cleared to afford a maximum of safety and a minimum of risk in the event of forest fires; and the regulations governing forest conservation must be much more strict, more elaborate, and more strenuously enforced. Cobalt has been fire-swept twice. Each time the holocaust has been attended by a distressing loss of valuable lives. Neither the Province nor the Dominion can possibly regard with equanimity anything less than the most comprehensive precautions looking to the immunity from fire of the settlements which will take the place of those that are now but a name.—Montreal Star.

BRONCHIAL ASTHMA

Choking and Gasping for Breath Relieved by "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

MRS. PENNINGTON

NEW ROCKLAND, P.Q.

"In 1919, I was taken with Bronchial Asthma and no one knows what I suffered with it during the winter. I began having Choking Spells—gasping for breath and could not speak. I would have one of these bad spells in the evening, one during the night, and one in the morning. The doctor said he could do nothing for me.

"In the spring of 1920, I started taking "Fruit-a-tives" and in a few days, the choking spells stopped, and I have had none since May 7th, 1920. I have so wanted to tell other sufferers who have the same trouble about "Fruit-a-tives" for I know how they must suffer.

Some thought the Asthma would come back on me as winter came on but it has not, thanks to "Fruit-a-tives" Mrs. J. M. PENNINGTON.

THE MYSTERY MIND

Arthur B. Reeve and John W. Grey

Immediately Dupont seized her arm. As he did so she called out, with presence of mind, to confuse the others.

"The door, Robert Hurry to the door."

Case and his wife, Clews, the Strangler—these seemed to have been held fascinated by the swiftness of events. At her voice they awoke to action. There was a sound of several figures hurrying to the front entrance. Violet, brought to the den through the secret passage, and knowing it, guided Dupont toward the seat giving access to the stairs. He was weakened to such an extent that he barely could walk. She feared the Strangler might yet be on guard at the window. She wondered, with mounting fear, if she could outwit that man.

Fortunately the way was clear. No one accosted them as they groped for the side of the steps as they stole across the basement, and as they made a precarious escape through the long tunnel and the old drain, to the outer air.

Emerging, Dupont glanced about. He was beginning to recover from the effects of his struggle against Renard's deadly grip.

"Where's Sam?" Dupont muttered. "Where's the man I left here on guard?"

It was dusk, and the daylight was fading appreciably. But something caught the eye of the hypnotist. He stooped, pulling aside a natural mask of underbrush. Lying in the moss and leaves was the figure of the operative. He was dead, and at his throat were the finger marks of the only one who could have throttled him—the Strangler.

XXXIV

CHESTER RANDOLPH

Dupont straightened and turned to Violet. In a new, set desperation, all weakness vanished. As he took her arm she knew that he was the leader now. She had piloted him from danger, had rescued him from the dread haunt of the devil worshippers. But at the sight of the slain man, another added to the total of victims of the horror, Dupont again was master. Violet, womanlike, loved him the more in this moment when any word or act or thought of love would have been scarilege.

"Hurry" he muttered.

They broke through the underbrush, following the faint suggestion of a trail leading diagonally north toward Broadway. Very suddenly they emerged upon a ledge of rock ten to twelve feet above the level of the street. In the haze of early evening there was revealed, directly before them, two men locked in a struggle. One glance, and both recognized the larger of the figures. The Strangler

Dupont left her, literally leaping to the walk below. She scrambled down, watching the fight eagerly as she did so.

Dupont's assistance was unnecessary. The stranger, who seemed to be a ridiculously little man, had no trouble at all in subduing the big ex-sailor. To Violet it seemed inconceivalbe. Then a further surprise awaited her, for she saw that Dupont knew the man; that they were old friends.

"Bing" Dupont exclaimed, delighted And to Violet. "This is Chester Randolph; 'Bing' we call him; member of the Adventurers' Club, and my companion on the African trip."

Randolph bowed, acknowledging Dupont's presentation of Violet. "Pleased, Miss Bronson" But his interest was in Dupont. "Been trying to find you all day, Bob Read in the papers on the bout about this mystery of yours and the death of Doctor Sutton; thought you might need some help."

"Good old Bing" Dupont sobered now as he remembered the task before him. "How did you find me?"

"Easy, when I thought of it. The paper gave the name of the agency employing the detective killed at the medium's place, remember? Anyhow, I went up there and found them sending all their men up her and, well, I gathered there might be trouble. I'm ready"

Randolph drew a revolver half out of his pocket to show he was armed. Afterward he indicated his prisoner. The Strangler, sullen, seemed willing enough to await the little man's pleasure rather than to attempt another struggle. "Saw this fellow bursting out of the bushes up there as if he was in a hurry, and so I collared him. Do you want him?"

Dupont smiled grimly. "Yes, for murder. Wasn't—wasn't sure you could handle him alone, though."

Randolph drew himself up, turning to Violet. "No one will ever give me credit," he complained, "just because I'm short and stocky."

"Listen, Bing" Dupont did not lose sight of his problem for an instant. "You can help a lot. They're after Violet particularly. Will you take her home and stay there with her, to protect her, until I round up this crew here and join you?"

"Sure How about this fellow?"

"I'll take him. I've a dozen men around the place."

"Are you armed?"

"No. They nearly got me in there."

"Take my gat then." Randolph handed over his revolver, after which he allowed a bit of his disappointment to show in his face. "No chance for me to get in on the fight, Bob?"

"Violet's safety is more important."

"Oh, all right"

Randolph led the way to a little racer at the curb, helping Violet in. For several moments he watched Dupont march the Strangler off, showing his distaste for his more quiet job very plainly. Finally, shrugging his shoulders philosophically, he clambered in beside the girl, obtaining the address of her home.

She studied him, noticing the easy and skilled poise with which he handled his machine. In the back of her head an idea was forming, gaining strength.

"You—you drive awfully well," she exclaimed, after a moment.

He brightened, showing a susceptibility to flattery. "I prefer to pilot a battle plane," he suggested.

"Oh You're an aviator; you—you were over seas?"

"Uh-huh In the thick of it."

She leaned forward coaxingly. "Dont you hate to go away and leave Robert up there to face that gang alone, with only the detectives?"

"You bet" He slowed the car, half turning to face her.

"You know"—she indicated that he stop at the curb—"I didn't want to go away any more than you did, only I daren't try to question Robert's wishes because—well, I never do when he is—is masterful." She colored. "But if you'd like to go back—"

"Now, my dear young lady," interrupted the little man. "I've promised Bob I'd look after you and—"

"I mean"—she hastened to interrupt in turn—"I mean I'll go back with you, and—and I want to get into the fight too." Her eyes sparkled now at the thought of facing the danger with the man she loved.

CHURCH UNION NOW ADOPTED BY METHODISTS

TORONTO, October 7.—Canadian Press. — So far as the Methodist Church of Canada is concerned, Church Union is no longer a debatable issue. It is a question settled once and for all, and now awaiting ratification by the Presbyterian and Congregational churches.

Yesterday afternoon without a single dissenting vote, the Methodist General Conference approved a draft act of Incorporation of the United Church of Canada, and directed that the necessary steps be taken to select 150 Methodists who shall represent that body on the first General Council of the proposed United Church of Canada.

The decision which irrevocably commits 410,000 Canadian Methodists to a union not hitherto attempted in any country in the world other than Canada, came as a dramatic climax.

BIG DAY YESTERDAY AT WARKWORTH FAIR

Between Four and Five Thousand People Passed Through the Turnstiles —The Race Results.

WARKWORTH, Oct. 7.—Yesterday was the big day at Warkworth Fair. Between four and five thousand people passed the gatekeeper in the afternoon, and the streets of the busy little village were thronged with motors and crowds from the surrounding district, with visitors from Toronto, Belleville, Marmora, Cobourg and Port Hope. The weather was cooler than on the previous day, but very favorable for the programme of races. These included a running event, with Nellie, owned by Lock, of Campbellford, the winner, against Red Admiral and Dub, owner, McIntosh of Cobourg, and Bud, owned by Hennessey of Colborne.

In the fre e-for-all, Bessie Brooks, owned by F. Montgomery, of Peterborough, came first in three straight heats of a race with a unique finish, the other three horses having an equal score, and dividing second and third equally between them: Liberty Patch, 2-4-3, owned by Cowan Bros., of Picton; Roy Mack, 4-3-2, owned by Dr. Johnson, of Port Hope, and Polly Stout, 3-2-4, owned by R. Elmhirst, of Keene. There was some spirited discussion by a large crowd after this race on the treatment accorded Roy Mack, who got away only after the fourth start.

The winner in the 25 class was Darky Top, 1-1-1, owned by M. Storey, of Peterborough, against Lady Barnsgale, 2-3-2, F. Montgomery's horse; Harry H., 3-2-3, Dr. Johnson, of Port Hope, and Frank McKerron, 4-4-4, Chas. Fife, of Keene.

In the 18 class, run the day before, the decision went to Darky Top, Roy Mack coming second, and Harry H. third.

Geo. Tice, of Belleville, acted as starter, the judges being Messrs. Gus. White, of Peterborough; W. G. Kingsley, of Belleville, and H. Dunlop, of Frankford. Timers—J. C. Anderson, of Campbellford, and W. Parks, of Belleville.

The farmers' special race, run by farm horses driven by farmers or their sons, went to James Greenley, of Warkworth, with Marshall Franklin, of Roseneath, second, and Frank Brown, of Roseneath, third. Ward Archer, of Campbellford, and J. Hennessey, of Wooner, started. Jones', special race and Father J. B. Ferguson's special went to M. Franklin, of Roseneath, and the slow race, Hutchinson's special, to Ward Archer, of Campbellford.

The judging in the ring had many entries, with a large class of single roadsters, and an excellent showing of horses for agricultural and general purposes.

The large rest tent, with its baby show, had a crowd of spectators all afternoon, the judges, Dr. and Mrs. A. G. Armstrong, of Roseneath, having a hard time in deciding the winner amongst the small pink and white morsels that presented themselves. The H. L. Walker Metropolitan Life special prize of $25 for the best baby of 12 months and under went to Baby Sherwin, girl infant of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Sherwin, of Warkworth, heading three other entries, while the Morrow twins, the pink and blue-ribboned boy and girl twin babies of Mr. and Mrs. E. Morrow, of Warkworth, received the prize for twins under 16 months, in competition with another pair, the six dollar Nelson and Allen special.

A number of fine new motor cars were on exhibit yesterday. Messrs. T. S. Tait & Son, of Campbellford, had a Dodge touring model; A. H. McConnell, of Belleville, showed the McLaughlin cars, four and six-cylinder touring models; and D. W. Douglas, of Campbellford, had the Fords, a touring car, coupe, sedan and one-ton truck.

Mr. John Dick, of Warkworth, was in charge of a "natural milker" that attracted a number of curious seekers after knowledge.

The 40th Regimental Band from Campbellford was present on the grounds yesterday, and supplied excellent music throughout the afternoon. Arlie Marks' stock company, playing in the village, sent its Scotch band, with two pipers and three drummers, in full Highland regalia, to enliven the proceedings. Billy Bowman of Peterborough, over on the Midway, was having a real good time with his outfit of Kewpie dolls and his admiring audience.

The dining hall was well patronized both at the dinner and tea hour and altogether the officials and directors are to be congratulated upon the success of their efforts in connection with this year's exhibition. The following were untiring in their labors to promote the best Fair possible this year: President, R. J. McKnight, secretary-treasurer, J. N. McGill, Honorary Directors, D. Sutton, John Tait, William Hannah, George Berry; Directors, W. T. Donaldson, J. L. Fair, A. J. Henderson, L. H. Winslow, Ormie Larmer, L. McNeil, J. A. Vance, W. H. Lough, J. W. Hamilton, G. A. Fair, Harold Tait, J. H. Paul, J. L. McCamus, W. Rutherford, T. A. Kelly, W. S. Given, N. Belch, T. W. McCamus, W. E. Ball, I. W. Larmer, P. Stinson.

MILLBROOK FAIR HAD ONE OF BEST DAYS IN HISTORY

Gate Receipts Ran Over a Thousand Dollars—The Buildings Looked Attractive—Review of Fair.

MILLBROOK, Oct. 7.—Probably the most successful Fair in its history was held at Millbrook yesterday, between four and five thousand people being in attendance. The gate receipts were $1,150. This is the largest amount ever taken in here on any similar occasion. Doubtless the fine weather, together with the reputation which the Fair has established for itself of being a well-managed and enterprising institution, combined to make this year's records a notable one. The building looked very attractive, three sides being given over to an excellent display of fancy work, of a variety of patterns and intricate designs, including buffet covers, tea-cloths, towels, hand-bags, bedspreads, etc., in all of which the workmanship was of a very high order; the notable feature about these exhibits this year was the large number of entirely new articles shown in this department, the failing which so many exhibitors have of bringing in several of the same entries year after year not being in evidence here this season. The space reserved for the fine arts in oil paintings, water colors, collection of kodak views, etc., was unusually well filled, and proved one of the most admired exhibits at the Fair, while the array of plants, cut flowers, floral sprays, and bouquets, which were tastefully arranged in the centre of the main building, was the finest shown here in some years, and gave the judges a most difficult time when making their awards. Invariably one finds that the domestic science tables are a source of much interest, the large loaves of light, "crusty" bread, the cakes, pies, tea-biscuits, cookies, home-made candy, etc., making a most tempting display of toothsome good things, to say nothing of the big crocks of golden butter, the jars of honey and maple syrup, and the sealers of fruits, jellies and pickles.

Fruits and Veletables.

The tables where fruit and vegetables were displayed were all well filled, the uniform size of the apples, potatoes, carrots, melons, parsnips, etc., in the individual exhibits, being especially noticeable; this is one of the important points considered by the judges when making their decisions. The fact, too, was noted, that the apples and other fruits seemed entirely free from blemishes of any sort, though we have been told by the Department of Agriculture that the apple crop of this country is largely spoiled this year by the scabby condition of the fruit. Giant stalks of corn ranged against the walls, and big squashes, pumpkins, mangles and turnips, filling all available ground space, won their share of admiration. Hens, ducks and geese in the poultry building kept up an incessant clamor, apparently not enjoying the sightseers' curious gaze. The entries in horses and cattle of the various classes were far above the average both in numbers, and quality of the animals shown, an unusual amount of this time being required in judging the former in the two rings which were running consecutively practically all afternoon:

Along the Midway.

Amongst the out-door attractions the piping of the Highlander, in native costume, and the clever dancing of the two children while the piper played in front of Grafton's big tent, drew a crowd of interested spectators, when the races were not claiming the major portion of attention. Along the mid-way there was always a steady stream of people enjoying the "kill the cat," and other claimants on thier attention, and pocket-books, and apparently none of the booths could complain of any lack of patronage. Bethany band added to the pleasure of the afternoon by their numerous and well-rendered selections.

In the free-for-all race (purse $125, divided 1, $60, 2 $40, 3 $25), the winners were: 1 Hazel H., 2 Sunny Jim, 3 Kelly.

In the 2.30 class (purse $100, 1 $45, 2 $35, 3 $20), the winners were: 1 Doris Patch, 2 Thora Patch, 3 Lena Rivers.

In the named race: 1 Nellie Patch, 2 Black Dexter, 3 King of Patches.

The $5 gold piece for the best lady driver, given by the Empress Hotel, Peterborough, was won by Mrs. Tamblyn, Orono. The W. E. Ball silver cup was won for the second time in succession by R. J. McKnight, the award being for the best heavy draught mare or filly, any age, the E. V. Warne silver cup (Peterborough), for best agricultural mare or gelding, was won by A. J. Henderson and Son; the Peter Hamilton cup for the best single road mare or gelding in harness was awarded to Mr. I. Nattrass; the silver cup by J. F. Staples and Son for best carriage mare or gelding in harness, was won by Blewett of Peterborough.

LAKEFIELD, October 7. — Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Webster entertained between 75 and 80 friends at a delightful dance at their summer cottage, "Merricanna," on Thursday even ing. MUNICIPALITIES ASSIST THE STRICKEN NORTH

NORTH BAY, Oct. 7.— (Canadian Press.) —Offers for relief to the sufferers in the North continue to come in from municipalities and various fraternal and social organizations.

Mayor Ferguson of North Bay, in a statement yesterday, referred to this and to suggestions of Mayor Dawson of Sault Ste. Marie and other municipalities that a large relief organization be formed with headquarters at North Bay to look after this work."

Latest reports were that the relief train had reached Englehart and believed to be on its way back. There are no wire communications north of Haileybury.

About sixty more refugees are expected here to-night, mostly from farming sections who have made their way to the railroads.

HORSES GRAZING ON BEST KEPT LAWNS

COBALT, Ont., Oct. 7.— (Canadian Press Staff.)—Out of all evil comes at least some good, at least that is what a carload of horses here think now. Their owner, a man named Flynn, who bought them from his ranch near Moore Jaw, nearly lost them in Wednesday's fire, but yesterday, owing to the kindness of Cobalt's 400, they are dining off the choicest lawns in the city.

NORTH BAY, Oct. 7. — (Canadian Press.)—Property in fire which Wednesday afternoon and night swept so many towns in Northern Ontario, will probably aggregate between seven million and eight million dollars. Loss of life will likely total between 30 and 40, while between 150 and 200 farms were burned out accorling to a statement issued by Prembier Drury on his arrival last night after relieving over the stricken on relief trains. The towns of North Cobalt, Thornloe, Heaslip, Charlton and Uno Park were completely destroyed; Haileybury was almost completely destroyed, and Englehart suffered considerable damage. New Liskeard was a slight sufferer. Premier's statement outlined provision made to suply relief. Centres have been found with members of Provincial Police in charge of each which will look after the surrounding districts. Then there will be a central committee under the chairmanship of A. J. Young, of North Bay, with power to requistion on Government supplies to send to centres. The Premier stated that while the Provincial Government was prepared to give a great deal of help, need is exceedingly heavy and contributions from the public would be greatly appreciated. In this connection he praised actions taken already by public bodies.

HOSPITALS CLOSE BY HIGH PRICES.

Such is Resolution Adopted By German Doctors.

HAMBURG, Oct. 7.—(Associated Press)— Many German hospitals have been forced to close their doors because of the high prices and the scarcity of necessary supplies, declares a resolution adopted by the hospital doctors of Germany at a conference here. The Congress has appealed to the medical men of the world for international co-operation looking to an improvement in the situation through universal reconcilation and rehabilation.

Adoption of this resolution followed an address in which Doctor Karl Loening, university professor of Halle, warned of the dangers threatening Germany's invalids. He traced the disastrous effects which high costs, lack of medicine and food, shortage of housing, ect., have produced in increased illness throughout the country, and said that similar conditions were developing in countries bordering Germany.

Doctor Loening expressed the hope that the many friends of German medicine on both sides of the Atlantic, who availed themselves of Germany's opportunities for professional instruction in times of prosperity, would now come forward to provide the necessities for meeting the situation.

The conference was held in connection with Hamburg's Overseas Week.

HANGED TILL DEAD, EVEN THOUGH TWICE

Department of Justice Regrets Bungling of Execution.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 7.—(Canadian Press.) — Beyond expressing regret that the execution had been carried out in such a bungling manner, officials of the Justice Department had little to say in regard to the Woodstock despatch telling of the hanging of Benny Swain. Apparently it is not the first time in Canada that a convicted man has been hanged twice before life was extinct, and there seems to be no question of the legality of so doing. A person convicted of murder is sentenced "to be hanged by the neck until dead" and this sentence must be carried out even though it is necessary to spring the trap more than once.

A Stubborn Cough Loosens Right Up

This home-made remedy is a wonder for quick results. Easily and cheaply made.

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, croup, throat tickle, bronchial asthma or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you get 16 ounces—a family supply—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.50. Keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

BAR WOMEN AND CHILDREN FROM STRICKEN FIRE ZONE

Families in North Bay Must Stay There Is the Official Order—Lack of Food and Shelter the Reason.

NORTH BAY, Ont., Oct. 7.—"Don't give any transportation north to any woman or child" were the instructions repeated this afternoon by W. H. Mond, of the T. & N.O. Railway, to W. S. Snider, Town Clerk of North Bay who has charge of the local registration bureau for refugees.

More than a dozen women, penniless after the fire, applied today for permission to rejoin their husbands in the north country. Refusal of transportation has created some peculiar situations. One woman with seven children, who came down yesterday, wanted to go "home" where only charred ruins remain.

Supplies in the devasted area are not more than sufficient for the remaining population, and refugees can be better looked after here than there, railways officials explained.

In the handling of transportation problem red tape has been cut to a minimum. Every legitimate application is given a written order by Clerk Snider. At the G.T.R. and C.P.R. depots these orders are exchanged for tickets, which are charged back to the issuing municipality. Sometimes 150 homeless people have been waiting at the order desk at one time.

Fakers on the Job.

A few fakers took advantage of the rush to secure free transportation to the city. Protests from the railway companies to the committee brought this reply from Clerk Snider:

"Investigate these cases for yourselves. It is better that a few undeserving people get free tickets than that any deserving person be refused."

It was hinted today that free transportation on the part of the T. & N.O. Railway may cease at any moment, probably when the remaining refugees are brought down from Charlton and outlying points. In that event unless the Ontario Government steps in great additional hardship will be suffered by the refugees, for practically all of them are penniless and private charity can't be prolonged indefinitely.

RE-OPENS FIGHT FOR GYPSUM PROPERTY.

Valued at More Than Two Million Dollars.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 7.—(Canadian Press.)—The fight for the famous gypsum property, valued at more than two million dollars at Island Point, Cape Breton, N.S., is to be re-opened as a result of an application to the General Department of Justice from Plaster Quarries Limited, who were dispossessed of the holding by an act of the Nova Scotia Legislature in 1921. In a telegram to the Dominion Command, G.W.V.A., yesterday morning D. Stanley MacNeil, the present holder of the property, states that he has been notified by E. L. Newcombe, Deputy Minister of Justice, that the hearing of the application of Plaster Quarrries ltd., is to be held at the post office, Montreal, on Monday, Oct. 9.

GERMAN GOODS IN PROTEST

BERLIN, Oct. 7.—(Associated Press)—Attention is called by the German press to a "booster" week recently held in Denmark for the benefit of home-made commodities. Daintly little flags were sold bearing the imprint: "Buy no foreign goods! Let your money come to Danish workmen."

Because of the cheap rate at which they could be secured, half of the little flags used in this Denmark campaign to further local industries were bought, not in Denmark, but in Germany.

Eight soldiers attached to the French army on the Rhine were recently convicted of being German spies. All confessed to having operated within the French ranks since 1921.

GERMAN POTASH MINES INCUR BIG OBLIGATIONS

BERLIN, Oct. 7.—(Associated Press)—Unless the coming six years see a radical improvement in the value of the mark, Germany's potash industry probably will be seriously embarrassed in liquidating stock shares held abroad which must be paid in currency of the country from which the capital was subscribed. Other industrial concerns are said to be bound by similar obligations during the war.

The potash mines of Wintershall, Alexandershall, and Saxon-Weimar are reported to have taken up 10,000 000 marks capitalization each at that time, repayable in 1928 at the rate of 1,220 Swiss francs to every 1,000 marks. With the fall of German currency it would require today no less than 3,059,000,00 paper marks to fulfill these agreements. This sum exceeds, it is said, the total capital of all the Wintershall mines.

Owing to scarcity of labor in the potash fields of the Werra valley, in Central Germany, a large number of university students are spending their vacations working in the mines. Many of them are housed in barracks.

T. & N.O. RAILWAY SURPLUS $300,000

Estimate of This Year's Profit—Fire a Set-Back.

COBALT, Ont., October 7 (Canadian Press). — While no special announcement can be secured for a few days, it is known by a Canadian Press correspondent here covering the forest fires that the surplus on earnings of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway will this year run to close upon $300,000—at least it will be over a quarter of a million.

The railway year ends on 31st October, George W. Lee, chairman of the T. and N. O. Board, declined to discuss the matter yesterday, but admitted that he felt in a very optimistic mood.

"It will be the best year the road has had." he admitted.

Asked if a quarter of a million might be handed over to the Government as surplus earnings, Mr. Lee reiterated that he did not care to disclose any figures before they had been submitted to the Government authorities.

"Will it be even more?" persisted the reporter.

"My, but you are a good guesser," replies the Board chairman with a significant smile.

Mr. Lee figures the fires here will set the road back about $100,000.

"We were all ready for a record winter after a record summer," he said. "However, your guess on the surplus might yet hold good."

SAFE FAT REDUCTION

Reduce, reduce, reduce, is the slogan of all fat people. Get thin, be slim, is the cry of fashion and society. And the overfat wring their hands in mortification and helpfulness; revolting at nauseating drugs, afraid of violent exercise, dreading the unwelcome and unsatisfying diet, until they hit upon the harmless Marmola Prescription, and learn through it that they may safely reduce steadily and easily without one change in their mode of life, but harmlessly, secretly and quickly reaching their ideal of figure with a smoother skin, better appetite and health than they have ever known. And now comes Marmola Prescription Tablets from the same famously harmless formula as the Marmola Prescription. It behooves you to learn the satisfactory, beneficial effects of this great, safe, fat reducer by giving to your druggist one dollar for a case, or sending a like amount to the Marmola Company, 4612 Woodward Avenue, Detroit, Mich., with a request that they mail to you a case of Marmola Prescription Tablets.

GRANTING OF DIVORCES IS MAKING FIUME FAMOUS

FIUME, Oct. 7.— (Associated Press)—This city counts a population of 50,000; 15,000 of them received decrees of divorce in the years 1920 and 1921. Divorce seems to be the most flourishing of the local industries, and it is making the city famous.

The reason is that the severance of the marital bond is easy here and people desiring freedom flock to Fiume from neighboring states where divorces are not granted Anyone can get a divorce in Fiume who has lived in the city long enough to acquire the rights of citizenship.

Complications, however, occasionally arise. The case is still remembered of an Italian woman who acquired the citizenship of Fiume and divorced her husband, who remained an Italian subject. Shorty after the divorce she remarried and returned to Italy, where she was promptly imprisoned for bigamy, the Italian law considering her divorce null and void, her husband being an Italian, and as such, not entitled to divorce.

In Canada, a former service man is given 160 acres of land free, and the Government loans each man $2,500 cash to equip his farm.

PLEADS FOR GOOD WILL AMONG MEN.

Is the One Thing That Can Save Civilization.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—(Associated Press)—"Good will among men is the one thing that can save civilization" declares the Industrial League and Council in a plea it has just issued for harmonious relations between employers and employed. It is signed by many people of prominence representing various shades of political opinion, including Premier Lloyd George, Lord Robert Cecil, Lord Burnham, Lady Astor and several representatives of Labor.

"The real rule of the world to-day is commerce," says the League. Only the worker can build up what the soldier has destroyed.

"There never was a time in the whole history of the world when the industrialist had so much to offer or the world at large had a great a need of his services.

"Europe has received a staggering blow. Millions of its best citizens have been lost. The foundations of its commercial life have been shaken as though by an earthquake.

"We in Great Britain have the factories, the works, the skilled men the able direction. One of the most vital things lacking is real motive-power.

"If we are to obtain it every class, employer and employed alike, must admit the theory of personal responsibility and must endeavor to fulfill its obligations.

"Men in every political path look forward to the time when there shall be a real settlement in Europe, but not until we achieve unity at home can we hope to achieve untiy abroad. Not until all classes of the community recognize, not only their rights but their obligations, shall we achieve unity at home."

At two o'clock this morning the teachers from Campbellford and district returned home from the convention at Rochester, where they had a splendid time. The return journey across Lake Ontario was very rough and most of the teachers suffered from seasickness. The teachers enjoyed their stay in Rochester. Included in the extensive programme was a trip to each of the schools. The trip was one of instruction and benefit to all who were fortunate enough to be present.

PRODUCE MARKETS

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, October 7—Strength in Liverpool was reflected on the local market early in the session with the opening figures fractionally higher, but reaction developed later and the close showed a loss of 1-2 to 3-4c from yesterday.

The advance in the English markets attracted much attention in export circles but new business is very difficult to work through export channels. The congestion still continues at Canadian and United States lower lake ports and is undoubtedly seriously interfering with trade. A local shipping firm is reported to have entered an agreement to pay 8c per bushel for a boat for shipments from Fort William to Bay ports. This is said to be the highest price ever paid for grain transportation.

WINNIPEG LIVESTOCK

WINNIPEG, Man., October 7. — Receipts were 780 cattle and calves, 135 hogs and 175 sheep and lambs. The cattle market opened under comparatively light offerings and trading was quiet; but cow stuff was weak. Stockers and feeders in fair demand with buyers bidding mostly in line with the close of Thursday.

The limited sheep and lamb offerings were absorbed at steady prices. Light weight mutton sheep weighed up from $5 to $6, and fair to good lambs from $8 to $10.50.

The hog market was unchanged, selects fed and watered selling at $10.50.

EGG PRICES.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 7. — A large number of sales have been made of storage first eggs for export. Some of these are moving to-day and others will be leaving the beginning of next week. In the majority of cases the sales are around 20 shillings c.i.f. Two cars storage first are reported rolling Montreal for export to London, Eng., from Winnipeg.

Toronto specials 46 to 47, extras 39 to 40; firsts 36 to 47.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

CHICAGO, October 7. — Cattle receipts 5600; slow trade on all classes —comparatively few native beef steers here; large share of run being western grassers; quality plain; native beef steers and westerns generally weak to 15c under yesterday's extreme decline; best natives $11; best yearlings $10.75; bulk native beef steers $7.50 to $9.50; bulk westerns $6 to $7.25; beef cows and heifers slow; unevenly steady to weak; spots lower on in-between grades; canners and cutters and bulls about steady; veal calves 50 to 75c lower; stockers and feeders largely 25c lower.

Hogs, receipts 15,000; slow, early sales steady to unevenly higher, closing weak to 10c lower on lighter weights; around steady on others; bulk 160 to 175 pound average $9.40 to $9.70; bulk 180 to 240 pound average $9.75 to $10; top $10.05 early; desirable 270 to 300 pound butchers, $9.45 to $9.60; packing sows mostly $7.40 to $8; bulk pigs around $9; estimated holdover 7,000.

Sheep receipts 12,000; fat lambs steady; top natives $13.85 to city butchers; $13.75 to packers; bulk native lambs $13 to $13.50; culls mostly $9 to $9.50; six double choice Idaho lambs $14.35, with 600 out; feeders dull; weak to shade lower; 600 light Idaho feeding lambs $14.25; three doubles food 98 pound yearling wethers $10.60; straight sheep, steady; fat handy ewes $2.50 to $4; lighter weights up to $6.50.

CHICAGO GRAINS.

CHICAGO, October 7. — Although the warlike aspects of the Turkish crisis gave the wheat market an upturn at the opening to-day, buying power failed to broaden and prices declined under persistent selling largely of a profit taking character. The close was unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to 1c lower, with December $1.06 1-2 to $1.06 5-8, and May $1.08 1-2 to $1.08 5-8. Corn lost 1-8 to 1-4 to 1 1-8 and 1 1-4c; oats gained a shade and provisions finished at 5 to 8c advance.

The fact that the wheat market has been on the upgrade for four days and that the foreign outlook although disturbing was still asserted to be for peace, had much to do with the enlarged selling, and the lack of any suggestive new demand. Besides Winnipeg reported greater hedging pressure on account of expected heavier receipts, whereas the outlet for Canadian wheat was further restricted by lake freight rates rising to 8c a bushel, the highest charge ever known. In addition arrivals of wheat at primary points in the United States continued liberal.

Showers relieving the drought which of late has retarded the sowing of winter wheat, was a further bearish influence. On the other hand domestic milling call for wheat was said to have improved in many sections and exporters of the Gulf of Mexico were bidding 1c higher on wheat in position to be shipped without delay. The eastern seaboard however sent word that exporters there were reluctant to offer wheat abroad being deterred by the uncertainty of obtaining supplies.

Corn was weak from the start. Talk of Argentine competition in the export business acted as a handicap to bulls. Oats were strengthened by comparative absence of rural offerings.

Provisions were firmer in line with hog values, and as a result of packers buying presumably againnst shipping values.

EAT LESS MEAT, MORE VEGETABLES AND MORE FRUIT.

By BERTHA E. SHAPLEIGH.

There is a strong tendency to eat too much meat, fish and eggs in proportion to vegetables and fruits.

Professor Sherman of Columbia University has said that in general it is well to allow at least as much money for the purchase of vegetables, fruits and milk as for the purchase of meats, fish and eggs.

Why? Let us consider fruits especially. Fruits supply a much needed acid substance in the digestive tract.

Act as Laxative.

Fruits have a laxative tendency and keep the system in a good condition. Fruits supply flavor which is natural, also sugar which is natural sugar. They give, when cooked, variety in the menu and in a raw state are pleasing to the eye.

Many housekeepers consider fruit expensive, and if it is an added item to an already heavy meal it is expensive.

But when we have learned what the body needs most and have given those foods which supply it we can cut out many of the supposed necessary foods.

The family will be better satisfied, and better health secured at a much lower price.

Train Young to Eat It.

There is great need of training children to enjoy the products of the ground and not to be dependent on meat as the past generations have been.

There is not and will not be sufficient meat for all, but there are unlimited possibilties in vegetable and fruit raising.

Raw fruits are not always as easily digested as when cooked, and a raw banana, for instance, ought never be given to a young child.

Of course, citrus fruits are an exception and usually are eaten without cooking.

Lightens Work.

Another good reason for serving fruit is that it makes the work of the housekeeper much lighter.

French women do not make heavy desserts, but give cooked fruit with cake or a sweet cracker. Or they serve cooked cereal or cream with the cooked fruit.

The compote is of the most easily prepared dessert, being simply canned fruit served in attractive dishes.

When opening a can of fruit it will be found to be improved in the following manner: Arrange the fruit on the dish in which it is to be served. Pour sirup into a saucepan. Add to the juice of a quart can of fruit one-half cup of sugar and a few drops of vanilla extract. Boil 10 minutes and, when cooled, pour it over the fruit.

Canned fruit prepared in this way is delicious served with boiled or steamed rice.

Another way to serve canned, or dried cooked, fruit is on French toast.

A dessert acceptable at all times is one which may be called a "macedoine" of fruit.

Cut in small pieces any kind of fruit, adding perhaps a small amount of canned fruit. Mix all together, adding sugar to taste, a few grains of salt to call out the flavor and, if at hand, grape or loganberry juice. Chill thoroughly and serve in glasses.

MOTHER!
Your Child's Bowels Need "California Fig Syrup"

Hurry mother! Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup" and it never fails to open the bowels. A teaspoonful today may prevent a sick child tomorrow. If constipated, bilious, feverish, fretful, has cold, colic, or if stomach is sour, tongue coated, breath bad, remember a good cleansing of the little bowels is often all that is necessary.

Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on the bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig Syrup.

A THOUGHT FOR TO-DAY

For we hear that there are some which walk among you disorderly, working not at all, but are busybodies. II Thessalonians 3.12.

Work earnestly at anything, you will by degrees to learn to work at almost all things. —Thomas Carlyle.

PRIESTS' MARRIAGE EASIER IN RUSSIA.

MOSCOW, Oct. 6.—(Associated Press.)—Questions relating to the right of marriage of the clergy have been threshed out at the congress of the "new living church" which aims to succeed the old orthodox church of Russia. The conclusion was reached by the "young clergy" as they recall themselves, that virtually all restrictions of wedlock be removed.

After devoting several days to discussing matters of matrimony it was decided to permit married priests to become archbishops; to allow priests to marry a second time and retain the same dignity as before; to permit monks to marry after they have renounced their vows and without losing their rank of honor, and to permit priests to marry widows. It was also decided not to consider as an obstacle to marriages the fourth degree of relationship.

Requests to the Soviet government providing for the transfer of all the treasures of the churches and monasteries of the old regime, were framed as part of the program gradually to take over the affairs of the old orthodox church.

The new living church desires the establishment of a single church treasury, and in this connection it has made plans for handling all the sums collected in the various churches throughout Russia. the government having been asked to make it possible for the new element to take ove administration of church affairs. This includes a tax to be collected from the worshippers; revenues from the cemeteries and the various sources from which money is derived.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY.

By MRS. J. E. LESLIE.

It takes time to prepare for a Hallowe'en party, "Experience" says there are already letters coming to her Column asking what to do, so we will take time by the proverbial forelock and tell it now.

First, there are the pumpkin lanterns. No Hallowe'en party would be complete without them. If one can light the whole house with them, the proper atmosphere of the occasion is preserved. Electric bulbs placed inside the grinning things, make just the dim light that is required.

The black and yellow paper decorations, the autumn leaves; the tall cornstalks and ears of corn; weird little brownies and pixies and witches that you make out of crepe paper and nuts, or any other ingenious devices, will express the proper uncanny spirit of the night.

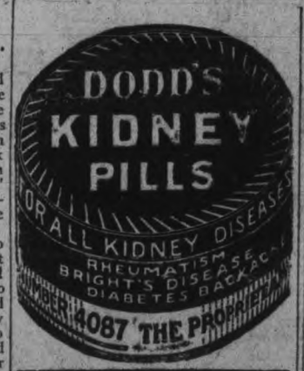
It carries out the general scheme of things if the girls of the party appear in masks, draped in sheets; with pillow cases over their hair, and let the men choose their own.

No more appropriate entertainment can be offered than fortune telling. Some one among the list of friends invited will know how to tell fortunes with playing cards, or by reading palms, or with cards designed specially for the purpose, or some other way. If the fortune teller is dressed as a gypsy or a witch, the charm is enhanced.

The fortunes, with a few of the old Hallowe'en tricks, that everyone knows; a little dancing and a bit of singing, will make a Hallowe'en party one that the guests will talk of with pleasure afterward.

Lunch is a matter of appropriateness to the occasion. An oyster stew, or "pigs in blankets" (big oysters wrapped in slices of bacon, fastened together with toothpicks and fried till crisp), rolls and pickles, with coffee and fried cakes (or little individual pumpkin pies) for dessert—this makes a lunch that boys and girls both like.

The Hallowe'en party is an easy one to give if plenty of time is taken to prepare the decorations and plan the entertainments which are essential to the occasion.—Detroit News.



IF YOU ARE WELL BRED

You use the salutation "Dear Madam" or "Dear Sir" in correspondence only in case of extreme formality.

For ordinary social correspondence one uses "Dear Miss Blank" or "My Dear Miss Blank."

The form "Dear Friend" or "Dear Miss" is never used by discriminating folk.

A MOTHER'S DUTY TO HER DAUGHTER

Health Must Be Guarded as She Comes to Womanhood.

Every mother who calls to mind her own girlhood knows how urgently her daughter is likely to need health and strength during the years between early school days and womanhood. It is then that growing girls droop and become bloodless and nervous. Nature is calling for more nourishment than the blood can supply, and signs of distress are plainly evident in dull eyes, pallid cheeks, weak and aching backs and a dislike for proper food. These signs mean that the blood is weak and watery. The watchful mother takes prompt steps to give her girl the new, rich blood her system calls for by giving her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. No other medicine has ever succeeded like them and thousands of mothers have proved their worth. Mrs. W. H. McIntyre, Gananoque, Ont., tells what these pills have done for both herself and her daughter. She says: "I have used Dr. Williams Pink Pills for many years, especially in times of weakness and general debility, and have found them a most satisfactory medicine. After a severe attack of influenza I found myself in a nervous condition and resorted to my old tonic—Pink Pills—and they did not fail me. I also gave them to my eldest daughter, who was in a serious condition due to ailments of girls of her age. She complained of headaches and backaches, and would often grow hysterical. She began taking the pills and was soon on the road to health again. She never complains now of headaches or backaches, and I give the credit to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. When ever I see any of my children ailing or in need of a blood tonic, I give them these pills and always with the best results."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Fashion Hints

SPANISH INFLUENCE.

At a fashionable wedding the bridesmaids wore cream-lace Spanish mantillas draped over high combs and caught at one side with deep crimson roses. They carried bouquets of the roses.

FUR ON FROCKS.

Fur is lavishly used on evening frocks of chiffon and the most lightweight fabrics. Fox, sable and ermine are the furs most adaptble for such uses.

TRIMMINGS.

Ostrich is much used for trimming, particularly worn about the waist sash fashion. Often it is combined with flowers of metal ribbons, and frequently unique color combinations are evolved.

KNITTED SUITS.

Knitted suits, both in wool and silk, are seen as the fall season advances. Tan and grey seem to be the most popular colors, and frequetly shoes, hat and gloves carry out the same tone.

CUFFS.

Cuffs are becoming important again. Some frocks have very wide ones, and others have them at the wrist, and then again at the elbows.

ATTRACTIVE.

The sleeves of a new pink crepe frock are entirely covered with tiny roses of velvet in a much deeper shade of rose.

EVENING SET.

A flowered hair bandeau and evening bag to match is one of the novelty sets offered for the use of very young girls. A few ostrich flues are added to gain fluffiness.

BROCADED CHIFFON.

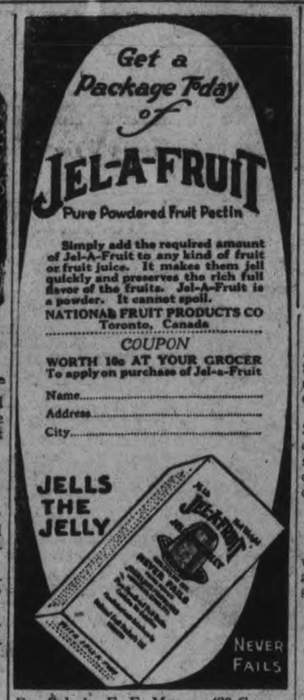
For semi-formal wear are shown a number of simply made gowns in velvet brocaded chiffon with linings of different colors. Sometimes an interesting Paisley effect is gained in this way.

DASHING OUTFIT.

With a green sports costume of crepe de chine with a knife-pleated sports coat and a black and white turban.

PAISLEY AND SERGE.

Nothing adds more pep to a serge or twill frock than the lavish use of Paisley silk which features red. This is one of the most successful combinations of the year.



For Sale by E. F. Mason, 429 George Street; P. S. White & Company, George Street; W. H. Hamilton, 138 Simcoe Street.

PARIS CORSETS.

Some recent corset importations from Paris are made of most elaborate fabrics with higher tops and a more definite waistline than we have seen in many a day.

FOR EVENING.

A combination frequently noticed in evening frocks is flame and old blue. Canary yellow is one of the color leaders in chiffon gowns.

RECIPES

(Bertha E. Shapleigh.)

PEACHES AND CAKE.

12 peaches
Sugar
1 cup cream
¼ cup powdered sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla
1/3 cup butter
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
½ cup milk
1½ cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder

Cream butter and sugar together. Add eggs (well beaten), milk, and flour sifted with the baking powder. Bake 25 minutes in two round or square pans.

Slice peaches and sweeten to taste. Split cakes, or place one on the other with peaches between. Reserve some of the peaches to place on the beaten cream, which is piled on top the cake.

SANDWICH IDEAS.

The following are two good sandwiches for the lunch box. The fig and nut is especially good for the school children:

Cheese Sandwiches.

1 cream cheese, or 1 cup curd cheese
1 pimiento, finely chopped
8 stoned and finely chopped olives
3 tablespoons cooked spinach

Salt, cayenne to taste and cream to moisten to a consistency to spread.

Spread between slices of rye or graham bread which have been spread with butter or mayonnaise.

The cheese mixture may be packed in a half-pound baking powder tin and allowed to stand until firm. Remove from tin, cut in thin slices and place between round slices of buttered brown bread.

Fig and Nut Sandwiches.

Spread thin slices of buttered bread with stewed fig paste, sprinkle with finely chopped peanuts, press two slices together and cut in strips or triangles.

For the fig paste use one-fourth pound of figs and enough water to moisten. Cook in a double boiler three or four hours.

A little lemon juice may be added to relieve the flat, sweet taste.

SCALLOPED APPLES.

1 quart soft stale bread crumbs
½ cup butter
1 quart sliced apples
1 cup seedless raisins
¼ cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup cold water

Melt butter, add crumbs and mix thoroughly. In a baking dish, well buttered, put a layer of crumbs, then a layer of apples and sprinkle with sugar mixed with cinnamon and salt.

Repeat until apples, sugar and crumbs are all used. Have a layer of crumbs on top.

Gently pour in the water. Bake in a moderate oven one hour, or until apples are soft. Serve with cream or hard sauce.

Peaches may be used in place of apples, and nutmeg instead of cinnamon.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE.

We give medals to heroes, but at one time in France it was the custom to give a medal to all guests at a wedding ceremony.

They were specially designed for the occasion, and frequently bore a tiny bronze image of the bride.

Pay weddings are still in custom in parts of Germany. At a dinner a silver basin is placed before the bride into which each guest drops money or jewelry.

TRICKS OF SLEEVES

Although many fall coats and dresses show new sleeves that are tight and devoid of ornament, there are just as many that show sleeves wide and flowing and of most peculiar shapes.

Naturally these sleeves are seen oftenest on afternoon gowns, since evening gowns are usually entirely sleeveless and daytime frocks have grown quite conservative.

Two models sketched show grace fully draped sleeves—the gowns are of satin-backed crepe in two of the new golden shades of brown.

ing is left. The most prosperous farmers in the new country have now nothing but their land. Forty search parties from New Liskeard are scouring a 40-mile radius in search for victims.

During the day relief work proceeded very rapidly. Supplies were rushed to every devastated town.

Premier Drury went with the relief train, and on his return to Cobalt last night, said:

"I hardly think it will be necessary for the Province to give a cash grant to the relief fund. We are giving all clothing and food, also lumber for temporary shacks, which will have to be built right away on account of cold weather. If more cash is needed I am sure it can be raised voluntarily."

Lumber is urgently needed in the ruined country. Families are sleeping in the open and in tents in the month of October. At any moment the weather may change and become bitterly cold. In the dreadful uncertainties of the terrific night when the roar of holocaust threatened everything with destruction, a number of children entered the world. Several died at birth; others are still living. Everything possible is being done to save the lives of these babies of the disaster.

A SAD FEATURE.

HEASLIP, Oct. 7. — (Canadian Press).—One of the saddest features of the fire this far was the finding of the bodies of eleven victims of cave-in of the root house here, John Bond, his wife, eight children and a hired man On the ill-fated farm about fifty feet from the back door the rescuers found the bodies of Bond and his wife, with their arms entwined, an almost peaceful look on their faces., They were not burned, just suffocated. Two daughters, 17 and 18, lay next, and in a corner three smaller children were clashed in each other's arms, while the remaining three were scattered about.

Marshall, the hired man, had his cap pulled down over his face, and his hands outstretched as if groping his way to ward younger children. The only survivor of the family is a lad of 19, he having been helping a neighbor to thresh. He is suffering from shock, and will be sent to the hospital at Cobalt.

PRAISE FOR PREMIER.

ENGEHART, Ont., Oct. 7.—(Canadian Press.)—"Why wait for tin sheets, I have made a culvert out of old rails," was Premier E. C. Drury's comment to-day when a suggestion was made at the relief conference that corrugated iron be sent at once. "It needs a mighty big one to overcome the disaster but you are doing it. Stay right with it," he added. Mayor Frank Korman raised applause when he said Mr. Drury was "the best premier Ontario had ever had." He had been on a relief train within 15 minutes of getting word of the disaster.

SETTLERS REQUESTED REMOVAL OF RANGERS

COBALT, Ont., Oct. 7.— (Canadian Press.)—Charges that fire rangers were withdrawn much too soon from the Haileybury and other devastated places are absurd and easily exploded, according to C. A. Duval, chief fire ranger, yesterday.

As a matter of actual fact, settlers in the stricken area petitioned some years ago for the removal of the fire rangers, the argument at that time being that there was little or no timber of value there and that they could easily protect themselves from bush fires.

Correspondence on this department files will easily bear out his statement, Mr. Duval says.

BANK SAFE WARPED.

HAILEYBURY, Ont., Oct. 7. — (Canadian Press.)— Some idea of the heat resulting from the fires here on Wednesday can be gauged bythe experience of A. McLennan, teller in the Union Bank here. He made his escape but returned later to find a 6,800 pound safe with its steel sides warped like a board."

WORLD CRAZED

rotting on the ground—nature's own sustaining food, which thousands would be glad of, going to wicked waste. And he visioned a day coming when the Government must in a measure supervise what some people call harvesting, and provide such adequate transportation facilities that God's bounty is carried to all, assuring to the children of the poor their share of crops that in Canada are usually so abundant.

From reports and observations, Mr. Wilkinson gathered that never before had Canada seen so abundant a harvest generally as that of this year, and her people, in returning thanks for such abundance, should also appreciate their glorious country and all that it represents — in Christian churches, educational advantages, the absence of famine and serious disturbances and national distress.

Race After Pleasure.

Citing from his text, "Bless the Lord, O my soul," the Toronto divine, giving a few thoughts to the growing materialism of to-day, feared that modern men in their race for the best in automobiles, fine houses and a super-abundance of pleasure, are forgetting that they have a soul. Then both sex seem obsessed, he said, with a gambling craze, and cannot indulge in innocent social games without recourse to betting. The world, he deplored, or at least a large portion of it, is positively crazed about the joys of the flesh — epicurianism, theatre-going and chasing after lustful pleasures—until, finally, in so many regrettable instances, reaping that which they soweth, they gather a harvest of nothing but mental and oft-times physical corruption.

OVERSEAS VETERANS MUST GUARD AGAINST HARDENING ARTERIES

Thousands of Canadian overseas veterans have not given sufficient thought to their health since returning. Physicians recognize that these brave men lived through more emotions during the war than most people encounter in a lifetime. Some lived fifteen years in three, four or five. Doctors advised veterans to live cautiously.

While hardening of the arteries formerly developed after the fortieth birthday, the war upset this rule for the reasons given. Veterans must keep fit. Blood pressure is regulated by the state of the arteries, and the best means of reducing blood pressure and preventing hardening of the arteries is by keeping the system well regulated.

Constipation must not be permitted to exert its harmful effects (it is the cause of auto-intoxication—self-poisoning—headaches, biliousness, lack of energy, sleeplessness, indigestion and hardening of the arteries.)

The use of medicines for constipation is harmful. Pure, warm water, applied with the J. B. L. Cascade, is the natural method. It cleanses and purifies the intestinal tract, removes the poisonous waste which accumulates there, and eliminates the danger of hardening of the arteries by striking at the root of 95 per cent. of human ailments.

HARVEST FESTIVAL AT ST. GEORGE'S CHURCH

Large Congregation, Appropriate Sermon, Good Music.

A fairly large congregation attended the annual harvest festival last evening in St. George's Church.

The interior of the church was suitably decorated for the occasion, being atorned with fruits of the field, garden and orchard. The decorations, however consisted mainly of foliage, and flowers mostly in evidence on the chancel steps. At the entrance of the seats were miniature sheaves of fall wheat, with a cluster of red berries attached.

The Rev. T. J. O'Connor Fenton, of Norwood, was the special preacher for the occasion, and he delivered an exceedingly appropriate sermon on the text "Giving thanks always for all things unto God, the Father, in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ."

Interpreting these words in both their spiritual and material sense, he conveyed the thought that they left a very comforting feeling to one's soul and body, and strengthened his support when on'e heart is suffering from a growth of tangled perplexities of hopes and fears. He explained how God the Father has made all eventualities react for the glory of His own Kingdom, and thouhg we may think we are heavily smitten at times with misfortune we should still give thnks for blessings that we are receiving from him. Rev. O'Connor Fenton gave several examples of this and also the many blessings received by men without returning thanks.

Special music had been arranged by the choir and organist, Mr. Bruce Quinn ,and the service was fully choral. By the combined efforts of clergy and choir this festival was a success in every way and heartily participated in by an appreciative congregation.

Rev. T. O. Curliss of Toronto, will preach at both services to-morrow.

DON'T LOSE ANOTHER HAIR

35c "Danderine" Saves Your Hair—Ends Dandruff! Delightful Tonic

Hurry! It's your duty! Each day you see a little more hair falling out and you are making no effort to avoid baldness. What a pity. Falling hair means your hair is weak, sick,—possibly dandruff is strangling it, or the hair root pores in the scalp are not firm and tight, thus wasting the hair-growing oils.

Danderine almost instantly stops falling hair of men or women and cleans every particle of dandruff away, then the hair takes on new life, vigor and strength to grow strong, thick, and long.

Danderine is delightful — not sticky or greasy. Go to any drug-store now and get a bottle. Use it. Have healthy, heavy, beautiful hair and lots of it.

MUDANIA PARLEY BEING HELD UP

Awaits Instructions to British Delegate From Cabinet.

LONDON, October 7. Canadian Press. — The British cabinet was in session this morning awaiting result of the conversations between Foreign Secretary Curzon, and Premier Poincare in Paris. The resumption of the Mudania conference is being held up until the cabinet is in a position to forward fresh instructions to the British delegates.

Brig. General Sir Charles Harington, Lord Curzon is said to have been instructed to tell the French in case they refused to abide by the allied note of September 23rd and delay occupation of Eastern Thrace by the Turks, until the holding of the peace conference, that the British withdraw from that note.

It is stated in official quarters that the British Government abide by its original determination not to admit armed forces of Turkey into Thrace or Constantinople, until the matter has been arranged in accordance with the allied note.

In connection with Andrew Bonar Law's letter, outlining the possibility of a break in the Franco-British relations, it was stated that this possibility had not arisen for the present.

Regarding a Greek advance into Thrace it is understood that this is quite unlikely, as far as any encouragement from the British cabinet is concerned, and that former premier Venizelos, of Greece, has stated definitely that the Greeks have no such intention, and that if such intention exists it will not be supported here.

BRITISH-FRENCH AGREEMENT

PARIS, October 7. Canadian Press. — Great Britain and France as represented by Foreign Secretary Curzon and Premier Poincare, have agreed in principle that the troops of the Turkish Nationalists shall be allowed to occupy Eastern Thrace only after the conclusion of a peace treaty.

LONDON, Oct. 3 — (Canadian Press).—The Turkish Nationalist Minister of the Interior and Kazim Pasha, Minister of Defence, have arrived at Mudania in response to a summons from Ismet Pasha, Turkish delegate to the armistice conference, according to a Reuter's despatch from Constantinople. Turkish newspapers announce that Mutapha Kemal Pasha left Angora on Thursday to visit the reconstructed territories, and that he also is going to Mudania, where he hopes to meet the British commander, Brigadier-General Harington.

SESSIONS RESUME.

MUDANIA, Oct. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Sessions of the conference here were resumed at eight o'clock this morning. Owing to the lateness of the arrival of British instructions from home, no formal session was held last evening, but the Allied Generals conferred late into the night.

Giants Won Yesterday's Game - District Sport News of Interest

Deacon Scott Hero Of Giants' Victory

Former "Cast Off" of the Cincinnati Reds Performed Brilliantly in Third Game of the Series—Had Perfect Control.

HOYT NO MYSTERY.

NEW YORK, October 7 (Canadian Press). — A little more than three months ago John William Scott dropped out of baseball box scores, and no tears were shed—save possibly his own. Jack had never ranked with those whose names are passed on. A hard-working plodder, he had just worn out, and was expected to fade away.

To-day he is the most talked about man in the United States, and his name will live.

He transformed himself yesterday, and became an identity by pitching 112 balls that resulted in his team, the New York Giants, defeating the New York Yankees, 3 to 0, in the third game of the World's Series, and supplied his club with a two-game lead in the classic, an advantage that has been overcome only once in history.

Nearer to having been a "Never-Was" than a "Has-Been," in cold fact, a discard, a cast-off, a useless ballplayer, Jack Scott was shunted out of the baseball world by the Cincinnati Club last July. He had gone to Cincinnati in a trade with Boston last December, but didn't make good. His arm was dead. He was through.

Allowed Four Hits.

Jack Scott's record is in the books now. It says there that the cast-off's pitching yesterday was so marvellous that the Giant outfielders only made six put-outs that the Yankees were so thoroughly subdued that eighteen out of their twenty-four outs were of the easy infield variety. Only four hits wre made by the Yankees, with their touted "Murderers' Row," and only six times did they get a man on first.

On the mound, facing 40,000 pairs of critical eyes, listening to the blases of the mighty shouts, Scott was the incarnation of earnestness, faith and hope, but he never smiled. He remained inscrutably calm and cool.

What Was Ordered.

Jack Scott combined his head and his ageing right arm yesterday — and he followed orders. Earl Smith, the catcher, said afterward that every time he called for a high pitch, a high one came. No once, he said, did Scott fail. He used only a curve, but he had such remarkable control that always it went where Smith, whose knowledge of the Yankee batters and discerning judgment cannot be over-lauded, ordered.

McGraw was voluble in his praise of Scott and Miller Huggins, the beaten and crest-fallen mentor of the Yanks, was not remiss.

Ruth and Groh Clash Again.

Though Scott's marvellous pitching stood out to-day—as only the victory of the "under dog" can—another incident furnished material for the crowd.

Babe Ruth, from whom so much is expected, almost got into the headlines through a tilt with Heinie Groh, the Giants' third baseman. In a play in the fourth inning, Ruth tried to go from first to third when Frisch booted Meusel's hit. Frisch whipped the ball to third, and Heinie was waiting for Ruth.

Caught under the full headway, Ruth bumped into Groh, who tagged him and then fell from the impact. Groh jumped up, shouting, and drew back his fist. He didn't strike, however, and Umpire Hildebrand stepped between the two.

Error Helped.

Ward's boot of Bancroft's bounder paved the way for the two-run lead acquired by the Giants in the third inning, and as it turned out, they were more than enough to win, as Scott turned back the Yankees inning after inning with baffling cunning and relentless courage. A third rally was pounded in off Hoyt in the seventh, but it was not needed.

Hoyt was threatened in both the first and second innings, before the Giants broke through. Ward nipped a rally in the first, grabbing Meusel's hit drive toward the first, and doubling Frisch at first after Groh and the Fordham Flesh had singled. Young and Cunningham singled in the second, but Pep was caught by Bob Meusel's accurate throw, trying to stretch his single, and Cunningham was forced by Earl Smith for the third out.

Jack Scott started the Yankee downfall in the third with a single to centre. Bancroft hit sharply to Ward, and when the second sacker kicked the ball into left field, Scott raced to third and Bancroft pulled up at second. Groh bounced one to Hoyt, who caught Scott off third, Dugan taking the throw and running down the pitcher. Bancroft, who had got to third on the play, scored on Frisch's sacrifice hoist to Witt in deep centre. Groh advanced a base and came home on Irish Meusel's wallop to right. Young forced Meusel to end the inning.

Hoyt Unsteady.

Bancroft scored the third run in the seventh. Two were out and Hoyt had the Giant captain "in the hole" with two strikes and one ball, but walked him with three wide ones. Groh hit the first ball pitched to right field, on a hit and run play, and Bancroft easily reached third, from where he scored on Frisch's line single to right. Ward ended the rally by tossing out Irish Meusel.

Hoyt was never a puzzle. With the top end of the Giant batting order again entering the attack, the youthful Yankee twirler was hit hard throughout the seven innings he worked. The Giants collected two hits off his delivery in each of the five innings. The fifth was the only hitless inning for the winners. Sam Jones pitched the eighth, after Young had singled for his third hit, and Cunningham walked.

Missed Only Chance.

The Yankees, on the other hand, threatened only once, in the seventh, but it was a golden opportunity they missed. With Pipp out, Bob Meusel bounded an infield hit over Scott's head and Schang walloped the first ball down the right field foul line for a double Meusel holding third.

It was the game's crisis for Scott. The Giant infield parleyed with the pitcher and Coach Hughey Jennings came from the dugout with instructions. The outlook was even more dubious with Elmer Smith a dangerous hitter batting in place of Ward. But with the count three and one Smith let a second strike shoot by and then missed the third one. Everett Scott ended Yankee hopes by grounding out to Bancroft.

Manager Huggins said last night that he would start Mays in to-day's game, and McGraw, who now can afford to take a chance, is to have McQuillan and Ryan ready.

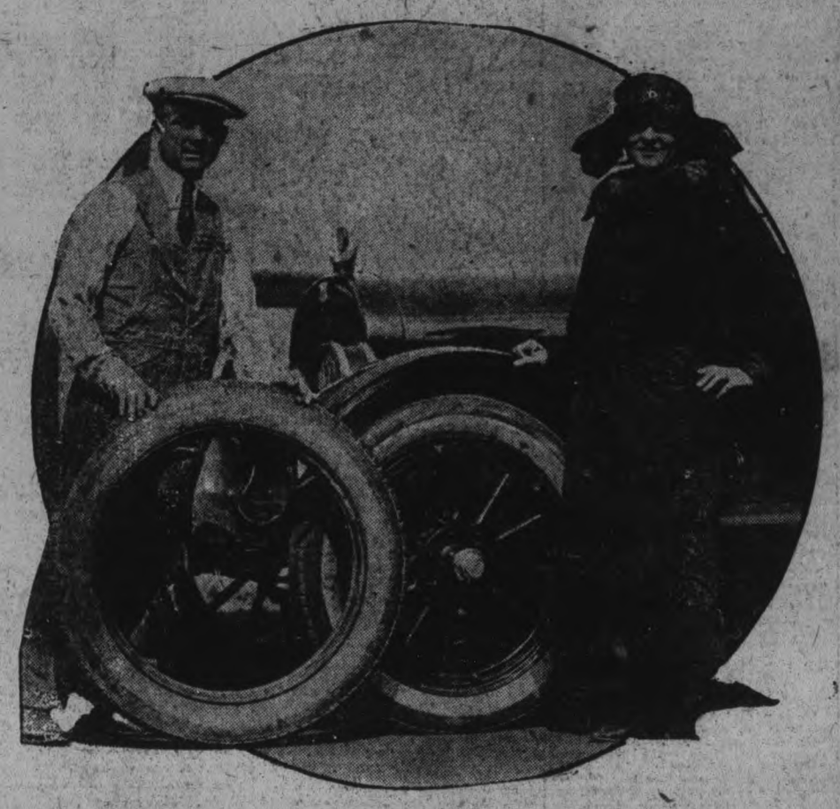
BRITISH CUTTER.

CHRISTIANIA, Oct. 7.—(Associated Press)— The Norwegian Government, under the laws recently enacted, may now seize vessels of less than 100 tons found within the common territorial frontier carrying liquor in excess of the actual requirements of those on board.

Application was made a short time ago in the case of the motor cutter "Lisbeth" of Cuxhaven, England. This boat was stopped off Risoer by the custom authorities and found to have over 300 quarts of liquor on board. The captain was fined, and the cutter and her cargo of spirits confiscated.

HEINIE GROHS ARE GREATEST PALS

Giants' Third Sacker and His Wife Like Motoring Whenever There Isn't Any Baseball to be Played.



BY DUDLELY SIDDALL

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—If Ohio ever loses the beautiful woman championship won recently by Miss Campbell of Columbus the Buckeye State can get it back by entering Mrs. Heinie Groh, native of Cincinnati, the Giants' star third sacker's wife.

She's more than beautiful, for she is endowed with all the wifely virtues that a serious-minded ball player like Groh needs to back him up.

Groh is no temperamental impressario. On the contrary he possesses any amout of good nature and an exceedingly likcable personality.

But he takes baseball seriously. A hitless day gets clear under his hide, and the end of the season finds him with nerves keyed up to the last notch.

Into the Mountains.

"As soon as the world series is over", said Mrs. Groh, "we're going up into the mountains for a whole month's rest. A quiet vacation is the best kind of tonic for a ball-playing man at the end of the summer."

Like most baseball stars' families the Grohs occupy a furnished apartmen in New York during the season.

Automobiling is their principal recreation. In the off hours this summer they have visited most of the points of interest around New York.

Groh's car isn't the kind that requires much repair work, but he owns his own overalls and likes to wear them when occasion demands.

Mrs. Groh is a skilled driver; in fact, she recently brought the car overland from Cincinnati to New York while the Giants were on the road.

Live in the Suburbs.

Winter finds the Grohs in Cincinnati, where they live in a suburb with Mrs. Groh's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Bender.

Heinie manages to get in quite a lot of hunting and fishing, and with Mrs. Groh spends some time in Rochester, N.Y., where he owns a bowling alley.

"I don't devote much time to business outside of baseball" said Groh, "for baseball is business enough."

It seems to be characteristic of ball players' wives to follow the game closely. Mrs. Groh is no exception.

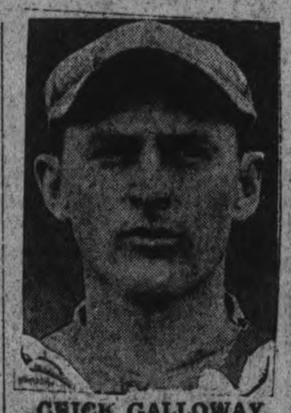
"Dad was, and is a great fan", said she, "and I guess I take after him. I've been tremendously interested in baseball ever since my school days."

Evans Nominates Chick Galloway As Ballplayer Showing Greatest Improvement During the 1922 Season

(BY BILLY EVANS)

Who is the most valuable ball player in the majors?

That is some question. A commission of baseball experts is to decide that perplexing problem as far as the American League is concerned.



CHICK GALLOWAY

Much honor and the proverbial laurel wreath will be slipped to the individual chosen.

Who is the most improved ball player in the major leagues?

Chic Galloway Named.

If that were the all-absorbing question I would nominate with much enthusiam Chick Galloway of the Philadelphia Athletics.

From a clever player, inclined to be erratic, Galloway has developed into a great shortstop. He always has possessed much ability, but lacked consistency. One day he would perform brilliantly, the next day he would look just so-so.

Last season Galloway was in and out of the Athletics' lineup a dozen times. Just when Manager Mack felt he was the man for shortstop something would happen to make him change his mind.

Regardless of Slumps

At the start of this season Galloway was assured that he was the regular shortstop, and that he would be in there every day, regardless of any slump that might overtake him.

Possibly that was the very thing he needed to supply him with the necessary confidence that he seemed to lack. From the start of the season he has played fine baseball. His work seems to improve from day to day.

Galloway is very fast. In addition, he seems to sense the direction the ball is going to be hit at the crack of the bat. He covers a world of ground and has a great arm. He seems able to get plenty of stuff on the ball regardless of the position in which he is compelled to make his throw.

Brilliant but Erratic.

Galloway, from a player who in the past has been brilliant but erratic, appears to have found himself and is consistently brilliant.

Not only has Galloway developed into a consistently classy fielder, but he has improved his hitting as well.

Last year he batted .265. This season he has been around the .300 mark all year and usually is from 20 to 40 points better.

It is beginning to look very much as if Connie Mack has developed another shortstop who would rate with Jack Barry. The fine showing of Galloway settles the left side of the Athletics' infield, for Jimmy Dykes is a star performer at third.

Hard to Choose.

It's going to be a tough job to pick the most valuable ball player in the American League, but it is an easy matter to select the most improved player in the Johnsohian organization—Chick Galloway.

It is just possible that Galloway will receive consideration from the commission of experts when they are deciding what player in the American League has been most valuable to the success of his team.

McGraw and Huggins

BY BRANCH RICKEY
(Manager of St. Louis Cardinals)

I think I know the managerial methods of McGraw and Huggins.

Both McGraw and Huggins are resourceful and impervious to criticism, good or bad. Both are sure of themselves and work best under fire. Especially may this be said of McGraw.

Huggins allows his players more freedom of judgment than does McGraw. Huggins is boss, but not a boss in detail.

The Giants play McGraw's way, and if any new Giant player, tutored though he may have been by Father Chadwick himself, should run counter to McGraw's ideas he would get a new baseball baptism the very first day.

McGraw holds himself responsible for the future of his methods, if they fail. He tells his pitchers what and where to pitch and his hitters when to hit. The batters, the base runners, the catchers, and even the coachers are constantly looking to McGraw for the signal.

"What distinction would you make between Huggins and McGraw?" I asked a prominent player the other day.

Without hesitating, he replied — "McGraw is a czar and Huggins sort of talks 'em out of it."

Huggins is on the job winter and summer. He does very effective work in the winter, but he is the boss in the summertime, too. Things go his way sooner or later. If not right now, then pretty soon. Sort of an "eventually" proposition. There is no such word in McGraw's dictionary. The words "right now" are on every page.

Force vs. Calculation.

McGraw forces results, the kind he wants. Huggins calculates that certain results ought to follow.

Both McGraw and Huggins disprove the idea generally held that it takes physical greatness to be a successful manager. McGraw used to be a little chap as a player, but he got along all right, and Huggins' head keeps his 135 pounds out of trouble. Besides, the day when the players had to be man-handled has passed, if it ever was.

Huggins got his education in the law school of the University of Cincinnati. I don't know his nationality but he's a Yankee, with the trading instinct of a Yankee.

McGraw was educated in the University of "Give and Take," an exclusively American institution, and he graduated with high honours in both courses.

Confident of Themselves.

Both managers have confidence in themselves, in their knowledge of the game, in their ability to handle men, and, above all, both are for ever trying to get better players. They are the two shortest standpatters on a bad club, or a bad player that I ever knew. Huggins has never been satisfied to start a season with his old team. McGraw stands pat a bit longer, but when something tells him a change is desirable he moves faster than any man in the game. He can get a capable substitute for any position on his club within the limit of time for transportation. There are two reasons for this—he can make sufficient inducements and he knows where the material is.

Has An Iron Paw.

In regard to discipline, McGraw insists on physical fitness. He has an iron paw and is no respector of persons. He never calls a conference of outside powers. McGraw is the adjuster, and no conference is necessary. He does the job himself. The biggest single reason why the Giants have been winners for so many seasons is John McGraw. He has Mr. Stoneham and other associates, and they support him in all his moves. In Jennings, Burkett, Dolan, Kinsella, and several others, he has men who are able as coaches and scouts.

Has Money to Use.

He has money to use and he uses it, and he has great players, but his team, as an institution, is a McGraw institution. He interested financial men in the club. He moulded its liberal policy, and the money used has been used by McGraw. He selected his assistants and he chose his players.

Baseball is bigger than any man in it—indeed, than all men in it, but John McGraw has contributed a leading and fruitful part in making the game the greatest scientific sport in America.

The career of Miller Huggins in New York has been of shorter duration, but the winning of two pennants in as many years is no small contribution as a starter.

DISORDERS IN IRELAND INCREASE EMIGRATION

BELFAST, Oct. 7.—(Associated Press)—During the last four weeks 938 emigrants have left Belfast for the United States. The emigration consuls office here has been beseiged for weeks by would-be-emigrants, and long queues are formed daily in the City Hall Square.

New York, Boston and Philadelphia are the chief destination. The increase of Irishmen leaving the Emerald Isle is laid to the recent widespread disorders.

CHICAGO'S STRAWBERRIES

ORCHESTRA AT CAPITOL MONDAY

Vaudeville and "The Storm," Sensational Picture, Complete the Big Program.

The Capitol opens one of the biggest programmes of the season on Monday, with the Capitol Concert Orchestra, under the direction of Miss Florence Gladman.

A feature of the programme is Buck West, the Singing Sheriff from Bear County, Texas, one of the best novelty singing acts now on the stage. The Capitol Theatre, New York, the world's largest picture house, put his name in electric lights, and he comes here from Western Ontario, after a long engagement at the Lafayette, one of Buffalo's largest theatres. He is a real singer with a wonderful collection of songs and tons of personality and he has made a tremendous hit wherever his act has been presented.

The picture programme is featured by "The Storm," with House Peters, said to be the greatest sensation of the season. It is a picturization of the play produced on Boardway last year by George Broadhurst, which swept the cynical critics of New York into enthusiasm. Great as a play, it is greater as a picture.

Carl Laemmle saw the possibilities of "The Storm" as a picture and bought the picture rights to it against the stiffest bidding in years. He put Redginald Barker, who made "The Old Nest," in charge of the direction with instructions to assemble the most nearly perfect cast obtainable. This Barker did.

After all, a picture is essentially a story, and the plot therefore is the most important element. "The story's the thing." Theatrical history was made by the play, written by Langdon McCormick. It is grippingly dramatic, and besides the elements of simple drama there is woven into it the theme of two kinds of fear that men may feel toward women.

One man in the triangle of the story is afraid of women because he knows nothing of them, has never seen anything of them. He's a woodsman, primitive and honest.

The other is the product of London and Paris society. He fears the gentle sex because he has "seen too darned much of women."

The woman in the case is an innocent French Canadian girl, forced to live with the two men for four long months through being hemmed in by a snowstorm.

On this novel situation McCormick constructed a story that holds the interest to the last by its very unusualness.

The reproduction of the snowstorm scene and the devastating forest fire establishes new records for sensationalism and thrills, even in these blase days. Throughout the action Director Barker has maintained the element of suspense so splendidly that even the most thrill-proof movie fan is going to sit spell-bound. Nothing like it has ever before been presented, and it is easy to understand the glowing commendation heaped on picture and drama alike by the metropolitan press of the country.

Virginia Valli is the girl and Matt Moore is the Londoner, while Peters brings his manly directness and emotionalism to bear on the starring role of the woodsman. Josef Swickard and Frank Lanning have supporting roles.

AT THE GRAND.

To-night will see the farewell performance in Peterborough of Jimmie Evans' Revue, the bright aggregtaion of players that has entertained audiences at the Grand for the last five weeks. An appropriate finale is "Auld Lang Syne," with the entire company starting the evning with "Good-Bye" and striking a less mournful note in the "Auld Lang Syne" chorus at the close.

"The Rumpus," "Sixes and Sevens" and "So Long, O Long," are some of the comical specialties of nonsensical foolery, while the solo numbers are as good as usual. Kitty Fraser and girls sing "No Wonder I'm Blue" in a manner that belies its name; Grace Gould and chorus have a charming setting in "By the Sapphire Sea," and Burt Ryan has a rollicking solo and chorus in "I'm Goin gto Buy a Ticket to a Little One-Horse Town." Florence Pippin and girls do some pretty work in "Venetian Love Boat," and Dolly Jollymore with the chorus sings "Those Virginia Blues" in fine style. Florence Pippin and Kittens Fraser have a well-rendered selection in "Koo-Kee Koo"; Miss Pippin does a violin specialty, and Roy Elles with Dolly Jollymore have something new and interesting in a Russian Folk Dance. A particularly enlivening number is Joe Devine's specialty, and Jimmie Evans shines with Joe Devine in "Mr. Gallagher and Mr. Shean."

CLEVER MUSICAL EXTRAVAGANZA "LISTEN TO ME" COMING

With many novelties, gorgeous scenery of silks and satins, beautiful costumes and a metropolitan cast, supported by a bewitching chorus, the brilliant musical extravaganza, "Listen to Me" will be presented at the Grand Theatre, Monday night, October 9. "Listen to Me" towers above anything previously accomplished in modern extravanganza. It is a beautiful fantastic story, entwining a wondrous setting of scenic splendour. The book, lyrics and music of this exquisite masterpiece is from the successful hand of Charles George, one of the foremost writers of the present age. This in itself is sufficient endorsement for the surprising receptions the production is receiving.

The wondrous spectacle opens with a scene o'er the roof tops along the picturesque sky line of Times Square—New York City. Through cleverly contrived mechanical devices, this scene passes into a lurid presentation of Dante's inferno, where Satan vainly stalks administering punishment upon the immortals that have been condemned to his majestic palace in hades. From the miraculous touch of a condemned immortal hades is thrown into a chaos of transfusion from which everything takes an astral appearance of the frigid zone. The bellowing flames issuing from the ovens of hades transform into sparkling snow flakes settling about the North pole. The ovens are remodelled into Eskimo huts, while massive caldrons expand to the shape of gigantic glaciers of glittering ice. A frenzied blizzard sweeps about the isolated huts, while dog teams and Eskimos serenely revel mid the fury of a snow storm. The fantastic theme conveys the scene from the frozen north to the mystic realm of candyland from where the temples of sweets gradually dissolve into the vicinity of Cupid's post-office.

The feature novelties and wonderful transformations of "Listen to Me" leave nothing undone to the imagination, which is pronouncely strengthened by the remarkable cast, including Job B. McGee, Billy Murphy, Betty Dawn Martin, Bessie Delmore, Chester M. Gates, Barbara Broncll, Ross Robertson and others—supported by twenty clever girls.

PETERBORO WOMAN ESCAPED FLAMES

But Her Fancy Goods Store Was Wiped Out in Haileybury.

Mrs. H. Lockington of Haileybury and little daughter Margaret, arrived home yesterday. Mrs. Lockington, who is a sister or Mr. George Wesley, had a fancy goods store in the ill-fated northern town, in which she was assisted by her sister, Miss Shirley Wesley, who returned home a few weeks ago, on account of her mother's illness. Mrs. Lockington's entire establishment was wiped out by fire, she, with many more of the sufferers, being compelled to flee for her life.

Knowing of the imminence of the fire, the little daughter, Margaret, had been prepared for a trip home just the day before. Going to school with a small companion at one-thirty, she was speaking of the danger of the fire. An hour later, the inhabitants of the town were rushing in all directions for safety from the flames which, with indescribable fury and speed had swept down upon them. Mr. Lockington is staying in Cobalt.

BURNING LEAVES GAVE FIRE DEPARTMENT RUN

The Fire Department estinguished two rubbish fires last night, one at the corner of King and Stewart, and the other at the corner of Stewart and Hunter. Fire Chief Gimblett warns the people and wants it stopped before any trouble is caused. The leaves are not to be burned in the streets or in the back yards of the houses, but can be collected in containers for the garbagemen to collect.

"LIGHTS OF DESERT," WITH SHIRLEY MASON

Flashing her smiles from the screen, Shirley Mason will greet local picture fans next Monday at the Royal Theatre in her latest Fox production, "Lights of the Desert." The story, by Gladys E. Johnson, is well filled with tense moments and dramatic situations of powerful appeal, as well as touches in the lighter vein. In other words, it would appear to be an ideal photoplay for Miss Mason; and this, indeed, is how it is described by many reviewers in other towns.

An excellent cast has been chosen to support the star. Her leading man is Allan Forrest, a very capable young actor.

ANNIVERSARY AT GEORGE STREET

Rev. Trevor H. Davies, D. D., Will be Special Preacher for Occasion.

To-morrow will be observed as anniversary day at George Street Church, commemorating the founding of the cause nearly a hundred years ago and the opening of the present church almost fifty years since. The preacher of the day is to be Rev. Trevor H. Davies, D.D., pastor of the Metropolitan Church, Toronto.

The name of Dr. Davies is familiar to all as a preacher and author. His most recent book, "Spiritual Voices in Modern Literature," has been widely hailed as an unexcelled interpretation of some of the outstanding literary productions of our day, and has had a tremendous circulation.

As a preacher he stands second to none in the estimation of people both in this country and in England, where prior to coming to Canada six years ago he occupied one of the foremost pulpits of London. His utterances, always marked by wide vision and deep thought, have also a spiritual power which never fails to speak to the soul.

His coming, together with the opening of the re-modelled organ, which, as outlined in The Examiner last night, has been undergoing extensive repairs, will undoubtedly make the services of tomorrow memorable in the lives of all who attend them, and mark an epoch in the history of the church.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Ordinary reading of this morning's run of news would certainly have suggested that the Turkish situation was to become again a factor in the markets But Wall street took the foreign exchanges as the proper index to important opinon on that subject. Exchange rates, so far from reflecting apprehensions were distinctly higher

No doubt the possibility of unpleasant developments over Sunday accentuated the usual disposition to clear up speculative contracts at the week end but there was no important selling in any quarter. On the contrary the special buying movements which have been a feature on the stock exchange all week were resumed.

Standard oil of N.J. was bid up violently anticipating a stock distribution in its case. Mexican Petroleum had of its characteristic run ups against the short interests.

Rubber stocks were in demand as a result of a plan to curtail production of crude rubber which already has had a pronounced effect upon prices. The shipping stocks broke sharply on the announcement of an order prohibiting liquor not only on American vessels but on foreign ships entering American ports. The decline did not go far, however, because Wall street reasoned that was a movement calculated to create a more favorable sentiment in Congress toward ship subsidies.

In the last hour realizing sales began to exert more of an influence and the greater part of the list went lower. It was an interesting fact that the Turkish ultimatum regarding the restoration of Thrace had no effect upon the cotton market of the day, or upon European Government bonds which held steady.

MARKET NEWS.

Meixcan Petroleum completed its chapapote nunez number five well for 50,000 barrels at 2,009 feet subsea level. This is shallowest well in the district 40 feet shallower than Chapapote number two, one kilometer to south-east and 41 feet shallower than Tierra Blanca number one, one kilometer north-west. It indicates a pole not less than two kilometers in extent with boundaries unknown and gives Mexican Petroleum increased proved reserve.

Natural Curves!

There is a right and a wrong way for each human being to stand or sit. A normal spine has four curves. That is Nature's way of maintaining the grace and poise of the body. If one or more segments of the spine get out of normal position it will oftentimes weaken the spinal structures to the extent that the normal bodily poise is lost.

THE SPINE

is the line-shaft of the body and too much attention cannot be given to keeping this important structure in true alignment. Any derangement of the spinal column is a mechanical defect and should be corrected by adjustment. Chiropractic applies common-sense principles in caring for the human body.

KEMALIST FORCES WITHIN DAY'S MARCH OF CONSTANTINOPLE

British Are Entrenching Around Beikos, on the Asiatic Side of the Dardanelles—Turkish Guerrillas Locate in Villages.

PARLEY RESUMED

MUDANIA, Oct. 9.—(Special).—Kemalist forces are within a day's march of Constantinople, as the Allied leaders confer with Ismet Pasha again to-day.

RESUME CONFERENCE.

MUDANIA, Oct. 9.—(Canadian Press).—The Allied Generals here for attendance upon the armistice conference spent this morning conferring with the Greek delegates.

The conference with Ismet Pasha, Turkish Nationalist representative, was scheduled to be resumed at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

BRITISH DEFENCE.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 9.—(Canadian Press).—It was reported during the night that Turkish irregulars had appeared yesterday afternoon a short distance from Beikos, in the hills of the Asiatic side of the Bosphorus. Beikos is a suburb of Constantinople. The British are entrenching around Beikos. Turkish irregulars and small bands of guerrillas and bandits, which frequently form the advance guard of a Turkish army, have appeared in small villages east of Constantinople. These villages are all within the suburban limits of Constantinople, on the Asiatic side.

The British yesterday made definite preparations for defence, blocking up bridges and cross-roads.

Two of One Mind.

A British destroyer anchored on Sunday at Shiloh, on the Black Sea coast. The commander went ashore, met a Nationalist officer there and requested him to withdraw his forces. The Turk replied that he has orders to remain, whereupon the British commander declared he also would remain, and kept to his anchorage close in shore.

BRITISH CABINET MEETS.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—(Canadian Press).—The British Cabinet met to-day to consider the detailed report of Marquis Curzon, Foreign Secretary, on his conference in Paris with Premier Poincare, at which the position of the Allies on the Turkish question was again consolidated. The Mudania conference is being resumed under new instructions framed at the Paris meeting, which were approved with slight changes by the Cabinet Saturday night and forwarded to Brigadier-General Harington. The delegates are instructed to insist upon the fixation of the number of Turkish gendarmérie to be allowed in Thrace, the withdrawal of all Turkish troops from the neutral zone, and the delay in occupation of Thrace by the Turkish army until after the signing of the peace treaty. It was understood the Allied Generals would meet Ismet Pasha last night upon their return from Constantinople to Mudania, which, according to latest despatches, they reached at 10 p.m. The result of the meeting, if one was held, had not been received here early this morning. With the Allies in agreement, however, everything seemed to rest with Ismet Pasha. Meanwhile, the situation created by the Turkish invasion of Ismid, a neutral zone, continues disquieting, only part of the invaders having returned across the line, according to latest advices. Reports from two sources say an entire division had entered the neutral zone.

SITUATION DISTURBING

LONDON, Oct. 9.—(Canadian Press). —The Near East situation continued to present disturbing potentialities to-day. The British are using the utmost patience in an effort to conclude peace. It is believed however, that the Greeks and French have been warned that if a settlement is not reached the British will abandon the whole peace effort. At the same time belief is that General Harington has orders not to risk any act of war.

Taxing Electric Light to Benefit Of Berlin's Poor

BERLIN, Oct. 9.—(Associated Press)—Berlin's bright lights are to be used as a source of revenue to provide money to tide the city's poor over the winter. Assistance for the homes where only candles and oil-lamps are burned will come from the users of electricity and gas.

The prices of these two commodities are to be raised sufficiently to provide a fund of 200,000,000 marks. Eighty millions of this sum will be used for the care of needy children, and the balance for general welfare work The relief measures include feeding centers, reductions in the price of milk sold to poor families and contributions to infants' homes and asylums.

HEALTH BOARD WANTS BY-LAW

City Council Criticised For Failure to Act on Previous Request Regarding Sewer By-law.

At the regular meeting of the Board of Health this morning the City Council came in for some slight criticism over the failure of that body to take any action regarding the two requests made by the Board of Health that a by-law be passed which would allow sewer connections where ordered by the Board of Health, to be made by the city and the cost assessed against the property in five yearly instalments.

The need of this by-law was again brought forcibly to the attention of the Board by Mr. Simpson who was as the result of a motion passed at an earlier meeting, ordered to have sewage conectnons made in four of his houses. Mr. Simpson appeared in person before the board and advanced some very good reasons for the failure to make the connections when the houses were built. He complained of the injustice of issuing a building permit without having stated in it the necessary requirements regarding the sewers. He said that he had now finished building his houses and had spent some money in levelling the lawns and making other improvements to conform with the good appearance of the street in general. To install the sewer connections now would mean tearing up practically all this work and putting him to a lot of extra expense all, as he thought, occasioned by the neglect of the city when the permits to build were issued.

The Board decided to allow Mr. Simpson an extension of time pending action by the city council on the request to have the necessary by-law passed.

A request was received by the board from the Fire Chief asking that the building at 195 Charlotte street be declared unfit for human habitation. The M.O.H. stated that some sanitary improvements had been made in this building but that the entrance is made by a very rickety stair way and over a roof the result is that in case of a fire the occupants would have but little chance to escape. He also sad that the owner had been previously notified to build a better stairway, but so far nothing had been done.

A suggestion was advanced that a meeting of the heads of the various health organizations of the city be held in the near future with a view to consolidating their work, bringing the organizations into closer touch with each other and with the Board of Health and to prevent any slight overlapping of effort. It was generally felt by the members of the board that if such a meeting could be arranged the work of the various organizations could be carried on with even greater efficiency and co-operation that at present.

The report of the Isolation hospital showed seven patients on October 1, five with scarlet fever and two with diphtheria.

A letter was also received from the Exhibition Board thanking the Board of Health for the tent which had been erected at the grounds.

LOCAL SUPPLY FROM DEALERS IS IMPROVING

Milk Supplied to the City Shows Vast Improvement Over One Year Ago—Not Right Yet.

REPORT OF BOARD

The report of the milk analysis for the month of September received by the Board of Health to-day showed some sediment in three of the samples which were consequently marked "dirty". The report, however, on the whole was considered good and showed an improvement over the general condition of last year at this time.

As a steady improvement has been noted during the past months in the condition of the milk supplied the city it was decided on a motion moved by J. Lynch and seconded by F. F. Mason, that the secretary should notify the dealers whose milk has fallen below par that if no improvement is noted in the immediate future their licenses to sell milk in the city will be revoked.

The following letter was received by the Board of Health regarding the milk reports:

Laboratories, Peterboro.
Dr. T. W. H. Young,
M.O.H. City of Peterboro,

Dear Doctor:—I am attaching the milk report for the month of September I am sorry that it has been so long delayed. I hope that it is in time for the next meeting of the Board of Health.

Af you will see I have not classified the samples. I must say though that there are several samples which were taken that showed a considerable amount of sediment in the milk and is marked dirty. I think that this might be improved on very much. On the whole the milk is fairly good as raw milk goes, and there is a vast difference in the milk, from that one year ago.

Director of Laboratories, Peterboro.

FATHER DROWNS THREE CHILDREN IN A BATH TUB

Wm. Wheeler, Rochester, Despondent From Lack of Work, Also Takes Own Life.

MOTHER AT CHURCH

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Oct. 9.—(Canadian Press).—Bodies of a father and his three children to-day are lying side by side in an undertaking establishment here, victims of a quadruple tragedy in this city late last night.

The children, Ethel aged 5, Grace aged 2 and Russell Wheeler, six months old, were drowned in a bath tub at their home by the father, William Wheeler, who after witnessing the life pass from the little ones, fired a bullet into his brain.

Despondency because of inability to obtain employment was responsible for the act, police say. Wheeler's wife discovered the bodies after she had returned to her home from church. A note protruding from the bath-room door led her investigate. The contents told of the act of her husband and gave instructions as to the disposition of his remains and furniture in the house.

60 PEOPLE FED ON 7 LOAVES

Found Refuge From Fire in Flimsy Church Building at Hilliardton.

ENGLEHART, Ont., Oct. 9.—(Canadian Press).—A flimsy little frame building which had once been a church was all that remained of the village of Hilliardton after the northern Ontario fires, according to correspondents who have visited the stricken village.

At the time of their visit it sheltered twenty families who had no homes. They had nothing. The pews were pushed in drunken rows against the wall, and little children huddled on them in grotesque sleep. Women were huddled around the stove. Men sat on the floor and talked in low voices. Some smoked silently. When the correspondent arrived they stopped talking. They told them that sixty people had fed on seven loaves of bread.

Emergency Call to the Peterboro Branch of the Red Cross Society

A very urgent appeal has come to the Local Red Cross Society to make as quickly as possible garments for the sufferers in Northern Ontario.

It is hardly necessary to press home this appeal, and ask the women of Peterborough to do their part. Many appeals have been made by the Red Cross,but none are more worthy than this one.

A meeting will be held in the Public Library Tuesday afternoon, October 1th, at 3 o'clock, at which representatives from the churches and all other organizations interested are invited to be present.

BIG RALLY HERE IMPOSING SIGHT

Hundreds Gathered in Market Square For Parade to St. Peter's Cathedral.

The rally day held by the Holy Name Society yesterday was very successful. Hundreds of men gathered in the Market Square at three o'clock in the afternoon, for the parade to St. Peter's Cathedral. From many miles away, from Downeyville, Ennismore, Douro, Otonabee, Lakefield, and from the three Roman Catholic parishes of the city, they came, to form in a line that stretched for blocks, as they marched two abreast up Hunter Street, His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, heading the procession. St. Peter's Cathedral was filled to the doors. Here the men stood and sang several hymns, followed by a sermon by Rev. N. Roche, C.S.B., of Toronto, and Pontifical Benediction, celebrated by His Lordship, assisted by Rev. J. J. O'Brien of the Sacred Heart Church, and Rev. P. McGuire. In the sanctuary were present also Rt. Rev. Mgr. McColl, Rev. J. V. McAuley, of Ennismore, Rev. P. Galvin of Downeyville, Rev. Father Meagher of Lakefield, Rev. P. Costello, Rev. Father McHenry, and Rev. Father Power.

Rev. Father Roche, a speaker of convincing eloquence and strong, forceful delivery, opened his sermon with a hearty congratulation to the men present on their magnificent public exhibition of faith in their religion, of their belief in the honour and glory due the holy name of Jesus, and their striking protest against the blasphemous use of the sacred name. Among many laudable societies in the church, he regarded the Holy Name Society as one worthy of special commendation. Blasphemy was a direct attack on God, and those enrolled in this society were doing a splendid work of reparation to Him for the insulting use of His sacred name.

No Other God.

"Thou shalt destroy their statues, thou shalt cut down their groves, thou shalt burn their altars. Thou shalt have no part with them, because I am the Lord thy God, and thou art my people. I, the Lord thy God, am one God, and there is no other God besides me," was the text of Father Roche's sermon.

Going back to the time of Abraham and of Moses, to the days of the Jewish dispensation, the reverend speaker traced the desire of the Lord for one peculiar form of worship. The absolute exclusiveness in worship which was imposed by God before the coming of Christ did not change with the new dispensation, and the church of God, to which He had said, "I will send upon you the Paraclete, and He will abide with you for ever," must continue to be unique and exclusive in matters of dogma. The boldness of the doctrine which claimed and asserted a doctrine if infallibility for its head could only be of divine origin. Human intelligence could not devise such a

MANY HEARD NOTED DIVINE

Rev. Trevor Davis Attracted Capacity Congregation to George Street Church.

Yesterday's services at George street Methodist church were well attended. The initial performances on the newly-repaired organ and the presence of Rev. Trevor Davies, the well-known pastor of the Metropolitan church, brought a crowded church in the morning, while the evening services saw many turned away.

The Rev. Trevor Davies, a man of broad and liberal education, whose thoughtful spiritual insight and quiet quality of address made his luminous sermons particularly pleasing, took for his morning text a portion of the fifth chapter of Mark: "Jesus, perceiving that virtue had gone out of Him, turned Him about in the crowd and said: "Who touched My clothing?" The particular influence felt by Christ through the press of the crowd surrounding him was caused by the affinity between Him and this particular worshipper, the affinity for God which is called faith.

"There was no halo about Jesus as He stood in that crowd. His hands were as hard and thorny as those of any Christian carpenter. His garments were manifestly homemade. If we stood in that square with Him would we have been discerning enough to appreciate His greatness? Would we have had courage enough to stand by His side when religious people were turning away from Him? Do we know Him to-day and do we receive Him when He comes in His modern vesture?" Mr. Wells has said: "We need God He is your need and my need and the world's need, but do we know Him when He comes to us?"

God Thinking Aloud.

"The universe is the result of God's thinking aloud," said Mr. Davies, "and the deeper thinking of the world of to-day is travelling toward a spiritual interpretation of the world. Materialism as a philosophy is rapidly becoming an exploded theory. But to understand God in nature we need something more than the intellect. We need something corresponding to an outpouring of faith. A man could have an exhaustive and accurate knowledge of nature and yet be an irreverent man."

"Then there is our Lord's great teaching that our human nature is really a part of God's vesture. When we do an unselfish deed, we are touching God ,the Source of Peace. Christ Himself said: "Therefore doth My Father love Me, because I lay down My life."

"The appeal of this hour is for social service. It is not meet that the children of God should go hungry or homeless either in mind or body or soul, and in the life of unselfish service, we may find a haven in a strange new peace with the Lord."

Through the harsh experiences of daily life, through the trials and difficulties that beset the human soul, through the struggles and temptations and experiences that surround us, it is possible to touch

SCHOOL BOARD'S PROBLEMS SET FORTH TO-DAY

Chairman of Board of Education Surprises Rotary With Interesting Facts.

TO-DAY'S TEACHERS

The greatest problem the Board of Education is facing at the present time, Rotarian A. A. Fowler, chairman of the Board, informed the Rotarians at their weekly luncheon at the Empress to-day, is that of finding accommodation in the local schools. About three new classrooms are required every year, and as there are at present only five or six in reserve, it will not be long before the Board will have to appeal for more funds with which to provide the necessary accommodation.

Rotarian Fowler was the speaker of the day, addressing the members on "Some Problems of the Board of Education."

President John Crane was chairman in his usual happy way, and there was an unusually large number of guests, among them Rev. Trevor Davies, pastor of the Metropolitan Methodist Church, Toronto, and Mr. L. G. Ireland, of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

The Greene family, children of Rotarian J. M. Greene, provided the musical numbers, rendering two instrumental quartettes in splendid style.

Rotarian Rev. Harold Young announced a series of splendid meetings including a ladies' night in the near future, when the programme will be furnished by the ladies.

Rotarian Fowler, in his most interesting address on educational matters, supplied a vast amount of information as to Peterborough's schools in the short time at his disposal. He paid a tribute to the teachers of the Public Schools, pointing out that out of 200 pupils applying for entrance into the Collegiate Institute last spring, no fewer than 189 passed, a percentage of 94½. A big problem was what to do with the pupils who, after passing the entrance examination, wanted some measure of technical education.

In spite of what you may have seen in the Press, Rotarian Fowler declared, every member of the Board of Education is in favour of technical education.

The proposal to spend $450,000 for a technical school had been voted down, he explained, because the majority of the members felt that the present year was not an opportune time for building and that if the request were to be submitted to the Council, the latter would refer the proposition to the people, who would not carry the by-law. More accommodation both for Collegiate and technical purposes was urgently required, and before long some concrete proposition would have to be submitted.

Mr. Fowler pointed out how the Board had been compelled by lack of accommodation to build the Prince of Wales School, which he characterised as the finest in Canada. In this connection, he paid a splendid tribute to Mr. E. G. Patterson, chairman of the Building Committee, who, he said, had devoted a vast amount of time and energy to he problems in regard to this school.

The value of the medical inspection of school children was stressed by the speaker, who intimated that a system of school dentistry was a development that might be expected in the near future.

Before the meeting adjourned, Rotarian Hamilton read an appeal from H. A. Young, chairman of the Northern Ontario Fire Relief Committee, urging the members of the Rotary Club to do what they could for this work.

SAYS CONVENTION AT ROCHESTER, N.Y., WELL WORTH WHILE

Canadian Teachers' Trip to America's Flower City One of Instruction and Pleasure—Spirit of International Brotherhood Prevailed.

WIRELESS USED

(Contributed.)

Quite contrary to the usual custom, the teachers of Peterborough this year decided to go to some other centre, preferably American, for the annual convention. Fortunately several circumstances combined to make it easy for us to visit Rochester. The three inspectorates of Durham and Northumberland had already planned to visit that city, and had made most of the arrangements, so that there seemed little for us to do but to ask for permission to accompany them. This they generously granted, and the combination of four inspectorates made for a pleasant and more profitable convention. Our teachers feel deeply indebted indeed to those of other inspectorates for their care in planning so much that added to our comfort and enjoyment.

On Thursday morning, 5th October we journeyed to Cobourg. Some went by train, and others by automobile. We were to cross on the ferry. This type of boat is designed to carry trains of freight cars as well as passengers. The one we were on is three hundred and eighteen feet long and fifty-four feet wide. It can carry thirty coal cars and about one thousand passengers when fully loaded. On board on our trip were about three hundred and fifty teachers, who, with friends and others, made the number well up to five hundred. The day was warm, the sky was unclouded, and the lake very calm, so that conditions were ideal for a most delightful sail, which all enjoyed.

In anticipation of our visit, Mr. Jackson Gallup, president of the Rochester Teachers' Association, met us in Cobourg, to give information and directions. He seemed to be a veritable encyclopaedia of knowledge regarding Rochester schools. Under his direction the body of teachers was divided into groups, and each group was put in charge of a leader who received instructions regarding the school the group was to visit, the kind of school it was, and the means of reaching it. Particular efforts were made to send teachers to the kind of school they wished to see. Most of the teachers naturally wanted to visit others who were doing work similar to themselves. To try to meet each one's desire was no small task, but Mr. Gallup was wonderfully patient and painstaking, and made us feel that our interests were in most competent hands. Every teacher had to wear an identification card upon which his name was printed and a badge bearing the words, "Canadian Teachers' Convention, Rochester, N.Y., 1922." Attached to the badge was a button, engraved on which were the stars and stripes and the Canadian ensign. Each inspectorate had a badge of a distinctive colour — Peterborough teachers wore pink ones.

Got Wireless Message.

On the way across the lake, a wireless message was sent to a committee in Rochester as to the number of people on board the boat. Automobiles were sent to the Genesee Dock to meet us. To carry so many persons required a large number of cars, more than a hundred, but there were many more there than were actually needed. This is a typical illustration of the most generous treatment accorded us by the Rochester teachers. The kindness of their welcome and their hospitality seemed to have no bounds. Each driver of an automobile was to take his party for a drive around the city, and finally leave them at their hotel.

AN EXPERIENCE IN FIRE ZONE

Mrs. Sylvio DeChantigny Was at Cobalt When the Fire Swept Through Haileybury.

Mrs. Sylvio DeChantigny (nee Hermance Duranceau), who, as a bride, had been settled in her new home in Haileybury for only two weeks, had an experience which, although disturbing and regrettable enough, was not quite so harrowing as that suffered by many others, due mainly to her own common - sense. Mrs. DeChantigny, whose husband, a traveller employed by the Imperial Tobacco Company, was away from home at the time, left Haileybury early in the afternoon with her mother-in-law, thinking that they would get away from the almost unbearable smoke-laden atmosphere, and intending to return later in the evening. Donning one of her oldest dresses for the four and one-half mile walk, with several neighbors commenting rather amusedly on her action, Mrs. DeChantigny locked up the house for a few hours and went to Cobalt with her mother-in-law. The pretty, vine-wreathed entrance had vanished into thin air, and all that remained of the comfortable, newly-furnished brick residence was a jagged portion of the kitchen wall when she came back next day to look at her home.

Mrs. DeChantigny is enthusiastic over the kindness of the people in Cobalt. With only fifteen dollars in her purse, she was enabled to borrow a considerable sum from a strange merchant in that city, who took her cheque without question, and was provided with the free meals and free transportation for herself and mother-in-law that is offered the other victims of the holocaust.

Mr. DeChantigny was five hundred miles away at the time. Walking into the store of one of his customers in the Quebec village of Parent, prepared to do business, on the following morning, he was told of the fire for the first time, and immediately made his way, via Montreal, back to Haileybury. This is the second time that he has suffered considerable loss through fire, the home where he and his mother lived having been completely decimated about four years ago in Montreal.

NO ACTION TAKEN ON NORTH ONTARIO FIRES

TORONTO, Oct. 9.— (Canadian Press.) — Whatever action may be taken by the Provincial government in Cabinet Councils this week, it was authoritatively stated by a member of the Cabinet last night that no inquiry had as yet been ordered by the Government into the Northern Ontario fire.

To-day at noon Government members will meet representatives of various organizations and hear suggestions. After that, it is stated, the government will work out its own steps as to the financial appropriation and fire investigation in the secrecy of the Council room.

Despite the fact, however, that inquiry has not yet been ordered, it is deemed very probable in official circles, that some sort of formal investigation will be made.

PITTSBURG FOG MAY SUCCUMB TO SCIENCE

Lubrication of Monongahela River Keynote of An Idea.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 9.—(Associated Press). — Pittsburgh's fog problem may be solved this winter by local scientists.

Lubrication of the Monongahela river is the keynote of an idea which is being developed at the Mellon Institute. Dr. H. B. Meller, dean of the School of Mines of the University of Pittsburgh, and offical of the War Department and weather bureau are cooperating.

The Monongahela, according to scientists is the chief villain in Pittsburgh's fog troubles. The river, which is warmer than the air sweeping through the valley, gives up a portion of its water which rises as vapor and quickly cools.

A film of oil prevents this union, but the problem for the investigators at Mellon Institute was to concoct a mixture that could be used at a reasonable expense.

A satisfactory spray has been discovered, Dean Meller has announced In preliminary tests this spray covered small areas of water, and was only 1-25th as thick as the ordinary oil film which is used to destroy mosquitoes.

The first experiment on the Monongahela will be made within a few days. The bombardment will be from a tug. Specially constructed nozzles will be used to spray an area of about one mile. Subsequent activities will depend upon the outcome of this test.

INVESTIGATION OF FIRE ORDERED BY GOVERNMENT

Action Prompted By the Criticism of Withdrawal of Fire-Rangers—Bodies of 48 Victims Listed By Provincial Police--Nearly All Identified.

COLD NEW DANGER.

COBALT, Ont., Oct. 7.—(Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).—The Ontario Government today ordered an investigation into the cause of the fire which swept the Northern Ontario territory between Cobalt and Dane on both sides of the T. & N. O. Railway. The enquiry is prompted largely by charges levelled against the fire-ranging branch of the Lands and Forests Department because of the withdrawal of eight hundred fire rangers on September 15. Officials of the department claim that these fire-rangers were not located in the areas laid waste by the fire.

Members of the Provincial Police reported today that they had handled 48 bodies and that practically all had been identified.

Relief Train's Cargo.

The relief train in charge of A. J. Young of North Bay arrived here this afternoon carrying 2,500 loaves of bread, hundreds of cooking stoves, mattresses, blankets, rubber sheets, clothing, etc., for distribution among the refugees.

The officials of the Red Cross here wired to Toronto for four more nurses to assist in distributing the supplies and give aid to persons suffering from injuries and exposure.

Danger of Sickness.

A cold drizzling rain is falling this afternoon and Inspector Moore of the Provincial Police and Dr. Fennell of the Canadian Red Cross, Toronto, fear that the added hardships to the more than one hundred families still in the open, and to the people in the five hundred tents scattered throughout the district, may have serious results. Dr. Fennell points out that the majority of the refugees have not been accustomed to living in tents and that without proper nourishment and supplies there is a great danger of them contracting colds and pneumonia.

There is still great need for warm clothing as thousands of the fire victims are without changes and are scantily garbed.

Refugees from the outlying districts are still arriving at Cobalt and the registry office is busily engaged in notifying relatives and friends of their safety.

THE DEATH TOLL.

COBALT, Ont., Oct. 8.—(Canadian Press Correspondent).—With few exceptions, the bodies of the victims of last week's disastrous fire, have been identified. The following are the known dead:

Haileybury.

Gervais Sutherland, about 30 years of age, whose skeleton was found in Haileybury on Saturday. He had been listed among the missing and the remains were identified by brass buttons of his uniform as a member of the town's fire brigade, which were found nearby.

HON. J. A. STEWART DIES IN MONTREAL

Former Minister of Railways Was Popular With Colleagues.

MONTREAL, Oct. 9. — Hon. J. A. Stewart, former Minister of Railways, died at the Royal Victoria Hospital here late Saturday afternoon, after a prolonged illness.

Though but a comparatively short time in the House of Commons, Hon. J. A. Stewart was popular with his fellow members of two Parliaments, and others who came in contact with him. He was also highly regarded for his undoubted ability as a clever speaker and debater, and a good organizer. The late Mr. Stewart came to the House in May, 1918, when he was returned by acclamation in a by-election to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the sitting member, Hon A. E. Hanna. A successful business man with a record of achievement behind him, he was soon recognized as a most useful member in the ranks of the government of the day. His work on the floor of the House and in committees won for him the admiration and esteem of the leaders of his party, and his ability was recognized when Right. Hon. Arthur Meighen, in reorganizing his ministry in September, 1921, selected Mr. Stewart for the responsible portfolio of Minister of Railways and Canals, then as now, one of the most important positions in the Cabinet. In this portfolio Hon. Mr. Stewart succeeded Hon. J. D. Reid on the latter's appointment to the Senate.

In the general elections of December, 1921, Mr. Stewart retained his seat in Lanark when so many of his former follow members were going down to defeat throughout the province.

Though in poor health for some time the announcement a few weeks ago that the former Minister of Railways was seriously ill at Montreal, came as something of a surprise to his friends. Mr. Stewart it was stated, had gone to Montreal, where his wife was ill, and had been stricken by his illness while remaining in that city, to be near her .

The late Mr. Stewart was a native of Perth, Ont., and was educated there and at Ottawa College and Osgoode aHll, where he took his LL.B. degree. He was a King's Counsel and head of the legal firm of Stewart, Hope and O'Donnell, Perth.

The former Minister was connected with a number of successful business ventures, being president of Henry K. Wampole & Co., Limited; Perth Shoe Co., Limited, and also a director of Frost & Wood, Limited, farm implement manufacturers. He was prominent in the Canadian Order of Foresters, having been High Chief Ranger of that order from 1904 to 1917.

The late Mr. Stewart was married in November, 1907, to Jessie Mabel, daughter of J. T. Henderson, of Perth, Ont.

Lloyd George Loses Ground

J. L. Garvin Laments the Near East Blunder and Its Costly Results.

LONDON, Oct. 9. — (Canadian Press Cable.)—J. L. Garvin, editor of the London Observer, in a 5-column article in yesterdays' issue tells why he is done with the present ministry. Garvin has long been one of Britains' most arresting writers, though the criticism has been heard that his brilliance inclined on occasion to reduce itself to a wordy flourish. The present government, however, has owed a good deal to his support in times past, but yesterday he let himself go in his best style against the government, particularly in regard to its eastern policy from which it seems the editor of the Observer has dissociated himself for the last tow years.

From no conceivable point of view, writes Garvin, could the government's eastern policy be considered an informed or competent policy. Lloyd George ,after Constantine's return not only backed the wrong horse but backed a dead one. The lessons of history showed that Greece alone could never establish a solid footing in Asia Minor, yet the British government went on jeopardizing Britain's whole eastern interests for the sake of Tino's dead horse.

"Nothing remains," continues the Observer, "but with gradual patience and good sense to repair as much of the danger as may be. We must first try to work with France and Italy and others if we can indeed arrive at any firm compromise. If not we must secure, by independent negotiation as it may be in our power to do, a complete political peace both with Turkey and Russia."

As for Lloyd George, Editor Garvin gratefully remembers his great war leadership and says that if he can only make up his mind at last, though late, to sacrifice his office in order to regain his influence, he will be a great leader once more in due time, perhaps sooner than is thought by most persons now that his stock is low. "But for the present," says the Observer, "Lloyd George's usefulness has been exhausted. For so infinitely clever a man this is strange. He has made the old and stale mistake of so many of his predecessors of lingering too long and hopelessly outstaying his luck."

GETS POSITION OF POSTMASTER

Howard Collins, of Millbrook, Receives Word of His Appointment—Several Applicants.

MILLBROOK, Oct. 9. — Word has been received here of the appointment of Howard Collins to the position of postmaster at Millbrook, succeeding Miss Lottie Vance, who has held the position, since the death some time ago of her father, William Vance.

Mr. Collins is a returned soldier and at the time of his enlistment was on the staff of the Bank of Commerce. He is a son of T. B. Collins, of Millbrook. There were several applicants for the position.

FLAMES BREAK OUT IN A COBALT STORE.

Citizens Flee in Panic But Heroic Work of Firemen Confined the Fire to One Building.

COBALT, Oct. 9. — (Canadian Press).—Fire broke out in Taylor Hardware Store here at 2 o'clock this morning. Panic stricken at sight of flames in centre of town, thousand refugees from Haileybury and citizens who feared another disaster commenced to take belongings from their dwellings and hurry to places of safety. With considerable difficulty firemen persuaded them that fire would be confined to building in which it had broken out. The hardware store which is largest in Northern Ontario stands between theatre and premises formerly occupied by the Cobalt Nugget. Building and contents may be a total loss though it would appear there is no danger to surrounding buildings. Cause of fire is not known.

TORONTO SENDS AID TO SUFFERING NORTH

TORONTO, Oct. 9.— (Canadian Press.)—Toronto yesterday was a city suffused with sympathy and anxiety for Northern Ontario fire victims. All day long, emphasized to some by appeals made from local pulpits, the plight of the refugees occupied citizens' minds and because they translated their sentiments into Trojan labors, substantial alleviation in the form of one carload of living necessities was despatched on the regular evening train. More important than that, however, was the fact that arrangements were perfected so that tonight a special train of at least 25 cars will pull out of the Union station laden with not only food and clothing, but also with some of the building materials which are so badly needed by sufferers if they are not to endure hardships from the present chilly weather.

GREEK HOPES SHATTERED

Government Realizes Eastern Thrace Must be Abandoned, and Will Accept Decision of Allies at Mudania

ATHENS, Oct. 8.—(Canadian Press).—The Greek Government has instructed its delegates at the Mudania Conference to accept decisions which may be unanimously agreed upon by the Allied representatives.

This action was taken following the receipt of advices from former Premier Venizelos that Eastern Thrace must be considered a lost to Greece.

Greece will endeavor to secure two months' time to permit the evacuation of her army and the Greek civilian population, which is estimated to aggregate 250,000. It is probable that another 300,000 Greeks and Armenians will leave Constantinople for Greece, which will make more crushing the problem of the country, which is already burdened with refugees.

WILL SIGN MUDANIA TERMS.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 8.—(Canadian Press).—A despatch from Athens to the local newspaper, Kirix, says the Greek Government has instructed General Mazarakis to sign the Mudania armistice convention, thereby agreeing to the evacuation of Eastern Thrace.

BRITISH AND FRENCH IN ACCORD ON TRANSFER OF EAST THRACE TO TURKS

Allies Will Assume Military Control of Disputed Area Pending Signature of Peace Treaty—Greeks Shall Withdraw Troops at Once.

French Deny Rumors.

PARIS, Oct. 9. — (Canadian Press)—Lord Curzon, British Secretary for Foreign Affairs, in a flying visit to Paris, has not only obtained assurances that reports from Mudania that the French representatives there are encouraging the Turks to extend their demands are entirely unfounded, but has secured the approval of M. Poincare to a formula regulating the transfer of authority in eastern Thrace which will safeguard the Christian minority .

The French Cabinet has approved the formula, which provides that the Greeks shall immediately evacuate eastern Thrace, that Allied troops shall undertake to preserve order, that Turkish civilian authorities shall at once replace the Greeks, but that Turkish troops cannot enter the territory until after signature of the peace treaty.

Premier Poincare has sent instructions to this effect to the French representatives at Mudania.

The French Premier and the British Foreign Secretary discussed other aspects of the question of peace between Turkey and Greece and agreed to adhere strictly to the joint note to the Angora Government of September 23 .

It is affirmed in French circles that the reports that the French representatives at Mudania have been exceeding their instructions and going outside the terms of the Allied note are based on a misunder standing. The result of Lord Curzon's visit has brought a feeling of relief in Paris, though the situation was not taken so seriously here as in London.

APPROVED IN LONDON.

LONDON, Oct. 9. —(Canadian Press)—The agreement formulated by Premier Poincare and Lord Curzon at Paris was approved by the Cabinet Council late last night and will forthwith be communicated to the Mudania conference.

Latest despatches from Mudania yesterday said that the Thracian question is in abeyance at the conference pending instructions from the Allied Governments. It probably will be taken up today (Sunday).

In the meantime, although there seems to be a feeling of relief in both Paris and London, British war-like preparations have not been halted. The battleship Benbow, a sister ship of the Iron Duke, is sailing from Malta for Constantinople today with several smaller craft, all taking large quantities of arms and ammunition.

According to a semi-official despatch from Paris, Turkish circles there favor acceptance of the Allied decisions Thrace, while other Paris despatches record "a deep feeling of relief after many alarms."

DEPENDS ON TURKS.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—(Canadian Press)— An official communique was issued late last night after a full Cabinet meeting, resummoned at nine thirty o'clock to consider a long despatch from Lord Curzon at Paris:—

"M. Poincare and Lord Curzon reached an agreement this afternoon that the Greek army should be invited to evacuate eastern Thrace on the understanding that the Allies should occupy the evacuated territory for a period of thirty days from the date of the completion of the evacuation of the Greek forces, in order to guarantee the safety of the Non-Turkish population .

"This agreement must now be presented to the Turkish representative at Mudania on the understanding that effect thereto will only be given if the Turkish representatives accept the remaining conditions laid down by the Allied note of September 23, particularly respecting the neutral zones on both sides of the Bosphorus and the Dardanelles."

Resignation of Lloyd George Demanded by English Press

Movement Is Not Confined to the Premier's Natural Political Enemies But Embraces Organs of All Political Shades.

NEAR EAST POLICY.

LONDON, October 9. Canadian Press. — The later phases of the Near Eastern crisis have been accompanied by the growth of the political and newspaper campaign against David Lloyd George, Prime Minister, which reached its climax when four of the leading weekly reviews, and one of the Premier's staunchest supporters among the Sunday newspapers, joined in a demand for his resignation.

The campaign has far surpassed in its widespread extent and seeming influences any of similar campaigns which the Premier during the troubled post-war period has had to meet and which hitherto he has always successfully circumvented.

What has distinguished the present campaign from all previous ones is that it is not confined to the premier's natural political enemies but embraces solid organs of public opinion of all political shades.

The basis of the charges against Lloyd George is that his strong pro-Greek policy brought the nation to the brink of war, which was only averted in the first place through the statesmanship and diplomacy of Lord Curzon, the foreign secretary, who emerged from an alleged prolonged eclipse, from which the Foreign Office has suffered, through the Premier retaining in his own hands all threads of British foreign policy, and secured an agreement with France on the Near Eastern policy, and, in the sceond place, through the moderation and tact displayed by Brig. General Harington in his dealings with the Kemalists.

The charge against Lloyd George (or rather against the the allieged war party in the cabinet, led by Winston Spencer Churchill, secretary tor the Colonies) is that it has involved the country at a moment of great financial difficulty, in a useless expenditure of between 20,000,000 and 30,000,000 pounds for war preparations in the Dardanelles.

Asked to Resign

D. LLOYD GEORGE

SAYS FRANCE IS SELFISH

Not Possible to Work With Her Unless Unity and Co-operation Prevails.

LONDON, Oct. 9. Canadian Press. —Lord Beaverbrook, writing in his own paper, the Sunday Express, says that Bonar Law is the first man of high political rank since 1918, to come forward and say definitely that the British Empire ought, in certain circumstances to leave Europe alone, and concentrate on the home front, and on the development of the British Empire.

"I welcome this policy," writes Beaverbrook. "I admire Bonar Law's courage, but I was immensely surprised when I read his letter in the Coalitionist Sunday Times. While admitting that our own policy has not been free from short-sightedness and vacillations are difficult and impossible to excuse, Great Britain at least has not been unfaithful to either the spirit or the letter of the Anglo-French entente."

Lord Beaverbrook alleges that French diplomacy has been selfish, destructive and anti-European, and adds "Nobody here wants to see the entente dissolved ,but how is it possible to work with France when she leaves to us the sole responsibility of giving effect to decisions jointly adopted."

The political writer of the Sunday Times, a supporter of the Government, gives no hint that the ministry is unduly depressed by recent events and the widespread criticism of its war policy. He goes out of his way in fact to insist that Premier Lloyd George is physically in better fettle than for some time past.

ARLESS DIED OF A BROKEN NECK.

Montreal Rugby Player Sustained Fatal Injury When He Led Attack

MONTREAL, Oct. 9.—(Canadian Press)—Allen Arless well known local Athlete died last night at General Hospital here form a broken neck sustained in the M.A.A.A.-Argonauts Rugby game played here yesterday afternoon. Arless was conscious after accident until 5.30 last evening. The accident occurred at beginning of third quarter of game after Arless had only just come into play as a sub quarter back for Frank McGill. He called for a fake buck and led attack attempting to go through the right wing, while ball went to left. He was blocked and thrown heavily with several men on top of him. After the whistle Arless was unable to rise. It was seen he was seriously hurt and ambulance was called. At hospital examination showed his neck was broken.

FRANCE WARNS GREEKS.

GRAIN FILLING THE ELEVATORS.

Heavy Accumulation of Wheat Last Week.

FORT WILLIAM, Oct. 8.—(Canadian Press).—A falling off in shipments of four million bushels during last week and increased receipts has resulted in the stocks of grain in store at the head of the lakes rising by almost eight million bushels. Fifteen and a half million bushels of wheat were received, while barley began to figure largely in the arrivals, the stocks of that grain being practically doubled. Flax also has begun to come from the West, the receipts being thirty-five thousand bushels this week. as compared with only six thousand last week.

Following are the figures of stocks, receipts and shipments for the week:

In store—Wheat, 16,698,833 bushels; oats, 1,098,097; barley, 2,049,920; flax, 123,336; rye, 1,493,228.

Receipts—Wheat, 15,531,037 bushels; oats, 654,483; barley, 1,124,596; flax, 35,774; rye, 468,685.

Shipments — Wheat, 9,454,052; oats, 203,602; barley, 151,014; flax, 58,604; rye, 124,526.

TURKS MOVE HEADQUARTERS.

CONSTANTINOPLE, October 9 (Canadian Press). — General headquarters of the Turkish Army has been transferred from Smyrna to Brusa.

Kemal Pasha is expected at Brusa early next week.

TURKS ADVANCING

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 9— (Canadian Press). — Turkish Nationalist troops yesterday resumed their advance in Dardanelles area in direction of Chanak, British stronghold, according to Mudania dispatch to local newpapers.

Advance Has Not Brought Them Into Contact With British Troops—Kemalists on Move in Other Sectors of Asia Minor.

Breach of Agreement.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 9. — (Canadian Press.)— Turkish infantry and cavalry, it is announced, have violated the neutral zone around Ismid.

This is the first violation of the zone protecting Constantinople on the Asiatic side and is regarded as a matter of importance. The Kemalists, however, have not yet advanced far enough to come into contact with the British troops in the outskirts of Constantinople.

The movement will necessarily attract attention at Mudania as it is contrary to the understanding with the Kemalists that there shall be no more troop movements pending the completion of the Mudania negotiations.

But it has another and more important significance. It is recalled that the Kemalists justified their violations of the Dardanelles neutral zone on the ground that they had never recognized that zone nor participated in its formation. But this excuse cannot be employed in the case of the Constantinople zone because that boundary was established in agreement with the Kemalist authorities a year ago.

The Nationalist cavalry has occupied Shile, which is on the Black Sea Coast, within the Ismid neutral zone. Small infantry and cavalry detachments also entered Darije and Guebize, on the Anatolian Railway, about midway between Constantinople and Ismid.

The Turks are adopting a similar method in this zone as in their advance in the Chanak zone, with white flags swung down.

IMMENSE FLOODS IN NORTH BENGAL.

Vast Area Inundated — Crops and Villages Are Destroyed.

LONDON, Oct. 9. — (Canadian Press Cable.)— A Reuter despatch from Calcutta says 1,500 square miles and 1,500,000 pople are affected by the floods in North Bengal. The loss of life appears to be relatively small but many cattle have perished, crops have been destroyed as well as many villages.

Thousands of half-starved persons have taken refuge on railway embankments and other high ground and are being maintained by relief funds and government grants.

The floods have begun to subside but an immense area is still inundated. An outbreak of disease, especially of cholera, is feared, as the waters abate, owing to the putrification of carcases of cattle.

EARLIER ELECTIONS.

City Clerk Armstrong, whose grasp of municipal problems is unique, discussed before the Board of Trade the other night the desirability of holding the annual municipal elections earlier in order that conflict with the Christmas holidays might be avoided.

Any scheme that even faintly warranted a belief that a larger percentage of the ratepayers could be induced to visit the polls would be worth a trial.

The indifference of many of the elections to municipal affairs, particularly to the annual elections, is disheartening.

It is the chief cause for inefficient civic government, for unqualified aldermen and lax administration of public business.

It keeps good men from offering themselves as candidates.

It shackles civic progress.

Newspapers have done their utmost to arouse public opinion on this question, and for the most part have failed.

The Citizens' Research Institute has issued warnings to the effect that Canadian municipalities are being held back by the failure of their citizens to take an interest in public affairs.

In spite of warnings and pleadings, the average municipal contest sees only half the vote registered.

It is possible that an earlier election date would bring out a larger measure of public opinion.

At all events nothing would be sacrificed in experimenting—conditions could not possibly be made worse.

MR. GRAHAME'S SUCCESS.

His many friends have been warmly congratulating Mr. Gordon Henry Grahame upon his splendid success in winning the $2,500 prize offered by a Canadian publishing firm for the best novel by a Canadian author.

Other Peterborough citizens who are not personally acquainted with Mr. Grahame will add their felicitations, delighted that this great honor has come to a fellow-citizen.

Mr. Grahame's novel, "The Bond Triumphant," was selected as the best of some two hundred and fifty books submitted to the judges, and no doubt it will be in demand when it is placed upon the market.

The young author won laurels in another arena during the great war. He was among the first to enlist in this district when the call to arms came, and, going overseas with the first contingent as a private, won a commission because of his gallantry in action.

The pen, perhaps, is mightier than the sword, but it is worthy of note that Mr. Grahame used the sword first and then the pen, and that he has scored conspicuous success with both.

Peterborough people will unite in the hope that his literary career will continue as auspiciously as it has commenced.

FANATICAL ORDERS.

The limit in fanatical orders seems to have been reached in the ruling by Attorney-General Daugherty of the United States that vessels flying foreign flags cannot have liquor on board within the American three-mile limit, even as ship's store.

The Daugherty ukase will have to be tested in the courts, but in the meanwhile it will have been condemned in the court of public opinion.

The United States Government makes itself ridiculous in the eyes of the world by the extent to which it has gone in its fight with the "demon rum," and this latest attempt to force its ruling upon the owners of foreign ships which call at American ports is the most absurd legislation yet enacted.

Should the order be upheld by the courts, Canada, however, is very likely to materially benefit, for the British and other liners now visiting New York and other United States ports are liable to use Canadian ports as discharging points for American travellers, and not call at American ports at all.

The Daugherty order seems to be on a par with Henry Ford's ruling that any of his employees who are found with intoxicants will be instantly discharged.

The Statue of Liberty seems to be strangely misplaced in its present position in New York harbor.

THE POSTMASTER-GENERAL'S WARNING.

The warning issued by the Postmaster-General, Hon. Chas. Murphy, to the postal employees that while he does not propose to play politics in the Department, he does not intend to have politics played against him or the Government of which he is a member, has caused some comment.

There should be no politics either for or against the Government in any branch of the public service.

So long as the civil servants do their work properly and refrain from partisanship in any way, the majority of people are content to see that they are retained in office.

Politics and the public service cannot in the public interest be allowed to mix, and it is but simple justice that the civil servant who undertakes to work against the Government in power should be removed.

That point should be well enough understood, however, to make a warning such as that issued by the Postmaster-General unnecessary. The danger always in issuing such a ukase is that it will be misconstrued into something that was not intended, and that a warning that playing politics against the Government will mean dismissal may impress the unthinking members of the community at least with the idea that postal employees were being instructed that they must support the Government politically under the penalty of losing their positions.

MOTOR TRAFFIC.

The members of the special committee of the Ontario Legislature, who are touring the province gathering information regarding the working of the motor traffic regulations, and who are at present visiting Hamilton, will not leave this city without receiving many useful suggestions, says the Hamilton Spectator. The local Chamber of Commerce, which has been particularly active in its efforts to remedy the shortcomings of the present laws, will present for the consideration of the members many ideas of practical value. There are so many grievances of long standing to be attended to, that it is not difficult to supply the committee with useful material. In the first place, there is the old question of lights on every vehicle using the highways of the province. The unsatisfactory conditions which at present prevail are recognized to be a source of continual danger, not merely to motorists but to horse-drawn vehicles and to pedestrians. With the increasing amount of traffic, which will inevitably assume tremendous proportions with the completion of the good roads systems, it is positively criminal to permit any description of vehicle to travel after dark unilluminated. The menace is so obvious, and the remedy so simple, that it is practically assured that the legislation required to put an end to this intolerable state of things will soon be enacted.

It is the desire of the various provinces that the motor traffic laws should be brought into more general uniformity and agreement than is at present the case. Moreover, so far as Ontario is concerned, at any rate, there is a general demand for a little more reciprocity of treatment as between this province and the states to the south. Motorists coming from the United States enjoy certain privileges while the guests of this country which are denied Canadian when travelling across the border. In the event of an accident or any serious breach of the law, for instance, the Canadian may have his car impounded by the United States traffic authorities, whereas the American travelling in Ontario enjoys complete immunity in this respect. Such discrimination, it is felt, is most unfair.

The regulation of motor traffic generally in the cities and in the rural districts presents many problems of vital interest to the public. The volume of traffic has grown at such a prodigious rate that it is not surprising that legislation should have failed in some respects to have kept pace. The number of accidents is proof enough that much yet remains to be done before it can be said that conditions are entirely satisfactory. It is not possible, of course, to eliminate accidents entirely; human carelessness is a factor which defies all attempts at eradication. But it is still possible to make the laws much more fool-proof than they are. Dangerous conditions can and must be removed, and the reckless driver must be penalized till he has learned to respect public rights. It is not so much in the multiplicity of the laws, as in their effectiveness and uniformity that safety lies.

THE JOURNAL'S OPINION.

The personnel of the new National Railway Board is coming in for warm praise, even in unexpected quarters. Here, for instance is what The Ottawa Journal, usually strongly antagonistic to the Government and its doings, has to say:

"Although The Journal has been critical of the Government's seeming dilatoriness in appointing a new National Railway Board, we feel bound to say that, in the light of the appointments that are now announced, the delay was perhaps worth while. The new board, both in the calibre of its chairman, and the character of its entire personnel, is an imposing one, and, in our judgment, deserves, and will command, public confidence.

"Major-General Sir Henry Thornton is seemingly as well equipped for his task as any man one can summon to mind in the realm of railway operation. He has, to begin with, a wide range of experience. It is an experience that embraces a high executive position on a foremost American railway, a war-tested operation of railways in both England and in France, and, what is of considerable importance, in view of our Mercantile Marine, a practical knowledge of shipping and of the operation of ships. Added to this, he possesses the advantage—and in a country like Canada it is a very considerable one—of detachment from our national controversies. He is not tied up to any political, commercial, or sectional clique in Canada. His British citizenship prohibits criticism of a purely American importation. He is free from suspicion of promoting the interests of any group of railway magnates, or of being a partisan of either public or private ownership, or of serving political or sectional ends. His sole aim, it is but sensible to assume, will be to make the Canadian National Railways a success, thus serving his own good as well as that of the country.

"The rest of the board, too, rates unexpectedly high. Mr. Stewart, former chairman of the Canada Wheat Board, is a man of exceptional capacity. A Scotsman, with all the business genius and rugged integrity of his race, his character, the place he has won for himself in the commercial life of the country, challenges confidence, more especially in the West. Mr. Tom Moore, President of the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress, represents Mr. King's long-expressed desire to give Labor a voice in our railway management, and, if the principle be admitted, few better men could be secured. With the records of the others, excepting Major Bell and Mr. Ruel, who are railway men of experience, The Journal is not familiar, but (with the possible exception of Mr. Sinclair) they appear to have been chosen for other than political reasons. Political partisanship, in fact, seems to have played little or no part in the choice of the board as a whole.

"The board, too, avoids the disadvantage of great size. A large board, like a large organization of any kind, is likely to be unwieldy. It arrives at decisions less quickly, and it is all too liable to break up into the various Provinces and districts submerging national requirements. Mr. King, at the risk of disappointing party applicants for positions, has evaded this danger—for the time being at all events.

"Summed up, we believe the country will admit that the new board represents a sincere and able Ministerial effort to help a great national asset. It is non-political; it is divorced from sectionalism; it looks business-like. Under the circumstances, it is the duty of the public, and particularly of the friends of public ownership, to help it by encouragement and confidence.

"The Canadian National Railways represent a great national asset. They represent the greatest public ownership venture in any democratic state. Their success is bound up with the success of much else in the country. Let all of us, therefore, put our shoulders to the wheel and aid a good beginning. Let all of us try to give Sir Henry Thornton the chance of a fair trial. If this be done, if the Government lives up to Mr. King's renewed promise to keep political partisanship out of the management, then The Journal is confident that the National Railways will develop into a splendid national success."

HEROIC CONDUCT OF HAILEYBURY MEN A MITIGATING GLORY OF DISASTER

Praised By Miss Dorothea Cronin, Who Tells a Graphic Story of the Swift Destruction That Swept Down on Town—Imminence of Danger Unrealized.

LOST EVERYTHING.

TORONTO, October 9. — Miss Dorothea Cronin, B.A., of this city, a member of the staff of the Haileybury High School, who was through the fire, arrived in Toronto on Friday morning.

For several days the country around had been burning, said Miss Cronin, but the people of Haileybury were not alarmed.

"I felt no fear or premonition of the catastrophe that was coming," said Miss Cronin. "On Wednesday afternoon we were coming back to school after lunch when the wind began to freshen up. About two oclock the sky turned red from the fire in the bush. Some parents then telephoned to the school to have their children sent home, and this was done more to ease the parents' minds than for any fear of danger. By three o'clock, the children had all left, as well as some of the teaching staff. The rest of us, still free from alarm, stayed to have afternoon tea in the school. A little after four we left the building and saw the station on fire. The Principal, Mr. Tuke, warned us not to go into the business section, but we had yet no sense of danger.

Roads Blocked.

"The fire swept from the station direct to the dock along Main Street. I crossed through the smoke and went to my boarding-house near the Cathedral. The family there was leaving town to get away from the smoke, and I joined them, leaving everything behind. Our motor started for Cobalt, but had to turn back a little east of the hospital. We then turned towards Liskeard, but again had to turn back, the centre of the town being blocked with the smoke. We got out of the car and followed the people thronging to the beach east of the town. It was then five o'clock. About three hundred had collected on the beach, along with the cattle and animals.

Seek Refuge in Water.

"Families with small children, nuns from the convent with their group of little girl boarders, and young and old of the population, crowded together by the water. No one had brought anything except blankets, coats and buckets to fight the fire. By 5.30 we could see the town a mass of red smoke. Then the building at the end of the pier caught and burned like a torch.

"The wind up to this time had been blowing from the north-west, but turning to the east and working round to south we could see the hotels, the armouries, the mill, and the cathedral catch and burn rapidly. Then the wooden houses on the shore, a hundred feet or more behind where we were collected, burned. This would be about six o'clock when the showers of sparks began falling upon the people on the beach. The women and children were put under blankets and the men drenched them with water to keep their clothing from burning.

Relieved by Change of Wind.

"This rain of sparks and cinders continued for an hour, when the wind began to blow to the south-west, with the result that we could leave the water, and gradually the people ventured to make their way to the still burning fires on the shore, where they dried their clothes and shivered. We saw the fire moving off to North Cobalt, but towards seven o'clock the wind died down. We stayed on upon the beach for a couple of hours. The people were wonderfully cheerful, and I cannot speak with too much praise of the men, who let up not for one minute in their ministrations to the relief and comfort of the women and children. Of course, many harrowing things happened, and some of the women were hysterical when the reaction came.

Babe Born on Beach.

"One baby was, I heard, born on that crowded beach.

"By seven the town was all gone, the smaller houses having gone down like grass and the larger buildings burning with almost explosive rapidity.

"Relief came to the people on the beach at nine o'clock when men got through the fire from Liskeard to tell us we could get motors at the north end of the town to carry us to Liskeard. The women with children were first taken away, but our party did not get away from the beach until about eleven o'clock. We walked along the road helping women and children over the fallen wires that littered the streets.

Amid Blinding Smoke.

"Even then the smoke was blinding and the children had to be led and pulled along. Just north of the burned Vendome Hotel we found the undamaged area of Prolyn Street, where motors were waiting. The people got relief at these houses, at the High School, and we learned [illegible] were taken to North Cobalt when the fire burned low. [illegible] caught the early relief trains. Those who got relief in Liskeard did not get out till next morning.

"I must again say that the people of Liskeard were admirably methodical in their kindness, when it is remembered that the men of Liskeard had been fighting the fire all night and their town was saved only by the fortunate change of the wind. The library was used as a central bureau, and all got information of those for whom they were looking. Two other High School teachers, Miss Burton, of Perth, and Miss Hambly, of Napanee, found me without delay through the gentleman at whose house I was received, Mr. Stephenson. I had come away with out anything but the clothes I wore. My friends had suit cases which were burned at the beach. We were taken to Cobalt on a motor truck, and caught the train in an hour for North Bay. The people of North Bay met us at the station and were kind and helpful in every way, supplying lunches and other aid where needed.

Few Lives Lost.

"I will add my own impression that the loss of life may providentially prove less than at first believed. All our High School staff, the nuns of the convent, the patients in the hospital, and the sick in other parts of the town were brought out by the heroic efforts of the men of Haileybury, the priests of the cathedral, and the men of Liskeard and Cobalt, who came through to our assistance. I saw some of these men with their eyes glazed over from fire."

THE MYSTERY MIND

Arthur B. Reeve and John W. Grey

"My dear, dear young lady!" Randolph became patronizing. "My task is to take you away from danger, not into it."

"Listen, Mr. Randloph, please. I've been fighting those horrible people just the same as Robert has. I had a fight with a girl who belongs to the gang, we both used just our hands, and—and I nearly killed her. And—and just a little while ago it was I who rescued Robert from the den and led him out when he was dazed and dizzy. I—I threw the old priest and his altar over and knocked the girl down again, all by myself. I—I can fight!"

"The devil!" Randolph looked at her under the glare of the street lamp, which was brighter now than the daylight. He saw the lines of determination beneath the soft curves of her cheeks and the real bravery beneath the warm enthusiasm of her glance. "Can you shoot?" he asked. "A revolver?"

"Of course!" she lied, calling to mind desperately the instruction Doctor Sutton had given her.

Randolph hopped out and with bustling eagerness unlocked the trunk at the back of his machine. From this, with a grin, he produced a brace of pistols, heavy, rather old-fashioned weapons, bought for some big-game expedition.

"They're heavy!" he told her, seeing that both were loaded and allowing her to have her choice.

"Come on!" was all she said. She stamped down in her seat.

XXXV

THE LAST BARTLE

The last glow of day had faded beyond the Palisades as Violet and Randolph drove up to the entrance of the tiny farm and parked the car just beyond the driveway on the farther side of the street. Together they crossed to the little dirt road, but as they mounted the rise Randolph insisted she drop behind. They made their way three quarters of the distance to the barn without molestation. Then she recognized the voice of a detective, Jake.

"Hey! Stop where you are! I've got you covered."

She rushed forward. "It's all right Jake! This is Mr. Randolph, who's come to help round up the gang."

"Oh! Miss Bronson!" Jake's voice showed his disapproval. "They may shoot," he explained. "You had better drop back."

"What are your orders?" interrupted Randolph, questioning the man.

"One of our operatives has a certain whistle. When he blows it we all rush the house simultaneously."

"How about the secret passage?" queried Violet.

"We've a man at each entrance. No chances now, either." The death of Sam rankled. "They're told to shoot—to shoot anybody, anybody at all they hear coming. That's Mr. Dupont's order."

Very suddenly a prolonged long-toned musical note sounded through the night, echoing softly in the trees and about the house and barn and fields. It was more like the call of a nocturnal bird than a whistle fashioned by man. It was so gently obtrusive that it might have been, to one not listening for it, the distant signal of a boat on the Hudson back of Inwood Hill.

"That's her!" whispered Jake, excitedly, starting forward.

"You hold back," directed Randolph to Violet. "There's no use taking foolish chances. Follow us later. Keep close to the ground now."

With rebellious foolhardiness she waited less than a moment before starting after the two men. Soon she was aware of a slinking figure to her right, crashing through the underbrush which came half around the barn, skirting the house. Something in the caution of that detective, outlined faintly to her in silhouette against the glow of the street arcs below on Broadway, impelled her to adopt a sort of crouch as she crept forward.

Now the squat building of the home itself loomed up before her, the night sky framing it dimly. She realized that another operative was advancing to her left and she grasped that the investment of the gang's haunt was very complete.

LAKEFIELD HARVEST FESTIVAL SERVICES.

Church Was Beautifully Decorated For the Occasion—Good Music.

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 7.—The annual Harvest Festival of St. John the Baptist Church was held on Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. The church which was prettily decorated with grain, fruit, flowers, and vegetables by the members of the chancel guild never looked more beautiful and was a fitting setting for the impressive service.

Rev. C. G. King was assisted by Rev. A. W. Mackenzie and Rev. J. L. Hughes of Young's Point. The preacher was Rev. A. W. Mackenzie, who spoke from the text taken from the Book of Kings — "What hast thou in the house", referring to the story of the widow who appealed to the prophet for aid and he put the question of the text to her and he by God's power, multiplied what she already possessed to be sufficient for her needs.

The custom of bringing the fruits of the harvest to the altar is as old as the hills for in pagan days the fruits of the earth were brought to the altar of the Gods.

This year we thank God for the greatest harvest Canada has ever known an one of the results is the fact that our Canadian dollar is at premium. We thank God for what we are as a nation realizing that the measure of our greatness will not be in a bountiful harvest alone but in our righteousness.

God's promise never fails and every year there is a bountiful harvest somewhere in the world. Nothing comes of nothing and the farmer to obtain the results has to obey God's laws and prepare the ground and cultivate his land then God gives the increase.

We should ask ourselves individually the question: "What gift have I to use for the village or in the church"; we each have some gifts or influence which we can use for God's service and if we do so we will have a full church and a vigorous and united parish.

After the service the members of the congregation were guests of the A.Y.P.A. in the school room, where refreshments were served by a very efficient committee and a social hour was spent. Rev. J. L. Hughes of Young's Point rendered a couple of solos in splendid voice which were very much appreciated Miss Adcock and Messrs. Loosemore and Robertshaw were also heard in solos which were well received. A number of boys of "The Grove" sang some old favorite glees. Before the close of the evening, Mr. J. F. Lillicrap, people's warden, gave a brief address thanking the A.Y.P.A. for their entertainment. The singing National Anthem brought the evening to a close.

PALL OF SMOKE OVER BETHANY

Thought to Have Been Wafted There From New Ontario By Strong Winds

BETHANY, Oct. 9.—The village has been enveloped in smoke for the last few days. It is only possible at times to see for a distance of a few rods, and the sun sets like a fiery red ball in the west. The supposition is that smoke from the fires in Northern Ontario is wafted down here by the strong which has been blowing for days.

The members of the Bethany brass band journeyed to Millbrook to supply music for the fair on Friday. During the early hours of Friday afternoon the village presented the appearance of being deserted, as places of business were closed, and most of the inhabitants enjoying the fair at Millbrook.

Miss Jennie Lee left Friday evening to visit with friends at Peterborough.

Public school was closed on Friday to allow the teachers to attend Millbrook Fair.

Among those who attended the Millbrook Fair from the village were noticed: Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Ryley, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Dawe, Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Steer and family, Mr. Herb. Fallis, Bert Monk, Wm. Westlake, Mr and Mrs. Geo. McCartney and Miss Kathleen, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Lee and Miss Verna Belle, Fred Fallis, Harry Preston and family, Geo. Chapman and family.

EXHIBIT WORTH WHILE AT THE MILLBROOK FAIR

Crafton and Company's Booth Almost as Complete an Attraction as Midway Novelty.

Almost as complete an attraction as any Midway novelty could be, the exhibit of the Crafton Company, Limited, at Millbrook's Annual Fair, held yesterday, proved to be the centre of interest for large crowds of sightseers. The pleasing arrangement of the large triangular-shaped booth, with painted backgrounds displaying a varied and complete assortment of the latest ideas in men's and boys' clothing, the overhead signs in green and red and yellow making a bright spot of colour in one of the best positions on the grounds, was made particularly attractive by the dozens of little silk flags in bright hues that topped the entire section, their gay colours fluttering in the breeze.

Of special interest was the entertainment that accompanied the exhibit, with solo and duo dances of Scottish and Irish origin, performed by two of Peterborough's clever little dancers, Annie Logan and Mary Hemphill. On a broad platform to the music of the bagpipes, played by David Grant, of Peterborough, in full costume of kilts and ribboned bonnet, the nimble-footed pair went through their repertoire of pleasing dances before an enthusiastic crowd.

HAD GOOD TIME AT ROCHESTER

Ten Campbellford Teachers Return Home With Pleasant Memories.

CAMPBELLFORD, October 9.—The convention held on Thursday and Friday in Rochester was a genuine success; in all, there were 350 visitors, ten of this number representing Campbellford.

On the arrival of the Ontario, they were met by large motor cars and shown the sights of interest in the beautiful Flower City, afterwards attending a grand banquet held in the Chamber of Commerce, where all the teachers of Rochester had assembled. After the banquet, the entire group were escorted to the famous Eastman Theatre, and spent a most enjoyable evening. This event wound up the programme for the first day.

On Friday morning all the different schools were visited, and some very thoughtful person provided exactly 350 boxes of chocolate—and there was just enough to go around. Up to this point everything was lovely, but the return journey was slightly marred by the rolling of the big boat. There was a terrific east wind blowing, and the waves at times swept over the top decks—and it is rumoured that there were a few cases of seasickness.

However, the staunch old boat made Cobourg safe and sound, docking at 12 p.m. It was a sleepy bunch of passengers that filed off—weary and tired, but filled with pleasant memories of the grand reception given them at the Rochester convention.

The Campbellford contingent arrived in town about 2.30 a.m on Saturday morning.

EGG PRICES.

OTTAWA, October 9 (Canadian Press)—The egg situation on Saturday remained unchanged. Some further sales of storage firsts are reported at 20 shillings c.i.f. The poultry situation in eastern Canada is very uncertain at present. An entirely new situation has been created by the increase in duty on poultry entering the United States, which will probably mean that shipments of live that have been moving from eastern markets to Buffalo, Boston and New York will now be shipped to Toronto and Montreal. It is possible that an outlet for many of the chickens can be found in Great Britain and offers from there have been received of 30c c.i.f.

Toronto higher for fresh specials at 48 and 50, extras 43 to 45, other grades unchanged. Farmers market retail 60. Chicken lower, dealers quoting 14 to 21, other varieties unchanged.

MONTREAL GRAIN.

MONTREAL, Oct. 9 (Canadian Press)—There were no changes reported in the local grain market on Saturday with little business passing either domestic or export. Business in flour continues fair. There was reported no change in the millfeed market with only a fair amount of business passing and prices unchanged. Business in baled hay is moderate. Receipts of butter here for week ended Saturday were 17,781 packages against 10,042 in the corresponding week of last year. Receipts of cheese for the week were 39,219 boxes against 33,948 in the same week last year. Betterment was noted in the demand for butter and cheese. There was a continuation of the better business in eggs. Receipts for the week were 2,187 cases against 13,092 cases in the same week of 1921.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Man., October 9 (Canadian Press)—There was a broad active trade during Saturday's short session of the local wheat market and prices ruled higher. On advance there was a local wheat sale but this appeared to be easily absorbed by an excellent class of buying in all positions. Shippers and exporters were the best buyers, it being reported that some new business had been worked overnight It was also understood that Greece had purchased part of an order of 1,500,000 bushels of Manitoba wheat. The tonnage situation, which is tending to hamper trade, was little improved today. After opening fractionally higher all months steadily advanced and, closed at gains ranging from 1 1-4 to 1 3-4 with October leading.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, October 9 (Canadian Press)—Higher quotations at Liverpool and week-end evening-up toward the finish here tended to give a lift to wheat values to-day. At the finish, wheat was up 5-8 to 1 1-4c with December $1.07 5-8 to 1.07 3-4 and May $1.09 1-8 to $1.09 1-4; corn advanced 7-8 and 1 to 1 3-8c; oats rose 3-8 and 1-2 to 7-8c and provisions were unchanged to 17c higher.

The wheat market showed a strong undertone throughout the short session and while business was light, the strength in Liverpool resulting from the Near East political situation, induced some moderate commission house buying. There also was some short covering Liverpool reported all American offers made abroad overnight as having been accepted, with a better milling demand. Considerable week-end evening-up got under way toward the last, few traders caring to have an extended interest out over Sunday, in view of the foreign situation.

Corn and oats were higher in sympathy with wheat, corn touching a new high for the present movement. Country offerings were not large. Eastern demand was fair.

Provisions were firmer although trade was light.

TRAGIC AND COSTLY LESSON OF THE FIRE

NORTH BAY, Ont., Oct. 8.—(Canadian Press Correspondent).—The calamity suffered by Haileybury and other northern towns and townships in last week's fires has brought to the people of the North in a tragic manner the needs of greater fire protection.

While it was not a forest fire, but was started by farmers clearing their lands, there have been a number of bush fires in other parts of the country, so that the entire question of fires is to receive a great deal of attention by the Ontario Government during the next few months, when plans will be laid for meeting the menace of 1923. The Dominion Government will be urged to take a bigger share in protecting the forest wealth of the country than heretofore, not only because the Federal Air Board is in the best position to give the most effective aid, but it is pointed out that fires are often of an inter-Provincial nature.

Forestry officials here assert that the experiments with seaplanes have demonstrated that they are by far the best means of locating fires in their incipient stages. The next best are the lookout towers situated through the bush. The patrols paddling along the rivers and lakes do not accomplish much.

Reply of Zavitz.

"I hope they do," said Provincial Forester E. J. Zavitz, when asked if the authorities would order an investigation into the cause of the fires that consumed the northern towns. "We have been accused of being negligent in withdrawing our forest rangers too early while, as a matter of fact, the fires took place in a part of the country where there would not have been any rangers in any case. Only recently the reeves in the townships swept over, told us they did not want rangers in their territories as it was farm land, not bush However, the whole question should be investigated and get some method of protecting the north from either clearing or bush fires. I suppose such an inquiry would be conducted by Fire Marshal Heaton."

Mr. Zavitz explained that the disaster last week was a great surprise to many who thought towns like Haileybury were secure from fires originating outside their limits. An inquiry would show, he thought, that there should be laws to force municipalities to keep the underbrush cleared on an area around each of these towns. This brush grows so rapidly that there would have to be a rigid enforcement of such a law to make it effective. It might be necessary to take further precautions, such as trenching for this fire, much to the surprise of all, had shown that the soil itself was so filled with vegetable matter, being something of the nature of peat, that it was sufficient to carry the fire along where there was no brush. There are a lot of things to be learned from this fire, in order that such a thing shall not occur again.

In connection with forest protection, Mr. Zavitz said, that while there had been in a number of fires, they had been for the most part well controlled this year and very little timber belonging to the Province had been burned.

Air Patrols Best.

"Our experience had shown," he said, "that the patrols paddling in canoes are not very effective. On more than one occasion this year, such patrols have travelled within two miles of fires and not discover them. Look-out towers placed in different parts of the forest are more effective, but the flying boats are the best. There are so many lakes in this district in which they can alight. On different occasions during the past summer, seaplanes employed by the department, which are provided with pumps, have dropped down to a lake and pumped water onto a fire, quenching it before it had made much headway."

He expressed the hope that the Dominion and Provincial Governments would be able to reach some more complete understanding in regard to the use of fliers for forest patrol

The Third Week of the Bigger Business Campaign finds it Going Strong

Splendidly accomplishing the object for which it was planned — acquainting the buying public with new values being offered for the 1922 Fall and Winter Season. Without any exaggeration we can state positively that the campaign has brought a volume of business that has been a surprise even to ourselves and has done much to place this store in the front ranks of Peterborough's busy shopping places.

There'll be no let up until we attain our objective—that of placing this old-established business in the proud position of being one of the leading dry goods establishments in Eastern Ontario. We're out for your patronage with value and service that you'll find it difficult to equal. This week's programme will be found decidedly attractive from a value standpoint. We'll tell you more about it to-morrow.

Watch our advertisements. You'll find no more interesting reading in your evening paper.

INTERESTING TALK ON CANADA WEST

Delivered By Percy Rutherford to George Street Bible Class.

The following is an addres given by Mr. Percy Rutherford on Friday, October 6, before the Adult Bible Class of the George street Methodist Church.

President, Fellow Members, and Friends of the George street church Adult Bible Class:

Having been asked by our worthy President to give a short talk on Western Canada, I might say I have only a limited knowledge of that vast country, but have made a few trips through the Prairie Provinces during the last 18 years and have been interested to some extent in seeing the wonderful development which has taken place in that time—towns and cities growing up in a few years all over the country; but must say as yet the chief industry of these Provinces is agriculture, which is growing of more and more importance every year.

It has been well said that Western Canada is the "Granary of the World," which in my opinion, is quite true, if all the good vacant land would be brought under cultivation and properly tilled it would feed the world. There are yet some millions of acres of the best land still vacant. It is also said, and I think well said, that in Western Canada alone there is room for 75,000,000 to 100,000,000 people if the land were properly settled. There is now a great scheme being inaugurated by a colonization company and the Dominion and Provincial Governments with headquarters at Winnipeg, to encourage immigration to this country, which it is hoped will be a success in getting our vacant land settled on and put under cultivation.

Western Canada has wonderful resources, being rich in coal and minerals, oil, timber and water power, all waiting to be developed, but we must have the immigration and more people to assure success. It is my opinion that Canada is now on the verge of the greatest developments we have ever seen,providing wars and rumours of war do not again overtake us, and peace is established among the nations of the world.

Western Canada is now well supplied with railroads, and with the completion of the Hudson Bay Railway to Port Nelson the distance from Liverpool to Winnipeg over this route will be shortened about 1000 miles compared with the present route going east, which will be a great advantage to Western Canada in trade with Great Britain and the East.

As to the cities of Western Canada I must say their development has been wonderful. Victoria and Vancouver on the Western Coast (Victoria being the capital of British Columbia and the seat of government) is noted for its fine climate and homes, with a population of about 50,000 people. Vancouver, a city of about 200,000 is noted for its commercial activities, and having one of the best harbors in the world. It is also the western terminal of all our great Canadian railways. These cities in the near future are destined to become two of the most important cities in Canada. Coming east to Calgary, we have another prosperous city of about 80,000 population and forging ahead. Also Edmonton in the north, with a population of about 70,000, and with a great future, situated as it is at the front of the great Peace River country. Saskatoon, a thriving city of about 25,000 population, has some 90 wholesale houses, and is a large distributing centre, and on the line of the Hudson Bay Railway. It is also the seat of the Saskatchewan University and experimental farms, and the western branch mills of our Quaker Oats Company. Regina, the capital of Saskatchewan, is another important city, with a population of about 40,000, and a very thriving city. Coming east we have Brandon, a fine city of about 16,000, in the centre of a great wheat district. Winnipeg, being the gateway city of Western Canada, with a population of about 250,000, is noted for its wide streets, and fine buildings, and its great commercial activities, being the third city in Canada for manufactured production, having now over 400 manufacturing plants there .It is also one of the largest grain market centres in the world with all our Canadian railways centreing there. It is claimed the C. P. R. has the largest railway yards of any one road here, with wonderful freight handling facilities. Winnipeg is also the capital of Manitoba with its new Parliament buildings just completed at a cost of about $10,000,000. It is also the centre of education for the province, having university, agricultural college and experimental farm, fine schools and cchurches, and our own Wesley College, Manitoba College. Medical College and many others. The city has just completed a permanent water supply system at a cost of about $16,000,000, bringing the water in from Schoal Lake, a distance of 99 miles. This system, it is estimated, will supply a population of 1,000,000 people, which I would venture to say, will reach that figure in the near future.

These are just a few of the leading cities in the West, with scores of smaller towns and villages, and with the progressive immigration policy, will become important places.

In closing, my hope is that we may always have a good stable, progressive governments, both Dominion and Provincial, and before very long Canada, which the eyes of the world are now turning to, will be the brightest star in the British crown, and part of the best and greatest nation in the world.

With these few remarks of our western country, I wish this class every success.

Many Times It's a Guide to Health as is This One

Women—Read It

Marmion, Ontario.—"Before using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was a total wreck. I had terrible pains in my sides and was not regular. Finally I got so weak I could not go up stairs without stopping to rest half-way up. I saw your medicine advertised in the newspapers and gave it a trial. I took four bottles of the Vegetable Compound and was restored to health. I am married, am the mother of two children and do all my housework, milk eight cows and do a hired man's work and enjoy the best of health. I also found the Vegetable Compound a great help for my weak back before my babies were born. I recommend it to all my friends."—Mrs. Henry Janke, Marmion, Ontario.

MORE THAN ONE RAFFLES TO-DAY

Napoleon of Crime Heads Gang of Criminals in London.

LONDON, Oct. 9.— (Associated Press.)—The police are seeking in this city the head of what is said to be a remarkable group of international criminals. A veritable "Napoleon of Crime" is believed to have established his headquarters here. He is alleged to command a well organized band of international crooks, every one of whom is a past master of every form of nefarious craftsmanship known in the underworld. They include men of education, scientific attainments, and social charm. Under the leadership of their mysterious chief they are credited with conducting burglaries, cracking safes, and committing costly jewel robberies that baffle detection. They are declared to work in accordance with plans of campaign prepared by the master mind with all the skill of a great military strategist.

Several papers print his story with varying degrees of sensationalism. Of late there has been an increasing number of jewel robberies. As a result an insurance company which insures a good deal of valuable jewelry has increased its premiums charged on this class of risks by 25 per cent.

J. V. Bell ,one of London's leading assessors, says that many big robberies have been so well planned and executed that the police can do little more than suspect the authors.

"The people who engineer these crimes are not the common, ordinary type of thief," Mr. Bell says. "There is more than one real Raffles in existence to-day. They haunt society gatherings, and in the hotels they are popular guests.

"I know one man who has a town address, a country house near Bournemouth, and two fine motor cars, who is more than suspected of complicity in some of the great robberies, but up to the present time there has never been the slighest chance of connecting him with any of them.

"He is of good appearance ,always well dressed, and would, in the ordinary way, be accepted as a guest at the houses of wealthy people.

"I know one instance in which a director of thieves is reputed to be worth $150,000. Another successful director is a woman who has a university education, and is cultured and charming of personality.

"The victims, both in hotels and at private houses are often watched and shadowed for days before a suitable opportunity for the robbery occurs. It may easily cost $1,000 or $1,500 to meet the expenses of a successful haul, and the big thieves require frequent robberies to maintain themselves."

MODERN MACHINERY NOW MAKING EASY RESEARCH, UR CITY.

Scientists Are Exploring the Ancestral Home of the Patriarch Abraham.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9.—(Associated Press.)— When work begins October 15 in exploring the dust buried ruins of the city of Ur, ancestral home of the Patriarch Abraham, by a joint expedition of the British Museum and the University of Pennsylvania Museum, the archaeologists will have to contend with a few of the extraordinary difficulties which hitherto have hampered work of the sort in Southern Mesopotamia.

That country is now under a British mandate. Hence the first difficulty—that of sharing the best of the discoveries with the museum in Constantinople — is removed. Then, before the war virtually everything had to be done by hand. The expedition now on its way will be the first to utilize a complete modern mechanical equipment. Streets once thronged with men and women, silent now and buried for three thousand years, will echo the roar of locomotives and motor trucks.

"The expedition will start work under the most favorable auspices," said Dr. G. B. Gordon, director of the University Museum. "Since the British Museum is a govermental institution it was a simple matter to obtain equipment. The Colonial Office gave the utmost co-operation. A military railway and motor lorries have been provided to maintain communication with headquarters of the expedition, which will be at Bagdad."

Dr. C. L. Wolley, who has been at work recently on a Hittite site on the Upper Euphrates river, has been selected by Dr. Gordon to head the expedition, the British Museum having asked him to name a chief. Colonel T. W. Lawrence, a war hero and explorer of International reputation, will be second in command. Colonel Lawrence is credited with winning the Arab tribesmen over to the Allies in the world war. He was captured by the Turks and spent two years in a prison camp.

Sidney Smith, a young archaeologist of the British Museum staff, will go along to decipher cuneiform texts, John Newton will accompany the expedition as an architectural expert, and Paul Hunter as a representative of the University museum.

Early to Bed and Early To Rise For This Beauty

MARY KATHERINE CAMPBELL.

Mary Katherine Campbell, who won the first prize and title of "Miss America" at the recent national beauty contest at Atlantic City, is attracting the attention of the whole country by her unusual beauty. This is her second article in which she discloses her beauty secrets to readers of The Examiner.
MARIAN HALE.

By MARY KATHERINE CAMPBELL.

What beauty I have I attribute to health and to a sensible mother who taught me early to love exercise and out-of-door life and insisted upon early hours and regular food.

Nearly every girl I know is dicting —to get thin. That is, she is attempting to. And she makes her conversations revolve about calories and starches and vitamins and suffers acute remorse every time she eats a French pastry.

Yet I've never been able to coax one of these earnest dieters to get up early in the morning to take a swim or go for a horseback ride before breakfast.

Like Bed Too Well.

They don't want even a bowing acquaintance with the clock before 9.30 in the morning, and they never want to walk more than two blocks.

Now I confess, frankly and quite unashamedly, that I eat four meals a day—just ask my mother how hearty they are—regular man-sized affairs.

If I ever found myself getting too heavy I'd be inclined to go to a gymnasium or do a little extra exercise, rather than make my life one renunciation of everything I like.

Besides, I believe one needs plenty of good, nourishing food, and to try to get along on black coffee and dry toast when you want bacon and eggs is silly.

Swimming Best Exercise.

To my mind, no exercise compares with swimming. I keep that up summer and winter. In the spring and fall I ride horseback a great deal because it gets me out into the air.

I play tennis and golf in the summer for the same reason, and dance the year round. I can motor, too, and I love to drive, but I never let this cheat me out of real exercise.

I take a quick, cold bath in the morning and a warm one in the evening. If my complexion ever seems to be getting pale or looks lifeless I drink orange juice and add vegetables and subtract meat from my menu.

Any girl is foolish, I believe, to go through life handicapped by a poor complexion, but the way to get a good one is not by covering, or trying to cover what you have, but to eat sensibly and correct it from the inside.

I believe anyone who takes enough exercise out of doors will not be troubled with sleeplessness or pine for the excitement of after-theatre parties and dancing until dawn. That sort of thing is ruinous to beauty, as we all know.

Early to bed and early to rise isn't an original creed, but it's the best one I know to follow for health and beauty.

Tomorrow I'll tell you what I think about clothes, and what I aim to express in mine.

Watch the Man

See the changes one week brings

Millions of women know this new way of teeth cleaning. And the pretty teeth seen everywhere now show what it means to them.

If the man doesn't use it, get this 10-Day Tube for him. Then watch the results. See what changes will come in a week.

That dingy film

Most people who brush teeth in old ways have film-coated teeth. A viscous film clings to the teeth, enters crevices and stays. That film becomes discolored, particularly with men who smoke. Then it forms dingy coats. Tartar is based on film.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

No old-type tooth paste can effectively fight film. So all these troubles were constantly increasing, and beautiful teeth were seen less often than today.

New discoveries

Dental science, after long research, has found two ways to fight that film. One acts to curdle it, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring.

Many careful tests proved these methods efficient. Then authorities endorsed them, and dentists everywhere began to advise their use.

A new-type tooth paste was created, based on modern research. The name is Pepsodent. Then these two great film combatants were embodied in it for daily application.

Not film alone

But Pepsodent brings other great results which research proves essential. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to constantly neutralize the acids which cause decay.

It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits on teeth which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

Those are Nature's great tooth-protecting forces in the mouth. Every use of Pepsodent gives them manifold power.

Some fifty nations use it now

The use of Pepsodent has spread the world over, largely by dental advice. Careful people of some fifty nations now employ it daily. Thus it is bringing a new dental era. The glistening teeth you see everywhere now show how widely it is used.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

In one week you will gain a new idea of what clean teeth mean. And all in your home will always want those whiter, safer teeth. Cut out the coupon now.

THE TRINITY CHOIR HELD A BANQUET.

Programme Included a Presentation to Mrs. Ross A. Williamson.

On Thursday, Oct. 5th, the choir of Trinity church held their annual banquet in the Reid street hall, at which there was a good attendance.

After the good things so generously provided by the ladies of the church had been disposed of the business of the evening came on.

Brief addresses were given by the pastor, the Rev. A. J. Langford and the retiring president on the work and the aim and object of the choir.

The secretary treasurer's report was very encouraging and showed a good balance in hand.

A special feature of the evening's proceedings was in the form of a miscellaneous "shower" to Mrs. Ross A. Williamson (nee Miss Thursa Given, who, up to the time of her marriage, of very recent ocrence, was a valued member of the choir.

The gifts were numerous, useful and well chosen. Accompanying many of the gifts were original quotations and verses, marking the writers as poetic geniuses and which was a source of much merriment.

Mrs. Williamson in thanking the members for the gifts, spoke of the great pleasure it had afforded her in being a member of Trinity choir and the happy times spent together, the friendships formed and the very pleasant all-round associations which will ever live in her memory. She wished the choir continued success in all its undertakings.

Following the presentation the election of officers for the ensuing year took place, the result being as follows:

President—Mr. David Fleming.
Vice-Pres.—Mr. John Lebarr.
Sec.-Treas.—Miss Beulah Paton.
Convenor Social Committee—Miss Greta Giles.
Convenor Lookout Committee — Mr. Percy Naish.
Librarian—Mr. James Ridyard.
Care of Gowns— Miss L. Emerson and Mr. McKee.

A very hearty vote of thanks was accorded the ladies who had made possible such a very enjobale evening by their kindness in providing the good things in so dainty and generous a manner.

The best thanks of the company were also tendered Miss L. Emmerson for the very artistic manner in which the basket for the "shower" was decorated.

LIVE STOCK FOR SHOWS.

A Few Helpful Hints For Youthful Exhibitors.

Calves that have been fed liberally and judicially will develop as the factors which we call hereditary determine. It will be all calf, but its perfection of form is determined by its parentage. Feed cannot make a square beef calf out of a three-cornered dairy calf. So to begin with the feeder should select the young calf largely on the individuality of the parents. Get a calf what will feed out to be as good or better than its ancestors—something that is worth while spending time and money on—and then take care of it. The breed score cards give clearly what is desired in breed type. These should be studied along with the annual that is being selected for exhibition. Calves should be halter broken when young, and handled gently that they may be quiet and docile at exhibition time. If in proper flesh to look well, ribs and back well covered, it is comparatively easy to complete the work of preparation. Prospective exhibits should be kept in the stable for several weeks previous to the fair, where they can be washed, groomed and blanketed in order that their handling qualities may reach a degree of mellowness that is very desirable in exhibition calves. When exhibiting before the judge see that your calf is standing on level ground, quietly, and with feet well placed so as to present a good appearance. Don't let the other exhibitors crowd too closely and hide your exhibit from view.

Handling the Colt

The colt selected for competition at the fair should meet the requirements of the class in which it is planned to exhibit. It should also be typical of the breed that it represents. As with the calf, the colt can only be what its ancestors make it. Colts may look very much alike when only a day old, but they certainly do not develop alike, even if the care and feed are the same. So get your start by selecting your exhibition prospect from good type parentage—exhibition stock if you can. Liberal feeding from the beginning on a comparatively narrow ration to develop all the bone and muscle possible should be the aim. Halter breaking and careful schooling to develop courage and tractability should be practised from the beginning. The colt's feet should be trimmed frequently enough to keep them in proper shape. Teaching the colt to move attractively at the walk and trot, to stand well and to permit handling of its feet is very essential in the general training of the animal. Such training is also a great aid on exhibition day. The colt that has liberal treatment from birth and developed well, needs but little exhibition fitting. Good feeding will put a bloom on the colt that cannot be attained in any other way. Protection from the hot sun and flies, blanketing and grooming are material aids in developing a desirable coat condition, and should be practiced during the month previous to the exhibition. Ribbon and straw decorations while very attractive to the average good horse man do not carry very much weight with the high class judge, and are not likely to be of influence except in very close competition.

Shaping the Lamb for the Fair

Lambs presented for exhibition at school or other fairs should, first of all have been borne early enough in the spring to be well grown by exhibition time. The lamb's fleece should be kept free of ticks and lice, burrs and dirt. During the season, a washing can be given, if necessary, at least two weeks previous to the show. Lambs that are kept up and fed in covered pens will show a better fleece than if they had been running out on pasture up to the last minute. The fleece should be neatly trimmed one week or more after washing, if washing is practiced, and care should be taken to keep the fleece free of chaff and dust until the exhibition is over. In feeding for exhibition, variety in feeding stuffs should be sought in order to keep up the lamb's appetite, using oats, corn, wheat, bran, cracked peas, barley meal and oil cake meal for the grain portion of the ration and good alfalfa or red clover hay, and swede turnips as roughage. These feeds if mixed to give a ration, with a nutritive ratio of 1 to 6 or 1 to 7 will take care of the growth demands and fatten the lambs. Should it be desired to feed the lambs while running on pasture, the grain ration given can be used. The lambs should be handled sufficiently to make them tame enought to stand well when being exhibited. If more than one lamb is called for in a class, all individuals should be uniform in size, type, condition of fleece and body fleshing.

Getting the Pig Ready

Pigs presented for exhibition at school or other fairs should first of all be of the proper type and weight for the class in which it is planned to exhibit them. The exhibit should be clean. This condition is best accomplished by an application of warm water, soap and the scrubbing brush. The crate or pen should be well bedded with straw or shavings to make it comfortable and attractive. It should also be free from nails, old wire, broken bottles or any other material likely to injure the exhibit.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 9.—A representative meeting of those interested in the relief of the suffering arising from the recent fire in New Ontario, was held on Sunday evening after the services, in the Methodist school. Various plans were suggested and it was finally decided to make the action taken, a community one. A motion was carried requesting the mayor to get in touch with Premier Drury or his committee at once, and ascertain how Campbellford could best serve the suffering people of the fire district and then call a public meeting at the earliest possible moment to deal with the matter. Mrs. J. N. Stone was appointed convenor of a committee to be composed of members of the ladies organizations of the various churches in town to arrange for the sending of quilts, clothing, etc.

HASTINGS DEFEATED IN FIRST OF SEMI-FINALS

Brampton Lacrosse Players Win by One Goal Which Was Scored in the Last Few Minutes of Play.

PLAYED IN RAIN

HASTINGS, October 9, — The first game of the semi-final series between the champions of Districts No. 1 and 2 and Hastings, champions of District No. 11 of the O.A.L.A., took place here on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, and was won by Brampton, 6 to 5.

The Brampton boys, with a few supporters, arrived by motor at noon, and were taken in charge by the local boys.

Although the weather was cold and rain was falling, there was a large crowd from the village, the surrounding country, and from Campbellford.

Promptly at three o'clock Referee Len Smith, of Toronto, called the game. The play was snappy from start to finish, and it was anybody's game at the commencement of the last quarter.

To pick out stars would be to mention every player on each team, for the game was full of thrills, the catching, passing and dodging would have made veterans sit up and take notice.

The game was clean throughout, only four minor penalties were inflicted for each team.

The game started fast with Stevenson of Hastings landing the first goal in three minutes of play.

In the first quarter, Hastings had tallied three goals.

There was no let-up in the second period, but the Brampton boys by this time commenced to feel at home, and scored twice.

In the third quarter the Brampton boys again scored two goals, and Hastings one, making four all for the final dash.

Take Two Hastings fi

In the final quarter, after hard work, the Hastings boys captured a goal and the fans who, despite the cold and rain all through the game, had stayed on the job, cut loose, but in less than three minutes Brampton evened up the score, five-five with seven minutes yet to play.

Brampton scored another in the last few minutes, winning the game, six to five.

NOTED PHYSICIAN IS LAID TO REST AT ST. JOHN'S, IDA.

Funeral of Dr. Norman Allen Held on Saturday Afternoon — Was Prominent in Public Life in Toronto.

MILLBROOK, Oct. 9.—On Saturday afternoon the funeral took place from Cavanville C.P.R. station to St. John's church and cemetery, Ida, of Dr. Norman Allen, son of the late Archdeacon T. W. Allen, of Millbrook. The pallbearers were two sons, Dr. Harold Allen and Mr. Burke Allen, both of Toronto, three brothers, Canon W. C. Allen, John Allen and H. B. Allen, all of Millbrook, also Dr. D. C. King of Peterborough, L. H. Winslow of Ida and J. E. Allen of Millbrook, a nephew of the deceased. The service was in charge of Rev. C. R. Spencer of Millbrook. Among those who came from a distance were Dr. Pirie of Montreal, a brother-in-law of the deceased, Gordon Taylor, partner with Burke Allen of Toronto. Miss Cynthia Allen, daughter of deceased, and George Walsh, barrister, Toronto, Miss Margaret Palmer, of Toronto.

The late Dr. Allen was stricken with a fatal attack of tetanus on Tuesday last, when on the road to recovery from a prior operation. Anti-tetanus serum, administered immediately after the symptoms were observed, afforded some hope for his recovery, as his early response to the treatment was remarkably good. News of his death later came as a great shock to a host of friends.

A Prominent Citizen.

During his residence of more than 30 years in Toronto, Dr. Allen was a notable figure in political as well as professional life. He received his medical degree from Trinity University in 1885, and had since that time been building up an increasingly successful practice and reputation as a surgeon and physician. From 1890 to 1892 he was Medical Officer of Health for Toronto, in which period the Isolation Hospital was founded.

Despite the press of professional duties, Dr. Allen devoted a considerable portion of his time to political activities and, during the four years of war, to patriotic efforts. He was Chairman of the Toronto Recruiting League during its existence, and contributed generously of his time and work to this cause, in which his platform ability, developed in the political field, was turned to good account. A close friend of the late Sir Sam Hughes, Dr. Allen was in the habit of spending a few weeks of each summer with the former Minister of Militia.

An Effective Speaker.

Dr. Allen was active in every political campaign for several years back. He was an effective platform speaker. A staunch Conservative, his abilities were a source of strength to many candidates of that party. He took an active part in the last general election, speaking at several meetings in different ridings.

For three years, up to the time of his death, he had been President of the Toronto Conservative Club, and had for years been actitve and unsparing of his time in the Ward Three Association. The night before taking ill Dr. Allen had intended attending the nomination meeting of the Conservative party in connection with the Southeast Toronto by-election, and had it not been for the unexpected developments following his operation he would probably have taken an active and important part in the campaign.

Dr. Allen was also prominent in fraternal circles, being an old member of the Sons of England and St. George's Societies, and the of the Orange Order.

He was born at Millbrook, Ont., 57 years ago, the son of the late Archdeacon T. W. Allen. There he received his early education, later going to Trinity University. He was a Fellow of that institution's medical school and a member of the Royal College of Surgeons, England. In 1889 he married Miss Alice Louise Martin. On his mother's side he was a descendant of the Barons of Kirkcudbright.

Surviving him are his wife and two sons, Capt. Burke T. Allen, M. C., Dr. Harold Allen, and one daughter, Cynthia.

WARSAW NEWS

WARSAW, Oct. 9.—A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Greystock, Scotch line, when their only daughter, Birdie, became the bride of Everett Moore. At 6.30 p.m. the bride entered the drawing-room leaning on the arm of her father. Mrs. George Taylor played the Wedding March. Rev. G. F. Weir performed the ceremony in the presence of about thirty-five guests, mostly immediate relatives of the contracting parties. The bride wore a dress of white georgette with pearl trimming over shell pink silk and the conventional veil with orange blossoms. They were unattended. The groom's present to the bride was a set of racoon furs. She received a great many other beautiful and useful presents. After the ceremony all sat down to the wedding supper and a happy evening as spent. About 10 p.m. about fifty men, young and old, some grotesquely and some prettily dressed, arrived upon the scene. In an orderly fashion they marched into the house, asked to see the bride and groom, and the captain called each one by name and he came up and shook hands with the young couple. Then all marched out in order. Outside they sang, did a few stunts, and were given some of the wedding supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore went directly to their new home, her going-away dress being navy blue with hat to match. They will live in the house recently occupied by Mrs. G. McFee. It has been put in good order.

The Methodist W.M.S. held their regular monthly meeting in the church Friday afternoon. The President and Recording Secretary were present, while the Treasurer and Corresponding Secretary were absent. A plea was made for fruit and pickles for the deaconess' home, and also that the blocks for the quilt be handed in soon. It was reported that potatoes and other vegetables and baking were sent to a very needy family.

Those present answered to the roll call with a verse beginning with the letter "T." Mrs. Arthur Edwards gave a very interesting account of the convention at Millbrook. Mesdames Weir and Wasson sang, "Does Jesus Care?" The meeting closed with "Mizpah" benediction.

SPLENDID DRILL AT THE BALTIMORE SCHOOL FAIR

COBOURG, Oct. 9.—Baltimore School Fair was held Wednesday, September 20.

In the Physical Culture, 8 schools competed. While S.S. No. 9 drilled a silence prevailed. After the command to dismiss was given and the pupils were disappearing into the crowds a constant clapping of the hands ensued. The smartness and neatness of dress and precision of movement accounted for it all.

As well as first in Physical Culture S.S. No. 9 took first in marching and fourth in the school parade, in which 10 schools took part.

Miss Vera A. Bradshaw of South Monaghan is the teacher of this school.

Autumn Work.

Organizations, which take a rest from activities in the summer months, are beginning work for the autumn and the air is filled with rumors of festivities which we may expect in the near future.

Rumor says that the Fire Brigade are arranging a dance in the town hall some time this month with several new features which should be popular. As the Fire Brigade is a purely voluntary organization and is of great value to the village, it is only right and proper that they should be accorded substantial support.

WEDDING BELLS

BYERS—STOCKS

One of the prettiest weddings of the season took place on Saturday morning, September 2nd, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Carter, 13012 104th avenue Edmonton, when Gladys Aad, daughter of the late John Stocks and Mrs. Stocks, was united in marriage to Roy J. Byers, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Byers of Baillieboro, Ontario. A wealth of summer flowers artistically decorated the whole house, both downstairs and upstairs, arranged in all kinds of dainty baskets and bowls, placed everywhere. Long trails of hop vines were carried up the staircase from the hall, and gracefully festooned the archways, and canopied the electroliers. The marriage was solemnized in the living-room, where a winding path formed of lovely baskets of blossoms daintily linked together with streamers of narrow white satin ribbon, led from the hall to the bank of palms and ferns before which the bride and groom took their positions for the ceremony. The Rev. Dr. D. G. McQueen officiated.

The bride looked lovely in a tailored suit of nigger-brown broadcloth, ecru georgette blouse finished with exquisite filet lace, and a chic hat of brown velvet with crown of told tissue. She wore a brown fox fur, the gift of the groom,and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses and mauve sweet peas. Her only attendant was her neice, little Marjorie Carter, who made a pretty little flower girl in mauve taffeta, carrying a basket of French marigolds. Mr. Donald Carter, the bride's brother-in-law, gave her in marriage; and Miss Edna Mooney played the Bridal Chorus as she entered, and Mendelssohn's Wedding-March at the conclusion of the ceremony. Mrs. Cockburn sang "At Dawning" beautifully during the signing of the register.

In the dining-room, where the wedding breakfast was served immediately afterwards, a scheme of mauve prevailed at the dining-table which was covered with a handsome Cluny lace cloth, and centered with the big bridescake. Mauve candles in silver candlesticks and mauve sweet peas in silver holders were used effectively and from the electrolier, surrounded with clustering vines, long streamers of satin baby ribbon in delicate harmonizing shades with sprays of mauve sweet peas knotted, fell in a dainty shower. Mrs. J. C. McDougall presided over the punch, and the Misses Jessie and Marjorie Stocks, and Grace and Ruth Nicholson, assisted in servin

The bride's mother was attired in a handsome gown of wood brown canton crepe, richly embroidered, with a corsage bouquet of Ophelia roses. Mrs. Carter the bride's sister, wore a lovely gown of black Canton crepe and black Spanish lace over orange, with garnitures of the same color. Mrs. J. D. Buyers was wearing a suit of navy blue embroidered in steel beads, together with a mauve hat.

Amid showers of confetti, with a large gathering of friends to see them off, the happy couple left on the noon train for Banff. On their return, they will reside in the Westminster Apartments. The wedding gifts received and extremely numerous, and included many handsome and costly articles.

The groom is a cousin of Mrs. (Dr.) Moir of this city.

Softball Honors

To Editor of Examiner:

In last Friday's (September 29th) edition of your valuable paper you made some comments on the wind-up of the Peterborough District Ladies' Softball League, and now, Sir, on behalf of the C.G.E. club we wish to take exceptions to some of your comments.

In the first place, the schedule just finished had nothing whatever to do with the first section, as this was arranged by Mr. Smaill. Secondly, the summer games were drawn up from August 1st to the finish, which happened to be September 9, after which it was impossible to play in the evening on account of darkness, and when above schedule was arranged why was the Peterborough Armouries not procured to play the games.

On Sept. 21st at the meeting of the league this matter came up, and that was the first the C.G.E. club knew of finishing games in the Armouries.

In conclusion, M. Editor, we might say that the C.G.E. do not intend this letter as a wail, but as we won all our games on the field without a loss and therefore are rightly entitled to the championship of the Peterborough and District Ladies' Softball League, whether we get bouquets or cabbages.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor,

Yours truly,

OFFICERS OF C.G.E. TEAM.

SAYS CONVENTION AT ROCHESTER, N.Y.

(Contined from page 1.)

number of about seventy, were all sent to the one hotel—The Whitcomb House. This was a most excellent arrangement from the standpoint of both convenience and sociability.

A Garden City.

The people of Rochester are justly proud of their city. The population is more than three hundred thousand. The city is built along both sides of the Genesee River. This river flows through a gorge not unlike that of Niagara, but not nearly so large. The banks are rocky, but trees and vines grow luxuriously, especially on the higher parts. This stream determines partially the direction of the streets. Many of these cut one another obliquely. The chief residential area is very beautiful indeed. The grounds are spacious and great attention has been paid to the growth of trees and shrubs. The frosts have not as yet injured the verdure, so that Nature was dressed in her most gorgeous autumn colors. One of the most beautiful spots is the hill upon which the city reservoir is situated. Rochester pipes its water from a distant inland lake. The reservoir is large and from its centre a fountain of water springs up, reminding one of a geyser. The banks are adorned with different varieties of evergreen trees, especially Norway pine and spruce. From the top of the hill an excellent view of the city is to be seen. The hill itself is surrounded by a circling driveway. As a protection a fence consisting of posts and a top rail goes around the outside. Wild grape vines have completely covered this fence, thus making a thing of beauty out of what would be otherwise very commonplace. This is mentioned merely as an illustration of the desire to beautify which seems to prevade the city. Many of the parks are very large and very beautiful. In our limited time we could see only a few of them. We did not see much of the manufacturing sections either, but were duly impressed with the Eastman Kodak factory which, our guide told us, employs about sixteen thousand men. Nearly every city has some person who is outstanding for his benefactions; Peterborough reveres the memory of Mrs. Nicholls; Rochester acclaims the name of George Eastman. Due largely or solely to him, the city has one of the most magnificent theatres and a most excellent Chamber of Commerce building. The theatre seats several thousands and seems the acme of adornment and equipment. The very many public buildings of the city are fine substantial structures in which a rich brown stone is often the chief material. Most of the private houses are built of wood, which rather surprised us who are so accustomed to brick dwellings in Canadian towns and cities.,

Informal Banquet.

On Thursday evening we met about two hundred and fifty of Rochester's teachers in a very friendly and informal banquet, which one person very happily termed an "international" meeting. This was held in one of the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce building. One was struck with the texts that were printed in large letters on the front wall of this room. They were: "Commerce carries civilization around the world," and "In the intercourse of social life, and on all occasions involving the interests of our young city, let us forget our politics and our party and seek only the public good." These revealed the chief purposes of the building. Surely in having our banquet there we were seeking the public good. Around the walls the Stars and Stripes and the Canadian Ensign were draped together. The whole atmosphere was that of brotherhood, not only because we were in the teaching fraternity, but also because we all belonged to the Anglo-Saxon race. This was emphasized in so many ways, by the exceeding geniality of our hosts, by the speakers in their remarks, by the musical programme which contained the national anthems and other national songs of both countries. We enjoyed singing the national American anthem; our hosts took equal pleasure in singing God Save the King. The seating arrangements were intended to promote intercourse between the teachers of the two countries. At each table, when we entered, were seated three or four Americans, and the Canadians simply filled the vacant chairs. That proved to be a delightful plan. As our time was limited, speches had to be short. Mr. Gallup, President of the Rochester Teachers' Association, acted as the toastmaster. He spoke of the friendliness that should be between the two peoples, made references to the absence of war for more than one hundred years, declared that no armed frontier was necessary if educational factors had due consideration, and hospitably advised us to ask for anything that we wanted Mr. Roland B. Woodward, Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, who followed Mr. Gallup, welcomed us in a very humorous speech and said that some things might be wanted that could not be had. His idea of the chief function of the Chamber of Commerce was to make Rochester a finer place in which to live. This seems an opportune time to say that different persons inquired as to how prohibition was succeeding in Canada. They seemed to be well satisfied with is suecess in the United States and Mr. Woodward was simply alluding to this fact. Mrs. Henry G. Danforth, a member of the Board of Education, had been told to make her speech brief so she confined her remarks to a few words of welcome. Responses were made by Col. J. W. Odell, Public School Inspector, and by Dr. H. G. Park of the Peterborough Normal school. The former thanked our hosts for their great hospitality ,referred to the various claims of brotherhood between Americans and Canadians, and complimented the city on the way it was grappling with the great question of the education of the youth. Dr. Park also complimented Americans on their courage in tackling problems and on the great advancement they had made along so many lines. He spoke of the similarity of the educational problems that both countries had to solve. In both were large numbers of foreigners who must be trained according to our ideas. In Canada there was an additional problem — in one province the French element predominated. A trombone solo by Mr. Jay W. Fay, supervisor of instrumental music, and a vocal solo by Mr. Frank Biddle, instructor in music, were much enjoyed and both graciously responded with encores. One nice thing was the invitation to Mr. M. H. Park to lead the audience in singing The Maple Leaf Forever. After the banquet the teachers attended the Eastman Theatre and witnessed a good show.

A Week Needed.

To discuss adequately Rochester's schools and school system seems a hopeless task. The convention should have lasted a week at least in order to make a fuller acquaintance. A person gets lost in the maze of facts. There seems to be a school for everyone and everything. There are schools for the normal, the abnormal, the sub-normal and the super-normal. A boy may be trained for vocational, commercial and professional callings. He can attend university, Normal school or any of one of several other varieties without leaving his native city. One thing that impressed us is that vocational training receives equal consideration with academics. That is certainly very different from conditions in our province. Penny lunches are provided, undernourished children are fed, absentees from school due to poverty or similar conditions are visited by special teachers employed by the school board to remedy the evils if possible. There seems little left to be done in order to give a child a fair start in life. Pupils are required to attend school at least part time until they are seventeen.

The general system that Rochester seems to be trying to adopt is to divide the twelve years of schooling into two periods of six years each. The first period is spent in a grammar school which corresponds to our Public school to the end of the third class. The next period of three years is spent in a junior high school and the last three in a senior high school. This plan has to be modified in certain parts of the city so that some grammar schools teach some junior high school work but mostly only academic subjects.

Eighty Teachers.

Some grammar schools have as many as eighty teachers and the minimum number is about fifteen. The average number of pupils to a teacher is about thirty-five. Many of these schools have no male teachers at all ,even the manual training is taught by a woman. The pupils have no recess, but the various activities along the lines of physical training partially make up for this. Grounds are not always sufficient. Playgrounds are supervised after school hours by proper authorities, but these men are not under the Board of Education. Pupils are encouraged in self-expression and seem to have greater liberty than is usual with us. School life is made pleasant. The education tends more to the literary than to the mathematical. Pupils are encouraged in the reading of good books, in dramatization, etc. Interruptions in class periods are much more frequent than with us. This was not due to lack of discipline, but rather to the diversity of activities in the school. One pupil would leave a class to take a music lesson; another had to attend a nutrition class; a third must go for some other reason. The training seemed to give the pupils self-confidence and self-reliance. Pupils had to have a certain amount of time for study each day. Manual training starts earlier than with us and art was nearly all done in water colours.

Proud of Schools.

There are three junnor high schools of which the city is very proud. One of them has two hundred class and work rooms not counting the gymnasium, auditorium and other extra rooms. The cost of the building was one and a half million dollars and there are eighteen hundred students enrolled. The auditorium seats twenty-three hundred and the stage alone two hundred. The swimming pool is seventy-five feet long and thirty wide and is made of white marble. Seventy-five various industries are carried on in the building; boys are taught to set up and handle lathes, repair automobiles, etc., etc. The students dress in uniforms manufactured in the buildings; the girls bake and provide lunches; the school newspaper and menu cards are printed in the printing room.

In the first year of the junior high school course a boy takes up work corresponding to our junior fourth class, except that he must spend half a day a week in vocational work. In the second year a boy must decide whether he wants to take a vocational or a professional or a commercial course. If he favors the first less and less time is spent on purely academic work. That means that a boy becomes more or less specialized early in life. It also means that the necessity of having a calling is early impressed upon him. In some cases boys take what is called pre-vocational work which seems to be a compromise of the different courses. That is done if difficulty is experienced in deciding what calling a boy is best fitted for. In the junior high schools, while the principals are graduates usually, the vast majority of the teachers have second class professional certificates only. There are about twice as many female as male teachers.

Your correspondent is not clear about the senior high schools, but thinks they are academic and prepare students for the university. There are some other types of schools in Rochester such as technical, industrial, etc., but they were not visited by us and it would not be wise to try to discuss them.

The Getting Home.

There is a poem which says that "the best of one's journey is getting home." Many of the teachers did not find that altogether true to fact, as the lake was quite rough and the boat rolled considerably. One pleasing thing was the distribution, through Mr. McKend, representative of the Langslow, Fowler Co., of Rochester, manufacturers of the Moulthrop desks, of a box of chocolates to each teacher. This kindness was duly appreciated.

After all the teachers felt that this departure from the regular type of convention was well worth while. We could very profitably return to Rochester again, not because we were invited back ,but because even now few of us have very comprehensive ideas of their intricate and wonderfully planned school system.

There are many who deserve mention for the part they took in making this union convention a success, but special mention must be made of Mr. Gallup and Col. J. W. Odell, who made the plans and arrangements, and to Mr. Chas. Gummow, of Cobourg, who so ably performed the onerous duties of secretary.

system. "Truth always is exclusive," said the speaker. "There is only one true solution to a problem in arithmetic, although there may be a million variations, which are all errors. There is only one truth."

Community of Interest.

Father Roche recommended a community of interest with other congregations in all matters pertaining to charitable enterprises, or good citizenship, or neighbourly companionship. In matters of dogma and faith alone, he demanded exclusiveness.

Deploring the undeniable truth of the assertion often made that Catholics, while strong in the faith, are unable at all times to enter into discussion and give reasons for their belief in the doctrines of their religion, he recommended a close study of their religion to all his hearers, as a matter of duty and responsibility laid upon them by Allighty God. To understand the teaching of the church to which they belonged in all its fulness and beauty was the duty of every one of its members. "It is the uniqueness and the exclusiveness of the church that makes it attractive to the heart and the mind, and God knew that from the beginning. He wished to make His church a beautiful church, and to give it every quality that would make it attractive to the human perception. You must not shirk your duty and your solemn responsibility by remaining in ignorance of any of the truths of your church. The world is looking for the grain of God's truth. But others will not find it in your aggressiveness or your violence or your assertion that everyone who does not belong to this church is necessarily condemned to eternal damnation. They will find it only in the undeniable truths of a religion which you should be able to explain and expound just as readily as your priests and your bishops. If you have been true to the gifts that have been bestowed upon you, if you have shown by your lives and your hearts and your finds that you are worthy of God's vest gift, you may become an apostle to your fellow-men."

AFTER FAILURE.

"If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins."
I John 1:9.

But, surely. I musn't forgive myself too easily!
I must lay my "joy in the Lord" on the shelf,
That all the world may see
How deep, and true, and real a thing
My penitence can be.
And I must mourn awhile, and fret,
To show I do not quite forget.
Then, when I'm sick and worn with pain,
My Lord may use me once again.

Oh, heart of mine, take care, lest you confuse
What God hath said,
With what you weakly choose
To think of Him, instead.
You always were a poor, short-sighted thing.
Weary, and cheery, on the self-same day,
The sweet and bitter issue from your spring,
So are you to be trusted, anyway?

And who are you, that you should still accuse
The one God has acquitted?
Why prison up the "Joy" that he would use?
As if it benefitted
One single soul, for you to go about
With your poor pack of Failures inside out?

Then—who knows—while you grieve and fret
To prove you do not quite forget,
Some seeking spirit may,
Upon that very day,
Take knowledge of your mournful
face,
And sadly turn away;
Because she tried in vain to trace
Some likeness to the Gracious One
Whose countenance was like the sun.

"Be mournful in the Lord"? My friend, not so,
Rejoice in Him, and let the sad world see Him shining in your eyes . . . Let people know
Him in your voice's timbre. Let them be Quite sure of Him, because your nimble feet
Run to the tiresome tasks. Yes, let them meet
Christ in your adverse day of wear and stress,
And handle Him, through your sweet cheerfulness.

IF YOU ARE WELL BRED

You know that conversation is a social art and must be cultivated. Hence you do not constantly repress the speech of your children, but you teach them the value of conversation instead of prattle.

You converse with them as you would with older persons, drawing out their ideas and encouraging them to express themselves. Their ability to converse well will rob them of the self-consciousness that marks so many social failures.

Boy! Page Mr. Einstein

THE shortest distance between a seller and a buyer is a straight line. If there is any shorter, let us page Mr. Einstein and ask him about it.

In advertising, the Daily Newspaper is the most direct line possible, and the customer you seek keeps the kinks out of it. He sees that he gets his newspaper at the earliest possible moment. He is not satisfied to wait until the postman delivers something that has been "directed" to him at his home address.

When the daily newspaper passes into the reader's hands, it is expected, welcomed and read. It has his interest before it even gets to him. He will complain loudly to the news dealer if an issue escapes him. He will stand in the heat and the cold while the news boy fumbles for change. When the delivery brings the daily paper to a home, it is taken in eagerly by someone.

Did anyone ever telephone your office to complain that your circular or form letter had not arrived? Have you ever noticed men waiting in line for the postman to deliver your printed matter? Have you ever seen the daily newspaper flipped off the desk or the supper table while second class mail is read to the family? Until you have, let us be honest and distinguish between "direct" advertising and printed matter "directed" to your address.

(By Stuart P. West).

NEW YORK, October 9 (Special to The Examiner). — The principal point of interest in the financial situation to-day was how the markets would receive the over Sunday announcement of the new $500,000,000 Government loan.

As it turned out, the news had little effect one way or the other. Liberty Bonds went off, but to a trifling extent only. The general investment list was steady, and the stock market kept on with the new forward movement which got under way last week.

A month ago when the Liberty loans were selling at a premium and when there were instances even of new municipal quotations being put out under 4 per cent. a long time treasury issue would certainly have been expected to go at better than a 4¼ per cent. rate. But since then, in anticipation of a new competing for investment capital, the bond market has been coming down. Liberty Bonds have gone back to par, corporate bonds are off 2 to 3 points from the top. In view of this and bearing in mind the necessity of making the new offering sufficiently attractive to induce the conversion of Victory 4¾s per cent. notes, the 4¼ per cent. rate is not surprising. The Bonds immediately sold at a premium of a half per cent., which probably measured the slight additional attractiveness of the thirty-year issue over the present Liberty loans, having a shorter time to run. But at the same time the fact that all holdings in excess of $5,000 are subject to surtaxes indicates the expectation that the new loan will be taken up by small investors without having to make a special bid for wealthy capital anxious to escape the tax burdens.

The keynote for the stock market of the day was sounded when U. S. Steel Common went through its previous high of the year. In the eyes of professional Wall Street, this was an occurrence of great significance. It meant the inauguration of a fresh advance, not only in steel shares themselves, but in the markets generally.

A great rush of buying immediately swept steel common upward more than two points and stirred up speculative enthusiasm in the other steel shares, the equipments, the motors, the public utilities and a variety of stocks of the specialty class.

The direct incentive for the buying of the steels was the anticipation of an unusually favorable tonnage statement for the month, out Tuesday. But mainly it was the demonstration of the thoroughness with which speculative interests working for higher prices had got back the grip which they lost temporarily during the latter half of September.

The ground for steel shares speculation was limit enough in the fact that the steel trade is back to a 50 p.c. production, the maximum of last six months. While steel prices are sufficiently above what they were then to more than offset the higher wage schedules.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILWAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.— Washington-Southern Pacific Railway was confirmed in its possession of land grants valued at over $10,000,000 by decision of Supreme Court affirming a decision in Lower Court against People's Development Company of California which it appealed.

SINCLAIR OIL

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Sinclair Oil made a new high of 38. This compares wth year's high 38 3-4. Current earnings would justify an increase in common dividend next year. There has been considerable buying of stocks on this theory. Net earnings before interest and depreciation in first half 1922 were approximately $19,500,000.

Operation of Teapot Dome will add largely to earning power of Sinclair Oil. Increased earnings also expected from company's foreign fields of producton and distribution. Recently interests closely identified with company have been heaviest buyers of Sinclair common.

BARINGS'S LETTER.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—I said last night that the market should be strong Monday morning but unless the market is very strong the greater part of Monday, the temporary culmination of the present advance may be deferred for ten days or two weeks. Quite a number of stocks have not yet had their move as pointed out last night, when I mentioned rubber and AIC to which I might add a few more such as RD, PF, CHM, GH, etc., etc.

Rubber as pointed out last night, came to life to-day, advancing over 2 points to 54 3-4. It ought t oadvance ten or twelve points before reacting more than a point or two.

AIC—reacted below 37 where it can still be bought.

CHM is only up 4 points from where I told you to buy it and it should prove a purchase under 62.

General Motors got back to 15 again and should sell near twenty.

Standard Oil of Indiana is likely to go considerably higher, but don't forget that it is already up over 30 points in past few weeks.

Sinclair Oil which I recommended some weeks ago when it was around 31 sold near 38 and it ought to sell ten points higher.

On a sharp bulge you might take profits on Mexican Petroleum if you have not already done so, but hold your new England fuel oil also A.C.S. Marine pfd. and I will give you further advices Monday morning.

ENJOY YOUR WORK WITH RADIO

Radio makes work a pleasure!

If you tire of the drudging routine of your job ,or have just been docked by the boss—clap a set of earphones to your ears and listen in. The soothing concert music from the air will calm your nerves and compensate for the irksomeness and disappointments of your labors.

What care you for a raise in pay or relief from some of your daily work, if a radio set is handy to offset.

Before brickbats are thrown let it be explained that this is only a summary of some of the statements given out by radio merchants dealers and press agents for the popularization of their products. For proof, they send pictures of actual situations wherein work is being enjoyed!

Incredible as this may be, the pictures are here for positive proof. The movies and the legitimate, of course, have their representatives. But then there are undreamed of occupations to which radio has been applied.

For Housework

Before you start leaning over the washboard, or getting down on your knees to scrub the kitchen floor—this is meant for housewives, of course,—rig up your radio set at a convenient place nearby and tune in on a broadcasting concert. The rub-a-dub of the washboard or the scraping of the floor brush will be lost in the maze of music from the air.

If the housewife doesn't apply herself to this work, the radio experiment is just as suitable for servant girls or the weekly washwoman. Both would enjoy their job and recommend your home to others. It is a solution to the servant girl problem

Actresses may have sets in their dressing rooms and alleviate the tedium of waiting for their turn on the stage. Movie stars, —at least, the male variety—may now assume the painful duties of fishing with a radio outfit to relieve the monotony of silent waiting. While the females of the movie species may at last venture into a bathing suit at the surf with the assurance that a radio outfit will compensate for her embarrassing position.

I Paris, cafe owners have struck upon radio as their life-saver. They were going into bankruptcy. People —especially American tourists—refused to drink their wines and other beverages. They were desperate when one of them thought of radio.

Now, on cafe tables (along the bouevards are small radio sets and alongside is a liquor list. Whoever wishes to drink may listen in. Or—vice versa—whoever wishes to listen in must drink. The cafe owners have been saved.

DOOR IS OPEN FOR WOMEN IN PULPITS

But Methodists Will Await Indication of Divine Will in Matter.

TORONTO, October 9. Canadian Press. — No decision was reached by the Methodist General Conference this morning on the question of women in the ministry, and the matter remains to be considered by the next quadrennial conference of the church.

The delegates in the majority decided in effect to leave the door open for women in pulpits and wait until there were clear indications of the divine will in the matter.

Rev. Dr. James Smithe, principal of Wesleyan College, Montreal, took a very strong stand against the proposal, and declared that if women were admitted to the ministry it would split the Methodist church.

The question of women in the ministry was again before the Methodist General Conference when it continued its sessions here this morning.

Mrs. L. C. McInney, ex-M.L.A. for Alberta, advocated the admission of women to the pulpits of the church. She was not appealing for women who wished to enter, she said, but for a church that ought to throw open its doors, and beg them to enter. The church needed its women to-day. Was it logical for the church to give to women the major portion of the religious living, and keep them out of any sphere in its leadership.

Rev. Albert Daniel of Nova Scotia, had nothing to say against women and the noble work they were doing. A referendum had been taken and the majority were against the proposal and that should be final, he thought.

PROPERTY LOSS WILL BE GREAT

Area Fire Swept in North Ontario Covers 700 Square Miles.

ENGLEHART, Oct. 9.—(Canadian Press).—More complete searches made over the week-end of fire-stricken areas have revealed that the property losses will be even greater than the highest estimates made a few days ago. George Lee, chairman of the T. and N. O. Railway Commission, estimates that the property loss will be between $7,000,000 and $8,000,000. The death-list did not increase over the week-end. The flames swept in a rectangle from Charlton to Tomstown to Elk Lake and Ville Marie.

The area covers about 700 square miles, and includes some smaller places which was known hitherto had been hit. Elk Lake and Kennabeck escaped. Osheo and Mountain Chute are partially burned. Englehart escaped by 100 yards, but Charlton and Brentha were wiped out. In the district in which lie Heaslip, Tomstown, Hilliardton, Brethour and Whitewood Grove the fire swept over 80 per cent. of the farm buildings, and all villages were burned with the exception of Tomstown. Sixty-five families are known to be homeless.

STRIKING SIGN AT RIVERSIDE PARK

Visitors to Riverside Park on Saturday were struck by the mammoth sign running along the top of the river grand stand and advertising the merits of the Canadian Packing Company's products. The sign extends the full length of the stand and forms a splendid advertisement as it is not only visible to everybody entering the ball grounds but can be easily read from Hunter street bridge The enterprise of the Canadian Packing Company is shown in this striking sign, which is the work of J. J. Turner and Sons and done in that firm's best style.

MANY HEARD NOTED DIVINE

God. Part of His venture is the daily round of human life and intercourse and duty. "It is the elect souls that pass through the experiences of life without harm to themselves. The sun of prosperity does them no harm, and the moon of sorrow cannot smite them. God comes to us sometimes in a dark venture, yet how wonderful is the healing of His seamless garment by our beds of pain. There is not a duty nor an experience in which God does not come to His people."

"These church services of ours are also garments of the Most High, but everything depends upon the soull's attitude toward them. I have worshipped God in many forms, sometimes I have found Him in stately services, full of color and symbolism, at other times in simple, unadorned ceremonies, with little to please the ear or the eye. God will use any vesture we prepare for Him, but it is possible for us to pass through any ceremony unhealed."

Hungering For God.

Mr. Davies spoke of the two little seed leaves sent out first by a plant. "If one of these leaves perish, the plant will die in the richest environment." He compared these to the seed leaves of the soul, the two upstretched hands of faith and prayer, and said: "I believe that men and women to-day are hungering for God." Referring to Cardinald Newman, "that great saint, and teacher, and preacher, for, thank God, there are saints in all the churches," he spoke of Newman's insistence on the "two luminous certainties of religion, God and the soul," adding to these, "the world," for "He comes to us in nature, in social service, in work, in every experience. In every aspect of human life, God is seeking to break down the barriers that separate us from Him."

A Touch of History.

The evening sermon delivered by Mr. Davies, was on the text, "He appeared to them in another form," the reverend speaker going on to illustrate the various ways in which Christ appears to different people. The historic conditions were considered first. Down through the centuries, from the time of the first Christian disciple, the Catholic church of the Middle Ages; the Reformation; the Loyala, Knox and Wesley movements, Jesus had been appearing to the world in different forms, yet always the same God.

The racial aspect revealed the different conceptions of the Lord, as held by the West and the East. We shoud not expect the Easterner to adapt himself to our conception of God, but allow our missionaries to work through the foreigner's understanding in different ways. As the great Eastern writer had said: "The Eastern world longed equally for the water of life, but could not take it from the same cup as the Western world." The cup might be different, but the water was the same.

To the individual, it had been said that "Christ came to every man down his own staircase." Jesus came to each in a different form, and we must be patient with those whose understanding and interpretation of Him was different from ours. In fact, as a generation of thinking men and women, we should be prepared to interpret Christ for ourselves, because changing needs and circumstances would bring Him to us in different ways than to our fathers.

Was Approached by All.

Before Christ's crucifixion ,while He still held an earthly form, He was approached by all, but when He rose from the grave in spirit, He appeared only to those whose spirit was prepared to receive Him; to the repentant Peter, to the sorrowing Mary, to the disciples who had a strong spiritual desire for Him. We must desire Him greatly and prepare the soul for His coming, to be worthy of His presence in our life.

Musical services for yesterday's ceremonies were especially good. The choir, directed by Mr. J. H. Renwick, rendered some beautiful numbers, with a magnificent rendition of an unaccompanied anthem, "God So Loved the World." Solos in the morning and evening were taken by Mrs. J. H. Renwick and Mr. Edward Jones. The organ, with its 360 new pipes, including the renewed pipes to the number of 247, which have not been used for the last eight years, and the pleasing additions in the Vox Humana and Vox Celeste stops, shows a vast improvement. Comments were numerous and reepated on the splendid tone of an instrument which has been in poor condition for some time, but is now up to a fine standard, with possibilities of obtaining tones and shadings and notes which were absolutely out of the question for a number of years past.

New York Nationals Win the World's Series Without a Loss

Only Twice Before Was World Series Won Four Straight

Giants Earn Title of World Champions by Complete Rout of Yankees—Bush Peeved by Huggins' Strategy That Failed to Check Giants' Hitting in Sunday's Final Game.

SCORE WAS 5-3.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—(Canadian Press).—The New York Giants once more are champions of the world. They reached that pinnacle of success for the second consecutive year in a furious uphill rush this afternoon that flung the Yankees to defeat, 5 to 3, and crushed a disgusted pitcher, "Bullet" Joe Bush.

It was the second consecutive time that the Yanks have bucked the Giants in a World's Series, and failed. This year they went down ingloriously, without the solace of having captured even one of the five games that comprised the battle for the title. The best the Yankees could do was to tie the second game of the series. The Giants won the other four.

A Rare Record in Game's History.

In all the annals of the game only two clubs ever triumphed in a World's Series in such a decisive fashion. In 1907, the Chicago Nationals won four straight victories over the Detroit Americans after fighting a twelve-inning first game tie, at 3-3 in runs. Seven years later the Boston Braves surprised the fans of the entire nation by wrecking Connie Mack's superb Athletics, four games in a row.

The final downfall of the Yanks was that of a house momentarily divided. Miller Huggins, the head of the household which was then enjoying a 3 to 2 lead over the Giants, differed with his pitcher, Joe Bush, in his strategic program for blocking the onslaught of the champions in the eighth inning. Bush became angry, and before he could calm himself, long George Kelly had smacked one of his curves so hard and so far that one Giant raced across the plate with the run that tied the Yankees and another Giant trotted in with he score that beat them.

Yanks Had the Lead.

The Yanks enjoyed the prospect of a victory for only 15 minutes. When they came to bat in the seventh the score was deadlocked at two all. They made a run on Meusel's scratch hit, Schang's sacrifice bunt, a wild pitch by Art Nehf, the Giant's southpaw, and a short sacrifice fly to centre field from the bat of Everett Scott. The throw-in of this fly almost caught Meusel as he slid for home. It seemed the Yanks barely had squeezed out a victory.

And then, in the eighth, the courageous Giants flung out their challenge. Pipp, the Yanks' first baseman, halted them for a moment by stopping Bancroft's har dblow back of first base and leaping to the bag just in time to beat the runner. But the fighting Giants would not be denied a victory quick and sure. Groh cut the diamond squarely in half with a single that ripped through the turf into centre field. Frisch hit a liner that bounded to McMillan in centre field, who juggled it, and the batter was credited with a two-bagger, while Groh went on to third. "Irish" Meusel shot a roller to short, Scott hurling the ball home so fast that Groh could not safely reach the plate. He started to return to third, but was run down by Schang.

A House Divided.

When the ball was thrown back to the box Bush found himself in trouble. Frisch, the fastest runner on either team, stood perched on third base and "Irish" Meusel was on second. At the plate, swinging his bat left-handed, stood "Pep" Young, who usually drops his hits into right field.

At this moment there popped into the mind of Miller Huggins the thought that the best way out of the difficulty would be to let Young walk to first, filling the bases so that a force out would be facilitated. He was willing to take a chance that Kelly, who has been weak in his recent batting, would continue to be weak. So he ordered Bush to walk Young. Later, both Giant and Yankee players said it was a splendid example of real inside baseball strategy. The break of the game ruined it, nevertheless.

Bush Peeved.

The sudden command plainly displeased Bush. He wanted to work things out in his own way. He warmed up his tongue with a couple of hot words and then shouted at Huggins, "Let's play baseball." Huggins was insistent, and repeated his signal to pass Young. Bush obeyed. His face showed his disgust at each of the four wide throws he hurled to the catcher.

And then Kelly, who bats right-handed, appeared at the plate. Bush's first pitch to him was a ball. The next was a speedy curve. It cracked off Kelly's bat and into centre field at a fast clip, scoring Frisch and Meusel. Huggins had guessed wrong. Bush perhaps had won a moral victory, but everything else was lost.

Young tallied a moment later on King's Texas Leaguer to left, but Snyder ended the inning by flying to McMillan.

Meusel popped to Bancroft and Schang and Ward flied to Young in the ninth and the Giants raced from the field, world champions for another year.

SATURDAY'S GAME.

Rain drops and brain flops sent the New York Americans down to defeat Saturday in their almost hopeless fight with the local National Leaguers for the baseball championship.

The Giants made four runs, barely enough to win, because they were bright boys and fast on the muddy base paths, pelted with rain during every minute of the battle. The Yankees got only three runs because they thought and moved slowly, or not at all, in the high moments of their attacks.

Such breaks in luck as could be blamed upon the sloppy weather favored the Giants, who took quick advantage of them in a sudden fifth inning spurt that produced all of their runs. But the Yankees could have won the game in spite of adverse fortune had they made use of their legs and heads with as much vigor as they put into swinging their heavy bats.

HUGGINS' STRATEGY WAS CORRECT, McGRAW, BUT—

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—(Canadian Press).—Ill-luck for the Yankees, following one of the smartest pieces of baseball strategy employed during the present World Series, lost the final and deciding game of the 1922 world baseball championship for the New York Americans, in the opinion of John McGraw, manager of the Giants. The strategic move referred to occurred in the eighth inning when, with men on second and third and two out, Huggins ordered Bush to pass "Pep" Young, the Giant right fielder, a left-handed batter. The Yankees at that time were one run ahead of the Nationals, who needed a sacrifice fly to tie or to take the lead.

"Young," said McGraw, "is rated as a sure hitter to right field. By pitching to Young the Yankee infielders would be forced to play back, making it difficult to cut off a run at the plate should he hit one in the infield. On the other hand, should he have driven a fly to right, it would have been hard for Ruth's throw to beat the runner on third to the plate.

"Kelly has been a weak hitter. He had not batted effectively against any of the Yankee hurlers. Huggins figured all these things and ordered Young passed. That, in my opinion, was the best piece of strategy in the series.

"But Kelly broke the law of baseball averages and hit. That was bad luck for the Yankees and a great bit of work by our first baseman.

"The Giants have fought their best throughout the series, and fighting has won for them. We have had good pitching; so have the Yankees, but we had the breaks and we took advantage of them."

"There isn't any use quibbling about it," said Miller Huggins. "We were whipped soundly and well and mostly through our own faults. John McGraw has a great ball team. His men had lots of good luck, but they didn't miss one opportunity to score during the series. They didn't throw a chance away.

"In today's game, when Bush was in trouble in the eighth, I ordered him to pass Young because Young is a dangerous hitter. Kelly had been the weakest batter of the Nationals; he is a right-handed batter and it was sound judgment, I think, to pass Young and work on the first baseman. The tying and winning runs were on the bases anyway, so the passing of Young couldn't hurt much.

"Bush kicked on my order to pass Young, but that was natural. I followed the dictates of my judgment—and lost."

The Yankee players praised Huggins for his leadership throughout the series. They declared that the mistakes that had been made were their own.

BIG GAME RAINED OUT; PLAY AGAIN WEDNESDAY

Hillcrests and Belleville Only Reach the Second Innings of Play - Off Battle When Downpour Puts End to Proceedings

HILLCRESTS LEADING.

Old Jupiter Pluvius butted into the argument at Riverside Park Saturday afternoon and as a result the question as to whether Hillcrests or Belleville will meet Galt in the O.B.A.A. senior finals remains unsettled until Wednesday when the two teams will meet here in a second effort to decide the issue.

Hillcrests were leading 4 to 1, two out and a man on third in their half of the second when Umpire Hallinan rightly deciding that October bathing is to say the least unreasonable, called time. After the legal thirty minutes wait, a mere formality in this case the game was declared off and the dripping managers and officials after a hasty conference decided to have the tilt renewed on Wednesday so practically all that was settled on Saturday was that it was a wet afternoon.

In spite of the frigid atmosphere and the threatening sky over 2,000 customers had gathered from all parts of the Central League territory. "Slats" Kerr and three hundred noise makers were there from Belleville. Knotty Lee the Toronto ivory hunter. President Hunt of the Western City League and other baseball connoisseurs from the Queen City shivered in the stands and experts and near experts from every centre in the district were on hand to see the battle. Included in the crowd were the members of the Leaside ball club, whose reputation as rain-makers is second only to that of Hatfield, and who in the opinion of many Central League fans were responsible for Saturday's downpour.

A drizzling rain set in fifteen minutes before game time and soon after the hostilities commenced the drizzle increased to a downpour that would have delighted an umbrella manufacturer's heart. When the second innings got under way it was wetter than a bootlegger's convention and the moisture was trickling off the chaste features of Umpire Alex Kay in torrents. Umpire Hallinan however must have been thinking of the mistake Hildebrand pulled in the world's series the other day by calling a game too soon for he merely dashed the water out of his eyes and kept them at it until some of the outfielders looked to be going down for the third time before he finally decided it was moist enough to suspend the doing.

About all Saturday's crowd learned from the little they saw was that no matter what kind of twirlers Scott and Williams may be they are certainly not wet ball pitchers. Scott had nothing but a wet uniform and in the innings he pitched he walked no fewer than four men while Williams only differed from the Hillcrest flag pole in that he pitched his wild one with his left arm.

Belleville won the toss and took the field first with Walker the first Hillcrest batter to face Williams. The second ball thrown by the Indian hit the batter and he started for first only to be called back by Umps Hallinan to whom Walker's playful habit of taking a slow one on some portion of his anatomy was well known. The Hillcrest lead off man then fanned. Duke Hennessey, imitating Heinie Groh's stance at the plate fared better for he drew a pass and stole second where upon "Pete" Irwin smote a hot single past Meagher upon which Hennessey easily scored, while the batter rode to second on the toss in. Samuels next up cut loose with a mammoth drive to deep centre that looked like a homer but Ross playing deep ran back and made a beautiful one handed catch. Lancaster however smashed one between Hagerman and Ross for three bases, scoring Irwin after which Waldron rolled weakly to the box and was out.

Belleville didn't do any hitting in their half because Scott kept the ball so far away from the plate that they hadn't a chance. Ross walked to start with and after fouling a couple Weir missed the third one. Peenie Mills sauntered down on four wide ones and brother Harry might have done the same if he hadn't smashed the first ball near the plate. It was a hard smash to Lang on which Ross was forced at third. J. K. Williams and Meagher watched four bad ones go by, forcing in a run and then Casey with the bases full fanned.

In Hillcrests' second, Lang hoisted to Weir. Scrutton after getting a life when W. Mills missed his foul fly walked and stole second. Scott fanned but Walker drew a pass. So did Hennessey filling the bases. Pete Irwin smashed a single through short scoring Scrutton and when Hagerman threw wild to third Walker also counted. Hennessey reached third on the play and then the game was called.

The line up.

RUGBY INJURY MAY BE FATAL

Allen Arless of Montreal Big Four Team in Critical Condition.

CONACHER STARRED.

MONTREAL, Oct. 9 (Canadian Press)—Football circles in Montreal were shrouded in gloom tonight as a result of the critical condition of Allan Arless, plucky little quarter of the M.A.A.A. team, who sustained what are indicated as fatal injuries to his spine in Saturday's Argonaut-Montreal game here. The Argonaut team are equally downcast despite their 16 to 7 victory and their now commanding lead toward retention of the inter-Provincial title. Arless was knocked unconscious when he went in to sub for Frank McGill in the third quarter. McGill was ruled off after he had draped himself over Connacher and in the next play his sub was knocked down and carried from the field. It did not develop until after the game was over that he was seriously injured.

The game was one of the most stubbornly fought inter-Provincial battles witnessed here since pre-war days. For the first three quarters the locals representatives kept even with the double blues and for a time around the beginning of the third quarter it looked as if they were about to take command of the situation. At this point Connacher and "Joe Joe" Stirett commenced to do the brunt of the work for the champions, with the result that their brilliant efforts caused the Red and Blue defence to crumple long enough to permit the Argos to take the lead, through a series of rouges and then in the last quarter Stirett settled the issue when he went over for a touchdown. Undaunted the Winged Wheelers fought gamely during the last five minutes, but while they carried the play into promising touchdown territory they were unable to add to their total.

THRILLING RUGBY IN O.R.F.U. SENIOR.

Parkdale and St. Brigid's Played in Ottawa Mud.

OTTAWA, Oct. 8.— (Canadian Press)—In one of the most thrilling and gruelling football contests witnessed in the capital in recent years the Parkdale Canoe Club, present champions of the Ontario Rugby Football Union defeated St. Brigids of Ottawa by 10 to 5 in the opening fixture of that organization here Saturday afternoon. The game was played under the most trying conditions and the players of both sides emerged from the contest a mud-begrimed and exhausted set of gridiron warriors. The game started in a downpour of rain which threatened every minute to turn into snow. The field was a quagmire and a withering wind blew straight up the field from the south.

HILLCRESTS AND BELLEVILLE PLAY HERE WEDNESDAY

Postponed Game is Called For 2.30 p.m. at Riverside Park.

The Hillcrest-Belleville game postponed from Saturday will be played at Riverside Park on Wednesday, and fans all over the district are hoping for favourable weather conditions in order that the teams may have an opportunity of showing their real calibre.

The postponement will favour Hillcrests' chances for it will mean that they will likely have both Connacher and Batstone on their lineup. The latter will be a big help to the Toronto crew, but Conacher with a left hand pitcher working is not likely to fatten his batting average.

Wednesday's game is called for 2.30 o'clock, a half hour earlier than on Saturday, and fans are asked to notice the change in the hour. Frank Hallinan of Toronto and Alex Kay of Peterboro will be the umpires.

GAME CALLED WITH C.G.E. IN LEAD

Intermediate O. B. A. A. Final at Oshawa Washed Out at the End of the Second.

Only two innings of the C.G.E.-St. Aidan's Intermediate O.B.A.A. semi-final were played at Oshawa on Saturday when the intermitent rain turned on the taps and let them run. The score was then 2-0 in favor of the C.G.E., who scored in the first innings. After a thirty-minute retirement at the end of the first the teams went out again, but they got through only another frame, and the umpires, Boundy of Cobourg and Wilson of Oshawa, called the game off. Frost was pitching for C.G.E. and was working nicely against Borebank, the Toronto southpaw.

BALTIMORE WON THIRD.

BALTIMORE Md., Oct. 8.—(Canadian Press)—After a game, uphill fight, in which they overcame a five-run lead which St. Paul of the American Association piled up in the third inning, the Baltimore Club of the International League, won the third game of the Little World's Series here this afternoon, 13 to 10. THREE STRAIGHT FOR EXCELSIORS

Dr. Sheehy's Team Wins First Half of City League Rugby.

Excelsiors won the first half of the City Rugby League schedule by defeating Crescents on Saturday by the score of 24-0. Most of the game was played in the rain at the Oval and was marked by the clever work of the Excelsiors' backfield, especially Angus McLeod and Emmet Sheehy. Long passes and end runs figured largely in the winners' system, while their wing line appeared to be weak in spots. Sheehy and McLeod got two touches apiece, and the other four points were made on kicks for single points. Mike Sheehy and C. Legendre were Crescents' best performers. The officials were Gifford and Dobbin.

The Collegiate-Belmont game was cancelled, and it is understood that the second half of the schedule will be started next Saturday.

Eating too much meat may produce kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well known authority, because the uric acid excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or the kidneys are not acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder troubles.

Jad Salts cannot injure anybody, makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and the urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disorders.

GIANTS IN ACTION WELL AS STATURE.

Was Comment on New York Ball Team 25 Years Ago.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—(Associated Press).—Giants in action as well as in stature," mused old Jim Mutrie, one day more than a quarter century ago, as he sat observing the New York team, then an aggregation of six-footers, stride to victory as easily as a fairy-book man wearing seven-league boots would win a Marathon race.

Ever since they met the "Giants"—professionally, competitively and financially, Jim was the "Daddy of the Giants," and had the right to attach a moniker to his figurative progeny, but when he uttered his now famous phrase he did it out of simple admiration. A reporter sitting near to him usurped the ministerial function and did the baptizing.

The Giants are now 40 years old. Mutrie brought the club into existence in 1883 by inducing John B. Day, a rabbid fan of the sideburns days, to finance his idea. Jim took the management and played the first season's on the old Polo Grounds, then on Fifth Avenue, gaining admittance to the National League in its initial year by replacing the Troy team.

On that "nine," figuratively and actually a "nine" with no substitute pitchers nor catchers, were "Buck Ewing," Mickey Welch, Roger Connor, Pat Gillespie and Ed. Haskins, all big muscular men. Mutrie remained as manager until Day sold his interests to Cornelius Van Cott in 1893. Van Cott didn't stick along, disposing of the franchise in 1895 after the club had finished fifth in 1894.

Andrew Freedman was the next owner, retaining control for eight years, but the club was unsuccessful, finishing in the second division in every year except 1897. In his eighth year span, Freedman had eleven managers, including George Davis, Jack Doyee, Harvey Watkins, Arthur Irwin, Bill Joyce, Captain A. C. Anson, John B. Day, Fred. Hoey, Buck Ewing, George Smith and Horace Fogel.

John Joseph McGraw, "Napoleon of Baseball," came to the helm in 1903, after he had lost both his heart and head in the old Baltimore Orioles, and finished second his first year. John T. Brush, builder of the present imposing edifice, sometimes called the Brush Stadium, was the owner then.

The following year McGraw's team won the pennant but refused to play the Boston Americans for the World's Championship. The refusal led to the formation of the former National Commission in the following year and it at once made mandatory a series of contests for the supremacy of the world. The Giants won the pennant again the next year and defeated the Philadelphia Athletics, four games to one, for the title.

Harry Hempstead, in 1911, succeeded his father-in-law, John T. Brush, as head of the club, and six years later gave McGraw a new contract which included stock in the operating company. Two years later Charles A. Stoneham, Francis McQuade and McGraw purchased the club from the Brush estate and Stoneham became the president.

AT THE ROYAL.

SHIRLEY MASON SOON TO BE HERE AGAIN

To-day at the Royal Theatre begins a three days' run of "Lights of the Desert," a Fox production starring Shirley Mason. It relates the adventures of a girl who is stranded with a show in a desert town in the west. She is shunned by the women gossips of the town, and makes good in the face of untoward circumstances. Miss Mason's piquant beauty and exceptional talent in both light comedy and emotional work are said to have excellent material for the display in this picture.

Theres' a vivacity about this star—a radiating glow—which captures everyone who watches her on the screen. She is an artist in all she does. Her laughter nadher tears are genuine mirth and sorrow.

Allan Forrest supports Miss Mason in "Lights of the Desert" and Harry Beaumont directed the picture— which is reported to have been most favorably received elsewhere by both critics and public.

AT THE GRAND.

"LISTEN TO MEE" A FANTASTIC EXTRAVAGANZA

Authors from time to time have written clever musical plays, keeping in touch with the public demand. Once upon a time rural themes held sway; these were replaced by the Tango craze and then followed the Jazz rage. The public sanctioned each in its turn until one by one they faded into the past. The writers looked about for a solution to the public's clamor, until today America's yearning has been apeased by the presentation of a fantastic extravaganza, a musical play and light opera blended into one.

LeComte and Flesher's brilliant musical extravaganza, "Listen To Me" coming to the Grand Theatre tonight is composed of this enriched mixture, which seemingly touches the keynote of public desire. "Listen To Me" is a magnificent panorama of splendor; a fantasy brilliantly unfolded through scenes of novelty, fairylike stage settings, gorgeous costuming, artistic delivery of play, and the entrancing melody of music. It has proven a welcome change to the fastidious auditor of amusement and placed "Listen to Me" in the highest esteem of triumph.

Mr. Charles George, the author, has recently become famous by writing four successes in one season and this is clearly conceived in the presentation of "Listen to Me" as the masterpiece shows every sign of an illustrious genius.

"SONYA" COMING.

Mr. Marc Klaw, one of the best known theatrical managers in America, is sending his production of "Sonya" a hauntingly beautiful love story to this city in the near future.

MARION WELLS as Sonya, and ROBERT ADAMS as Prince Alexander, in "SONYA"—at the Grand on 14th October.

It will be the attraction at the Grand on Saturday next, October 14th.

An excellent cast will present the play here, and the entire presentation will have the same careful staging and production which accompanied its long run last season at the 48th Street Theatre, New York.

"Sonya" is a historical romance, adapted from the Polish of the great dramatist, Gabryela Zapolska, who is said to have become an international figure the day this play was produced in Europe. The English version is effected in a brilliant and colorful fashion. It is the story of a little circus dancer who wins the love of a Prince. She is brought to the Palace by the Prince's cousin who hopes to bring disfavor to the Prince. Believing her to be a bol, the Prince engages her to be a boy, the Prince engages finds herself directly or indirectly, the cause of unusual complications. To fool the enemy of the Prince, she pretends to be his mistress, but in reality they are only friends and companions. The Prince is weary of the traditions and conventions which surround him. He falls in love with the beautiful ballet dancer. Complications of plot and counter-plot provide a wealth of interest which holds the audience from beginning to end. Of course, Love is triumphant.

THE BEST THAT EVER CAME TO CANADA.

The De eFo Grand Opera Company Comes to Peterboro.

The De Feo Grand Opera Company whom the Montreal press, usually hard to please, has proclaimed the "best Opera Company that has ever visited Canada," and whom the Toronto press has christened "the sensation of the Canadian National Exhibition," is coming to the Grand, for one gala performance, on Friday, October 13th.

It is a grand opportunity indeed for all those who love music and art to reevl for one night in pure beauty. The opera chosen for this occasion is Lucia by Donizetti, one of the most popular operas on account of its tuneful music and its simple and dramatic story.

The artists of the De Feo Grand Opera Company, belong to the greatest operatic stages of the world; some of them are of the Metropolitan opera house of New York; some of them Covent Garden, London, and others hail from the principal Italian opera houses, while the Grand Opera of Paris can claim at least three of them. Besides the company carries its own orchestra and chorus; the stage settings and the costumes are brand new, and have been made specially for this Canadian tour.

In spite of the fact that the company is under very heavy expense—over $9000 per week—Mr. De Feo has insisted that no higher price than $2 should be charged, in order to bring opera within the reach of everybody instead of making it a luxury for the few. The educational avlue of these performances should not be underestimated, and the Canadian public is expected to give its full support to this highly artistic enterprise in order to make the visit of this first class opera company a yearly event.

We will give some more interesting details about this unique performance before Friday, but let us announce now that the seats will be on sale at the Grand from Tuesday on.

BIG VAUDEVILLE ACT AT CAPITOL

Sensational Picture Success, "The Storm," and Concert Orchestra Complete Great Program.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week the Capitol Theatre presents one of the best programs of the season Buck West, the Singing Sheriff from Bear County, Texas, one of the best novelty singing acts now on the stage, and "The Storm", the sensationally successful picturization of George Broadhurst's play which took Broadway by storm last season, feature the program with the Capitol Concert Orchestra, under the direction of Miss Florence Gladman.

ACTING IN 'THE STORM' IS SUPERB

House Peters and Virginia Valli Do Best Work of Their Careers

The limited number of principals in the cast of "The Storm", gives each of the three featured players an unusual opportunity for making his acting stand out prominently. House Peters, the star, and Virginia Valli and Matt Moore make the most of their chances. They give a performance that is flawless from an artistic point of view and one hundred per cent in entertainment value.

The play in all its magnificent action is uncommonly gripping and affords an audience the keenest pleasure and suspense. Virginia Valli as the French-Canadian orphan, loved by both Burr Winton and Dave Stew art, is a lovable type and plays the part with a deep understanding and sympathy that is winning her wide spread commendation.

"The Storm" presents the struggle between the two lovers to win the girl and the attempt of Manette to play fair with both of them. The demands for a happy ending are met in an unusual, but natural way that sends everyone home happy.

The portrayal of the storm and fire scenes are master strokes of stage management and reflect great credit on universal, Director Reginald Barker and and his associates. None of the stupendous grandeur of Langdon McCormick's scenic spectacle has been lost in the film, rather it has been enhanced by virtue of the wider latitude given to the camera.

The forest fire scene in the picture was enacted under grave dangers to the players and the cameramen. The faces of the tro are discernable at all times as they pushed forward through the fire swept passes of the mountains.

New York and other metropolitan critics have been unanimous in endorsing "The Storm" as one of the greatest pictures produced in a decade, and it probably will be ranked faces of the trio are discernable at all year.

FOURTH VICTORY FOR LIVERPOOL

Won By Five-Goal Margin From Everton — Other Surprises in Old Country Soccer.

LONDON, Oct. 8. — (Canadian Press Cable.)—Notable among the several big surprises of yesterday's league football results was Port Vale's win on the ground of Manchester United who have not been particularly successful hitherto in their efforts to return to the premier division.

Another surprise was Plymouth's successful raid on the record of Portsmouth whose clean goal sheet was spoiled by two goals. The player winning the distinction of beating Portsmouth's goal-keeper for the first time this season was Fowler, who scored in the first minute. Batten followed his example before half-time. The Plymouth team, who narrowly missed promotion last season, will now supplant Portsmouth at the head of the southern section of the third division.

Liverpool looks like being the outstanding team of the season, their five goal victory over Everton in the first division being their fourth such victory this season. Liverpool's goal average is now 26 for and 11 against.

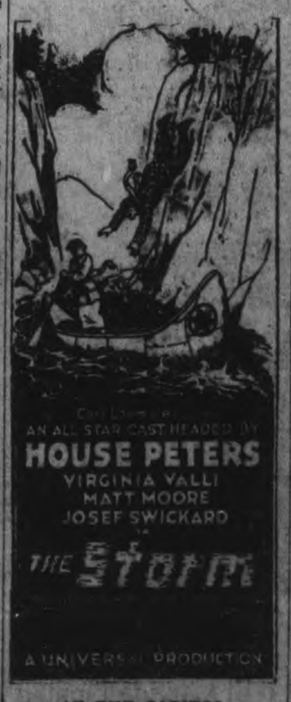
Another first league side scoring heavily lately is Sunderland whose four goals against Cardiff was an impressive performance.

Tottenham suffered their first defeat away at the hands of Aston Villa. Arsenal alone of the London first leaguers won yesterday, beating West Bromwich by a convincing score in a scrambling game.

London's second leaguers near the bottom of the table showed some improvement although Fulham failed at Sheffield.

Barnesley, leaders of the second division strengthened their position by defeating their near rivals, Nottingham county.

Although twenty home teams were successful yesterday, ten visiting teams won and there are 13 drawn games. Forty three matches yielded 113 goals. No fewer than 26 clubs failed to find the net.



AT THE CAPITOL. TO-NIGHT

FINISHED FIRST WITHOUT JOCKEY.

Amusing Incident of Big Race on French Track.

PARIS, October 9 (Canadian Press) — Madame Edmond Blanche Kear, with Bullock up, won the 300,000 francs Arch of Triumph race at Longchamps yesterday before the first characteristic crowd of the autumn racing season.

The day was a fine one, although chilly, and the leaders of fashion, back from the resorts, competed with the dressmakers' models for the attention of the holiday crowd.

The big race had only French entries. Much amusement was afforded by Baron De Rothschild's Mont Blanc, which threw MacGee, his jockey, at the starting post, and then led the field throughout the race, coming home ahead of the winner.

A FINAL WARNING.

The public has been warned repeatedly to lay in substitutes for coal for the fall and spring, because Canada will not receive more than 50 or 60 per cent. of her supply of coal for this winter.
There is no better or cleaner fuel for grates than peat, and it is one of the best and most convenient substittues for fall and spring use, at any time.
We are advised that all available peat this season will be harvested and shipped within the next weeks. So leave your orders with J. E. A. Fitzgerald, while they may be filled, and thus save future regrets.

AUSTRIAN PEOPLE HOARDING MONEY.

Have More Than Enough to Place Country on Her Feet.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—(Associated Press).—The people of Austria are hoarding the money; it would take £10,000,000 to place Austria on her feet again financially, yet Austrians have in Swiss banks an amount estimated at £18,000,000.
These statements are contained in a report made by the British Department of Overseas Trade on the economic condition of Austria. In summing up the Austrian situaton this report says:
"The psychological difficulty is prevalent pessimism which inhibits initiative on the parts of the Austrians themselves, and makes them look solely abroad for salvation. The amount of foreign credits generally estimated to be necessary to place Austria on its feet again by stabilizing th currency and founding a new bank of issue is about £10,000,000.
"It is an open secret that, despite the law to the contrary, very much larger sums in foreign currencies than this are hoarded by Austrians, both inside and outside the country; the amount lying in Swiss banks alone has been estimated at £18,000,000.
"But these resources lie idle because the owners have no confidence in the government or the future of the country. Probably both the political and psychological difficulties can be overcome most easily by financial assistance gven by foreigners under suitable control and conditions The Austrians, however, must show that they are ready to co-operate by taking at least the first steps to put their house in order themselves. There is some prospect of this being done at an early date.

CHEMONG.

How I love to stray
On a summer day
By the lake where the game
'lunge hide,
Where the waters gleam
Like a silver sheen
'Neath the sun at eventide.

When the southland breeze
Thru' the tall pine trees
Sings its low, sweet crooning song,
Oh! I love you then,
My brightest gem,
My dear old Lake Chemong!

From the marsh meads high,
I can hear the cry
Of the marsh-bird to its mate,
And from the deep
See the black-bass leap
Where the waters quickly break.

And the float-bridge, too,
Is plain in view,
That links dear Ennismore,
With its moss-sheathed hem
Like an emerald gem,
On the lake, from shore to shore.

To my quiet retreat
Comes a sound now sweet
Of tuneful melody,
Of robin and golden oriole
As they fly from tree to tree.

And had I a choice
In this paradise,
Where your waters flow along,
I would live and die
'Neath the bright blue sky
By the shores of old Chemong.

CHANAK AS STRONG NOW AS GIBRALTAR.

Only Three Weeks Old But a Formidable Fortress.

CHANAK, October 9 (Canadian Press). — "We are only three weeks old, but already have the strength of Gibraltar," proudly said a British captain who escorted an Associated Press correspondent ashore at Chanak yesterday.
It is exactly three weeks since preparation for the defence of Chanak were begun, and in that time the straggling village of white walled houses has become the centre of one of the most formidable fortresses in the world.
The evidence of Great Britain's earnest preparations for whatever may happen in the Near East greets the visitor on all sides, and officers in charge, who are all veterans of the World War, declare that no defensive positions on the West front were more impregnable.
From the harbour, where a dozen freighters and transports swing at anchor, there is little to be seen, except a few gaunt earthworks and hospital buildings to the east of the town.
Here and there along the hillsides are groups of white tents, and a long, white highway, which twists across the town and disappears among the close-clipped hills, is dotted with artillery trucks, mule waggons, and other transports.
But the real defences are back from the town in the rocky valleys, protected from prying eyes.

SPRINGS LOCATED BY VENETIAN GIRL.

Is Looking Forward to Profitable Employment.

ROME, Oct. 9. — (Associated Press).—Augusta Del Pio Luogo, a beautiful young girl of Venice, is looking forward to a period of profitable and pleasant employment. Italy is particularly interested just now in two things, the location of petroleum, for all the world wants oil, and the finding of water, for the drought of the past two summers is said to be but the beginning of a long dry spell. To Augusta Del Pio Luogo is ascribed the ability to locate the deposit, within the earth, of both oil and water, and her successes have been so remarkable that her services are being sought by companis interested in oil production and irrigation.
Augusta first noticed her ability when a child. When walking in the country she would notice lttie shocks passing from her feet to her head, causing her distinct pain. In 1909 she met a famous water diviner, Chiabrera, and found that his divining rod acted as well for her as it did for him. A year later she went to Argentina, and, making use of her powers, indicated a number of places where water would be found sometimes at a depth of 600 feet. In each case water was found, but in some instances it turned out to be salt.
Back in Italy after war Augusta in the presence of two engineers, has located not only water, but petreoleum and deposits of pyrites. She no longer uses the diving rod, but a chronometer. It is said that thus equipped she can tell with remarkable accuracy the depth at which the water will be discovered, and whether it is scanty or abundant.

LADY BOUNTBATTEN CHEERED FOR RUTH.

Wealthy English Honeymooners Heard Landis Get "the Bird."

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Lord Louis Mountbatten, dropped in to see the second game of the baseball derby and heard fandom give Judge Landis "the bird."
Lord Louis, with Lady Edwina—who is worth $50,000,000 and looks like $100,000,000—was present when the second game of the series was called a draw and awarded to the American expeditionary force.
"My word, judge, are they handing you the bird?" asked Mountbatten when fans started to hooh the high commissioner of baseball. From this it may be judged that "the bird" is the English translation of "raspberry."
Lord Mountbatten knows baseball Or at least he knows that the time to stretch is in the seventh inning. The royal fan ate hot dogs, drank pop and consumed ice cream cones.
Lady Edwina was an enthusiastic rooter for the Yanks. And when the bambino attempted to steal home Lady Edwina thrust aside the string of pearls around her neck — they were as big as baseballs — and cheered.
Lord and Lady Mountbatten like baseball and are sorry they can't see the whole series. "But we're on our honeymoon," said Lord Louis "and we're going inland a bit."

Another Peterboro Boy Wins Hcnor in The United States

Walter M. Fife, formerly of Peterborough and recently of Edmonton, Alta., won distinctive honors, when by virtue of his high scholarship, he was foremost among the leaders of the largest graduating class in the history of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Boston. This class, numbered seven hundred and forty-three.

Mr. Fife, who graduated from course "1" of civil engineering led the entire class in academic credits and was awarded the degree of Master of Science, the highest awarded at Technology this year.

The commencement exercises were held with all the traditional Technology pomp and display in the general court before more than 3,500 relatives and friends from all parts of the United States and Canada, Cuba, Mexico and South America.

Walter M. Fife is a son of James A. Fife and both have many friends in Peterborough, where the father was a teacher in the Collegiate Institute, leaving for Edmonton in 1906. The son was a gold medalist in engineering when he graduated from the University of Alberta and James A. Fife is now inspector in the department of education in that province.

In the foregoing connection it is interesting to note that Walter M. Fife made so favorable an impression on the professor's of the Boston School of Technology that they offered him the position of Assistant Professor of Engineering in that institution, which position he accepted and is now filling.

This talented young engineer is to be congratulated upon having upheld the traditions of Peterborough Collegiate Institute; where he was a promising student, and from whence so many brilliant young Canadians have graduated.

BUDGET SYSTEM FIRMLY OPPOSED

Would Not Meet Difficulties Confronting Methodists.

TORONTO, October 10 (Canadian Press). — The re-organisation of the various departments of work in the Methodist Church under the budget system, as contained in the report of the Committee on the Department at Work, met with strong opposition when presented to the Methodist General Conference this morning.

In many ways the report is a radical document, and aims at the elimination of overlapping and unnecessary expenditure in the departments of the church.

The chief opponent of the proposals was Sir Joseph Flavelle, who announced that as a member of the committee he had opposed the budget system from the outset. He spoke the prevalent mind of the delegates who took part in the discussion when he declared that the budget system would not meet the difficulties confronting the department or the claims of many districts which had presented memorials for reform in connection with the work. It seemed to him that the pressing forward of the budget plan as a measure of relief was a mistake in the tactics as well as in procedure. Something more far-reaching than a budget plan was required, although he was not prepared to say what it was.

SNAKES ROBBED OF THEIR VENOM TO AID SCIENCE

Poison Extracted From 33 Bronx Zoo Mocassins and Copperheads so Secure Serum.

TESTS ON ANIMALS

NEW YORK. October 10. — Poison was extracted from 33 snakes at the Bronx Zoological Gardens, because the demand for snake serum has been greatly stimulated. following extensive laboratory experiments which are said to prove that the whiskey treatment aggravates snake bites instead of curing them.

Raymond L. Ditmars, Curator of Reptiles, caused 24 copperheads, and nine water moccasins to give up their poison, which will be developed into serum by Dr. Afranio Amaral, of the Department of Snake Antitoxins, in the Brazilian Institute of Serum Therapy. The experiments supposed to prove that whiskey helps to kill snake bite victims instead of curing them, were carried on at this institution in Brazil under the direction of Dr. Amaral, who is now engaged in research work at the Harvard Medical School . These experiments were described by Dr. Gilbert Vander Smissen, a specialist in the treatment of snake bites, who assisted in the delicate work of poison collecting in the glass room of the Reptile House at the Zoo.

The genial old standard remedy for snake bite has been suspected of worthlessness by physicians for years, according to Dr. Vander Smissen, but the recent experiments in Brazil have proved that a quart of Scotch or rye actually hinders the patient's chance of recovery.

Test Sober and Drunken Mammals.

The Brazilian experiments are conclusive. according to the specialist, in spite of the hundreds of miracles attributed to whiskey in the last few years. The activity of poisonous snakes in biting humans has increased one hundred fold, according to the investigators ,and hundreds have reported themselves snake bitten in communities hitherto regarded as snakeless. Judged by the demand for prescriptions, it is asserted that Long Island has been wholly misrepresented in the natural histories which allege that it is almost free from poisonous snakes. It has all the reptilia of a tropical jungle, according to recent medical history.

"The procedure in the Brazilian experiments," said Dr. Vander Smissen, "was to take a series of mammals and dose them with whiskey. Then poisonous snakes were caused to bite them. A similar series of mammals were kept sober and they, too, were bitten by snakes. The intoxicated animals all died five or six hours before the sober animals.

"The fact of the matter seems to be that whiskey or a / other alcoholic liquor, instead of counteracting the poison merely acts to speed up the circulation, to spread the poison more quickly throughout the body and to speed the chemical changes which it causes.

"If you want to kill a snake-bite patient give him whiskey. The best treatment for snake bites to-day appears to be to remove as much of the poison as possible mechanically, to wash the wound, and then to treat the patient with serum. My own experience indicates that nothing else should be done. We have often injected permanganate of potash about the wound, but this it is likely does more harm than good. The drug kills the tissue and seems to have no beneficial effect."

Collecting the Poison.

The snakes were collected into two kegs for the poison extraction. They were lifted out by large wire hooks and placed on a table, where an instrument was placed just behind the head to render it impossible for them to strike. Each of the thirty-three snakes wriggled and struggled, but none succeedd in threatening the nimble operators, who were used to handling quick-thinking reptiles.

Allowing the first snake an inch or two of room in which to strike, Mr. Dittmars placed a glass funnel covered with parchment before the reptile. It struck instantly, the quarter inch fangs penetrating the parchment. Each of the snake's natural hypodermic needles ejected poison. The snake specialist then caught the subject back of the jaws and squeezed the poison glands, forcing another drop from the fangs. The poison was allowed to run from the small funnel into a glass receptacle One after another the 33 snakes were thus treated, , and a total of 60 drops of poison collcted, the venom of the moccasin being kept separate from that of the copperhead.

HAILEYBURY FIRE VICTIM BURNED OUT SIX TIMES

During Recent Conflagration J. Thorpe Took His Wife and Seven Children to Safety in His Hearse

HAILEYBURY, October 10 (Canadian Press). — Seevral sensational and novel escapes were made from Northern Ontario's fire wave, but J. Thorpe, an undertaker, thinks that he had the prize one of the lot.

"I took my family, wife and seven children, away in my hearse," he said. "It was standing on Browning Street at the time, and when the fire came on so suddenly, I just packed them into it, and away we went."

Mr. Thorpe states that this is the sixth time he has been burned out.

FIVE CHURCHES ARE DESTROYED

Anglican Faith Lost Heavily in the Northern Ontario Fire.

COBALT, Oct. 10. — (Canadian Press.) — The work of searchers throughout the fire-stricken areas of the north continue to bring to light accounts of incidents which took place during those short tragic hours when the flames were wiping out homes of so many thousands. Some of these incidents are heart-rendering, others were featured by deeds of splendid courage and some even had a touch of humor even in the midst of all sadness.

Mrs. C. C. Farr, widow of the founder of Haileybury, and her daughter, Mrs. Blackwell, by their heroic efforts rescued two aged aunts of Mrs. Blackwell and several children. Mrs. Blackwell had never driven a car more than a mile or so, but as her husband was at Timmins she unhesitatingly took the wheel of his big car and handled it like a veteran chauffeur.

The Anglicans lost five churches in the fire. Archbishop Thornloe, of the Diocese of Algoma, after whom the village of Thornloe is named, is on a tour of the district, and expressed his opinion that most of the churches will be rebuilt. "It was a terrible tragedy," he said, "but the thing that impresses me most is the wonderful spirit of the people of the North."

The death toll in last week's conflagration is now officially estimated at 44 by Dr. F. W. Routley, Director of the Canadian Red Cross and a member of the Northern Relief Committee. Of this total four are unidentified.

Friends and Relatives Assemble at Home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Taylor.

On Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Taylor, of 580 Bolivar street, celebrated the golden anniversary of their wedding, in the presence of nearly forty of their friends and relatives.

Mr. Taylor, who is in his 78th year, and his wife, who will be 75 years old this month, were both born and brought up in the township of Otonabee, where they lived up until ten years ago, then removing to Peterborough. Mr. Taylor spent 40 years as a farmer in Otonabee, finally leaving the land on the 8th of October, the same day of the year that saw his marriage, 50 years ago, in Otonabee, in the days "before there were any autos or flying machines."

Twelve children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, five of whom were removed by malignant fever within a fortnight, just thirty-five years ago. Of the seven children living, five were present at the anniversary celebration: Mrs. A. E. Best, of Toronto, Mrs. G. H. Hunter of Brooklin, Mrs. F. H. Dowler, o f Peterborough, Dr. J. C. Taylor, of Toronto ,and E. R. Taylor, of the G.T. R. office staff, this city. Mrs. G. H. Powell, of Caron, Sask., and Mrs. D. R. Harrison, of Vermilion, Alta., are daughters. There were present also a niece, Mrs. A. E. Greenbank, with her husband, from Norwood, and a nephew, George Harvey, with his wife, from Warkworth. Norman Montgomery, of Brighton, is a nephew. Messages of congratulation were received from numerous relatives and friends, while the many useful and beautiful presents received included three gold pieces, an electric heater, and a sum of money for the purchase of a buffet.

THE TOMB OF HEROD'S COUSIN IS UNEARTHED

Antiochus Was One of Those Who Directed Slaughter of Children in Ancient Bethlehem

THE OLDEST CITY

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 10.—The burial place of Herod's first cousin, Antiochus, has been found by explorers of the Museum of the University of Pennsylvania, at Beth Shan, in Palestine, according to announcement made at the museum by Dr. George Byron Gordon, the Director.

Antiochus, in all probability, was one of the men charged by Herod with directing the slaughter of the children of Bethlehem, as narrated by St. Matthew, in the vain effort to kill the Christ Child, who had been described to Herod by the wise men as the "King of the Jews."

No discovery made by archaeologists since a start was made a century ago on the exploration of buried cities in the Near East has aroused so much interest among followers of Christianity. It is the nearest approach so far made to the finding of contemporary records of Christ and of the events leading up to the founding of the Christian religion.

Information of the discovery came to the Museum from Dr. Clarence Stanley Fisher, director of excavations of Beth Shan, who has just concluded the second half year of operations here. In a letter to Dr. Gordon some time ago he announced that a hard stone sarcophagus was found in one of the Roman tombs at the site. On it was an inscription in Greek.

Puzzled By Inscription.

"The letters were quite clear," Dr. Fisher wrote, "but the date at the beginning and the name at the end puzzled us. We have in the camp no works of reference, and so could not look up any of the details. On Monday we had a visit from Pere Vincent and two of his colleagues and, of course, showed them the sarcophagus. They also could not get the meaning, but supposed, as we had done, that the last name was some local family name.

"As soon as they returned to Jerusalem Pere Vincent looked up the name and has just sent me a letter giving the results of his search. The inscription refers to Antiochus, the son of Phallion. The latter was the brother of Antipater, founder of the Herodian Dynasty, and father of Herod the Great. Hence, the owner of our sarcophagus was the first cousin of Herod the Great.

"Now the interesting part is that the father, Phallion, was killed in this district during a battle with Pompey, and his son, Antiochus, was supposed to have died here some time later. The discovery of his coffin in our cemetery proved this point beyond a doubt. So far as I know, this is the first sarcophagus of the Herodian family which had been found.

Of almost equal importance is the announcement that Dr. Fisher had found in deeper levels of occupation the first known Sarcophangi of the Philistines. It will be recalled by readers of the Bible that the Philistines defeated King Saul on Mount Gilboa, which overshadows the ancient fortress city, and, cutting off his head, nailed his body to the city walls.

Hope to Find Philistine Records.

Historians have been puzzled to account for the Philistines heretofore, as contemporary records of them were few and far between. The hope is now entertained that somewhere in the ruins may be found perhaps their own version of the great battle story told in First Samuel.

Archaeologists consider the Philistine coffins of even greater importance than the sarcophagus of Antiochus or the stole of King Sety I. of Egypt, the latter found in the first year of work at Beth Shan. The coffins were made of clay and differ from any hertofore found. Each bore the likeness of a human face modeled into the clay at the head of the coffin.

Levels of six cities have been found so far at Beth Shan, and it is known there are more below. The site is said to have been occupied for a longer continuous period than any other place of human habitation. It was also the most fought over spot in the world, since it commands the gateway between Mesopotamia and Egypt and was necessary to the conquest of Palestine. Crusaders fortified the hill, and General Allenby took it from the Tufks in the World War.

DENOUNCES WAR AS BAD BLUNDER

Chicago Mayor Tells Germans That America Made Ghastly Error in Entering It.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—Mayor Wm. Hale Thompson made a speech here at the celebration of "Der Deutschen Tag," on the municipal pier by Germans in Chicago in which he denounced America's entrance into the World War and defended his attitude in the matter. He was cheered frequently.

Mayor Thompson said that both he and his audience realized the "mistake" that America had made in entering the World War.

"I fought against it with all my ability and I have not changed my views one atom," he said. "I stand for the words of George Washington, that it is in the best interests of the country that we should avoid any foreign entanglement and should concern ourselves only with our own domestic affairs. America for the Americans is my view, let the others do what they like. We are here this day to celebrate a unity which the ghastly blunder of entrance has failed to break."

"The blood of thousands is on the head of those at Washington. If they had followed Germany and not England, they would have been right, and things would have been different."

KIWANIS CLUB MEETING TODAY

Mr. F H. Dobbin Gave An Interesting Address-Relief for the North Country—Ladies' Night.

At to-day's weekly luncheon, the Kiwanis Club was favored with an address by Mr. F. H. Dobbin and Mr. DeBalta. The latter was delivered through the medium of Kiwanian George Henderson, due it was stated, to the fact that Mr. DeBalta was suffering from an affliction of the throat. Mr. DeBalta is in the city in the in the interests of the De Feo Grand Opera Company, which comes to Peterboro for one performance on Friday evening of this week. As a fellow Kiwanian Mr. DeBalta referred to some of the recent successful appearances of the company ,and commended it to the Kiwanians and Peterboro citizens generally.

Mr. F. H. Dobbin gave an intensely interesting address on the subject of Quebec and its customs, which Mr. Dobbin observed at first hand during the several weeks he spent in the Province last summer.

The people were described as industrious and home loving. As a province Quebec is destined to make a strong bid for supremacy. It possesses ample power, and industries require no other inducements than freedom from labor troubles, confidence and the progressive spirit of the residents, to induce them to locate in Quebec. The industrial expansion of Queebc is not due to low wages as many claim, but is due in a measure to the continuity of labor and the contented spirit that permeates the residents of the province.

"Running the River."

Mr. Dobbin related a number of incidents connected with his stay in Ouebec, illustrating the life of the French Canadian. Few of them are lured away by the bright lights of the city. A large number of them devote their lives to "running the river," as it is called. This consists of lumbering, driving barges and doing other necessary and useful work associated with river life. Work of this kind is often handed down from one generation to another and forms a striking contrast to the ever-changing habits of many of the people in other provinces throughout the Dominoin.

Mr. Dobbin was tendered a hearty vote of thanks for his excellent address. Kiwanian J. Middleton reported that two weeks from to-night will be ladies' night in Kiwanian circless and something new and unique is promised for the occasion.

Telegrams asking for relief of all kinds for the north country, were read and endorsed by the Kiwanians. Joe Worth announced that the Canadian Woollens Company had several thousand blankets which they were prepared to dispose of at cost, for relief purposes. Cheers greeted this announcement.

THE C.N.R. BOARD MET AS A MATTER OF FORM

TORONTO, Oct. 10.—(Canadian Press.) — Largely as a matter of form and for purposes of organization, the newly appointed Board of Directors of the Canadian National Railways met at the head offices of the system here at ten o'clock this morning. Sir Henry Thornton, chairman of the Board, having returned to England to wind up his affairs there, and other members of the Board being absent, nothing of great importance could be decided at this meeting.

SLEPT THROUGH FIRE'S TERRORS AT HAILEYBURY

Twelve Months' Old Mary Gordon Escaped Injury During the Conflagration in North Ontario

FATHER'S DEVOTION

Little twelve-months-old Mary Gordon slept peacefully yesterday. For the first time in three days, she had had a complete and lovely bath and she was just as contented as if she had just passed through an era of peacful content, instead of a holocaust which took with it her parent's prety new home and almost everything they owned in the world, except a silver tea basket, and the clothes they stood in.

Mary is the little daughter of Mr, and Mrs. George Gordon, of Haileybury, and she slept just as peacefully through the night of terror that left the ill-fated Nothern town a smoking ruin. The day before the fire, she had an attack of acute indigestion, caused by the skilful purloining of an apple while her mother's back was turned, and gave her father and mother a great deal of anxiety with her loud complaints, but slumber descended on the clothes basket that sheltered her on the edge of the lake, during the dreadful night, while her mother shivered in a light dress, with white shoes and stockings and no hat, and her father warded off the fire and the smoke with the Hudson Bay blankets that covered his own family, and the families of two neighbors, whose men were absent at the time. Every ten minutes, these blankets became dry and dangerous from the intense flame, and George Gordon must have worked like a Trojan during the long hours from five to eleven o'clock, while his home, just a block away, burned to the ground, and the bitter cold wind and towering waves of the treacherous lake left the women chilled and shivering, between spasms of furious heat from the flames.

At half-past four, Mrs. Gordon sat on her verandah and discussed the situation with her next door neighbor. From where they sat, suddenly a long tongue of flame reached a house a couple of blocks away and within a few minutes, an entire block was a roaring furnace. They decided to go down to the water's edge, and here at five o'clock, they watched their house, along with four other bungalows of the same type, catch fire and burn. This group of five houses was the only toll that the fire took in that especial district, the other residences across the street and in the same neighborhood remaining untouched. It was to her neighbour's house across the way that Mrs. Gordon went at eleven o'clock that night, when the fury of the flame had abated sufficiently.

That the action of the Hearst brothers practically saved the lives of many of the refugees had not been commented on to any great extent. These men had a mine near a small bay, across from which was the pulp mill and its four hundred and fifty cords of pulp wood, which, if ignited would have created a smudge and choking gas that would inevitably have resulted in the deaths of many. The brothers, whose large water tank, filled to its capacity of many hundreds of gallons, had been filled just that morning, fought the fire for hours and prevented it from leaping across the narrow stretch of water while Mrs. Hearst lay embeded in wet sand up to her neck. Seven men sent to help the Hearsts refused to stay, when they learned that a large quantity of dynamite was stored on the mine premises.

A neighbor of Mrs. Gordon's had borrowed some of her tea things for a social affair a few days before. The morning of the fire, all were returned except a handsome silver tea basket. This neighbor's house was saved, so Mrs. Gordon has at least one article of value remaining from the Haileybury fire, out of the many lovely things in her own home, just bought and moved into in May last. But thoughts of silver and of valuables were far from the minds of the refugees on that terrible night. The only things that mattered to them then were the splendid saving qualities of the Hudson Bay blankets which served both as a shield from the fiery heat overhead and from the icy blast of the wind.

The hearse evidently was saved from the general ruin. The men and women who were taken out of the hospital were removed in it next morning to a safer harborage.

The newspaper report that Bishop Latulippe was removed from a sick bed in the hospital during the fire

TO-DAY'S BLUNDER CORRECTED

Potato skins, bones, and other uneatables should be placed on the edge of one's plate or on a bread and butter plate at the side, rather than on the table cloth.

ENGLAND AT THE STRAITS.

England, let them accuse you as they will—
Charge that your helm Expediency steers,
To make you come off best, through all the years.
And aye your sails with winds Favonian fill.
But, when all this is said, record it still:
On danger's bound, with front defying fears,
England is there! And with or without peers,
She stands the red blood from her veins to spill!

So, at this moment, men behold her braced—
The hope-forlorn of bleeding Christendom,
On, ready, too, again that cup to taste
Which at Gallipoli was mixed with tears . . .
Let voices in reproach awhile be dumb,
Or say, The Virtue of her faults inheres!
—Edith M. Thomas, in The New York Times.

CONSCRIPTION IS FORECASTED FOR IRELAND

Richard Mulcahy Outlines His Plan For Compulsory Service of All Young Men For Constructive Work.

PRESS COMMENT.

DUBLIN, Oct. 10. —(Canadian Press).—The possibility of conscription in Ireland is considered in some quarters to have been forecast by Richard Mulcahy, the Commander-in Chief, in the course of a speech to a division of the troops at Germanstown yesterday.

'We in the Irish Army look forward to our being a big national organization through which this young manhood of Ireland will pass for a brief space of time, and they will pass out much better man and better citizens," he said, "having during their period in the army done some useful constructive work for the country as well as having skilled themselves in the use of arms."

This was the passage which many people regarded as foreshadowing an intention on the part of the auth orities to institute a scheme of compulsory service in Ireland.

The Freeman's Journal, the only journal to comment on the matter, said:

"Commander Mulcahy expressed no bitterness against those in arms against his forces. On the contrary his appeal was for construction, and he foreshadowed the approach of the time when the chief work of the army will be aiding in building up the new Irish civilization."

GASOLINE PRICE DOWN.

CHICAGO, October 10. Canadian Press. — A reduction of 2c a gallon in the price of gasoline and all other naptha products, effective to-morrow, was announced yesterday by the Standard Oil Company of Indiana. The new price will make the Chicago base for gasoline 19c at the tank wagon and 21c at the service station.

Whiskey Was a Help To the Fire Sufferers

OTTAWA, October 10. Canadian Press. — Whiskey may be looked on as an evil, but it helped the fire sufferers more than words can tell, declared Miss Marjorie Magee, the heroic telephone operator at Haileybury, who arrived here from the fire-stricken area yesterlay. Miss Magee, it will be remembered, was the operator who stayed at the telephone exchange and sent out a call for a relief train while the building burned about her.

When asked what the people of Haileybury needed most, Miss Magee stated that they had plenty of food, but were greatly in need of clothing.

ENGLISH TAKE TO MAXWELL CARS

The Appointments and Economical Performance Appeals to Them.

A. E. Barker, Vice President of the Maxwell Motor Co. of Canada, Ltd. has just returned from Europe where he made a thorough survey of automotive trade conditions.

During the course of his visit Mr. Barker, accompanied by London representatives, travelled by Maxwell sedan more than two thousand miles throughout England, satisfying himself of the actual state of the motor car market by visiting the Maxwell dealers.

Everywhere he found that the design, appointments, and economical performance of the good Maxwell line are making strong appeal to English preferences.

The touring car—and the enclosed cars in particular—were almost invariably referred to as the most striking illustration America has ever sent abroad of the possibilities of massed manufacture when concentrated upon the production of really beautiful and finely finished cars.

Mr. Barker says that for obvious reasons England is not [illegible] the moment and cannot be, until recovery is more complete, a large market for American cars.

In France, conditions are of course prohibitive ,and the same is largely true of the rest of Europe.

English business, big and little, is fighting vigorously and doggedly for a return to better conditions, and Mr. Barker believes that Great Britain will ultimately furnish a demand for the good Maxwell far larger than any developed in the past.

"It would be presumptous" says Mr. Barker, "to offer any comment on European political or economic conditions. The most that can or should be said is that underneath discouraging surface conditions, there undoubtedly exists a realization on the part of the nations most concerned, of the desperate necessity of continuing to struggle toward a solution."

PREMIER'S ACTION TAKEN TO PREVENT A WAR IN EUROPE

FARMERS SATISFIED WITH SEASON'S RESULTS

South Alberta Has Produced Crops in Abundance.

CALGARY, Alta., Oct. 9.—(Special).—Farmers in the irrigated districts in southern Alberta have every reason to be satisfied with the results of their seasons work according to G. H. Hutton, supt. agricultural and animal industry branch of the Canadian Pacific Department of Natural Resources in Calgary, who has returned from a visit to that section of the province. The yield of wheat has turned out most satisfactory, in some cases averaging 37 bushels to to the acre. One man in the Coal Dale district realized a net profit of $60000 form 425 acres.

In the Vauxhall district one of the farmers had told Mr. Hutton that he purposed finishing with 100 steers, 5,000 lambs and from 25 to 30 dairy cattle, and that he would have even then 200 tons of hay for sale from one section of land.

Incidently Mr. Hutton mentioned that feeding of lambs under contract in the irrigated districts was being considerably extended this year. This business promised to provide a most satisfactory market for alfalfa hay, and course grains, and to involve a relatively small risk in as much as it was possible to contract lambs now for special delivery. The profits from that line of work was in marked contrast to those which were realized even under the best of conditions in the growing of grain in irrigated districts, he said.

Mr. Hutton referred to the large number of feeders and stockers cattle that had been exported from Alberta, also to lambs that had been sent to the Lakes to be finished. With the development of work in the irregated sections there was no reason the animals could not be finished in the province in the spring. They would bring three times that amount of cash compared to shipping them in an unfinished state as had been the custom in the past. In this connection Mr. Hutton is sanguine that the British Embargo on Canada and cattle will be removed at a comparatively early date. The Department of Agriculture representatives in Britain now also were helping to draft regulations. With the removal of the embargo, a market would be provided for the high-class finished stock.

David Lloyd George Tells Why Action Taken On Turkish Question Was Considered Necessary.

TO LABOR PARTY.

LONDON, October 10. Canadian Press. — The Government last night issued a report on the conference which the Labor deputations had with Lloyd George on September 21. hitherto kept secret.

The Prime Minister, in replying to the deputation's "Stop-the-war" protests, the report indicates, devoted his speech mainly to proving that the Government policy had been identical with that long advocated by the Labor party, mainly of the freedom of the Straits under control of the League of Nations, and that the subject populations in Anatolia could not be left under the control of the Turks. But he regretted that this policy became impossible because the United States, France and I..ly had declined to undertake the necessary mandates in these regions.

The Prime Minister argued that under the Angora pact the position of the Straits would be the same as it was in 1914, when the Turks closed the Straits; therefore even control by the League of Nations would be useless unless an adequate force was planted there by the League to see that the Straits were kept neutralized. He contended that the Kemalist government had given no undertaking to do anything more than proffer a verbal guarantee of the freedom of the Straits, and declared:

"You cannot defend the Straits by flaunting a covenant in the face of those trying to force them."

Mr. Lloyd George pointed out that refusal to refer the matter to the League of Nations came from other nations, not England. Asked whether freedom of the Straits meant fortifications in the hands of some international body, the Premier replied that that would be for the League to decide. He also admitted that there would be no interference with the Straits either by Great Britain or any nation, "otherwise that is not internationalization."

On the general question the Prime Minister reiterated that the government policy was to prevent the war from spreading into Europe, and he contended that the strong measures the Government had already taken and intended to continue to take were the very best means of prevention.

Mr. Lloyd George denied that the British Government had ever given either money or arms to the Greeks: on the contrary they had warned them when they went to Smyrna that they were going "entirely on their own responsibility, and at their own expense." They were told also "We cannot support you or take the responsibility."

The Prime Minister said all he was now doing was to treat the Turks and the Greeks alike in regard to the neutral zones which the British were holding for the Allies, and it as imperative until a peace conference was held to prevent war from speading to Europe.

His final remark to the deputation was: "The one chance of stopping the war is for Kemal to know that we are not going to be turned out of the Sttraits. If he knows that he won't go there. If he believes that our nation is divided, and that he is getting encouragement to go on, he will be very likely to pursue a war-like policy."

BRITISH LANDOWNERS WARNED TO MEND THEIR WAYS

LONDON. October 9. Associated Press. — The big landowners of England, have been told in substance that as a class they have made a bad mess of the land business and that if they do not do better in the future the country would take the land from them and turn them adrift.

The speaker was Lord Bledisloe, himself a big landowner, who during the war helped the Government manage the food supplies of the country. The occasion was an address before the British Association.

"The British agricultural landowner to-day is on his trial," Lord Bledsloe asserted. "Unless he justifies himself as such, the nationalization of the land is inevitable. Public opinion will demand his extinction, and parliament will endorse the demand.

"Many landowners have been for two generations nothing more than rent receivers, and they have possessed neither the knowledge nor the inclination personally to administer their own estates, still less to cultivate them on commercial lines for their own and the nation's benefit.

"So far as they have been organized as a class of the community they have been organized, not as producers of wealth, but as defenders of property, and as such their organization has in a highly democratic country, afforded them but a small and steadily decreasing measure of security. They have thus lost their political power because they had no economic basis. They have not wholly without justification, been stigmatized as ignorant, reactionary and despotic."

Unity Among Allies Alarms Turk Leader

MUDANIA, Oct. 10.—(Canadian Press.)— There was distinctly less confidence in the Kemalist camp here yesterday when it became thoroughly understood that there is now complete unanimity among the Allies. The plans for dividing the Allies having failed, it was realized that Kemal Pasha had the world arrayed against him.

The Greek delegates also came into line with the three Allied Powers, Colonel Mazarkis informing General Harington that Greece would "conform to whatever measures the Allied generals recommended." He also assured the Commander-in-Chief that in case of necessity, "the whole Greek army in Thrace will rally to the support of Great Britain."

FINE WEATHER HAS PREVAILED IN THE WEST

Excellent Weather and Fair Labor Conditions Have Done Much to Help the Crops Moving During Past Week.

PLOWING STARTED.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 10. — (Canadian Press.)— Western Canada has been favored with fine weather during the past seven days. Grain is being marketed freely by farmers and elevators and all points are working to capacity, according to the crop report issued yesterday by the Agricultural Department of the Canadian Pacific Railway. The labor situation throughout the three prairie provinces is generally fair.

In Manitoba, threshing was somewhat delayed in many locaiities on the fourth and fifth of the month owing to heavy showers. Plowing is twenty-five to thirty per cent. finished and is proceeding under favorable weather and soil conditions.

Threshing is rapidly nearing completion in Saskatchewan and farmers are devoting their time to plowing, immediately machines are pulled off.

Threshing operations were somewhat retarded in Alberta on account of rain, according to reports. In southern portions of the province a quanity of grain originally intended for green feed is ripening fast and a few days of good weather will place it in condition for threshing.

In the Edmonton, Dunvegan and British Columbia Railway district, weather has been fair and cool. On the night of the first a heavy snowfall was experienced in the Spirit River district

Threshing is completed in all districts with the exception of McLennan which is finished to the extent of seventy-five per cent. High River is ninety per cent. finished and Westlock is fifty-five per cent. completed. Marketing is light on account of farmers plowing before hauling grain to elevators.

Considerable rain has fallen in British Columbia during the past week. Apples have colored well and crop is good in quality. Late peaches are now over.

BRITISH STILL AWAIT NEWS FROM MUDANIA CONFERENCE

Kemal Pasha Reported to Have Given Orders For Turkish Troops to Withdraw.

LABOR PARTY KICKS.

LONDON, Oct. 10.— (Canadian Press.)— The Government is still awaiting news from the Mudania conference and the result of orders Kemal Pasha is reported to have given for the retirement of the Turkish troops from the neutral zones or to such new lines in those zones as may be agreed upon.

The Cabinet Council yesterday had little to do beyond hearing a report on Lord Curzon's mission to Paris and discussing purely provisional arrangements for a peace conference, should the Mudania meeting prove successful.

It is understood that some of the delay at Mudania arose through certain differences in wording or other indefiniteness in the instructions conveyed to the British and French delegates concerning precise lines for fixing the new limits of the neutral zones, and it is supposed that the Turks are taking advantage of these temporary differences to avoid any definite decisions. Furthermore, there are said to be still some slight differences of opinion relative to the number of Turkish gendarmes to be allowed in Thrace. Nevertheless, it is expected all these matters will be ultimately adjusted, and opinion here remains optimistic.

The National Council representing the whole Labor Party met yesterday to consider the Near Eastern situation, and passed a resolution expressing lack of confidence in the Government's policy and demanding the immediate resignation of the Government and the election of a new parliament.

PARIS, Oct. 10. — (Canadian Press.)—Premier Poincare sent supplementary instructions to General Pelle, the French High Commissioner at Constantinople, to-day, with the object of clearing up such misunderstandings as might exist in Mudania concerning the definition of the new neutral zones and the number of Turkish gendarmes to be sent to Thrace. It is expected now that the generals will rapidly complete their task at Mudania, most of the points of the protocol laid down by the Allies having been settled.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 10.—(Canadian Press.)— The British reported the military situation stationary yesterday. Turkish forces continued to occupy positions in the neutral zone on the Asiatic side of Constantinople, but so far as had been learned, there were no further advances. The British landed additional forces to protect the railroad between Haidar Pasha and Kaidi Keui.

A shipload of Coldstream Guards reached the Dardanelles yesterday afternoon and other British troops are expected during the week, as well as an aircraft carrier and a cargo of airplanes.

ENGLISH CATHERAL IS BEING REPAIRED.

A large bulge has been discovered in the wall of the north-east choir aisle of the Cathedral in Peterborough, England, and part of the building has been pronounced dangerous. The aisle wall had already moved a foot out of the perpendicular, and the immediate buttressing of it at a cost of £1,500, became imperative. £9,000 have already been spent, on restoration work, which has been going on for two years, and the available funds are nearly exhausted.

ENGLISH TRADE NEAR NORMAL

C. P. R. European Traffic Manager Optimistic For Future of Old Country.

MONTREAL, Oct. 10. — Sir George Mc L.—Brown, K.B.E. was one of the passengers aboard the Canadian Pacific, 14,000 ton liner Melita when she docked here. Sir George is Canadian Pacific European traffic manager was the picture of good helath and wore the same genial smile on his countenance as he was seen with his big, erect manly form to tower over the Melita passengers when newspapermen went aboard the ship in an interview. He said: "Canada is fortunate to have secured the services of Sir Henry Thornton to manage the Canadian National Railways. I know Sir Henry intimately. He is a personal friend and a big man mentally as well as an accomplished operator." Speaking of present conditions in England, Sir George said the economic situation in Great Britain was progressing rapidly towards normal. All branches of trade and commerce were beginning to show healthy signs of revival, and this included the shipping trade.

There were plenty of cargoes offering and ships that were laid up in consequence of the war were now being chartered. On being informed of the abrupt interruption of the Mudania conference, Sir George Brown discussing the situation said that England could not have taken any other attitude than she did in the Near East difficulty. She had to be firm and stand fast otherwise the Moslem world would come to the conclusion that England was becoming disintegrated, which would encourage difficulties in India and everywhere else where the Moslems predominated in population and where there were British interest to be protected.

Speaking of British trade relations with Canada and emigration in this country, Sir George said thre was a strong inclination in England in connection with British trade and globe relation with Canada. This is made manifest by the many thous and of men, women and children who are anxious to come out and settle in this country, and as soon as conditions and regulations will permit to provide assurance and present restrictions done away with there will be a big exodus of people from the British Isles to Canada.

The difficulties that confront the English people today are the lack of means caused by the war.

This applies to thousands of agriculturists and farm laborers who wish to come out here and settle, and it appears to me that something should be done to remove the difficulties of that desirable class to allow them to come to Canada. It is possible to arrange a scheme that would provide a system of financial advancement of a long term loan to aid those British agriculturists who would repay in time by easy installment. Colonel Amery, Chief of the Overseas settlement has still a friend to aid Overseas settlement in all parts of the British Empire, and I am sure that he would be induced to contribute to the settlement of British Agriculturists emigrating to Canada, providing the Canadian Government would do its part.

THREE ARE HELD AS WITNESSES IN DOUBLE TRAGEDY

Chauffeur and Maid Are Believed to Have Been Poisoned — A Bottle of Liquor Found on Table.

AWAIT ANALYSIS.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Oct. 10. — Canadian Press. — Three servants employed in the summer home of Miss Caroline Sinkler, of Philadelphia, were held as material witnesses yesterday while the police and District Attorney of Essex County pursued the inquiry into the deaths of Stella Zeisloft, a maid, and Harry Devine, a chauffeur, who are believed to have died from the effects of a poison late on Saturday night. A complaint charging unknown persons with murder was prepared by the authorities.

The bodies were found in the kitchen early on Sunday morning. A bottle of liquor, partly emptied, was on a table in the room.

Miss Zeisloft and Devine had joined the other servants in a party that took them away from the grounds on Saturday evening. On their return, the police learned, the group brought with them a bottle of liquor purchased en route. Later the maid and the chauffeur were left alone in the kitchen. They were not seen again alive.

Those held for examination were Bridget McGheehan, a housekeepr, Helen Gorman, a maid and William Elkins, the gardener.

The police officials said their inquiry would await the results of the analysis of the stomachs.

HIS TOMB OPENED ONCE EVERY YEAR.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—(Canadian Press)— By peculiar provision in the will of James Gibson, a London merchant, who died 150 years ago, his tomb is opened once a year. This has been done every year in the past century and a half, and will be continued until Gibson's last descendant is laid away in the family tomb. The annual opening takes place on August 12, the anniversary of the merchant's death, and must be witnessed by the church wardens. The tomb is in Sutton Parish Churchyard.

Just why this behest was made is a mystery. There is no [illegible] however, about the regular observance of its, as it ensures the gift from Christ's Hospital of a sum of money to be distributed among the poor of Sutton.

When the last descendant of James Gibson is interred, the entrance to the family tomb be locked and kept locked forever afterwards. Provision for this is also made in the will, the terms of which stipulate that after the burial of the final link in the Gibson family chain and the entrance of the tomb securely fastened the key is to be taken aboard a specially chartered ship and conveyed to Palestine, and there flung into the Jordan.

The will says nothing about the continuance of the gifts to charity after the sacred water of the Holy Land have covered the key from the eyes of man. The assumption is that when the final interment takes place the poor of Sutton will have to shift for themselves.

PLAYING POLITICS.

The attempt of the Toronto Telegram to play politics with the Northern Ontario fire is a feature of the situation that angers everyone with a sense of fair play.

The Ontario Government is being attacked from every possible angle, although the Queen's Park administration is no more responsible for the catastrophe than was the Union Government for the Halifax explosion.

The journey of Premier Drury to the north has been held up to ridicule as a theatrical display that accomplished no good.

To most people the action of the Premier appeared a warm-hearted and proper thing to do. As soon as he was informed of the terrible fire Mr. Drury hurried to the scene, his presence being a guarantee visible and understandable that Ontario was ready to aid the sufferers in every way possible.

Trying to make political capital out of the misfortune of Northern Ontario does not enhance the reputation of the Telegram, nor does it materially assist in the only work that counts at the present time: the providing of relief to the thousands who are homeless and destitute.

REV. J. R. WEBB.

The announcement that Rev. J. R. Webb, pastor of the Murray Street Baptist Church, has expressed his intention of accepting the unanimous call extended to him by the Kitchener Baptist Church, was heard with regret, not only by the members of his congregation, but by the people of Peterborough generally, who regard Rev. Mr. Webb as a public-spirited citizen of the type that can ill be spared.

Every movement that had as its inspiration the desire to be of service to the community has been able to count upon the pastor of the Murray Street Baptist Church as a friend and supporter.

Of his services to his church it is not necessary to speak. The growth of his congregation, the erection of a splendid new church during his pastorate, and the passing of a unanimous resolution by the deaconate expressing the hope that he would remain in Peterborough are eloquent enough in themselves.

Outside of his church work, however, Rev. Mr. Webb has been a useful citizen of Peterborough, whose influence for good has had a marked effect in the fifteen years during which he has resided in this community. It is a matter of regret that he has felt the call of duty necessitating his departure from Peterborough. At the same time, Kitchener is to be congratulated upon gaining not only an eloquent pastor but a citizen ready to be of service to his home city on every possible occasion.

AN URGENT APPEAL.

The appeal of the fire sufferers of Northern Ontario should not fall upon deaf ears, so far as Peterborough is concerned.

The need is urgent, and the response should be immediate.

Hundreds of people are homeless, and with nothing save the clothes they wore when they made their escape.

Many of them are living in tents, and with the drop in temperature and a lack of the necessaries of life, are suffering intensely.

Food, clothing, boots, bedding, household furniture and building tools are the articles most urgently needed, and Peterborough is expected to do its share at once in seeing to it that large consignments of supplies are forwarded to the sufferers.

The Red Cross Society is looking after the local collection, and the war record of that organization is a guarantee of prompt and efficient service.

One point that should be remembered is that the articles of clothing sent should be in good condition, ready for immediate use. The people who are in need of these supplies have no facilities for patching or mending, and any clothing donated must necessarily be sound and useable.

It is certainly true of this appeal that "he gives twice who gives quickly," and it is hoped that the people of Peterborough will show their usual generosity and desire to help others who are victims of the greatest catastrophe that has visited the north country.

SCHOOL ACCOMMODATION.

In his address to the Rotary Club yesterday, Mr. A. A. Fowler, chairman of the Board of Education, touched upon a point that possibly has struck other citizens.

It seemed a pity, he declared, that school property valued at a million dollars should only be used for a few hours each day.

Mr. Fowler's suggestion for a wider utilization of the city's schools was the adoption of the scheme that has been successfully used in other school centres, especially in the United States.

In effect this plan calls for the operation of the schools in two daily shifts. One set of pupils are taught in the hours between 8 and noon, and in the afternoon a fresh quota of pupils are given their lessons. In this way double the number of children can be accommodated with the addition of more teachers to the staff.

The question of accommodation is a serious one. Each year in Peterborough three additional class-rooms are required, so that the reserve is readily eaten up, and in spite of the building of the splendid Prince of Wales' School, with its eighteen class-rooms, it will soon be necessary if the school population of Peterborough continues to increase at its normal rate, to build another school or enlarge some of the buildings already in use.

The double shift plan contains possibilities for providing the necessary accommodation that are worth investigating by those invested with the responsibility of dealing with educational matters in the city.

CLOSING UP THE SUMMER COTTAGE.

Though there are four seasons of the year and twelve months on any calendar, to those fortunate or misguided mortals who depart country-wards with the first breath of spring and only come back in the city when the furnace must be lit, there are really only two seasons—the one when they can live in the country and the other when they must exist in the city. Whatever one may think about the wisdom of pulling up one's home by the roots twice a year, there is a great deal to be said in favor of such a life. When other people are wondering where they will go for their holidays, and how much they can afford, the commuter has no such worries. His holiday expenses are included in his summer rent, and while the Jones' must confine their vacation to a short three weeks, his can be enjoyed for three months or more—depending upon the weather to some extent but perhaps more than that on the good-nature of the family in putting up with the many inconveniences of country life, and presenting a smiling front when some supposedly absolutely necessary thing has not been brought from the city.

Apartments of to-day do not offer much encouragement to hoarding, goodness knows, but the semi-yearly mover has no opportunity to save up anything. When the moving van is at the door, piles of magazines and other treasures that in other times would have been put in neat piles in the attic, must be discarded. This may be a good thing, no doubt it makes for cleanliness but we recall with a regretful sigh the delightful attics of by-gone days where magazines for years back, books a bit out of style, and dear knows what other treasures could be found there. But the austere and tiny closets of modern homes were never intended and cannot be used for unnecessarys things. It takes you all your time to find sufficient room to hang up the family wardrobe.

But this is a long way from closing up the summer cottage. Grave discussions usually take place, many things such as the cost of the railway ticket, for the children going to school, what the children will be doing all day in the city, and whether it is really worth while getting any more wood when it may be too cold to stay to finish it anyway. The staple provisions run low, and debates as to whether it is worth while renewing them also take place. The weather this particular year has been a temptation to linger as long as possible in the country, but timetables change and finally it is a matter of enduring too great inconveniences for very problematical good weather, and a day for closing up for the season is definitely set.

To the man of the house it is a matter of real regret to help dismantle the summer home, but to the wife it is usually a real joy. No matter how much she may enjoy an outdoor life and may put up with all sorts of inconveniences happily, no woman really takes a keen delight in that sort of thing indefinitely. Besides, even the squirrels and chipmunks are getting ready for the chills of winter, and lots of work awaits her at home. So while she is packing up provisions and clothes and blankets, throwing away certain things and carefully preserving others, she is planning dozens of jobs to be done on her return. Perennials in the garden to be transplanted, rose bushes to be protected from the blasts of winter, all engage her attention, while she keeps a careful eye on the members of the family who are supposed to be helping seriously in the work, but are far more likely to wander off to spots beyond the reach of a human voice. However, in time for the train or the Ford the luggage is finally packed up in the various old suitcases or bundles suitable for the vehicle, for no one dreams of taking respectable trunks to the country, and heaving a sigh of relief at the achievement, the family make the last trip around the cottage to see if anything has been left. Mouse traps are set invitingly around, camphor flakes reek in the closets, and generally the place has a deserted look.

No matter how many years the little old cottage has stood the strain of the large family and the guests that visit it for the season, no matter how little or how much paint has been spread over its surface, or how lovely the garden is even in its autumn dress, it always seems that this is the loveliest cottage and the most glorious day that has ever happened, and no other day even in the spring will equal it. The ride down to the city in the faithful 'bus, loaded to the top with the nondescript baggage of a summer's jaunt — everything from a crate of eggs to a case of raspberry jam—the roads even more dusty and bumpy than ever, is perhaps a fitting end, but even the dust cannot hide the panorama of trees colored in every shade of nature's paint-brush from green to the deepest shades of crimson. Over the farthest hills the sun is setting in a lake of crimson clouds, and Marjorie Pickthall's lovely verse comes to mind:

"All sweet-smelling things there be,
Fruits a many and flowers a few,—
Fiery dahlias drooped in dew,
Wood-grown asters faint as smoke,
Flame of maple, frond of oak."

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

"He gives twice who gives quickly."

With winter just over the hill in Northern Ontario, the situation is desperate unless relief is quickly furnished.

Peterborough can be counted upon for its share of relief. If you prefer to give a cash donation it will be received by the City's Clerk's Office, the Chamber of Commerce, or The Examiner.

A few years ago Lindsay could have held the Provincial ploughing matches on Kent Street.

A candidate for the Board of Education on a platform of a technical school for Peterborough is proposed. Most people will be quite willing to let somebody else be the standard-bearer when a little matter of the expenditure of some $310,000 is involved. Such things have a tendency to grow—remember the Hunter Street Bridge.

GILLETT'S LYE

Comparatively few people realize to what extent Gillett's Lye can be used to advantage in every home. For instance, with one can of Gillett's Lye and five and a half pounds of lard or grease, ten pounds of good hard soap can be made. Use one tablespoon Gillett's Lye in gallon of water for cleaning and disinfecting refrigerators, sinks, garbage cans, tiled floors, baths and toilets.

Useful for over 500 purposes.

THE MYSTERY MIND

Arthur B. Reeve and John W. Grey

She thrilled at the thought of the fate about to overtake Evil Eye, Renard, Vera Collins, the hunchback, and the others of the band. Murder, torture, primitive brutality—there had been nothing in the realm of crime too dastardly for them if only it suited their purposes. Her own dear Doctor Daddy, and faithful Dacca—even the medium, Mesma, who was only remotely concerned—no one standing in their path had escaped death except Robert and herself.

And Robert! Somewhere in this circle, closing in upon the house like the iris diaphragm of a camera, was the man she loved, directing the operations. With Dupont in charge she knew none of the gang would escape.

But would they fight? Was any danger apt to befall the besiegers of the den? Almost at the moment the thought flitted through her consciousness the sharp bark of a pistol shot broke the stillness. She dropped to the ground instinctively. She raised her own weapon to fire before she realized that two men were in front of her, Randolph and Jake. On knees and elbows, pulling herself forward with a froglike swimming motion, forgetful of her clothes, of the danger, of everything but the excitement of the attack, she made her way between them as they lay, sheltered, behind a feed trough.

Meanwhile a fusilade of bullets had followed the first shot from the farmhouse, and had been answered by the forces of Dupont. On a small scale it was a very genuine battle.

"You wait here," Randolph whispered suddenly, to both Jake and Violet. "My dad was an Indian fighter. I'll crawl up and get a few of them through the window before they know what's up."

"Nix!" protested Jake. "Nix, you chump. You'll get plugged by some of our men. They're no marksmen, you know."

Randolph was off, paying no attention Violet, thoroughly excited, started to follow but Jake, with rather elaborate profane comment under his breath, held her.

The shots died down. There was no indication of Randolph's progress until they saw the flash of his pistol as he held it, at some crevice in window or door. Once, twice, three times he discharged his weapon. There were a few desultory reports from the woods, then all was silence.

Jake hesitated perhaps a half minute. Then again instructing Violet to remain, behind, he started up after Randolph. As before, she disobeyed. At first she was cautious, hugging the ground. But when there were no more shots she rose darting forward recklessly and eagerly.

At the door Randolph and Jake and two others were preparing to break in She heard the voice of Dupont from the rear. He was assembling some of the men to crash through the back door at the same time. Much as a small boy in her eagerness to miss nothing, Violet pressed close to Randolph and Jake, and the adventurer saw her.

"Ye Gods!" he exclaimed. "Suppose they're there and——"

"Break it in! Break it in!" she urged. "Don't give them a moment to escape, to do anything!"

"Where'd they escape to!" muttered Jake. "The passage is guarded."

"Miss Bronson," Randolph was worried now. Suppose extraordinary danger should come; suppose she should be hurt. "You simply must go back!"

The low tones of the whistle from the other side of the house interrupted. The men burst through the frail door in the first attempt. Violet was right at their heels.

Inside was the utmost confusion. Furniture, rugs, bedding, everything possible had been impressed in order to form bullet-proof barricades. On the floor were two members of the gang—Dupree, dead and cold; Case, the hunchback, gasping his last.

"I got them! I got the two of them!" boasted Randolph. "Thought I hit a third. Maybe I did!"

Dupont, rushing in from the rear as the back door collapsed, stopped dead in amazement when he saw Violet. Before he could reprimand her she was after him, tugging at his sleeve excitedly.

"Don't let them get away, Robert! Get after them! Get after them!"

To the surprise of the searchers, there was not the sign of any other member of the gang in the place. While Dupont investigated a tiny kitchen and room adjoining, Violet hurried to the opening to the secret passageway. Randolph was near her. She pulled at his coat, urging him to follow: then stole down the steps, very determined, her weapon elevated.

"This—this is very dangerous," protested the little man, facing the darkness.

"You're not afraid?" she asked.

$100,000 FROM PROVINCIAL GOV'T FOR RELIEF WORK

Is Assured Fire Devastated District in North Ontario by Premier Drury.

TORONTO, Oct. 10.—(Canadian Press).—The sum of at least $100,000 was promised yesterday at the Parliamentary Buildings as the Provincial Government's contribution to the work of relief for and re-establishment of Northern Ontario. It was assured to that district by a statement of the Premier, who declared that the total was thus indefinitely specified because the Northern Relief Committee which has been placed in charge of the work had not yet had an opportunity of reporting upon its requirements in the way of financial assistance. The Premier expressed himself as satisfied from his personal knowledge, however, that conditions were such that a substantial official donation would have to be made, and he declared that the Government equal at least the precedent of the Conservative administration at the time of the 1916 disaster, and pass an appropriation of $100,000.

SULPHUR CLEARS UP ROUGH OR RED SKIN

Face, Neck and Arms Easily Made Smooth, Says Specialist.

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation begins at once to soothe irritated skin and heal eruptions such as rash, pimples and ringworm.

It seldom fails to remove the torment and disfigurement, and you do not have to wait for relief from embarrassment. Improvement quickly shows. Sufferers from skin trouble should obtain a small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.

Infant Mortality

INFANT MORTALITY IN LONDON SHOWS NOTABLE DECREASE

LONDON, Oct. 9.—(Associated Press.) Only a little while ago, alarmists were indulging in all sorts of dire predictions concerning the future of England because, it was alleged, not enough babies were being born. The great middle class, called the backbone of the country, was declared by some pessimists to be doomed to speedy extinction unless it produced more babies.

Now these lamentations have ceased. Some far-seeing and logical statistician points out that the future of a country is not determined so much by the number of babies born as by the number of babies which survive the first year of life and grow up. Looked at from that angle England is not doing so badly in this all important matter.

During the month of August it is pointed out that the death rate of children under one year of age was only 41 per 1,000 births. In 1919, London's rate for the same period was 55.

Compared with the beginning of this century the baby-saving figures give still greater cause for rejoicing among those who reckon the future of England depends, above all things, on babies. The first four weeks of August, 1901, gave an infant mortality rate for London of 267—more than six times that of 1922 which proves, it is argued, that if babies can save England, England will be saved.

Splendid laxative properties of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin proven by test

ANY FAMILY MAY TRY IT FREE

Thousands of parents are asking themselves, "Where can I find a trustworthy laxative that anyone in the family can use when constipated?" I urge you to try my Laxative Syrup Pepsin. I will gladly provide a liberal free sample bottle, sufficient for an adequate test. Write me where to send it. Address Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 23 Caldwell Building, Toronto, Ont. Do it now!

A SCIENTIFIC test has now proven what Dr. Caldwell of Monticello asserted many years ago, that constipation will slow you up fully 25 per cent. The test was made by Dr. Donaldson of Loma Linda upon four men in the prime of life who deliberately went without a bowel movement for four days. Within 48 hours the men had coated tongue and foul breath, cankers in the mouth, no appetite, restless sleep, indigestion, headache, depression, nervousness, cramps. The blood pressure was up 28 per cent. It is just this that Dr. Caldwell has preached to his patients in private and to the public through the printed word ever since he began the practice of his specialty, diseases of the stomach and bowels, back in 1875.

After observing for years the satisfactory effect of his prescription for constipation, he placed it in drug stores in 1892, a simple vegetable compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with pleasant-tasting aromatics, now known as Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin. That was 30 years ago, and today over 10 million bottles are bought annually, the largest selling family laxative in the world. You will find it in any drug store you enter, a generous-size bottle costing you less than a cent a dose.

Every member of the family from the infants to the grandparents can use it with safety. It is gentle and mild. The formula is on the package. Miss Gertrude Steeves of St. Stephen, N. B., says her mother will use no other laxative for her little sister, who is two years old, and Miss Jennie McDonald, of Parkhill, Ont., declares it is just what her mother needed. Try a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin for constipation or any of its symptoms. The results will delight you. And the cost is only one cent a dose.

GAS IN THE STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia To Overcome Trouble, Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion.

Gas and wind in the stomach accompanied by that full, bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid indigestion."

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital internal organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and bloat right out of the body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation and there is no sourness or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never fluid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

IN MILLBROOK AND DISTRICT

Anniversary Services at Zion Methodist Church—Former Pastor Present.

MILLBROOK, October 10.—The anniversary services of Zion Methodist Church were held on Sunday, 8th October, Rev. A. R. Edmison, of Orono, a former pastor on the South Cavan circuit, preaching both afternoon and evening. In spite of the rainy weather, good congregations were present at both services, the music being furnished by Miss Etta Kemp, of Peterborough, and four members of the Methodist choir from Millbrook, Mrs. G. W. Sayles, Miss Stewart, and Messrs. J. L. Byam and F. Alcorn, while the organist of the church here Miss Estelle Hetherington, relieved the local organist for the occasion. In introducing himself Rev. Mr. Edmison said that it was in 1907 that he had last occupied the pulpit of Zion Church. His text for the afternoon service was taken from Genesis 26, 26 "And he builded an altar there, and called upon the name of the Lord, and pitched his tent there; and there Isaac's servants digged a well." Isaac was one of the common fellows, the speaker said, who finds a place in God's Word; he was not faultless, neither was he a hero; by his meekness he disarmed his enemies, and by the same quality his soul was prepared for a revelation of God. The text states first that he builded an altar. In coming into a new community he realised that it was necessary to put himself definitely on the side of God at the beginning, else it would be increasingly difficult for him to maintain his Christian life. Hence "he builded an altar there"—a place which would abide. Second, "he pitched his tent," signifying his understanding that it was a transient place on his sojourn to the permanent abode God was preparing for him yonder. Third, "he digged a well." This was the fourth well Isaac had digged as he was driven from place to place by his enemies. A well was a source of refreshment, a great benefit to the community. Real love to God is measured, not so much by our profession of religion, as by our love going out in service to others, the experience of Abou Ben Adam being an illustrative incident. The religion that does not make a man a better neighbour is not genuine Christianity. Isaac built wells all over the country; all around us are people thirsty for the water of life, and in maintaining the Church we are digging a well through which God may satisfy this thirst in our community.

Special Music.

The music at the afternoon service included a duet, "The heart that was broken for you," by Mrs. Sayles and Miss Stewart, and a solo, "Who could it be but Jesus?" by Miss Etta Kemp. In the evening the selections were, a quintette "When love shines in," by Mrs. Sayles, Misses Kemp and Stewart, Messrs. Byam and Alcorn, solos, "There is a love embracing all" by Mrs. Sayles, and "At rest with Him," by Miss Kemp, and a quartette, "A Constant Friend," by Mrs. Sayles, Miss Stewart, Messrs. Byam and Alcorn.

Mr. Edmison's subject at night was "The Prophet's Transforming Vision" [illegible] being chosen from Isaiah 6, 1-8, and was most impressive [illegible] church's obligation for service to the community, and the change which comes into the individual life following a vision of God; only a little vanity and complacency comes from comparing ourselves with men, the deepest humility and repentance from comparing ourselves with Gods spotless purity. The cleansed and transformed life God uses to carry out His purposes. "Ye have not chosen Me, but I have chosen you, and adds the promise of His own presence, "Certainly I will be with thee."

GENERAL CIGAR CO. LIMITED
CONTROLLED & OPERATED BY IMPERIAL TOBACCO CO. OF CANADA LIMITED

Prettier—every time they are washed!

Just as fresh and dainty as the day they came from the store—your delicate crepes and chiffons, soft satins and silks. No matter how often they are washed—each cleansing only makes them prettier.

Don't say—"no, this can't be true"—but buy a package of Palmolive Princess Soap Flakes and wash out your favorite fancy blouse or elaborate negligee. Then once and for all, when you know the secret, wear your best things every day. No need to save them when cleansing is easy, quick and perfectly harmless.

Cleanses and freshens

Palmolive Princess Flakes are the purest, mildest soap modern science can produce—really fine enough for toilet use.

In color they are snowy white, in form a curly flake which neither packs nor mats and dissolves to the last particle.

These wafer flakes produce the thickest and stiffest of creamy suds which dissolves dirt and freshens material.

Woolens won't shrink and they dry soft as new when washed with Palmolive Princess Flakes. Sweaters, leggings, caps and mittens, blankets—how soft, warm and sweet-smelling because Palmolive Princess Flakes are refined with a touch of perfume!

No waste—No wear

Clothes wear out quickly because the ingredients of common laundry soap weaken the threads and start breaks in the fabric which surely means a hole. If washed with pure soap like Palmolive Princess Flakes, you will get proper wear.

Ordinary laundry soap is wasteful because it is more than half moisture and filler. Palmolive Princess Flakes are pure, whole soap and therefore go so much farther that their use is actual economy aside from their saving of clothes.

You should use them for every laundry and household purpose. They are the ideal soap for use in washing machines.

Convenient and economical

Palmolive Princess Flakes come in handy pound packages.

Begin using today—for fancy washing and general laundry work. Palmolive Princess Flakes are the last word in soap—your money's worth in quality, convenience and actual soap value.

FIRE FATALITIES NOW REACH 44

This Total May be Largely Exceeded When Complete Story Known.

COBALT, October 10 (Canadian Press). — The discovery of two unidentified bodies yesterday in Hilliard Township, east of Earlton, has brought the total lives lost now up to 44, with the probability that this figure will be largely exceeded when the full truth is known.

Dr. F. W. Routley, director of the Canadian Red Cross, says that 33 bodies have been found between New Liskeard and Charlton, and 11 in Haileybury district.

The two charred remains found at Heasip were yesterday identified as those of Stewart Mitchell and Mary Campbell.

Around Heaslip alone there are 18 known fatalities and eight in Hilliard Township.

Added to the list already published are the names of Joanna Marshall, aged 31, a deaf mute, whose body was found on her father's farm near Heaslip.

Leonard Killoran, aged 16, reported missing for several days, is now believed to have been burned either within or in the near vicinity of Holycross Cathedral.

According to the story told to his mother in the New Liskeard hospital by A. St. George, a White River farmer, who saw the walls of the cathedral fall on his own wife, young Killoran was there also in the cathedral.

There was no change to-day in the estimated loss of life at Charlton, the figures standing at six.

The property loss is now placed at 8,000,000 or more.

It is estimated that 1,000 settlers' homes have been burned, and that 8,000 persons are homeless.

FILIAL DEVOTION IS BEING ENCOURAGED.

Thousands of Francs Are Given in Awards of Merit.

PARIS, Oct. 9. — (Associated Press.)— Among the varied activities of the French Academy is the distribution every year of the sum of 2,500,000 francs in awards of merit, not only for literary excellence, but for filial devotion; to compensate the under-paid; for domestic virtue, and to help the needy. The money comes from various foundations, notably that of Baron de Montyon, who died in 1820, and Monsieur Cocnacq, at one time proprietor of a large Paris department store.

The Academy must give yearly to each of 90 families in straightened circumstances the sum of 25,000, but only on condition that the family has nine children. Filial devotion by a person not less than 30 years old is rewarded yearly by 1,500 francs, and an equal amount goes to a servant not under 60 years of age who has remained in the employ of the same master more than 20 years, and has received only part of the wages due, or else very small compensation. Two medals valued at 500 francs each are conferred on persons not less than 60 years of age who are in "difficult circumstances." The sum of 5,500 francs is to be given yearly to an unmarried woman servant who has served with devotion a family or preferably a maiden lady, in adverse circumstances. Another testator who specified that his or her name was never to be published left 4,500 farncs a year to be distributed every two years in prizes of 1,000 francs a year to be distributed evbrought up young women of irregular birth.

The Academy also awards literary prizes amounting to nearly 200,000 francs a year. As in the case of the prizes for merit, the first one was founded by Baron de Montyon. His prize of 18,500 francs goes to the most moral book of the year. The literary prizes are fewer and more valuable than those awarded for merit. The largest, after the Montyon, is the Jean-Jacques Berger prize of 15,000 francs, which is awarded every five years for the best work dealing with the city of Paris.

LONDON'S CAFE ROYAL IS TO BE DEMOLISHED

LONDON, Oct., 10 .—The Cafe Royal, London's ancient and famous Bohemian resort, soon is to disappear. It is planned to tear it down and erect in its place a modern building of luxurious appointments.

The announcement of demolition has brought forth a flood of letters protesting against such a plan, largely from literary and professional men and women and from artists, boxers, singers and diplomats.

For more than 40 years the establishment has been the centeer of the cosmopolitan life of the city. The international fame of the Cafe Royal brought a fortune to its owner, Daniel Nicolas De Nicol, who left more than $5,000,00 when he died in 1897.

REFORMS AND WORLD PEACE

Should be Objective of all Protestant Churches To-day, Says Two Prominent Methodists.

TORONTO, Oct. 10.—(Canadian Press). — Moral reforms in their wider application to the life of a community, and the duty of Protestant churches to go out and bring peace to the world, were dealt with by two prominent speakers at the Massey Hall and the Metropolitan Church last night at special meetings of the Methodist General Conference. The messages which the two audiences carried away with them were that while big strides have been made in the past in the way of bringing about a practical application of the doctrines of Christianity, there is still plenty of scope left for Christian reforms.

The speakers were Hon. E. C. Drury, who devoted much of his time towards pointing out the manner in which Christian principles have already been applied through channels of the Government, and Rev. E. Parkes Cadman, of Brooklyn, New York, who pointed out the straight pathway of progress which lies before Protestantism if it is to become worthy of its opportunities in the way of uniting all its scattered ranks for a unified attack against the spirits of evil which are doing so much to create strife among mankind. Rev. Mr. Cadman emphasized the fact that one of the biggest problems of Protestantism is to get together, for in the United States alone there are 126 different sects, and he presumed that "this afternoon another sect was formed because some maiden lady had a bad dream last night." So with that state of affairs in existence, the slogan of Protestant organizations should be unity for a common cause.

DENMARK NOT INCLINED TO TARIFF PROTECTION

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 10. — The Danish Government has announced through one of its ministers that it has no intention of departing from the national policy of free trade. Consequently it is expected to oppose some pending tariff bills. A tariff, the government feels, would retard an early fall in the price of foodstuffs.

The government is seeking support for a bill under which no importer would be allowed to bring products into Denmark from any other country without at the same time placing orders for an equal quantity of goods with Danish manufacturers.

MAKE SCHOOL HEALTH SURVEY THE CAMPBELLFORD DISTRICT

Each Child Will Receive an Examination — Big Moose Seen on the Highway--Campbellford News of Interest.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 10. — At the request of the Women's Institutes ,the Department of Education has decided to send a field staff composed of Dr. Neelands and Miss Willoughby to East Northumberalnd to make a health survey of the different schools in this inspectorate. Each child will receive an individual examination and a chart will be made out and given to the teachers showing any defective conditions and also recommendations for remedying same. This chart is passed on from teachers to parents, and will no doubt prove very effective as in many cases of backward pupils the cause has been traced to physical defects.

Big Moose on Highway.

Dr. Embury, accompanied by Peter and Jonathan McDonald of Monteagle, were returning to Bancroft from a sick call on Friday last when they startled a big giant moose just a few feet ahead of their car. The huge monster became confused with the glare of the headlights and dashed down the road at a terrific pace. After keeping up the race for a distance of about three miles the animal turned suddenly to the left near Bird's creek and disappeared in the forest.

New Water Main.

The waterworks extension on Wallace street is being rushed through and will be a great convenience to residents of this section. It is understood that an extra hydrant will also be placed near the residential district to provide better fire protection.

REMOVES LINK WITH THE PAST

Millbrook News of Interest —The Change in the Post Office.

MILLBROOK, Oct. 10. — The transfer of the post office here to other hands recalls the interesting fact that fifty years ago, on October 23rd, 1872, the late Willam Vance received his appointment to the position of postmaster, Sir John A. Macdonald's government being in power at that time. The building then was a small frame structure owned by the late William Carveth, situated just east of his residence on the site, practically, where Thorne and Yake's store now stands. Adajcent to the office Mr. Vance had also a grocery store, where he carried on a flourishing business, but when the "Elliott block" was burned, some twenty-eight or twenty-nine years ago, both were destroyed, and the post office was then removed to the new block owned by the late J. C. Kells, where it has been located ever since. The grocery business, then taken over by Mr. Vance's second son, J. Arthur Vance, was also removed to this block ,and carried on by him for some years in the store at present occupied by Burnham Bros.

Miss M. E. Hetherington was the first lady assistant in the post office here, remaining with Mr. Vance for twelve years, during which time she discharged the duties of her position in a most capable manner. Such general regret was felt when Miss Hetherington, because of her health, felt obliged to send in her resignation in 1896, that the community presented her with a handsome silver service as a token of their appreciation. Since that time, however, Miss Hetherington has assisted with the office work when any member of the staff was absent through illness, or holidays. During Miss Hetherington's regular time of service the work of the post office here was much heavier than since rural delivery came in; then it was a distributing centre for seven other offices: Cavan, Ida, Mt. Pleasant, Bewdley, South Monaghan, Bailieboro, and Glamorgan. Now the first four are served by rural delivery, and only for the last thre must mail be made up and sent out.

The death of the late Mr. Vance occurred in June, 1920, and since that time his youngest daughter, Miss Lottie, has been postmistress, filling the position in a very efficient manner; indeed, owing to her father's failing health Miss Vance had practically assumed all the work of the office for some years previous to his decease, hence was well qualified for the responsibilities of the position. Others who followed Miss Hetherington as assistants were: Misses May Armstrong (Mrs. J. N. McGill), Mary Kerr (Mrs. Dingman, Toronto), Maud Stewart (Mrs. H. Armstrong), Crystal Stewart (Oshawa), Ada Smith (Mrs. J. Armstrong, Cavan), Alice Stewart, and Stella Pethick. It is not yet definitely known when the newly-appointed postmaster, Howard Collins, is expected to take charge.

MOTHER!

Clean Child's Bowels with "California Fig Syrup"

If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, a teaspoonful will never fail to open the bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste from the tender, little bowels, and gives you a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful to-day saves a sick child to-morrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on the bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

VERY ENJOYABLE SOCIAL EVENING

The anniversary services at George street Methodist church were continued last evening in the form of a very enjoyable social evening spent in the lecture room, and attended by a large, jovial crowd of people. A pleasant musical programme included a violin solo by Arnold Spencer, with vocal selections by Miss M. Young and Mr. J. Rowe, and a reading by Miss Marjorie Ingall.

Short addresses were given by Rev Jas. Rollins, pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, who stressed idea of co-operation in the various phases of church life, pleading for mutual support between individual and church organizations. He brought a hearty message of greeting from the churches of Peterboro.

Rev. A. J. Langford of Trinity Methodist church, who was a guest of George street Methodist church for the first time, emphasized the importance of a clear-cut purpose and aim in individual living and in church work.

After the programme was completed, light refreshments were served, and a pleasant social hour spent, the Ladies' Aid Society of the church acting as hostesses in their usual efficient manner.

Interesting Announcement

During the evening, Rev. Harold Young, in the chair, made some interesting announcements. An appeal for a thousand dollars had been made on Sunday, to defray the costs incurred in repairing the organ. The sum of $1,316.75 was realized for this purpose. Among announced features of the church life in the near future was the visit of Madame Fahey on Friday, the 20th instant; the special Thanksgiving musical services on Nov. 5th; the annual Father and Son banquet on Friday, Nov. 10th; the visit of Principal Bruce Taylor of Queen's University, Kingston, on Sunday, Nov. 19th., and the coming of Rev. A. J. Thomas, former pastor of the church, for the Sunday School anniversary services in January.

SAY U.S. SHOULD KEEP OUT OF NATION'S LEAGUE.

BOSTON, October 10 (Canadian Press). — Harvard University debaters, arguing in opposition to the immediate entry of the United States into the League of Nations, defeated Oxford University team in Symphony Hall last night.

The decision was returned by the audience, which gave Harvard 1,614, to 1,000 for Oxford.

Owing to the sudden illness of Kenneth M. Lindsay, of Worcester College, England, two speakers presented the case for the English Collegians.

Harvard team contended that the United States, in justice to its ideals and to the smaller nations of the world, as well as in the interests of security and peace, should not join the League.

The Oxford debaters argued for the participation of the United States on military, economic, moral, and intellectual grounds. They appealed to American ideals to help Europe.

ADJUST WAR DEBTS.

WASHINGTON, October 10 (Canadian Press). — The administration, convinced that the time has come for a serious attempt to straighten out the world's finances, is about to make a definite series of moves toward adjustments of war debts owed us, preliminary to entering into an economic conference with the European Powers.

TO PROLONG LIFE, HAVE TUBERCULOSIS.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., October 10 Canadian Press). — To prolong your life, have tuberculosis. Such advice was offered to-day by Dr. J. W. Pettit, Ottawa, Illinois, vice-president of the National Anti-Tuberculosis Association, attending the Mississippi Valley Conference here.

Dr. Pettit is 75 years of age. Years ago he had tuberculosis.

"That's why I am living so long," he said. "Any individual who contracts tuberculosis, and leads an orderly sort of life, must get well, and if he continues to lead that life, lives longer than he ordinarily would."

(By Stuart P. West).

NEW YORK, October 10 (Special to The Examiner). — Wall Street to-day showed that the markets are entering an increasingly speculative stage.

The present operations are founded mainly on speculation which has in mind the probability of other companies following the lead of the Standard Oil subsidiaries and giving their shareholders in one way or another, the benefit of treasury accumulations just as the Wall Street campaign of last spring was founded more than anything else upon the discussion of the steel mergers and their effect upon values.

The markets to-day went through a series of sharp fluctuations, thus tending to prove an increasing interest in speculation.

Stock exchange history has had a number of such occasions in the past when speculative enthusiasm has been aroused to a high pitch by these so-called "melon cuttings." The experience at all these times has been that where one-tenth of the rumours of this and that company distributing extra dividends or capitalising surplus accounts may come out true, nine-tenths is mere gossip.

Doubtless this will be the experience likewise in the present instance, but in the meantime the action of the Standard Oil companies has been a powerful incitement to speculative imagination, and from the professional Wall Street standpoint, which only considers the immediate situation, rumours can be made to serve the purpose of putting up prices quite as well as facts.

It could not be said that the investment section of the market was any more responsive than it was on Monday to the $500,000,000 Government loan announcement. The indications to-day continued to point to a very heavy subscription, and in the outside market where quotations were made on basis of transactions in the bonds "when issued," these again involved a small premium. But this did not have, for the time being at least, any particularly stimulating effect upon the market generally. Liberty bonds were steady, and so were most corporation issues, but it was evident that for the moment the new Government financing and the uncertainty of its effects upon the attitude of investment capital to ward other securities were keeping the volume of business down.

The stock market opened with another rush of buying orders which swept some of the steel and equipment stocks forward to the highest prices of the year so far. Then came a period of heavy realising sales under which the whole list sold off sharply with a violent break in the Standard Oils. This selling movement in its turn was checked by equally violent upbidding of the Mexican Oils, but the market continued through the afternoon very much unsettled by these evidences of speculative extravagance.

The monthly figures of the U. S. steel tonnage showing an increase of 741,502 tons did not quite come up to expectations and on their appearance the rise in the steel stocks was halted. Nevertheless the total of nearly 6,000,000 tons unfilled business as of September 30, is a highly favorable showing. It pictures the Steel Corporation in the best business position in over two years and is an interesting comparison with the total of 4,560,670 tons of unfilled business a year ago and with the February low of 4,141,069 tons.

McAVOY'S HOMER WON FOR ORIOLES IN FINAL SESSION

Circuit Clout With Three Men on Bases Gave Baltimore Another Victory Over St. Paul.

SCORE WAS TIED.

BALTIMORE, October 10. Canadian Press. — Baltimore won the fourth game of the Little World series from St. Paul here yesterday afternoon, 7 to 3. With the score tied in the ninth, three men on bases, and one out, McAvoy of the Orioles, broke up the game with a homer into the right field bleachers. It was his second homer of the series, he having broken up the first game with a circuit clout. This victory puts Baltimore further in the lead, three games to one.

Groves and Benton, who started on the mound, were both knocked out. Parnham went in for Baltimore in the sixth and held the Saints scoreless for the remainder of the game.

Hall relieved Benton in the ninth, after Walsh had doubled, and had made third on a short single by Bentley.

After Boley went out to first, Bishop was purposely passed, filling the bases. Then McAvoy broke up the game with his homer. Score

COURAGE WON FOR NEW YORK GIANTS.

Fighting Spirit of the McGrawites Upset All the Dope Worked Out By the Fans.

NEW YORK, October 10. — Just before the opening of the World's Series last Wednesday, John Joseph McGraw, sometimes called "Little Napoleon," said, "The club with the most consistent fighters wins the most ball games."

His statement has been vindicated, confirmed, and sealed. His Giants declared by 90 per cent. of the "experts" to have nothing more than a faint, fighting chance of winning one game, outplayed the Yankees, won four games, tied one, lost none, and are still world champions.

From every approach that could be made on paper before the first game was played the Giants were considered a beaten—badly beaten—club. The figures said that the Giants had but one reliable pitcher, that the Yanks had nothing else but unbeatable hurlers—and that pitching had won every world series.

But the record books were remiss. The index didn't even carry the caption "fighting ability," few men in baseball, besides "Little Napoleon," know how it's doped. But he had found that quality in his ball players and he staked his pride that he could recognise it when he saw it.

Already it seems an old story. It's been written every time men met in combat. The score of Sunday's game, that decided the series for the Nationals, was 5 to 3, but that's only an incident, exactly how it was done is a matter of detail. The Giants won that game and all the others they captured because they were the "most consistent fighters."

Of course the Giants have ability. Courage without skill in the five days at the Polo Grounds would have been useless.

It was courage and skill that enabled long George Kelly to straighten out a Joe Bush fork-ball in the eighth inning of the game on Sunday, when the Giants were one run behind and the bases were filled with two out. He had just been belittled by Miller Huggins, the Yankee manager, who had ordered Bush to pass "Pep" Young to get a chance at the "easy mark."

That play was the climax of the game and the series, and will remain a matter of controversy. Some say that Huggins was justified in having Young walked to get at Kelly. Many, including McGraw himself, say it was smart baseball. Long George was the weakest batter in the winning line-up. Young was an almost hitting certainty. But Huggins did not figure the human element that McGraw calls "courage." The Yankee manager had expected his pitcher, Bush, to be a soldier. But Joe is a star and temperamental. Before the 40,000 fans he flouted his manager by plainly showing his disgust when the order to pass Young [illegible] and shouted "aw let's play baseball."

[illegible] rate, he was off his stride when Kelly came to bat. He sent over a wide one. Then he shot one of his fast ones. Kelly, awkward and gaunt, bent over the plate. His lips were set. He gripped his bat tightly. He met the fast one squarely—the tying and winning runs scored.

NECK BROKEN BUT STILL IN THE GAME.

A little thing like a broken neck is not going to keep Harry Herbert of Syracuse University out of athletics.

During last fall's Syracuse-Colgate gridiron encounter, after playing a whirlwind game as quarterback until injured, he was carried from the field, in the first half, with a fractured cervical vertebrae, in other words, a broken neck.

At first it was thought he could not live, then that he could never hold his head erect again. But after a long time in a plaster cast he got out and during the summer, being an all-round athlete, played a few games of baseball. Now he is going out for Coach Laurie Cox's championship lacrosse team at Syracuse.

He will wear a special helmet to protect his neck.

RUGBY RESULTS WERE SENT OUT BY RADIO.

KINGSTON, October 10. Canadian Press. — The broadcasting radio station at Queen's University, was used on Saturday evening for the broadcasting of news in connection with the football match, and this, its initial try-out, is reported to have been very successful. The broadcasting station has not as yet attempted anything in the way of amplification, but in the very near future amplifiers are to be installed when a far greater radius of usefulness will be the result. Prof. Jemmet forecasted great things for Queen's in radio activities. It is the only broadcasting station between Toronto and Montreal.

Miller Huggins to Manage Yankees For Next Season

Colonel Ruppert Denies the Report That Eddie Collins Will Handle New York Team in 1923.

SHAKE-UP POSSIBLE.

NEW YORK, October 10 (Canadian Press). — Miller Huggins will manage the New York American League Club in 1923 if he cares to continue in the position which he has held for the past few seasons.

This was the substance of a statement issued yesterday by Colonel Jacob Ruppert, president of the Yankees, in refuting a report from the west that Eddie Collins, of the Chicago White Sox, was to manage the local American League Club next season.

"Huggins will manage the team in 1923 if he wants to," Colonel Ruppert frankly stated. "Of course," he added, "we'll have to come to a financial agreement, but that shouldn't be difficult. The Yankees never decrease a man's salary—they increase it. Pshaw, I don't see how these reports originate.

"Any club would like to have Eddie Collins. He's a great ball player, but—" and the Colonel smiled broadly, "Miller Huggins can manage the Yankees if he wants to."

Colonel Ruppert was not so direct in discussing the possibility of a general shake-up of the team which has lost two successive World's Series to the New York Giants.

"We have no deals pending, though some might be made, but there isn't a man on the team we wouldn't let go if it would strengthen the club," he said. "Mind you, we must strengthen the club to make a deal. That's what Huggins says, and that's what I say."

"Do you contemplate trading Babe Ruth?" he was asked.

"We'll trade any man if we can strengthen the club," the Colonel repeated.

"Where do you think the club needs to be strengthened?" was another query.

"Well, it's a good ball club, but if we can get a better man at any position than the one we now have at that position, we'll make a trade if we can," he replied.

Asked if he thought that Huggins' reported impaired health would prevent him from continuing at the helm, the Colonel answered in the negative.

"I don't think so," he said. "Huggins isn't sick. He's a delicate man, you know, and he's run down. He needs a rest, that's all."

From well informed quarters the report is persistently repeated that Ruth is to be given stiff discipline. He was almost a total failure in the World's Series, at least at bat, though he did make a pretty sacrifice in Sunday's game that enabled a Yankee runner to score later. Not only for his work in the World's Series, but for the constant tub of hot water in which he steeped himself all this season is the Bambino to be punished, according to these reports.

Similar stories predict something dire for Bob Meusel who was Ruth's partner in exile in the fore part of the season when they were kept out of the game for flouting the authority of Commissioner K. M. Landis.

Some critics assert that Meusel was very indifferent throughout the World's Series.

BALL PLAYERS TO TOUR THE ORIENT.

Three Representatives From the Giants and Three From the Yanks Will Be in the Party.

At least three members of the New York Giants, world's champions, and three of the New York Yankees, the losing team in the series that ended Sunday, will participate in the tour of the Orient that has been organized to further the growth of baseball beyond the Pacific. While the official roster has not yet been completed for the party that will gather at Chicago next Sunday to sail from Vancouver in time to reach Yokohama, October 31, it is known that George Kelly, whose hit won yesterday's game for the Giants, Arthur Nefh, and Emil Meusel, the slugging outfielder, will go from the Giant squad From the Yankess will be Joe Bush, who pitched two losing games for his team, including that of yesterday. Waite Hoyt, the sensational boy pitcher, and Fred Hoffman, second string catcher. Other players billed to go are Tom Griffith, of the Brooklyn Club; Joe Sewell, and Stephenson, cf the Cleveland Americans; Amos Strunk and Falk of the Chicago Americans; and Joe Lavan, St. Louis Nationals. The men are selected not only for ability but for gentlemanly conduct on and off the ball field and their selection is subject to the approval of Commissioner Landis.

NEW FIGHTING AIRPLANES PROMISE EFFICIENCY

LONDON, Oct. 10.—(Associated Press)—Great claims are made on behalf of several new airplanes about to be tested by the British Air Ministry. Among them is a new type of machine which, it is predicted, will place an entirely new aspect on the aircraft versus battleship controversy. It is known as the "Curaboo" Fitted with a very powerful engine it will have a range it is said, of over a thousand miles when fully loaded with bombs or torpedoes.

This is a three-seater machine, and it will be a most effective weapon, when operating in large numbers, in repelling not only invading aircraft, but sea craft as well.

When engaged against the latter the new machine, it is claimed, will be able to dart down, discharge its torpedoes at the enemy vessel and climb out of range of anti-aircraft guns in no time. Its ability to climb rapidly will enable it to destroy quickly any Zeppelin that it sights. It is credited with a speed of three miles a minute.

Great secrecy is being observed about another machine, a four-seater known as the "Bisson" which it is also predicted will do wonders. It has been specially designed for landing on and taking off from the deck of a battleship or aircraft carrier.

BRINTON CARPETS FALL TO ENGINEERS

Rally in the Fifth Inning Turned the Tide in Favor of Engineers.

The Engineers held the large end of a 9 to 4 score in the Soft Ball game with the Brinton Carpets last evening at the Armouries. The Engineers went to bat in the fifth with the score tied but they staged a batting rally in that frame which resulted in five runs and put the game on ice. Langley twirled for the Engineers and Bishop for the Brintons.

The teams were:

Engineers— Burgess, s.s. ;Helson, 3b; Langley, p; Davis, 1b; Metheral, 2b; Munro, c; Jackson, ss; Fielder, lf.

Brintons—O'Dette, ss; Bishop, p; Corbett, 3b; C. Shaughnessey, ss; Ross, 2b; Taylor, c; Shaughnessey, rf; Rose, 1b; Criss, lf.

THE HARRIER CLUB HAD GOOD TURNOUT.

A good bunch of runners turned out last evening for the regular practice of the Harrier's Club. The boys left the "Y" at 7.45 and were put through a stiff run by Charlie Thorpe, under whose experienced training they are rapidly getting into first class shape. The majority of the runners are now doing a full five miles without showing any ill effects.

On November 6, the date of the Examiner Road Race the boys should be able to set a fast pace and go the distance with ease. There is still nearly a month in which to train and Mr. Thorpe thinks that any boy having designs on either cup has lots of time to get in shape for the run. The next meeting of the Harrier's Club will be held at the Y.M.C.A. Monday evening and another big turn out is expected.

Many Records Were Broken During the 1922 Ball Season

BY BILLY EVANS

The 1922 baseball season, just closed, stands out as one of the most remarkable in major league history.

The unexpected has happened, records have been broken thrills galore have been produced.

The American League pennant winner was not decided until a day before the close of the season.

Third place in the American League race, which carries with it a juicy cut in the world series, also hung in the balance until a day before the close of the race.

Some idea of the battle for third place which was won by Detroit can be gleaned from the fact that Detroit finished one game ahead of Cleveland, the fourth place team, and the Indians were just one game in advance of Chicago.

In the National League, second and third positions in the race were not decided until the final day of the season.

Cincinnati, by winning a double header from Pittsburgh, took second place from that club. An even split would have insured the Pittsburgh club the runner-up position. St. Louis, by defeating Chicago, worked itself into a tie with Pittsburg for third place honors.

The home-run habit started two years back, continued throughout the 1922 season. As a result home-run totals were shattered.

Last season the American League teams made 477 home runs, the National 460, a total of 937 circuit clouts.

In the campaign just closed the National League made 529 homers, the American 525, a total of 1054.

A new home-run king was crowned in the person of Rogers Hornsby. With 42 home runs to his credit he dethroned the erstwhile "Sultan of Swat," Babe Ruth. Last season Hornsby made only 21 home runs.

In the American League, Ken Williams of St. Louis and Tilly Walker of Philadelphia nosed out Babe Ruth. A late start of eight weeks cut Ruth's figure to 35 for the season. Williams made 39, Walker 37.

Hornsby, in making 42 home runs, set a new National League figure. In 1884 Ed Williamson made 27 home runs. That mark has stood the test of all the great hitters until Hornsby came through.

Ken Williams of the Browns and Walter Henline of the Phillies, in making three home runs in one game, pulled the unusual.

Walker of the Athletics and Hornsby of the St. Louis Cardinals, on five occasions during the season, made two home runs in a game.

Connie Mack's team, after holding undisputed possession of last place in the American League since 1914, emerged from the damp dark hole in favor of the Boston Red Sox.

The winning of 27 games by Eddie Rommel, with the Athletics stands out as one of the greatest pitching performances in years. The Athletics won 65 games, Rommel winning nearly half of them.

Ty Cobb, as usual, played a prominent part in the unusual happenings of 1922.

Three major league batting records were tied by Cobb.

By batting better than .300 Cobb equated the record of Hans Wagner, who, for 17 years topped that figure.

In making more than 200 base hits, he equalled the record of Willie Keeler, who, for eight seasons, beat that mark.

By batting better than .400, Cobb equaled the feat of Jesse Burket, who, for three seasons, recorded a .400 or better average.

Cobb's record in a way, is more remarkable than Burkett's since the foul strike rule was not in effect when Burkett was in the game. However, the ball today is much livelier than the one Burkett hit at.

Rogers Hornsby, by getting three hits in five times at bat in the last game, finished the season a trifle better than .400.

Not since 1899 has any National League player batted over .400. In that year Ed. Delehanty with the Philadelphia Nationals had a mark of .408.

Only eight National League players since the inception of that organization have batted better than .400.

The showing of the Boston Red Sox against the New York Yankees during 1922 is proof positive of the uncertainties of the National pastime.

New York won the pennant in the American League, Boston finished last, yet the Red Sox team was the only club to win the series from the American League pennant winners, Boston taking 13 of the 22 games.

Joe Bush, who, by his great pitching, materially assisted New York in winning the American League pennant, also has a grievance

Bush won 26 games and lost only 7, yet five of the seven games that he lost were won by Boston.

Another unusual series was the one staged between the Detroit Tigers and the Chicago White Sox.

Inability to beat Chicago was one of the big reasons why the Detroit club had to be content with third place. Chicago won 17 out of the 22 games played with the Tigers.

Another incident decidely out of the ordinary was the feat of the young college pitcher, Pruett, of the St. Louis Browns, who struck out Babe Ruth nine times during the season.

The game in which the Chicago Cubs beat the Phillies 26 to 23 will live as long in the records of baseball as one of the greatest slugfests.

SLEPT THROUGH

was incorrect, according to Mrs. Gordon. The Bishop had returned home from the hospital, where he had been ill, a few days before the conflagration.

The attitude of those old residents who lived in Haileybury, and knew that the surrounding district was burning, and yet remained until the last dreadful minutes, is somewhat hard to realize. Washings hung on the line the day previous came in brown with soot and smoke and during the afternoon of the last day, a pall of black, heavy smoke hung over the city like a shroud. A neighbor of Mrs. Gordon's, who had already been through three bad forest fires, said to her: "Well, if you had buried your silver as often as I have and watched Major ——and his wife bid an eternal farewell to each other time and again, you would feel like taking a chance too."

The streets of Haileybury are undecipherable. There are no routes of any sort. All that remains is a blackened ruin, with chimneys and fire cradles the only evidences remaining of a once prosperous community. But the spirit of the men who lived there is apparent in their action at present, when the neighboring saw-mills are working overtime to supply lumber for their demands, and when the Jory block, now a heap of blackened [illegible] already two offices rented in it against the [illegible] built. r. Gordon returned to Haileybury yesterday to help with the reconstruction work. His wife and little daughter are staying with Mrs. Gordon's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Coughlin, Rubidge street.

At The Theatres

CAPITOL—THE SEASON'S BIGgest sensation, vaudeville novelty singing act, Buck West, the singing Sheriff from Bear County, Texas. Also Pictures.

ROYAL—SHIRLEY MASON IN "Lights of the Desert". Fox Comedy "The Reporter. Mutt and Jeff in "The Hole Cheese". Also Western Special.

AT THE ROYAL.

SHIRLEY MASON WINS AUDIENCE IN NEW PLAY.

A sparkling picture came to the Royal Theatre last night. Shirley Mason is the bright twinkle in "Lights of the Desert." This Fox production has much to recommend it.

The scenes are set in and near a desert town of Nevada. The settings show that much care has been exercised to give the proper atmosphere and many are beautiful in composition. Although Shirley Mason is a show girl at the beginning of the story, her portrayal has enough originality to lift the character out of the conventional.

Shirley is a glorious girl who glows with charm. The story fits her to a nicety; but we are not going to give details of the plot and thus spoil your full amusement at the theatre. The cast has been well chosen. Allan Forrest, Miss Mason's leading man, supports her admirably. The director has handled the scenes with skill.

Here and there, amid tense dramatic situations, comes a touch of humor that adds to the photoplay's entertainment value. But the burden of success rests chiefly upon the fair star.

One of the most interesting pictures seen here in some time is "The Storm," now showing at the Captiol Theatre, with House Peters, Matt Moore and Virginia Valli as principal actors. The title refers, not to a storm of the elements, but to an upheaval of human passion that has for its stage the lonely cabin in the snow-bound wastes of the Canadian Rockies. The entire drama is enacted by three main chaarcters, Burr Winton, the big unlettered woodsman, with House Peters' splendid delineation of this outstanding role; Matt Moore as Dave Stewart, the blase New Yorker, who tired of cities and their ways, and proposes to spend a winter in the wilds with his trapper friend, and Virginia Valli, as Mannette Fachard. This is a finely-drawn character. Miss Valli never for a minute swerves in her presentation of the innocent, unsophisticated, lovely daughter of the old trapper, who comes off second best in an encounter with the Northwest Mounted Police, and leaves her alone, to spend the winter with the two men in their isolated cabin. Here the two masculine types are at variance, and love for the girl, with jealousy of one another, leads to some strong scenes, in which the veneer of civilization is stripped away from the bland New Yorker, and the big-hearted woodsman stands out in contrast. There are tense situations in the rapidly-developing drama of love and desire.

An environment of magnificent beauty accompanies this picture, in the softness and beauty of the summer landscape, and the later fury of the winter that beats around the cabin. There is a wonderful scene depicting a forest fire, in all its awful, on-rushing force, with animals and humans alike staggering before its might, and there is a thrilling canoe race down the boiling raipds. The complications which have woven themselves about the unsuspecting Burr and the double-tongued Dave finally come to a climax in the fire scene, where the former rescues his false chum from the rushing fire. Powerful and strong, both in atmosphere, in acting and in its human characterizations, it is a fine, big picture that has an attractive appeal.

There is the usual programme of short reels, with a good comedy, and a novelty in the singing act of Buck West, "the singing sheriff from Bear County, Texas. Mr. West has a voice of resounding timbre, of vibrant, ringing, powerful tone, that is heard to splendid advantage in selections that include "On the Road to Mandalay," "Macushla," and "Mine," numbers that brought forth renewed applause from a full house last night.

The Capitol Concert Orchestra, under the direction of Miss Florence Gladman at the piano, has resolved itself into a string aggregation that promises excellent results for the future, when the different units have resolved themselves into a harmoniously working quartette. Messrs. J. Nazimok and B. Hartshorn are violinists, and M. Chenhall has the 'cello.

AT THE GRAND.

LISTEN TO ME.

Back to the "olden, golden days" of "The Gingerbread Man" and other musical comedies of a decade ago, last night's capacity audience at the Grand were carried by the spectacular musical extravaganza, "Listen to Me," which Messrs. Le Comte and Flesher offered for the approval of Peterborough playgoers. A fantastical plot, a riot of gorgeous costumes and beautiful settings, really tuneful music, with two or three numbers that were gems, and an abundance of dancing combined to make the production a memorable one. No expense has been spared in staging "Listen to Me," and the result is a series of stage pictures that are entrancing.

From the meeting of L. Lucifer with the six temptations of man, [illegible] coldly from Satan's palace in Hades to the North [illegible] sandy Land and eventually to the Ritz Theatre in New York, where the audience learns that all they had been seen had been a dream on the part of the negro janitor, and everything is finally satisfactorily adjusted at Cupid's post office.

The obvious opportunities for striking scenic effects and rich costumes have been fully taken advantage of by the producers.

The featured member of the cast is Barbara Bronell, a winsome little miss who dances on elfin feet and who is always pleasing. Most of the song numbers fall to the lot of Ross Robertson, a vocalist of splendid abillty whose voice is heard to great advantage. Betty Dawn Martin also sings most pleasingly and her duet with Mr. Robertson, "Where's the Girl For Me?" is the outstanding musical number. The comedians are Joe B. McGee as "Snowball" and Billy Murphy, well remembered for his work in "My Soldier Girl," with some able assistance from Bessie Delmore, an eccentric comedienne of ability. If the production can be criticized anywhere it is in the fact that the author has failed to provide the funmakers with much material that is original or clever, and it speaks well for the cleverness of Messrs. McGee and Murphy that they get many a laugh in spite of the paucity of the stuff with which they have to work. McGee, who was a member of Al. Felds' Minstrels, is at his best in his song, "I Don't Talk About Nobody," which gives him an opportunity of using his minstrel dancing to good effect. There is however, so much that is captivating in the production that the slight lack of clever comedy is easily overlooked.

The chorus is well trained and agile. Some of the costumes were evidently ordered before the coal shortage developed, but the girls have successfully avoided pneumonia so far and anyway it may be a mild winter.

"Listen to Me" may play a return engagement in Peterborough. It is sure of a warm reception, for it contains the ingredients for an evening of real pleasure.

"SONYA" COMING

"Sonya" a three-act comedy will be the attraction at the Grand on Saturday, October 14th, for matinee and night performances, comes to this city under the direction of Marc Klaw, of whom it can truthfully be said there is no better known theatrical producer either in this country or abroad.

It is the same production that was seen last season for a long run at the 48th street Theatre, New York.

The action of the play takes place in the Royal Palace of the Kingdom in Eastern Europe. The story revolves around the heir apparent. He has been prepared under the direction of a rugged uncle to succeed to the throne. A cousin, desirous of involving the young prince in a scandal, brings to his attention a young dancing girl, disguised as a boy. The facts become known to the Prince, friendship ripens into love. The young girl leads him into a better understanding of his people and shows that she is capable of assuming the responsibility of a helpmate with the result that he determines to wed her. This precipitates intrigue and conspiracy and provides a series of complications that creates a suspense that is not relieved until the final curtain.

Mr. Klaw has provided the play with a cast of unusual merit and which should make for "Sonya," one of the most popular entertainments to be seen in the local theatres this season. To the few who are not acquainted with Mr. Klaw's activities, one merely has to mention that he was responsible for the production of "Ben Hur", the most successful play ever produced on any stage.

DO WE LOVE MUSIC?..

Canadian have been accused of all sorts of things; among others that they are not a music loving nation Mr. Debalta, the advance manager of the De Feo Grand Opera Company, who will give a gala performance in our city on Friday, October 13, took exception to this gratuitous assertion.

"I have been connected for the last fifteen years with music and musical publications and I pride myself on knowing something about it.I have been amazed when I visited the Toronto exhibition to see how much you people worship the goddess of Harmony. I cannot forget Music Day, when every little town of Ontario was represented by a choir a band or some other organization, whose aim was to promote the progress of this noble art. This is one of the reasons that prompted me to convince Mr. De Feo to undertake a trans-Canadian tour with his high-priced Opera Company. One of the chief objections was the high cost of travelling with a company of about 60 people, and three carloads of scenery and costumes. But Mr. De Feo is one of the cleverest impresarios of the day, and besides he resolved to bring grand opera within the reach of everybody instead of letting it remain as it has been until now a luxury for the very few; so with a remarkable ingenuosity and with certain financial sacrifices he decided to visit every city and give them a taste of the highest class of lyric drama. Nobody will have an excuse to stay away. The prices are within the reach of everybody. And when I say that for these ridiculously low prices we give you the same quality of a production as in the Metropolitan Opera House in New York or in the Covent Garden in London, where prices as high as $7 and $10, are charged for a seat and then I may ask you——

"Do you people in Peterboro really love music? Do they? Well, I am like the man from Missouri, I want to be shown."

We may answer Mr. Debalta and assure him that we do love music, and we will show him. Seats are now on sale.

WHY GOOD BALL MATERIAL SCARCE.

PITTSBURGH, October 9 (Associated Press). — The tremendous development of industrial league and semi-professional baseball is blamed by the scouts of the Pittsburgh Nationals for the unusually small number of promising youngsters in the minor leagues this season.

Pirate sleuths who have been rampaging through the bushes since the spring agree that many ball tossers worthy of Class A attention, have preferred to "play on the side" while holding down industrial positions.

"I have spent considerable time watching semi-professional league games this year, and I'm about convinced that a great many of these players have been making more money than most minor league stars, said Tom McNamara, one of the Pittsburgh "Ivory Hunters."

"College men, trained in a special line of industrial work, step from school into real jobs. A few days later the baseball coach gets on their trail, and $200.00 or 300.00 a month is tacked on to their income for playing a couple of games a week. Pretty soft? Yes!

"Last season scouts noticed that conditions were changing, but they were much more noticeable this summer.

"The quality of baseball in these leagues has improved wonderfully. I saw semi-pro. contests this year which were as well played as class AA battles, and I saw individual plays in these games that would have done credit to any team in the Big Tent."

Pirate scouts have pointed out also that the scarcity of real prospects in the organised baseball field has caused club owners to ask sky-high prices for any player attracting major league attention.

"The moment a scout looks over a prospect his cash value increases 100 per cent.," said one of the diamond detectives. "If two scouts give him the once-over, the price goes up a few thousand. If three of us happen to visit that club—goodnight."

but is yeast ironized, which is a substance all by itself. This gives back, restores to the body, materials you have lost, and which you used to have when you were romping around in your teens. Ironized Yeast contains, for this reason, Nature's greatest source of brain, nerve and tissue energy. It gives you power plus, quick! It does it in half the usual time. No matter how old you are now, you can get a young man's iron, and a young man's vitamines; a young woman's iron, and a young woman's vitamines. These two things are the twins of human strength, human charm. They mean to you, success—social and business. There is only one Ironized Yeast in the world. Be sure that you get it, and beware of substitutes. Sold at all drug stores at $1.00 a package. Each package contains 60 tablets, each tablet is sealed. They never lose their power. Harold F. Ritchie & Co., Ltd., Toronto, Agts. Get the "punch" that comes from Ironized Yeast!

Take a Look Around Your Premises

CLEAN UP. Get those fire breeders and germ breeders out of your store and off the premises. They belong on the dump heap, but will never get there until you start something.

There is no reason for:

A back-yard full of broken bits of packing cases.

A basement full of old papers, boxes and ashes.

A barn full of empty cases, packing material and old barrels you will never use.

Start them on the road to the dump heap.

WAR BETWEEN TURKS AND GREEKS ENDS AS THE ARMISTICE SIGNED

Plans for Conferences Designed to Bring About Definite Peace in the Near East Are Now Under Way.

GREEK SITUATION CAUSING CONCERN

LONDON, Oct. 11. — (Canadian Press).— With the Armistice just signed at Mudania putting an end to warfare between the Greeks and Turkish Nationalists, plans for the conferences designed to bring about a definite peace in the Near East are proceeding in a less agitated atmosphere. Two conferences to this end are being arranged for, one to fix the general Near Eastern peace terms and another to provide for neutralization of the straits of the Dardanelles. Preparations are being made for both conferences by the various governments, as it is pointed out that the settlements reached at the first must necessarily affect the second.

It is believed that the first conference will be arranged for early in November, with the second general conference sitting early in December and possibly concluding the entire settlements by Christmas.

All Conventions Null

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 11.— (Canadian Press).— It is reported that the Turkish Nationalist Ministry of Finance has issued a statement declaring that all conventions, treaties, contracts and decrees promulgated by the government of the Sultan since March 16, 1920, are regarded by Kemalists as null and void. The date referred to the marked Allied occupation of Constantinople.

Refugees Plight

ATHENS, Oct. 11.—(Canadian Press).—Reliable advices from various parts of Greece, including islands indicate growing seriousness of refugee problem. Thousands of persons are terribly emaciated from lack of nourishment and suffering from exposure and unsanitary conditions in which they are forced to exist.

These refugees, majority of whom are women, children and old men, are sleeping in parks, cellars and attics and generally about fifty to a room. The Authorities fear pestilence when the rainy season begins. They estimate Greece will have mill ion refugees to support when Eastern Thrace is evacuated. It will require 1,500,000,000 drachmas yearly to feed this number and also an effective organization which the government does not possess. The Thracian deputies have announced they will appeal to Herbert Hoover for assistance. Twenty thousand refugees are reported to have been moved from the island of Mitylene, of Smyrna coast to Crete and Pirasus.

Strong Earthquake Shakes Rome City

ROME, Oct. 11.— (Canadian Press.) — A strong earthquake shook the city to-day, causing great alarm among the population.

No damage, however, has been reported up to one o'clock this afternoon.

Apprehension among people was stimulated by recollection of similar shocks, although much less violent, which occurred in 1917, and continued for the whole month.

FAKE RANCHER LEFT BY BRIDE

Told His Wife He Owned 10,000 - Acre Estate — Draws Bad Cheque, Jailed.

CANTON, N. Y., Oct. 11.—Stripped of the fictitious glory of great wealth and ownership of a mythical 10,00-acre ranch in Wyoming, his bride of a few weeks seeking an nullment of their marriage, William Davis, after a brief but glittering career in these parts as a big cattleman of inexhaustible means, lies in a cell in the county jail here waiting action by the grand jury on a charge of swindling. By his own confession his only source of wealth has been service in a gang of bootleggers .

The specific charge against Davis ih the issuing of a check for $1,668 upon a bank in Potsdam, in which he had no funds. Davis said that when he gave the check to a Potsdam garage keeper in payment for an automobile he informed the garage man that he had no money in the bank and that it was understood between thm that the check was not to be presented at the bank until he had time to meet it with money he expected to receive within a few days. This money, he now admits, was to have come from bootleggers in Syracuse and Utica.

Davis first appeared in Watertown where he posed as a ranchman and gave as the source of his wealth the mythical ranch in Wyoming. According to his confession his appearance there was due to the fact that he had been pursued by state troopers and had wrecked his automobile in which he was fleeing with a carload of Canadian liquors.

Family Successful.

Up to that time he had been fairly successful in the contraband trade and he accumulated $8,000. with which he assumed the role of a western millionaire. He claimed to have a large account in the National Bank of Sheridan, Wyo., and is said to have drawn on that bank a check for $5,000. He says now that he was really penniless, or nearly so when he reached Watertown a fugitive and registered at the Hotel Woodruff.

It was there while waiting remittance from the bootleggers' gang, that he met Mrs. Margaret Moore Sterling, whom he married after a rapid courtship. Mrs. Sterling seems to have influential friends in Watertown and it was a dinner at which the Mayor of Watertown and other influential people were guests that Davis was arrested for the issuance of the worthless check.

Davis in his confession, now that his romance has faded and his bride is seeking her freedom, insinuates that she did all the courting and through the influence of her friend the mayor, a special license and arranged for the minister and invisited friends from Potsdam and elsewhere to the bridal festivity.

Poses As Millionaire.

From Watertown the bridal pair went to Potsdam, where the bride had a house and lot she wished to sell. There Davis kept up the role of millionaire. The car which he bought there he used for some time before he gave the check. Soon after that transaction he and his bride left in the car for Watertown to obtain, he said, money that was to be deposited in a bank there, presumably a remittance from the bootleggers.

Arriving after the banks had closed Davis said he wired his creditor that he was going on to Utica to get the money.

This may have hastened the course of justice, for soon after the dinner at which Mayor Cahill, his wife and daughter and others were guests, two state troopers walked in on the party and took Davis to the City Hall. Soon afterward, according to Davis, the Mayor appeared an induced the troopers to release Davis in his custody. The next day he was brought to the jail here.

Until recently Davis received daily letters from his bride, and until they ceased and he learned that she had begun suit to annul their marriage, he maintained the mystery with which he had surrounded himself.

Davis maintains that his name really is William Davis, an that he has two children in the West from whom he keeps the knowledge of his downfall.

YOUTH NAMED TRYST SLAYER HALL KILLING

Rector and Choir Leader Killed By Boy Trailing Girl, Says Man Who "Found" Bodies.

Admits Seeing Tragedy.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J., Oct. 11.—In a 300-word statement, which he dictated and signed in the county prosecutor's office here, Raymond Schneider declared he had been an eye witness to the killing of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs Eleanor Mills, and named a 19-year-old youth, a chum of his, as slayer.

Schneider asserted that the tragedy was due to a "case of mistaken identity." He said the youth he name was "after" another man when he came on Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills under the big crabapple tree on the Phillips farm just outside the city when the crime occurred.

Schneider told Detectives Totten and David and State Trooper Dyckman, who did the questioning, that he and the youth had followed Pearl Bashman, the 15-year-old girl who was with him when he "discovered" the bodies on the Saturday following the tragedy, out in the direction of the farm around 11 o'clock the night in question, Sept. 14. Nearing the farm house, he said they came on a couple under a tree which the youth immediately took to be Miss Bashman and "this other man."

Leaped to Shoot.

"There they are; let me get at them," he quoted his compaion as shouting. At the same time, he said, the youth leaped forward and opened fire. Thre shots were fired.

As the last died away, they rushed on the bodies, Schneider said. He (Schneider) realized at once that "a terrible mistake had been made," ". . . that's not them" he says he cried to his companion. "You have made a mistake."

The slayer agreed such was the case and together they fled the scene. Schneider says he has no idea what his chum did with the pistol.

"I didn't see him throw it away," he protested.

The accused youth is being detained as a material witness and announcement of an arrest is expected momentarily. Schneider, also is being held.

The statement of Schneider which the authorities hail as the "beginning of the end" of the sensational and prolonged investigation came as the sequel to a grilling which lasted virtually throughout the night. Schneider, in fact, has been under interrogation with brief recesses since 1 p.m. yesterday, when he was taken to the County Court House. After he had been questioned for several hours, detectives went to the home of John Hayes on Richardson avenue and got his 19-year-old son, Clifford and took him to the prosecutors's office. He too, was grilled for a good part of the night. Still another youth questioned was Leon Kauffman, 15, a companion of the other two youths. Kauffman was questioned for more than two hours.

Confesses At Last.

Schneider, according to the authorities, told several conflicting stories before he made the statement which he declared to be the true story of the crime.

In his first account of his activies on the evening of the shooting Schneider, who is only 21 years old, revealed that he had heard the shots, which ended the lives of the rector and Mrs. Mills, and that he saw two men and a woman running from the scene. He stuck to this story for hours. Finally he broke down and named his companion as the actual slayer, afterwards putting his statement into writing and signing it.

After completing his "final statement" Schneider was confronted with the youth he had named. He accused the youth to his face of doing the shooting.

"I saw you do it!" he shouted.

"If you say I did it you are a liar," was the prompt retort.

All She Does is Spend; Her Bill Payers Follow

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—Being a legal spendthrift with a full equipment of court-appointed bill payers and similar conveniences is to be the profession of Mrs. Marion Gilman Dressler Cook from here on in. She admitted as much as she sat in the Englewood court prepared to explain her taste for lingerie as a street garb.

Mrs. Cook, widow of Hugo Gilman, clock manufacturer, who made her principal heir to a $500,000 estate, was arrested by humane policemen the other night as she dared the autumnal breezes for a stroll in diaphanous garb at East 42d street and Drexel boulevard. She stated that she had just been allowed her share of her husband's estate and was celebrating her legal victory. In court she declared that her previous estimate of the situation had been wrong.

Battle Over Wills.

Mrs. Cook was recognized as an heir only after long and severe legal battles over the authenticity of two or three wills. When it was finally settled that she was entitled to the bulk of the property, Fred L. Gilman, brother of the decedent, filed a petition in the Probate Court asking that the widow be adjudged a spendthrift and that a conservator be appointed. Foreman Brothers were named to look after her affairs.

Three years after the appointment of the conservator, March 5, 1922, she hired Seymour N. Cohen, an attorney, to make a plea for her release from this administration of her estate. From session to session the plea traveled through continuance after continuance until the other day when it appeared close to hearing.

Likes To Be Spendthrift.

The widow, by way of celebrating her prospective release from bondage as a spendthrift, gave a party, and the next day appeared in court.

"I dont want to be restored to my rights," she said. "I'm perfectly content to be a spendthrift. It's going to be such a nuisance paying my bills. Mr. Cohen has advised me to accept a permanent conservator and he will file the formal plea."

"But my fee," protested Mr. Cohen as Mrs. Cook sauntered out of the courtroom, forgetfully.

"On your advice I'm a permanent spendthrift," declared Mrs. Cook. "Find out who pays you."

And so she returned to the South Side to celebrate new victories and to fall into the hands of police censors who objected to her taste in clothes.

$204.10 PER H.P. IS CAPITAL COST OF HYDRO TO PETERBORO

Tabulated Statement Indicates Liabilities That Would Be Assumed in Proposed Partnership of Central Ontario Municipalities — Western Charges Comparatively Small as Shown by R. R. Hall, K.C.

Upon the suggestion of Sir Adam Beck, sixty-four municipalities in Central Ontario are being asked to form a partnership to take over the assets and assume the liabilities of the Ontario Government in connection with the Central Ontario Power System. Representatives of some of these municipalities recently met at Port Hope, and it appears that several of them were ready to adopt the policy of "shut your eyes, open your mouth, and swallow Sir Adam's Hydro, and you will all enjoy the electric charge the same as Western Ontario." It becomes important to consider this proposed partnership.

In 1916 the Ontario Government bought out the assets of the Electric Power Company, which operated this system for $8,350,000, and later appointed the Hydro-Electric Power Commission its manager. Since then the liabilities of this system have increased to 11,273,712.78, and its assets principally consist of power developments, hydraulic rights, transformer stations, transmission lines, local utilities, such as street railways, gas plants, water works, etc., pulp mills and pulp wood area, etc., and the enterprise shows a loss of $168,930.15.

These Central Ontario municipalities have no information as to how these liabilities are to be shared by each, nor what real interest each will have in the assets of the system. The 14th annual report of the Hydro Commission at page 172 gives a slight hint how the scheme will start, but not how it will finish.

Peterborough is to assume $924,866.02 of the liabilities, making her present share of the capital cost per horse power $204.10, and the following others will enjoy still worse advantages, viz.:

Municipality.	Liability To Be Assumed.	Capital Cost Per Horse Power.
Whitby	$ 94,713.00	$ 238.21
Picton	148,242.18	549.89
Lakefield	46,144.58	416.46
Wellington	34,810.52	502.31
Marmora	8,040.00	705.26
Norwood	6,587.94	731.99
Bloomfield	24,879.95	744.91
Havelock	25,088.58	1,529.77

The average capital cost per horse power on the balance of the system can not be less than $439.19. In fact, it will be more unless the Ontario Government makes an immense loss. To the cities and towns on the lake front it may be less, but to the villages and hamlets it certainly will be more.

What share of this $10,000,000 liability is going to be assumed by Oshawa, Bowmanville, Port Hope, Lindsay, Cobourg, Belleville, Napanee and by Kingston? What benefit will each receive for the risk she takes? What partners will stand the loss of the capital invested in transmission lines to villages that can develop all the electric power they want by a gasoline engine at one-third of the cost and a small fraction of the investment and withdraw from the partnership?

Sir Adam Beck can truly say: "Look what I have done in Western Ontario. The capital cost per horse power to the following cities and towns on the 31st of October, 1921, stood as follows: Niagara Falls, $9.64; Welland, $44.89; Hamilton, $37.16; Toronto, $53.89; Brantford, $61.51; Kitchener, $67.21; Galt, $77.08; Chatham, $111.81, and Windsor, $151.73."

But what effect will the costly development at Chippawa have on future power rates in Western Ontario? Everything is not plain sailing in Western Ontario. Witness, the Eugenia system. Lucknow has a capital cost per horse power of $1,142.91 and Kincardine has a capital cost per horse power of $1,461.91. Other sources of power are available and much cheaper for the ordinary village, hamlet or farming community. What will happen to the partner when they learn this by costly experience?

The proposed partners in Central Ontario should insist upon receiving full detailed information. Who is to operate the pulp mill which lost last year $17,693.84? A full investigation should be made and all the facts submitted to each municipality in Central Ontario before this immense liability is assumed by them, and partnership is formed that will end in a costly and unseemly scramble.

HAND OF DEATH SMITES HEAVILY A LOCAL FAMILY

Three Small Lives Taken as the Result of Eating the Poison of Snake Berry.

NOT DIPHTHERIA

Death smote with a heavy hand the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Goodwin, 298 Edinburgh street, during the last two days, when he took three small lives within twenty-four hours 'time. Little Veon Goodwin, a small girl of five years, Jack, aged 12, and a small cousin of four years, Jimmy Pellow, are dead, and there is no explanation for thier deaths, except the theory that they must have in some way got hold of and eaten the deadly poison of the snake berry. It was supposed at first that the children had contracted a malignant type of diphtheria, but swabs taken of their throats revealed no sign of the disease. The eating of green acorns was then blamed for the first fatality, when the little girl, Veon, passed away at 6 a.m. on Monday.

Jack, whose bright little face was familiar to many readers of The Examiner on his route, died at 7 o'clock yesterday morning. Both children were buried yesterday.

The cousin, Jimmy Pellow, who was in a critical condition yesterday, died at twelve last night, making the third small victim.

Jackie had been suffering from an infected toe, and, with the three other children, had a bad throat, which led to the supposition of diphtheria, later contradicted by the clean swabs. Drs. Young and Moir were in consultation on the case.

WILL CELEBRATE COLOMBUS DAY

Program Specially Arranged at K.G. Clubrooms for Thursday Evening.

To-morrow October 12th., is Columbus Day, the anniversary of the discoverey of America by Christopher Columbus in 1492. Across the line Columbus Day is now recognized as a national holiday in nearly three fourths of the States of the Union and the order of the Knights of Columbus having adopted Christopher Columbus as their patron will to-morrow celebrate the occasion by different forms of entertainment and special functions throughout the continent. Peterboro Council, not to be out done, have arranged a very fine programme to be presented in their Club Rooms on Simcoe street that evening and judging from the number of well known artists on the programme, they should be greeted with a packed house. The entertainment will take the form of a musical programm under the direction of Mr. John Ball followed by an address on Columbus and Columbianism by the Rev. Father McAuley, of Ennismore. The evening will be open to all Knights of Columbus and their lady friends, who will no doubt be out in large numbers to properly celebrate the occasion.

ABRAMS TELLS CANCER THEORY

Declares Blood Scourge the Chief Cause—Holds Wasserman Test Is Inaccurate.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Before an audience of 3,000 in Carnegie Hall, Dr. Albert Abrams, of San Francisco, declared that modern pathology is merely a posthumous discussion of life. He also declared that by means of his electronic theory not only was accurate diagnosis possible, but that through electronic vibrations it is possible to cure cancer and tuberculosis.

Dr. Abrams also said that it was possible, by his theory, to determine whether love had cooled; and that, in time, there would be laboratories to determine whether love was real.

Much to the disappointment of the audience, though he had instruments on the stage, Dr. Abrams did not demonstrate his methods, holding that they were so delicate and the ball so large, that they would not be visible beyond the first few rows.

"The trouble with modern medicine is that a few men dictate the policy of the profession," said Dr. Abrams. "I have no quarrel with the individual physician, because there is no greater humanitarian, and no more altruistic person. But medicine is not a science, it is an art.

"Recently, I sent a patient to 10 physicians, and each diagnosed differently. Imagine sending a watch to 10 different jewelers and then having no watch!"

The speaker denounced the Wasserman test as absolutely inaccurate saying that at Bellevue Hospital, New York, it had been proved by autopsies that in 30 per cent. of cases where the test showed negative, blood scourge was present; and that in 50 per cent. of the cases where the autopsy proved there was no taint, the Wasserman had been positive. Most diseases, especially tuberculosis and cancer, are due to this taint, he said. He held the cure of cancer, if attempted in the incipiency of the disease, was as easy as to take candy from children.

Dr. Abrams spoke only about 20 minutes, and at the end of his talk offered to answer written questions.

In an interview, Dr. Abrams said he would make no further attempt to have the Rockefeller Institute investigate his theory. The institute, he said, had informed him it had no money to investigate the merits of new theories.

Brought to Attention of Board Certain Matters Re Considered of Moment — Refers to Gossip That Tag Day Money Goes Toward Salary of Agent Only.

NOT WORTHY OF NOTE SAID MR. ACKERMAN

Certain proposed additions to the Shelter, which would include a playroom and isolated room for sick children, was the main object of discussion at the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Management of the Children's Aid Society, held in the Board Room of the Chamber of Commerce, yesterday afternoon—the president, Mr. B. F Ackerman, in the chair.

Mr. W. Stocker, who headed a committee convened for the purpose of determining the extent and probable cost of these additions, exhibited to the members present a set of plans drawn up by Mr. W. Barry, free of charge, and illustrating the proposed additional rooms. The cost, according to Mr. Stocker, would be somewhere in the neighbourhood of $2,500, and would allow of work being carried on at the present Shelter for some years to come. He offered to personally supervise the work, which he considered would best be done by day labour.

R. H. Parsons was of the opinion that an old building like the present Shelter, "liable to go up at any time," should not have any more money spent on it.

Mr. Edgar considered that any additions made should be of a lasting and permanent nature, preferably in brick construction, and recommended a committee to look further into the matter.

Dr. Blagrave thought that the present institution was absolutely incompatible with the position occupied in the Province by the Children's Aid Society, an expression of opinion in which he was supported by Mrs Joseph Knox.

Finally a committee was appointed, to decide whether any money should be spent on proposed additions to the present Shelter, composed of Messrs. B. F. Ackerman, J. Edgar, C. S. Cummer, R. H. Parsons, W. Stocker, Wm. Sangster, and Dr. R. C. Blagrave.

Child Returned to Father.

Mr. Lane, a former resident of Apsley, now living in Peterborough, was present at the meeting, to request the return of his daughter, at present under the care of the society. While living in Apsley, Mr. Lane's wife died, and the little girl was placed under the charge of a woman, who finally gave her over to the Children's Aid Society. In the meantime, the father married again, and requested that his little daughter be returned to his home, where he was anxious to receive her. Upon investigation, it was found that the father could provide a clean, decent home and comfortable living for the child, and the agent was accordingly instructed to allow the man to have her.

A letter was read from Messrs. Peck, Kerr & McElderry announcing the bequest in the will of the late G. W. Green of 500.00 to the Society.

Mrs. Jewett, of 60 Albany Avenue, Toronto, had also forwarded the sum of $5.00 to provide treats for the children, and for tag day, the letter enclosing a cheque, already acknowledged from G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., for $10.00, was read.

Rev. C. J Phelan, former president of the society, sent $5.00 with remembrances to every member of the Board, and W. Stocker reported the receipt of $25.00 from Mrs. Waddell, and $6.00 from Thomas Hunter, of North Monaghan.

Mr. Powell gave the total received for tag day, including yesterday's contributions, as $1,355.45, and reporting on amounts received for the tag day fund, with several extra contributions anticipated by him, and Norwood's total, considered that the sum of $1,600.00 might probably be the final total for this year. The success of Mr. Stocker as a collector on tag day was regarded by one of the ladies as a splendid example for co-operation by more of the masculine members of the Board on next year's event.

A hearty vote of thanks was moved to Mrs. J. S. Fanning for the excellent work done by her in the conduct and management of tag day arrangements.

Reports.

The matron's report for the month of September showed a total of 22 children in the Shelter during the month, with five brought in and four sent out No sickness.

Mr. Powell reported applications for children, 3; children brought in, not wards, 1; children returned, not

Thinks Five Murder Trials Are Enough Against One Man

BATHURST, N. B., Oct. 11. — "Unless something new develops in the meantime, I do not think the Crown ought to be expected to proceed any further in the matter."

Such was the declaration of Hon. J. P. Byrne, Attorney General, just before leaving this afternoon for St. John to attend a meeting of the Provincial Government to-morrow, when asked whether John Paris, of Truro, N.S., was to be tried for a sixth time for the murder of little Sadie McAuley, at St. John, Aug. 2nd, 1920.

Paris had been remanded until Oct. 16, when the jury at his fifth trial disagreed.

ARMISTICE CONVENTION SIGNED BY THE TURKS

News Reached London Early This Morning and Carried Relief to Government Which is Echoed Heartily Throughout Whole Country.

NO DETAILS ARE AVAILABLE YET

LONDON, Oct. 11. — (Canadian Press). — The announcement that the armistice convention had been signed at Mudania last night between the Allies and the Turks reached London early this morning, and brought relief to the Government, which certainly will be echoed heartily throughout the country. As the decision of the Turks had not been promised at 5 o'clock, Turkish time, which is 3 o'clock afternoon London time, the passing of hour after hour without word coming through of the signing of the convention created considerable anxiety lest the Turks had become recalcitrant, notwithstanding the unity of the Allies. The anxiety was all the greater because it was known that Ismet Pasha personally had professed dissatisfaction with the Allied terms and had declared that he was unable to understand why the French had agreed to them. No details of the signing have reached London, and therefore it is impossible to say whether the delay in binding the compact was due to any eleventh-hour modifications in the terms of the original document.

MUDANIA, Oct. 11.— (Canadian Press.)—The armistice convention signed by representatives of Turkish Nationalists and Allied powers here late last night contain the exact terms as submitted by Lieut. General Harington, British delegate. Ismet Pasha, Turkish representative, held out for a larger number of gendarmorie in Eastern Thrace and argued lengthily on several other points, but eventually gave way on every point of the Allied demands. General Harington and General Charpy, the latter the French délegate, left for Constantinople this morning after a few hours' sleep aboard the warship.

BRITAIN'S LAST WORD.

MUDANIA, Oct. 11.—(Canadian Press).—General Harington had informed Ismet Pasha that the convention embodied Great Britain's last word, and that other Powers gave their unqualified support to the terms. On his part, Ismet had replied that he hoped his Government would accept the conditions set forth and promised a reply by 5 o'clock in the evening. In the meantime the British Commander returned to Constantinople, where he remained until early this afternoon, proceeding back to Mudania on the Iron Duke to hear the Turks' decision.

PUMPKIN PIE SOCIAL, APSLEY.

Proceeds Applied to Debt on Parsonage and Institute—Apsley News.

APSLEY, October 11. — A successful pumpkin pie social was held in the Parish Room on Friday evening, the proceeds amounting to $31.00, being applied to reducing the debt on the parsonage and institute. The prize for the best decorated pie —a gold neck chain and pendant— was awarded to Miss Myrtle Windsor, whose pie was decorated with maple leaves, the judges being Messrs. Stewart, the Government surveyor, and L. Young and L. Blackwell. A short programme was rendered by local talent, the vocalists being Misses M. P. and C. Spence, while Mrs. Staples recited two pieces in her usual effective style. Mrs. C. Smith gave two violin solos, and Mr. Spence a humorous reading.

After the pies had been auctioned off by F. Tanner, who made a capable salesman, the company had an enjoyable dance, J. Coones providing the music

GERMAN MARK SLUMPS AGAIN

Printing Presses Working at Top Speed — People Now Hoarding Foreign Money.

BERLIN, Oct. 11. — (Canadian Press.)—The flood of new currency has literally knocked the crutches from under the hobbling mark, and in consequence of the great expansion in German money the hoarding of dollars and of other high currencies has become the almost exclusive form of investment by all classes in Germany.

Considerations of patriotism seemingly have failed to impress the native, who apparently concurs with the financial writer of the Kruz Zeitung in branding as a fool anyone who would still save marks. The search for dollars has become such a pronounced sport that its devotees are deserting their former pastime of collecting stamps and other curios in the rush to buy greenbacks.

To this extent the "Dollar fans" are materially contributing in the driving down of the mark to new low levels and virtually completing the process of absorbing foreign monies, in which the big speculators, banks, industrialists and commercial leaders are now indulging, ostensibly as a matter of protection, and stocking up on raw products or establishing "Dollar reserves."

Under these conditions the financial writers are inclined to view the rate of 3,000 marks to the dollar as an obvious phenomenom, although isolated critics are disposed to blame foreign manipulators for the current slump, citing New York's closing rate, which is 20 omarks lower than Berlin's official rate on the dollar. None of the commentators appear concerned over the psychological effect produced by daily output of marks from numberless batteries in printing presses, the yield of which is reported with almost the same enthusiasm as the breaking of a world record in some sporting contests.

FOUND DEAD IN MARIPOSA

Well-Known Resident of the Township Died at the Residence of His Son.

LINDSAY, Oct. 11.—John Prouse a well-known resident of Mariposa, and brother of Mr. W. G. Prouse, of Allin's Limited, was found dead yesterday at the residence of his son, Percy, who resided about a mile east of Mariposa Station. The deceased who had been residing with his son, had been in ill health for a number of years, but there were no indications at any time, and especially during the past few days that death was so near at hand. The late Mr. Prouse was well-known through out the district and his death was quite a shock to his friends.

SUCCESSFUL ENTERTAINMENT

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 11.—The local branch of the Catholic Women's League held a very successful "At Home" in the Lakefield House last evening. Good music was furnished and both round and square dances were enjoyed. Mrs. G. J. Elmsley, President of the organization, had charge of the arrangements.

The strike was called some time ago as a protest against the modification of the eight hour day as applied to seamen, by the Ministry of Marine.

PROTOCOL PRESENTED TO ISMET PASHA AND WORK OF MUDANIA CONFERENCE COMPLETED

Await Turkish Acceptance of Terms—Greeks Must Withdraw From Thrace Within 14 Days—Other Clauses.

PEACE EXPECTED.

LONDON, October 11. Canadian Press. — After numerous delays and interruptions, the work of the Mudania conference reached a concluding point yesterday with the presentation to Ismet Pasha, the Nationalist representative, for acceptance of the protocol agreed to by all the Allies, which as Lieut.-General Harington described it, would give to the Turks their aims within forty-five days.

The convention, consisting of 14 clauses, is drawn on liberal lines, and showing strongly traces of French influence on the side of the Kemalists.

Under it the Greeks will evacuate eastern Thrace within 15 days, and complete the transfer to the Turks in an additional month. The Turkish civil administration will follow closely on the heels of the departing Greeks, the entire transfer being under the supervision of the Allied Missions and Allied forces provisionally occupying Thrace, not exceeding seven battalions. The number of Turkish gendarmerie in the province during the interval is left undefined to the discretion of the Kemalists subject to Turkish approval.

The Turks, on their side, undertake not to place an army in Thrace until peace is ratified ,while new neutral zones will be delimited by fixed commissions.

Ismet Pasha expressed the hope that his Government would approve the convention and promised to answer at 5 o'clock this evening. As the Greek government has instructed its delegates to sign the convention if the Turks sign, there appears to be good prospects of a peaceful settlement leading to a general peace conference.

The British Cabinet met yesterday afternoon hoping to be in possession of the Angora Government's answer, but this was not forthcoming, and the ministers dispersed. They kept, however, in close touch, so as to be in readiness when the reply arrived.

General Harington, in presenting the convention to Ismet Pasha, declared that it was Great Britain's last word, and reminded the Turks of the serious danger of provoking a conflict with British power.

To the Associated Press correspondent General Harington expressed the belief that the Turks would sign, but added that Great Britain was prepared for all eventualities.

The protocol gives no time limit for the withdrawal of the Turkish forces from the neutral zones; it simply specifies "with all possible speed." But if they sign the protocol the Turks undertake to respect the neutral zones until Allied occupation ceases. There is still no word that the Turkish forces in these zones have attempted to execute orders of withdrawal said to have been given by Mustapha Kemal.

Should the Turks sign the protocol there will still remain the difficult question of the peace conference, and particularly the question of whether the Russian and Black Sea States shall participate in it.

The Soviets' refusal to ratify the Krassin-Urquarht commission agreement is generally viewed as an effort to bring pressure upon Great Britain in this matter.

GERMANY IN A GOOD POSITION FOR WAGING WAR

LONDON, Oct. 11.—(Associated Press)—"Germany today is in a far better position to wage another war than is Great Britain; England is dismantling her ammuntion plants while Germany is increasing her production of ammunition." This statement has been made before the British Association by Dr. J. A. Marker, formerly director of research in the Ministry of Munitions.

Dr. Marker declared he was not an alarmist, but simply recited facts as he saw them. In 1913 Germany produced 90,000 tons of nitrogen chiefly for agricultural purposes, he said, while the smaller Germany of today has produced more than twice this amount.

"At the end of this year Germany will have at her disposal" Dr. Marker went on, "an internal capacity for producing 200,000 tons of nitrogen a year. This will make her entirely independent of all nitrate importation, and in case of another war she will have all the basic materials for a gigantic output of munitions and enough fertiliser to grow a large share of her food.

"It was be justifiable" he concluded, "for the Allies to allow our late enemies to put themselves in so strong a position so soon after the war, but it may also be that those whose function it is to see that some, at any rate, of the provisions of the peace treaty are carried into effect, are not aware of what is happening."

BARTHOU SUCCEEDS DUBOIS

PARIS, Oct. 11. — (Canadian Press.)—Louis Barthou, appointed to succeed Louis Dubois as French member of the Reparations Commission, took formal possession of his new office yesterday and participated in a full meeting of the Commission. SHIPS OF THE SEA WILL NOW BE DRY

French May Question the Validity of the Ruling Handed Down By U. S. Attorney-General.

PARIS, Oct. 11. — (Canadian Press.)— The French Government is closely studying the situation created by Attorney-General Daugherty's ruling that foreign vessels shall not be allowed to bring any wines or liquors inside the United States' three-mile limit. What action will be taken eventually is still uncertain, but it seems most probable that Ambassador Jusserand will take back to Washington with him when he sails on October 21, instructions to set forth that the French foreign trade will be greatly damaged by this ruling. The question of its validity under international law may be raised, as well as the bearing the ruling has on the question of the freedom of the seas.

It is held in certain French quarters that the seas cannot be said to be free if the ships of one nation are so hampered by the regulations of one nation that they are unable to put into the latter's ports under the same conditions as in all other ports of the world.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.— (Canadian Press.)—Every bottle of liquor on four United States' passenger vessels in port was removed yesterday under orders from the Shipping Board. The steamers President Polk and President Roosevelt were the first to go dry. Between 4,000 and 5,000 bottles of intoxicants have been removed from the President Polk and almost as large a quantity from the President Roosevelt.

LLOYD GEORGE TO REPLY TO CRITICISM.

LONDON, Oct. 11. — (Canadian Press.) — Prime Minister Lloyd George has announced his intention of replying publicly at Manchester on Saturday to the torrent of condemnatory criticism recently aimed at the Near Eastern policy of the Government. This sudden announcement has taken the press by surprise and brought general interest in the domestic political situation to a keenr focus than ever. It also coincides with increased definiteness in rumors of an early break-up of the present coalition. The improved outlook in the Near East may have opened some inner sources of information enabling political writers to speak with greater certainty than heretofore. At any rate today's morning papers have the appearance of those usually accompanying the last days of a moribund government and early dissolution of Parliament.

BRITISH HOSTILITY HALTS BOLSHEVISTS

Trade Agreement With Russia Prevented By the Attitude of Great Britain in the Near East.

BERLIN, Oct. 11. — (Canadian Press.)—"The pronounced hostility Great Britain recently has shown toward Russia in Near East problems," was responsible for the Moscow Government's refusal to ratify the agreement reached between Leonid-Krassin, the Bolshevik Minister of Trade and Commerce, and Leslie Urquhart, representing the Russian Asiatic Consolidated, Limited, a British concern.

This was announced yesterday in a statement prepared for the press by Maxim Litvinoff, Chief of Soviet Legations abroad. The statement added that the agreement always had been unacceptable to the Soviet Government from a purely economic standpoint, but the government had decided to make the sacrifice its signing would involve in the hope that it would lead to better political relations between Great Britain and Russia.

Litvinoff said non-ratification did not signify any change in the Soviets' economic policy generally, or with regard to concessions, but that the Moscow Government no longer was in a position to make heavy economic sacrifices for the sake of political "illusions."

A PRESENTATION TO MR. WM. FORDE.

Silver Cornet For Leader of the Melody Band.

The Peterborough Melody Concert Band met for practice in their new band-room at the Labour Hall, George street, Monday evening, and previous to starting their practice their bandmaster, Mr. William Forde, who has worked hard to make this band a success, was called upon to receive a handsome silver cornet, presented to him by the members of the band. Mr. E. Markham make a brief speech, saying that he thought Mr. Forde was fully entitled to all praise for his able manner in conducting, and that he hoped to see Mr. Forde lead his band in some of the band contests next year.

Mr. Stanley Armitage, band manager, was then called to make the presentation, and he hoped Mr. Forde would be long spared to enjoy the music he would get from his instrument.

Mr. Forde then thanked the band members for so nice a gift and said he hoped to do in the future just the same as he had tried to do in the past—that is, to make the band worthy of public praise—and he was glad to know the members appreciated his services.

BYNG HAS FINISHED TOUR OF THE WEST.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 11.—(Canadian Press.)— After visiting every city and town of importance in the three prairie provinces, British Columbia and the Yukon during the past four months, Baron Byng of Vimy, Governor-General of Canada, yesterday concluded his official western tour. Yesterday afternoon, Lady Byng, Lady Margaret Boscawen and the members of Their Excellencies' staff left for the east.

RED CROSS HAS A BIG MEETING

Reports at Winnipeg Conference Show Gratifying Results Accomplished During the Year.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 11.—(Canadian Press.)—Representatives from every province of the Dominion were in attendance at the opening session of the Central Council of the Canadian Red Cross Society here yesterday. Adoption of the report of the executive committee formed the most important business dealt with during the morning.

The report dealt with details of many activities, in which gratifying results had been achieved, grants made to various organizations and the annual financial statement which showed that the balance in London, June 30 ,was £12,832, a slight decrease from the balance of January 1. The balance in Paris was 19,833 francs.

Although no appeal had been made for funds for Russian relief, the report showed $2,956 had been received for that purpose and sent to the British Red Cross and $530 had been received for the British Empire Relief Fund and Child Welfare and Relief in Central Europe.

FOUR KILLED AND MANY INJURED IN BIG JAIL MUTINY

Irish Rebel Prisoners Had Material to Make Bombs and Explosives in Cells.

DUBLIN, Oct. 11. — (Canadian Press.)—Four persons are dead and a number of others wounded, following a mutiny of Irish irregular army prisoners in the Mountjoy jail yesterday. The dead are one National soldier, two policemen and one mutineer. A search of the cells of the mutineers after the disturbance had been quelled revealed a quantity of materials for making bombs, explosives, revolvers, ammunition and several bombs.

DUBLIN, Oct. 11. — (Canadian Press.) — Armed with revolvers smuggled in in some undisclosed means, Irish rebel prisoners in the Mountjoy jail here made a determined effort to escape yesterday. In the fighting which followed within the jail walls, two of the participants were killed, one a guard and the other a prisoner, while five guards and a number of prisoners were wounded. The outbreak was subdued after a quarter-hour struggle.

The military guard in the prison was taken completely by surprise. The trouble began near the mess room at breakfast time, when a prisoner shot one of the guards dead. Other prisoners occupying sheltered positions blazed away with suddenly-produced weapons at the jail guardians, who quickly made dispositions to quell the rising.

Some of the guards were ordered to leave the jail and prevent any attack that might be attempted from the outside, while the others engaged the mutineers and in a 15-minute encounter ,during which the guards outside fired into the prison, the jail forces controlled the situation.

Some of the wounded are not expected to recover.

The attack apparently was planned from the outside, and besides arms and ammunition being smuggled into the prison, it was discovered that the telephone wires had been cut.

An attack on three military tenders outside the jail closely followed the fighting inside the prison. No report on the casualties in this latter affair, if any, was available up to noon.

The jail housed Rory O'Connor, leader of the fallen Four Courts garrison, and about 600 other irregulars taken in the recent round-up by the National Army troops.

LLOYD GEORGE WILL FIGHT FOR HIS NEAR EAST POLICY

Premier Has No Intention of Resigning in Spite of Many Newspaper Demands That He Give Up His Office—No Dissolution of Parliament.

LONDON, October 11. Canadian Press. — Premier Lloyd George has clearly no intention of resigning office at the orders of his numerous newspaper critics. On the contrary he is determined to fight them and at Manchester next Saturday he is expected to make a vigorous reply to these critics, and defend his Near Eastern policy.

Should there be a new crisis in the Near East, this may, of course, entail a change in his plans.

In well informed circles it is also stated that there is no question of the dissolution of Parliament at the present time, and that therefore the Prime Minister's speech will not take the form of an election mandate. At the same time there is extraordinary activity in all political centres and rumours that the Prime Minister may have some new legislative programme concerning in-ternal reforms to propound.

A meeting of the Unionist members of the Coalition was held yesterday at Mr. Chamberlain's residence; it was attended among others, by the Earl of Balfour and Lord Curzon and unquestionably had some connection with the attacks on the Premier.

One of the most weighty arguments used against dissolution just now is the necessity of Parliament ratifying the Irish Constitution at the coming autumn session.

THE BRITISH SPIRIT.

The stories of the survivors of the Northern Ontario fire cannot be read without a thrill of mingled admiration and wonder at the sturdy heroism of these men and women who, having escaped with their lives, after harrowing experiences, and after losing practically everything they owned in the world, are bravely starting life afresh, ready to face hardships and labor and perils once more.

People like these will conquer the Northland just as our ancestors carried out of the forest the garden spot that is now Southern Ontario.

The best traditions of the British race are being exemplified by the brave souls who, undaunted by experiences that would have dismayed any but the most lion-hearted, are beginning the battle over again.

War is not alone in setting forth personal and national heroism. The tragedy of Northern Ontario has demonstrated that the same spirit that made Canada's fighting men hold the line at Ypres in the face of poison gas and unnumbered enemy hordes throbs in the breasts of the gallant pioneers of the Northland.

Their unwavering bravery throws a new light upon the debt the Canada of to-day owes to the men and women who, by their labor and suffering and bull-dog courage in the pioneer days, made possible the Dominion of which we are all now so proud.

EARLIER ELECTIONS.

By an amendment passed at the last session of the Legislature, municipal councils have been given the power to change the date of the annual municipal elections so that the voting can take place early in December, thus avoiding the Christmas holidays.

The change is favored by a number of citizens, who feel that a large vote could be brought out at an earlier election.

However, there is a number of obstacles in the way that render a trial of the new plan almost impracticable.

The Legislature, in authorizing the change in date, neglected to alter any of the other factors that enter into the situation.

In the first place, it is provided that the new council each year does not take office until January. If the election were held early in December there would be in charge of the city's affairs for a month a council, half of which might have been defeated at the polls, while the elected aldermen would have no voice in civic business for a month after they were elected.

The financial year too ends on the 31st of December, another complication that would cause confusion, and, in addition, were the election to take place in December the new voters' lists would not be available.

In brief, the whole municipal machinery would have to be re-adjusted to make the change feasible.

PEACE ASSURED.

The signing of the armistice proclamation by the Turks means that the Near East trouble is practically over, and that the lid has been slammed down upon the volcano that threatened to erupt over the peace of the world.

The announcement will have a stabilizing effect everywhere, for no matter how many people were inclined to characterize the situation as "a tempest in a teapot," the world has been very near another terrible war in the past few weeks, perhaps closer than any but those intimately in touch with the developments have been aware.

The Kemalists come out of the negotiations with more concessions than the British people care to see them obtain, but at least the Straits are to remain free, and that condition has been successfully insisted upon by Great Britain, while at the same time war has been averted.

The world's interest will now shift from the Near East situation to Lloyd George's fight to save himself from those who are bitterly striving to drag him down. The political situation in England is of course closely allied with the Turkish trouble, and it remains to be seen whether the Premier can weather the storm. His past records indicates that he will, for he has thrived upon crises in the past.

THE LESSON OF THE FIRE.

One obvious lesson that is taught by the experience of Northern Ontario last week is that the safety of the community must never again be sacrificed for the profit of individuals.

It is evident that many of the settlers, in their anxiety to clear up the land, took chances in spite of the fact that the weeks of dry weather had left the countryside like tender, in burning the brush and slash.

Small fires were set all over the district, with the result that when a gale suddenly sprung up, the flames got beyond control, and soon the all-devouring conflagration was spreading death and devastation over hundreds of square miles of country.

Fire rangers during the summer months prevent this dangerous burning of brush, a permit from the rangers being required during the summer, but it has been the custom when the fire rangers are withdrawn in the middle of September to clear up the land in this dangerous fashion.

The trouble, of course, this year was the long spell of dry weather in September, three rainless weeks that made the conditions even more dangerous for the burning of slash than in the summer months.

Settlers chose to close their eyes to the peril of the situation, and thus precipitated the disaster that has swept over the north country, a disaster that becomes more horrible each day as further investigation reveals the widespread extent of the damage done.

MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENT.

In pursuance of its policy of providing citizens with the most authoritative information on questions of public importance, the local Chamber of Commerce secured Dr. L. D. Upson, Director of the Bureau of Government Research, Detroit, to expound the principles of the city manager form of government. Municipal administration is a subject in which the liveliest interest is taken, or ought to be taken, by the people of Hamilton, and especially the members of the Chamber of Commerce, who are leagued together for the purpose of advancing the well-being of the community and safeguarding its interests. The Chambers perform a very valuable service in thus focussing public attention on vital civic problems, and by contributing in a practical way to their solution. Criticism of existing methods is common enough, but when it comes to suggesting improvements the critics are not so helpful. There is only one way to get at the truth, and that is by careful examination and comparison. The merits of alternative systems to those in vogue can only be discovered through actual knowledge of their operation, and such knowledge is a matter of exhaustive and impartial inquiry. The president, Mr. J. P. Bell, disclaimed any intention on the part of the Chamber to advocate any change in the present form of our municipal government; the only desire was to gain reliable information respecting other systems which have been tried out in different parts of the continent. From a careful examination of the data thus collected, it would be possible to form an intelligent opinion on this intricate and highly important question.

Dr. Upson was clearly an enthusiast for the city manager plan. It had worked well in Dayton, Ohio, which he regarded as the "enfant terrible" of the municipal family. "Any government which succeeded there, at the time it did," he said, "could succeed anywhere." But, on the other hand, it had not succeeded in Akron, in the same State, and in other municipalities; the reason of such failures being attributed by Dr. Upson to the fact that the wrong men had been chosen as managers. There's the rub!! Given a good manager, and a competent group of department heads, no doubt satisfaction is assured. The municipality has first to capture its competent manager, however, and in this there are sobering possibilities. Dr. Upson was decidedly unfavorable to the ward system; yet he had to admit that Hamilton had not done so badly, after all, by comparison with other localities. Though the city debt has doubled in the past ten years, that is almost inconsiderable in the light of what has happened to taxpayers elsewhere. In Detroit, from which city the speaker hailed, the debt has grown from $8,000,000 in 1910 to $130,000,000 at the present time! Of course, that city has expanded at a prodigious rate, and civic expenditures have necessarily been very heavy. Expansion also accounts for Hamilton's major worries in the way of debt accumulation. What is happening in Detroit is happening "everywhere in the States," declared Dr. Upson. It looks as if, after all, Hamilton has reason to congratulate itself.

It all comes down to the personal equation. Any form of government, which has stood the test of long experience, may be considered satisfactory, providing it has the right men as administrators and an alert electorate. Dr. Britain's plea for civic education in the schools goes to the heart of the matter. It is not until we institute an adequate training in citizenship that we can expect the best results. We shall have to effect a reform of the electorate before we can hope for much reform in the government. With but half the citizens alive to their responsibilities, it is surprising that we get along so well as we do.—Hamilton Spectator.

ON READING.

Nothing which has been done for the great cause of democratic advancement in recent times compares in importance with the making of education free and compulsory, says the Hamilton Spectator. Directly the people began to learn how and what to read a new world was opened to them. They became able to think for themselves and no longer accepted the ready-made opinions of any privileged section of society. Access was opened to them to the wisdom of all the great thinkers of the past; they were enabled to draw on the accumulated knowledge of the whole world of humanity. The result has been that, when any great public question comes up, an intelligent interest is immediately taken in it by all classes of the community. It is no longer just a matter for academic debate amongst the diplomats, who impose their will upon an indifferent public; but public opinion influences very materially the actions of the diplomats. The people therefore govern in a much truer sense than was formerly possible.

Newspaper and other periodicals keep their readers fully informed of current events in all departments of human activity. Local, national and world news is digested from day to day, and those responsible for the administration of public affairs are constantly under the searchlight of popular scrutiny. The newspaper is absolutely indispensable for everyone with a pretension to being tolerably well informed. Young people should early acquire the habit of assimilating the day's news. But newspapers and magazines are not enough. The person brought up on this exclusive diet will miss the larger benefits which are to be got from literature.

It is necessary to acquire a taste for richer food. "Some books are to be tasted, others to be swallowed, and some few to be chewed and digested," wrote wise old Bacon. The libraries contain all kinds of books, to gratify every mood of the reader, and they have competent guides to help the young student to a judicious choice. At the opening of the Boys' and Girls' Library in Toronto a few days ago, it was announced that in 1909 fewer than 50,000 books were borrowed from the libraries by young people, whereas last year the number exceeded 500,000. Our local library has an excellent department for young people, and its popularity shows progressive growth. Every worth-while boy and girl should make full use of these special privileges.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Three motorists arrested in Toronto in one day, one charged with manslaughter and two with criminal negligence, should emphasize the necessity for greater care on the part of all drivers.

The Globe suggests that the Provincial Government should take a large part in the rebuilding of Haileybury. Obviously the work cannot be undertaken by the citizens, who have lost everything, and the Globe's plan will meet with a wide measure of approval.

It remains for the Toronto Star to say that the British Government has maintained a "strait" policy in regard to the Near East situation.

BURY BICKERINGS

Westminster Gazette: For goodness sake let us have done with all these bickerings and come to the main issues, which concern the future life of every country in Europe. If we go on in this way we shall fritter away in aimless retorts and counter retorts all the fine feelings of the war and all the larger hopes based on success in the struggle. Let us have the Conference which M. Poincare suggests, and at that Conference come down to the real business. The latest news from Washington suggests that the United States would be favorable to such a gathering, and will not stand aloof, at least to the extent of giving advice and counsel. Obviously America cannot remain wholly outside such a Conference when it gets down to the bigger problems, for America is the largest creditor, and must for that reason have the final voice in any arrangement that is made.

Corns Go

Just say

Blue-jay

to your druggist

The simplest way to end a corn is Blue-jay. A touch stops the pain instantly. Then the corn loosens and comes out. Made in a colorless clear liquid (one drop does it!) and in extra thin plasters. The action is the same.

Pain Stops Instantly

THE MYSTERY MIND

Arthur B. Reeve and John W. Grey

At that he hurried down to join her, the gibe striking home. While he was just below the level of the top, while she suddenly hesitated in the impenetrable darkness with the realization that they must have a torch and that perhaps, after all, Randolph was right, that she was too much adventuresome, there came from above a blinding flash and explosion, sending down even into the narrow, hidden passageway, an amazingly brillian light. The report of the detonation was not so loud or terrifying as the dazzling glare, like a gigantic flashlight more white, more dazzling than anything she had ever known.

"What—what is it?" she gasped.

"I'll—I'll see," he faltered.

She saw him start up, but after a step he hesitated. She was impatient. She started to push up after, rubbing her eyes from the pain of the blinding glare of a moment before.

"Good Lord!" he exclaimed, suddenly "I'm blind!"

At that she gasped. The very same moment a light sprang up behind her. She turned. The little cellar room was illuminated, as with the glow of an ordinary yellow incandescent bulb. She had never dreamed there was electric light here; certainly there had been no sign of it in the house upstairs. This was a mystery.

At a second glance her blood froze. She tried to escape up the steps, but found Randolph in the way. She screamed, in terror.

Advancing toward her was Renard, a grim smile on his face. Behind him was a new opening in the cellar wall. From the tunnel revealed here came the electric glow. Holding the bulb was the shrouded figure she knew as Evil Eye.

Renard seized her, lifted her as easily as the night he had kidnapped her from her room in Nerva's studio. She screamed again. She caught a glimpse of Randolph as he turned on the stair, heard him exclaim that he could not shoot because he could not see. Then she was dragged into this new passageway, realizing that here was some mode of escape unknown to Dupont, that here were the principal members of the gang, the cyclops priest, the fox, and her own particular enemy, Vera Collins.

Small satisfaction that the servants of the Devil God had dwindled to these three! She wondered if the hunchback's wife was captured, and, too, if the Strangler, a prisoner now, would go to the electric chair. Then all hope ebbed because she understood intuitively that this had been the last battle, that Evil Eye and Renard and Vera would not be caught, that she would not be rescued. She could not understand it, but there appeared before her, like a picture showing clear through the dim outlines of a window, the open stretches of the sea.

Renard dropped her at the feet of Evil Eye. The monster contented himself with holding her wrist, supporting the electric bulb with the other hand. Though his grasp was weak, his physical make-up feeble, there was something about him so horrible that Violet was helpless in his charge.

Vera turned in with Renard, hastily working at the sides of the passageway near the cleverly concealed entrance. Violet understood their purpose when some five to six feet of the tunnel collapsed, blocking the way effectually and possibly preventing the discovery of the underground route at any future time.

Then she was led away. The sides and ceiling altered in character after some fifty to a hundred feet, and she grasped that this was another of the century-old abandoned drains. It began to slope upward, following the rise of the hill, and at its end another new bit of tunnelling struck off at right angles and admitted them, through a carefully constructed trap, to the basement of an unoccupied house halfway up Inwood Hill.

Renard, coming last, bundled up the electric cable. Just outside the old home stood a limousine, its lights out, the cable running to its batteries. There was no chauffeur, so that Violet wondered at their courage in leaving the machine standing unguarded with the telltale wire down into the secret passage.

"You'll have to blindfold her, Vera," remarked the fox. "It's a long drive and I'll have my hands full."

"How about the Strangler and the boat?" she asked.

"The boat's ready but the Strangler's caught."

"Then——"

"We'll stop and lift him out of their hands, Dupont"—with a sneer—"Dupont don't need him as much as we do."

Vera affixed the blindfold, not very gently. Her thoughts, however, were not upon Violet.

"Do you think Dupont will follow us?" she asked.

"Never!" Renard was emphatic. "He'll never know where we went, nor how we got there."

SAY GENERAL ELECTION IN GREAT BRITAIN SOON

LONDON, Oct. 11.—(Canadian Press.)—A general election in Great Britain is regarded as inevitable in the near future and yesterday there were political activities in all directions in London in preparation for the campaign.

The Daily Chronicle's political correspondent writes: "It is as certain as things can be that there will be a general election this side of Christmas. Only doubt is whether it will or can be taken before the meeting of parliament in November. The question of a general election was considered by the cabinet this morning and during the day Lloyd George conferred with some of his staunch coalition Liberal supporters and took their views on situation.

During the last year 80,000 foreign-born men and women were enrolled in the public schools in New York State.

CAVAN NEWS.

Farmer's Horses Ran Away, Wrecking Mower.

CAVAN, Oct 11.—D. White has started to plough on the Johnson farm, which he bought. He is boarding at Mr. Jas. Paul's.

Mr. Whitney, Cavanville, is seriously ill.

Ray Staples and Austin Williamson came down on Monday, Austin remained over in Toronto for a couple of days.

Lloyd Byam has gone to Saskatoon, to visit an uncle.

Threshing is finished. There was a fair crop, this season averaging about twenty bushels to the acre.

Mr. Paul had his barn raised during the summer and a fine cement stable built beneath it. The work is almost completed.

Rain has stopped threshing, but it was much needed to soften the ground for plowing. Some farmers grew potatoes, but found it almost impossible to plow them out the ground being so hard.

On Saturday, Ralph Staples while mowing clover got off the machine to oil it, when something scared the horse and they ran away with the mower, which is almost a complete wreck.

Mr. Ray Wood of Toronto, spent the week end here.

DO WOMEN WORK AS HARDASMEN?

Two Interesting Letters

Toronto, Ontario.—"When my husband was called back to England in 1914 I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to strengthen me so I could work. I had a trouble that used to make me weak, but I am able to do my work now and am perfectly satisfied with your medicine. I still get it at the chemist's and I strongly recommend it to anybody I hear of suffering as I did. You may publish this if you wish."—Mrs E. Hornblower, 899 Yonge St., Toronto, Ontario.

I Did Not Feel Like Working

"I was in a general run-down condition with a weak back and a tired feeling so that I did not feel like working. My mother was taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and recommended it to me, so I have taken it and my back is better and I am now able to do my work. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to my neighbors and you may publish my letter."—Mrs. Josephat A. Grenier, Box 47, Carbon, Alberta.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound should be taken when you first notice such symptoms as nervousness, backache, weakness and irregularity. It will help you and prevent more serious trouble. Give it a fair trial.

Despite the rain there was a good number at the weekly practice of the Choral Society in the Methodist school room. There were some new faces among the number, and those present are quite enthusiastic over the selections. There is room for more, and the conductor, Mr. R. T. Cowell and accompanist, Miss Hawley, who are giving so generously of their time and talent would like to see the school room filled next Tuesday night, at 8 p.m.

DRINK WATER WHEN YOUR KIDNEYS HURT

Stop eating meat for a while if your Bladder is troubling you.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it may mean you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. An excess of meat may form uric acid, which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus often ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia water drink. Drink lots of soft water.

AT BAILIEBORO AND DISTRICT

Ladies' Aid Plan Anniversary Services and Fowl Supper—Farm News.

BAILIEBORO, October 10.—The crops around this district are mostly all harvested for this season. The potatoes in most localities have been an exceedingly good crop, and the majority of the farmers have already marketed them.

Some farmers who sowed their fall wheat in August are afraid that it is going to grow too high before the winter sets in. The recent rains, however, are helping the wheat that was sowed the latter part of September.

Very little fall ploughing has been done as the ground has been much too hard, and the men have been held up for work, waiting patiently for rain to fall.

Ladies' Aid Meeting.

The Quarterly Meeting of the Ladies' Aid was held at the home of Miss S. Dawson on Thursday afternoon, Mrs. Wilferd Dawson occupying the chair, and in the absence of the secretary, Mrs. E. Dawson, that office was filled by Mrs. C. Dawson. The devotional exercises were taken by Rev. R. M. Patterson, and a duet was beautifully rendered by Mrs. Nichol and Mrs. Bateman, entitled "Speak a Kind Word for Jesus." A reading was given by Mrs. J. Jeurson entitled "We'll Consult the Ladies' Aid."

A business meeting followed. It was decided to install the new Coleman lights in the church, in place of those now used. The ladies also decided to hold a fowl supper and anniversary services in the Methodist church.

These anniversary services, both at 10.30 in the morning and at 7 o'clock in the evening, will be conducted by a former pastor of this circuit, Rev. W. T. Wickett, now of Tyrone, on Sunday, Oct. 15. The fowl supper will be held the following Monday. Mrs. (Rev.) Thomas Dodds will provide the programme for the evening.

At the conclusion of the meeting a dainty lunch was served by Mrs. Wilford Dawson and Miss S. Dawson.

News Paragraphs.

Mr. Clayton Kidd, who has for some time been a member of the Bank of Toronto staff here, has resigned his position, and been succeeded by G. Stauter of Stratford.

The annual anniversary services of the Presbyterian church, will be held on Sunday, October 22nd. Rev. W. Harold Young, of Peterboro will take charge of the morning service, and Rev. Mr. Anderson of Port Hope the evening service. A fowl supper will be held the following Tuesday, October 24th, when an excellent programme will be provided, Rev. Mrs. Dodds taking part; Mr. Bert Caldwell of Toronto will also assist.

The Tuxis Boys are planning a minstrel show and hope to start practise in the near future.

Fred Fisher of Ottawa is visiting friends in Bailieboro

Fred Dawson of New Ontario has returned to his home in South Monaghan.

Sid Lang of Bethany was a guest of his parents over Sunday.

James Eagleson and James Whitington were successful in carrying home several of the prizes for their fine heavy horses from the Millbrook fair on Friday.

The Best Cough Syrup is Home-made.

Here's an easy way to save $3, and yet have the best cough remedy you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? When you do, you will understand why thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will quickly earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a 16-oz. bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the bottle. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you 16 ounces of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for $2.50.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

CROP REPORT

Following is a summary of the reports made by the agricultural representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

The acreage of fall wheat is yet uncertain so far as a general estimate is concerned. Much of it had to be sown late on account of the drought hardening the soil and also to escape the Hessian fly. Some farmers could not get in as much as they had intended to owing to the former cause. Waterloo says the acreage about equals that of last year, while Elgin, Middlesex, and Prince Edward say that there is a falling off in the area sown.

Essex says—"The corn crop is from 20 to 26 per cent. less than last year's yield, which was a banner crop. Our heaviest yield will not exceed 66 to 75 bushels of shelled corn to the acre. Not much new corn is being sold at 55 cents per bushel."

Fort William reports the development of late blight rot, which is likely to cause considerable loss. Prices of good table potatoes have been about 75 cents a bag, and many farmers are storing their stock rather than sell at that figure.

Dundas states that good hay can now be bought at from $10.00 to 12.00 a ton.

Dundas thus refers to the honey yield: Some good yields of very good quality are reported. There has been a very fair yield of honey this year, some of it buckwheat mixed with sweet clover and golden rod. There has been a very good buckwheat crop in this locality.

Fort William is going to have a big venture in sheep ranching. The representative says: Mr. R. C. Harvey, of Lethbridge, Alta., has made arrangements to feed and finish 20,000 sheep at Fort William this winter. During the latter part of October or early in November, 10,000 sheep will be brought here and finished and marketed in January. Another 10,000 will be brought in at this time and finished and marketed in the early spring. These sheep will be fed very largely on elebator screenings; a little hay and perhaps a small amount of bran will also be fed.

Carleton says: Outstanding features are the heavy demand for the stockers and good milch cows. The latter are very scarce and consequently are picked up readily. The prices for hogs is somewhat low; there is at present few to be had. There is little or no trade in horse, while lamb are selling briskly at from $9.00 to $10.00.

Lambs are bringing from $9.00 to $10.00 a cut in South Simcoe.

Live stock conditions in Kent are thus described: At an auction sale of Western horses held recently in this county, they sold at $85.00 per head on an average. These horses were rather above the average of the Western type, and were supposed to be halter broken and young. Cattle at a sale the first of the week sold at from $75.00 to $95.00. Some purebred Angus cattle sold at very little more than the grade ones at from $85.00 to $125.00 for mature cows. $40.00 to $50.00 for younger stuff, yearlings and calves. One good draft gelding sold for $225.00, so there is a good demand for heavy horses of good type at good prices.

Manitoulin reports a considerable number of cattle going to market, but most of them are not in good condition, and are suited only for feeders. Lambs are being shipped in large numbers, farmers receiving from 8c to 8½c live weight.

Halton states that farmers are keenly interested in hog grading, many farmers have sought advice regarding the correct type of brood sows.

A carload of horses for lumbering operations have been picked up in Grey during the last week or two.

Middlesex says: Fall fairs and the school fairs have had a larger exhibit and larger attendance than usual. We have had an average of 1,500 at our school fairs, or about 15,000 in all.

Prince Edward also speaks of the keen interest taken in school fairs.

There is, if anything, a shortage of labour, especially of single men, to help with the threshing and silo filling, and also to clear up the late roots.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE.

White is the bride's color in most parts of the country. But in Tunis the bride never wears white as it is regarded as the color of death. Likewise, the bride avoids white flowers.

It is considered bad form on the part of any of the guests to come garbed in white, as this is also considered unluck for the bride.

Remember To-Morrow That Everybody Loves Candy

Medical Men Ridicule Time-Warn Superstition That Sweets Are Harmful.

As time passes and medical specialists and specialists of repute make known the results of their research to an expectant world, people slowly but surely overcome lifelong prejudices and beliefs and refuse to accept longer many of the prejudiced opinions handed down to them erroneously in their younger days.

When candy is involved, and particularly chocolates, this is especially true. A decade ago the average person actually was under the impression that the eating of a delectable chocolate bar, for instance, was nothing more or less than digging your own grave with your teeth.

In spite of all warnings, nevertheless, there are still some who braved the worst and consumed chocolates in reasonable quantities, although they often did so in fear and trembling, for there was always some handy "kill-joy" standing nearby to howl calamity and prophesy speedy funerals.

All this is now, happily, conceded by medical experts to be simple rubbish. Candy never does the average person any harm and frequently is even urged as an essential addition to the diet. It is admitted, of course, that discretion must be employed, for too much of anything will always result disastrously.

The long, lean, hungry days before Verdun, and along the Somme found the French Poilu invariably in possession of the big square chocolate bar, a government issue, expressly prepared for the purpose.

The French authorities long realized the values of chocolate as a body builder and heat producer. No Frenchman up in the "midst of things" missed his candy, providing the lines of communication were open to supply wagons.

In everyday events, the carefully selected box of candy has long been championed as the ideal gift. It makes little odds who the recipient may be. One never fails to make the desired impression. When in doubt, choose candy.

ONE BIG DAY OF CANDY

CANDY DAY has become a national institution and observance. The true food value and health-giving qualities of pure sweets cleanly made are emphasized by authorities on such, supported by the best care and attention on the part of the best candy makers. It is suggested that everybody, man, woman and child, get acquainted with godo candies on CANDY DAY, October 12. On our part we will supply you with the finest candies made, unhandled by humans, all made and put up by machinery. Delightful confections you'll gladly stick to.

TAMPERING WITH CARS AT WARSAW

Car Taken Sunday Night, But Later Found—Warsaw News.

WARSAW, Oct. 11.—At times there has been tampering with motor cars here, and Sunday evening when coming out of church, one car owner missed his automobile. It could not be found in the village. The constable was away from home, but word was left for him. Friends took the women home and the men's search revealed a Ford car standing on the side of the road, on the hill between Fred Morgan's and James Hawthornes. This proved to be the missing car.

Very strong circumstantial evidence pointed to a certain young man who was alleged to have entered his employer's house and gone to bed. When his employer questioned him he said he had been sick and had not gone into church, but returned home. However, he finally admitted to the constable he had taken the car.

This young man does not belong to Warsaw and seems to have learned a lesson now.

STATE IS READY IN HODELL CASE

Calls a Score of Witnesses Against Five in White Cloud Slaying.

WHITE CLOUD, Mich., Oct. 11.—The Hodell slaying case, which promises to be one of the most sensational in the history of Newaygo County, will open here tomorrow, when Mrs. Meda Hodell, 26 years old, will go on trial on the charge of killing her husband, Romie Hodell, and his aged father, David Hodell.

The trial of Mrs. Meda Hodell's mother, Mrs. Alice Dudgeon, jointly charged with slaying Romie Hodell, will follow. Mrs. Hodell's brothers, Lee and Herman Dudgeon, together with Robert Bennett, a farm hand, will also be tried on the same charge following the trials of Mrs. Hodell and her mother.

Indications are that the defense will claim the sworn confessions obtained from all five were forced. Shortly after her arrest, Mrs. Hodell gave a mortgage for $4,000 on the farm in Goodwell Township to engage attorneys.

Some of the best known criminal lawyers in Western Michigan will defend the five.

To Guard Accused.

Newaygo County, especially Goodwell Township residents, have been waiting patiently for the trials. The little court room here will be unable to accommodate the crowd, and arrangements are being made to reserve most of the room for witnesses and others connected with the cases.

Sheriff Noble McKinley says he will guard closely the five respondents during the trial, while special officers have been appointed to handle the crowd.

Judge Joseph Barton will preside.

Prosecuting Attorney Bramstrom has indorsed a score of witnesses on the information. He will depend largely on the sworn confessions and other statements made by the defendants to newspaper men for conviction.

Lee and Herman Dudgeon drove in haste into White Cloud one day last May from Goodwell Township to announce Romie Hodell had hung himself in the barn on his farm across from the Dudgeon farm. Officials were suspicious, for strange stories had already come out of the swamp country.

A post mortem developed that Hodell had been slain by a blow from a blunt instrument just below the right ear.

Mob Gets Confessions.

The investigation dragged on and on Sunday a "Vigilance committee," composed of farmers, placed ropes about the Dudgeon boys' necks. Fearing they were to be hung, the boys made sworn confessions. They said Robert Bennett, the farm hand, slew Hodell, and forced them to help hang the body to a rafter. Two days later they repudiated the confessions.

State police finally arrested all five and obtained confessions, it was announced, and also unearthed a second murder.

Mrs. Meda Hodell was reputed to have said she struck her sleeping husband with a rolling pin, and then when he quivered, she laid down by his side on the cot and her mother struck him again.

Then, according to all five confessions, the two Dudgeon boys and Bennett hung the body to a rafter and later notified the officials.

During the investigation, Meda Hodell is said to have confessed that she poisoned her aged father-in-law last February because "he was such a care." The body was exhumed and poison was found.

Members of the mob which forced the first confessions were arrested and pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct. They were lectured and allowed to go.

DR. D. C. KING

wards, 2; children made wards, 1.

Mr. Powell also spoke of the action of the Utilities Commission in giving a pass on its street railway lines to Everett Carruthers, a little crippled inmate of the Shelter.

In speaking of an attempt in a recent jail sentence to make the society responsible for the entire family of five small children of the delinquent, Mr. Powell considered that the time was ripe for legislation which would provide work for men undergoing prison sentences, the pay received for this work to go towards the upkeep of their families, instead of imposing a burden on the municipality simply because the man was under sentence by the law.

Dr. Blagrav endorsed this opinion, referring to the attempts made by the Social Service Council of Canada to have such legislation enacted.

Mrs. W. H. Gibbs gave a concise and comprehensive report on the convention of Children's Aid Societies held in Toronto in May of this year, touching on the salient points considered in the conference, and emphasising particularly the duty of each member of the Board of acting as a deputy for the society and the agent in cases of neglected children.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded Mrs. Gibbs.

Dr. King Charges.

A certain amount of discussion was raised by Dr. King yesterday afternoon, who rose to bring to the attention of the members certain facts which he considered were matters of moment in the affairs of the Board. Directing his attention toward the activities of the somewhat surprised-looking Mr. Powell, the doctor asserted that the agent had not done the proper thing in neglecting to take under the care of the society the five little children of a man recently apprehended for larceny. The speaker than diverted the attention of the Board momentarily from the agent by assailing the practice of children selling and delivering papers on the streets after certain hours, which he considered directly contrary to the letter of the law, which states that "no child shall engage in any street trade between the hours of ten in the afternoon and six in the morning of the following day."

Then the doctor inquired why children were returned to the Shelter with such frequency sent out to other homes and then returned again. He considered this a matter for investigation also why several children at present in the Shelter for whom arrangements had been made to have their board paid for were not being paid for. Why were they not made wards of the society and placed out?

The doctor referred to two little boys who were recently made wards, while the father was known to be in a condition to look after them, the trouble apparently being that the stepmother was somewhat neglectful of their welfare, and deplored the action of the society in making them wards at all.

He then proceeded to what he considered the most serious aspect, the charge made with frequency in his hearing that money collected on tag day went towards the salary of the agent only, and that members of the Board were paid for their services. The doctor affirmed that numerous citizens had asserted their belief in this system, and had, therefore, refused to contribute towards the recent tag day on these grounds.

Mr. J. Edgar took up the cudgels for the defence here. He said that the case of the five children of the man under jail sentence was not a case for the Society, as the children were not neglected by their mother. It was simply a case for the relief officer of the section of the township in which they resided, this officer having been communicated with in regard to the situation. If every needy family was taken over by the Shelter, remarked Mr. Edgar, the society would require half a dozen buildings to accommodate its charges.

With reference to the action of the society in making wards of the two little boys referred to, Mr. Edgar, on consulting the minutes, had discovered that this action was taken on the motion of Dr King himself.

Mr. Edgar here related a few examples which he had personal knowledge of, illustrating the care taken by the agent in procuring the best possible homes for his young charges.

Mr. Powell considered that Dr. King had covered a great deal of ground in his remarks, and remarked mildly that "the doctor might have left some of his list for another day." With regard to salary, everyone knew that the amount collected on tag day went towards the maintenance of the Shelter and its inmates, and was sometimes inadequate for the purpose, as any thinking person who noted the average monthly number of inmates might see for themselves. His own salary was about a thousand dollars less per annum than that of agents in other counties. "There are some of the men sweeping out factories in this town who are drawing as much salary as I am to-day and I take a great deal of responsibility in my work. If the doctor was in my position, he might realise this better."

With regard to children coming in and out of the Shelter frequently, Mr. Powell said that the trouble sometimes lay with the child, sometimes with the home in which it was placed. It was impossible aldays to foretell how things would work out. He knew that children in the Shelter were not perfect, and had their faults as well as other children. He had found it inadvisable to try and deceive people about the wards whom they took into their homes, and, on the other hand, the people themselves were not always as patient as they might be. He cited the instance of one lad who had run away from three different homes, and was now living with a farmer in perfect accord and harmony, simply because the man took an interest in the boy and allowed him to have a certain share in the responsibility of the farm work.

Not Worthy of Note.

Mr. Ackerman, in a few firm and quiet words, dismissed the whole question as not worthy of discussion, saying "there is nothing in Dr. King's report that we are called upon to consider." In his opinion, Mr. Powell's salary was not large enough for the work he did, and it was not worth while listening to the petty gossip of the town. Every member on the Board knew that no one received a salary but the agent. There were no other paid officials.

Mr. Powell here interjected the remark that the two little boys referred to, who had been made wards of the society, were not costing the society a cent for their board or clothing, as satisfactory arrangements had been made for them.

Mrs. Joseph Knox said that during her long term as convenor of tag day, she had never once heard it intimated that the money collected went towards Mr. Powell's salary, and the fact that the amount received had increased yearly was a sufficient proof that the public at large had no fault to find with the Board.

Mr. Stocker, who stood from 6.30 a.m. until 7 p.m. at a certain corner, collecting money, on the recent tag day, remarked that comments on his "nerve' in so doing had not the slightest effect on him. He regarded them as merely passing incidents of the day, and was resolved to go ahead with the work he was doing, regardless of stray opinions.

Mrs. Joseph Welsh related the remark of a gentleman who had asked her how the society maintained so many children on the amount collected on tag day, and a certain prominent member of the Board was so incensed at the aspersions cast on its activities that she offered to resign her position immediately.

The matter finally simmered down with Mr. Powell remarking again that he was the only salaried official on the Board, the paid agent, who did not even vote on matters brought up for consideration.

It was decided to hold the annual meeting of the society on the 21st of November, and try to procure the services of Rev Canon Quartermaine of Renfrew as special speaker for the occasion

(By Stuart P. West.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Interest in the markets to-day again converged upon the fluctuations on the stock exchange. In other directions the price movement was small and unimportant.

Inasmuch as the Turkish matter, beginning a week ago, had ceased to occasion serious uneasiness, the formal signing of the armistice protocol had little effect.

Sterling exchange got above 4.43 and continental rates, including German marks, were higher. These changes along with somewhat higher quotations for European government bonds was all the response there was to the peace agreement.

The stock market, following the modern day method of procedure, was rather a collection of special moves for special causes than any general swing. Fully half, if not more than half of the list was neglected there was little tendency one way or the other. But in the stocks which did change these changes were mostly upward, and included a number of rapid advances.

Speculative imagination which has been conjuring up stock dividens involving the splitting up of capital account, was naturally stimulated by the big stock distribution announced over night by the National Biscuit Co., followed by a similar declaration this morning by the American Radiator. Both of these actions had been foreshadowed and pretty well discounted by the extensive rise which their stocks have had during the last few weeks. But on the rest of the market the effect was to quicken the search of stocks of other companies whose treasury assets and earning power were such as to justify similar disbursements.

Most of the principal individual upturns were explained by the speculative community, on, the ground of possible "melon cuttings." Apparently this was the incentive back of the spectacular advance in Mexican Petroleum and the Pan Americans. It furnished the motive also for the rise in sluch stocks as American Woollen and National Lead.

At the outset these demonstrations intimidated the short interests, in other of the highly speculative industrials and stocks like Baldwin Locomotive and Studebaker were bid up a point to two points. But these advances were not well sustained.

In the afternoon the general market became very irregular again, reflecting the confusion and at the same time caution inspired by the violent performances in these high priced and easily manipulated specialties.

The Weekly Steel Reviews threw very little light upon the business movement in general. The important point was that the revival which started with the termination of the coal strikes has been maintained with a further slight increase during the past week in production, and this is the more notable in view of the difficulties experienced in some sections for want of cars. With the increase in steel output, steel prices have stopped going up, and in fact there has been some shading.

GREAT RECOVERY POWER.

The ability of the stock market to recover in two or three sessions almost all its loss from the high average of 90 down to 85 is being commented upon in conservative quarters as a remarkable demonstration of great underlying strength.

Investigations indicate that a large contingent is waiting for another break to enter the market in force. It postponed buying in the belief that rallies would be brief and temporary. This element adds its potential purchasing power to that of a large short interest which also failed to buy and retire contracts at the low levels.

Reports from specialist channels suggest that the floating supply of stocks has become smaller than is generally appreciated by the waiters; and in some quarters there are indications of a tendency to reenter the market at levels higher than the lows established during the slumping recently.

Attention is called to the fact that the bear factors which have been actively used against the market have dwindled down to almost nothing; and the impression is spreading that the general list has again turned for another upswing, which may be stimulated by constructive developments from Washington in connection with the coming election early next month.

PROTOCOL SIGNED BY POWERS AT MUDANIA.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Reparations Committee meets to-day in Paris. Inter-Allied control of Germany to prevent bankruptcy forecast.

President Lee, of the Trainmen, announced a big four working out agreement, whereby the Brotherhood will act separately in future strike movements.

U. S. Government does not favor loans from private American financial interests to certain European Powers. Expects no return on its Allied loans except in the case of Great Britain until those nations' finances are rehabilitated.

Sir Robert Horne, Chancellor of the Exchequer, indefinitely defers visit to United States in connection with debt funding mission due to political situation in England, according to the Daily Express.

President Harding names the fact finding coal commission, headed by John Hays Hammond.

Turks agree to Mudania armistice stipulations and all countries concerned signed the protocol.

Thousands of small subscriptions to new U.S. bond issue received by Federal Reserve Bank of New York and heavy buying reported all over the country.

Average price 20 Industrials 101.55, off 0.71.

Average price 20 Rails 91.81, off 0.24.

UNION PACIFIC HIGH ON LATEST BULGE

NEW YORK, Oct. 11. — Stocks moved forward with greater uniformity toward end of morning Realizing was checked in speculative favorites which had been under pressure on Tuesday's reaction and bullish demonstrations went ahead in many sections of the market, rails showed greater activity than at any time on current move. Union Pacific made a new high at 151 7-8 and Mexican Petroleum was feature of industrials, making new 1922 high at 205 1-4. Buying was based on expectation of an extra dividend which speculative reports placed as high as $25 in cash and 25 per cent. in stock. Entirely aside from life of Mexican Oil fields it is obvious the present enormous rate of earnings entitles stockholders to an extra payment of some sort.

TECK HUGHES ACTIVE IN TORONTO MARKET

Mines:

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 11.—With the signing of the armistice in the Near East the war cloud has practically disappeared.

Mining stocks appear definitely on the up-grade again, the recent reaction having been of benefit to the list.

Teck Hughes featured with a 5-point gain of 90. This property has real merit and prediction of a price between 1.50 and $2.00 would seem to be justified by mine development and earnings.

West Tree was 18 bid. This stock seems to be the favorite in the low priced issues. Holly sold at 13.10 and Baldwin 10 1-2.

HOLIDAY TO-MORROW.

New York stock exchange will be closed to-morrow, Columbus Day; also Chicago Board of Trade. Canadian markets open as usual.

STRENGTH OF SINCLAIR.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Stocks were steadier during early afternoon, although drift of prices continued upward violent up-bidding of special issues was less in evidence. Sinclair recovered slightly from recent selling based on belief new preferred stock was being offered to public for subscription. Sinclair not only has seventy million dollars cash on hand, but in conjunction with Standard Oil of Indiana has in storage something like 28,000,000 barrels crude oil, a large percentage of which was purchased at lower prices than have prevailed over the last 3 or 4 months.

ACTIVE INVESTMENT OPINION

Expert Comment on the Security Market, Finance, Business and Politics

(Selected as bearing on market's main tendency rather than to-day's fluctuations).

There are large buying orders for the public under present levels and near the lows of last week. It would be speculative wisdom to allow only a small reaction and dullness rather than allow these buying orders to be filled. Such reaction as comes this week should be used to complete accumulation of stocks. — Livingston & Co.

High grade stocks a purchase on all recessions which are likely to be moderate for the immediate future, unless serious complications arise in foreign situation.—Prince & Whitley.

The ground lost in two weeks of trading has been practically recovered in three days. We expect to see activity become more diversified and the market to depend more on general long buying and less upon short covering —A. A. Housman & Company.

ARE YOU A TIRED, WORN-OUT WOMAN?

Every Woman Needs a Tonic and Nervine at Some Period of Her Life

Toronto, Ont.—"As a tonic and builder I can highly recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription to tired and run-down women. I am the mother of eight children and have frequently had need of such a tonic but did not know what to take until my sister gave me some of the 'Favorite Prescription,' which she herself had found to be good. It was exactly the tonic my system required and one bottle did wonders for me, so I take pleasure in telling others, hoping that they will give the 'Prescription' a trial and be benefited just as I have been."—Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor, 261 Ontario St.

LAND RECLAMATION IN ITALY IS A SUCCESS

ROME, Oct. 11.— (Associated Press)—Pursuing a policy of land reclamation the government, working with private associations, has brought under cultivation 500,00 acres of land which otherwise would be virtually worthless.

In the Ferrara and Modena districts a drainage basin covering over 200,000 acres has been completed, and 150,000 miles of ditches have been built. This work has cost already 30,000,000 lire, and further drainage and irrigation projects will cost as much again.

In the Polesine-San Georgio district 125,00 acres of swampy malarious land has been converted into some of the most fertile grain fields of Italy.

Avoid Heart Trouble

A large percentage of the people suffering from heart troubles have themselves to blame. When the kidneys are in a healthy condition they will quickly remove any impurities and other poisons from the system. When the kidneys become clogged or irritated in any way these poisons which should have been carried away remain in the circulation, and in passing through the valves and chambers of the heart frequently cause valvular trouble and other ailments. Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills will remove this trouble and keep the kidneys in a healthy condition and improve the system in general.

SEVEN HUNDRED WERE EXAMINED

Report of Activities of Well Babies' Clinic During Three Months.

At the last regular meeting of the Board of Management of the Well Babies' Clinic, held in the board room at the Chamber of Commerce, with a large number present, and the President, Mrs. Jas. Kendry, in the chair, interesting reports of the activities of the Clinic for the last three months were presented.

According to the report of Mrs. George McCartney, the Clinic nurse, nearly seven hundred babies have been examined by nurses and doctors at the Clinic during the months of June, July and August. Most of these were healthy little Canadians, but among them were found a number that needed medical attention, the majority of the latter being troubled with indigestion and difficulties arising from a wrong diet. Directions along the line of diet and hygiene given by the doctors were found to have good results.

Mrs. McCartney had 64 telephone calls during the quarter, from mothers who were in doubt or distress concerning their babies, and in some cases, the nurse found the infants in critical condition. One baby, apparently dying, was rushed to the family physician and then to the hospital. After seven weeks' treatment, it has recovered. A baby which was suffering from a badly scalded arm was given first aid help until the doctor arrived.

The attendance at the Clinic has been very encouraging, and the mothers seem to be taking an ever-increasing interest in it and to be anxious to follow out the advice given by the doctors. Elderly women express their approbation of it, and regret the absence of such a convenience in their day; young women with their first babies are exceptionally grateful for the help and advice received here, and in many instances, the men of the family are taking an interest in the Clinic, inquiring when the lectures will begin.

Frequently Mrs. McCartney runs across cases of distress, and the King's Daughters have responded nobly to these appeals, with bedding and clothing, besides providing tea for the mothers in attendance at the Clinic. The Thursday club also has been most helpful in providing many complete outfits for babies, including everything needed for comfort. The doctors are unfailing in their attendance and encouragement of the work, giving their time free weekly for hours, in examining infants and giving advice and instruction to the mothers.

In one case of a little child, brought to the Clinic, and suffering from attacks of epilepsy, the doctor ordered a diet of milk and eggs. These were generously supplied by the Home and School Association of the Queen Alexandra School, and the child is improving, having had no attacks for several weeks, whereas its former seizures took place every few days.

Mrs. McCartney has also had several telephone calls from villages in the district, asking for information about the Clinic. Many mothers from outside points bring their babies here, one mother making a point of motoring in every fortnight to attend the summer meetings.

Dr. Birnie, in her report, emphasized the need of more information being given to expectant mothers, and showed how a vast number of still-births were caused to a large exfent by a lack of proper pre-natal care. Figures for the three months were given, as follows: Births registered at the City Hall for June, 54, with a percentage of 14.8 per cent. of deaths; for July, 55 births, deaths 16 per cent.; for August, 42 births, and 11 per cent. of deaths.

This is a high death rate. If those only were considered that were non-preventable, it would be greatly reduced, but the number of preventable cases brings up the total.

Mrs. F. C. Neal, Treasurer of the Well Babies' Clinic, announced that funds were getting low. Owing to the small grant made to the work by the City Council, and the constant demands on the treasury, it was necessary to find some means of raising money. Mrs. M. H. Park had kindly undertaken to get up a concert on the 27th of the month, and the Peter Robinson Chapter of the I.O.D.E. would have a bridge tea in the near future in its aid.

A pleasing feature of the meeting was the presence of members of both the Peter Robinson Chapter and the Major Bennett Chapter of the I.O.D.E., both of these societies being very generous in their contributions towards the work.

THE HEROISM OF HOSPITAL MATRON

Miss Bridget McGuire Stood at Her Post When Building Ringed With Fire.

The Toronto Star for Monday has an interview by a staff reporter with Miss Bridget McGuire, a niece of Rev. Father Peter McGuire of this city, a graduate of St. Joseph's Hospital, and with a host of friends in Peterborough and vicinity. Miss McGuire is now in charge of the New Liskeard Hospital, put to a trying test in last week's fire days. The Star reporter says:

"Irish as they make 'em, is Miss Bridget McGuire, the hale and hearty matron of the hospital. Modest she is, too, but The Star manager to draw from her a few of the facts of what happened when the hospital was ringed round with fire, when the roof was catching aflame every few minutes and when the patients had all been made ready to move.

"The matron refused to talk about herself or to let herself be photographed. 'I'm as famous as I want to be,' she said with that Irish twinkle in her eye. But put it in your paper about the nurses and what they did. How they carried water by the pail to throw on the roof so as to keep the fire from getting us. Our water pressure was not enough to carry the water up by the hose as high as the roof. The fire cut off our power, cut off our 'phone and our water supply. And there we were, with the flames coming at us practically from all directions.'

"It must be recorded here that the hospital sits on a lofty hill just outside the New Liskeard limits, commanding a fine view of the town. There is bush almost all around it. Down below it were shacks and houses burning and the gale was carrying sparks and bits of burning wood toward it and dropping them on the roof.

"Miss McGuire had praise for three of the nurses—Miss Olive McDonald of Tomstown, Miss Violet Dempster and Miss Joan Cooper of Haileybury—who knew that their homes were being fireswept, yet went about their work in the hospital bravely and calmly.

"'Ten minutes more and the hospital would have gone. The wind saved us—thank God. If it had not changed we would have been eaten up by the flames.

"'We had twelve patients here at the time. We got them ready to take away if we had to, but I don't know where we could have safely taken them if we had to move them. We would have had to run the gauntlet of fire if we tried to get through by the road, where a shack on one side and a house on the other were burning. But praise be, we did not have to move them.

"'Next day the nurses from the Haileybury hospital came up to New Liskeard. With only the clothes they escaped in, after hours spent standing in water, with wet blankets over their heads, they did not want to rest, but started right in to work when they arrived at the New Liskeard hospital.'"

Mr. Thos. McCamus, formerly of Bobcaygeon, is the head of the Board of Management of the New Liskeard hospital.

RUTH AND MEUSEL ALLOWED TO HAVE BARNSTORM TOUR

Commissioner Landis Has Sanctioned Exhibition Trip Through the West.

START IN NEBRASKA.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—"Babe" Ruth and Bob Meusel, Yankee outfielders, who were suspended for the early part of the past season for engaging in an unsanctioned barnstorming trip, left yesterday on an exhibition tour of the Middle West—this time with the official permission of baseball's highest official, Commissioner K. M. Landis.

Ruth, in announcing last night the proposed trip, said he and Meusel had received unqualified sanction for the trip from Commissioner Landis, who handed out the suspensions to them last year after the two sluggers, together with Pitcher Bill Piercy, defied the commissioner's ultimatum that they abandon the expedition.

"Commissioner Landis treated us very fairly," Ruth declared. "Last year's affair had nothing to do with his decision granting us sanction for the tour this fall."

The "Babe" added that he and Meusel would be accompanied by no other members of the Yankees. They will start exhibitions in Nebraska and continue through October and November, as long as the weather permits.

Under the new rule affecting barnstorming by World's Series players, they can engage in post-season exhibitions providing no more than three members of a championship club play together on a team.

Besides members of the Giants and Yankees who plan to join an exhibition tour of the Orient, Carl Mays and Wallie Schang, star Yankee battery, will head another barnstorming party.

The Bluenose Will Represent Canada

HALIFAX, N.S., October 11 (Canadian Press). — The Lunenburg fishing schooner Bluenose, last year's international champion, will represent Canada in the international races off Gloucester on 21st and 23rd October, it was announced, following a meeting last evening of the Nova Scotia Race Committee and the captains of the vessels entered in the Nova Scotia championship series.

RUTH ALSO MAY GO, SAYS COREY

Won't Behave Himself, Could Not Hit in Series—The Whole Team Lacks Brains.

By HERBERT COREY.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—McGraw mixes brains with his base hits. That is why the Giants have another world championship. The Yanks lost their fourth straight game—their fourth straight if the tie be not counted—because they disclosed an area of heavy pressure in the brain pan.

About the only way this omelet of athletes could ever win a series from the Giants would be to slam nothing but home runs. That would free them from the ruinous need of thought.

There will be a new manager of the Yankees before play is called next year. This is not official, but may be regarded as certain. It is likely that Babe Ruth will be raffled off. He will not behave himself, he make trouble, and he got two hits in the World Series. Yet he is the most highly paid player in base ball.

Meusel is apt to go, although with Ruth out he may square himself. He has felt that he has a moral right to be just as much of a bad actor as Ruth.

After the game the infield filled with fans anxious to tell McGraw that he is the smartest base ball man in the would. They were right about it. He is.

IT'S ALL OVER NOW!

This is a famous quartet. Not necessarily musically famous but famous for all that. And music of the vocal variety is what they were engaged in producing when the photographer caught them. ALLEGED music, anyway. Left to right, these songbirds are: Woods, Ruth, Witt and McMillan. "It's All Over Now" their favorite lyric, is what they're rendering.

INTERNATIONAL RUGBY WILL BE POPULAR THIS SEASON

Harvard-Centre and Princeton-Chicago Games Will Attract Great Attention — Several Other Important Games Already Scheduled.

(By Billy Evans)

Football appears to be all set for another whale of a year.

The gridiron is no longer a purely high-brow sport, of interest only to the collegian. The common people have gone in for it strong.

The open game, featuring the forward pass, the triple threat, open field running, and plenty of kicking, have made for great popularity.

The open game provides much action, plenty of thrills, and the spectator always is able to follow the ball.

Football is no longer a trick game where a player gets the ball and then all the rest crowd around and engage in a tug of war over him.

With the ball constantly in sight, the football enthusiast of today thinks he knows as much about the game as the baseball fan does about the national pastime.

In a sense football has become the national fall sport, as baseball is of the summer.

Two more things have entered largely into its popularity—intersectional contests and the smaller college teams' prowess.

Despite the so-called agitation against intersectionalism football, something like 50 such games are scheduled for 1922.

Prominent among them are the meetings between Centre and Harvard, Princeton and Chicago, and Yale and Iowa.

Centre sprang into prominence in 1920 by giving Harvard a terrific battle.

This made such a hit that the little Kentucky institution was given a return date. Centre's triumph over Harvard last year is now a matter of football history. Centre students will talk about it for years. On the other hand, Harvard feels its defeat keenly.

Usually a university like Harvard makes little preparation for a game with a small college like Centre. Things are quite the contrary this year.

Recently I visited the Harvard stadium to look over the "grid" material. That was several weeks before the real opening of the football season. The game with Centre was being much talked about.

Harvard is set on giving little Centre a trimming. Undoubtedly Centre is well aware of that fact.

Perhaps Coach Charley Moran will surprise the football world again by turning out another team that will make Harvard step.

Princeton goes west to tackle the University of Chicago. Once again a member of the so-called Big Three has a problem on its hands.

Princeton wants to win from Chicago as much as Harvard does from Centre. Coach Bill Roper of Princeton is already pointing his team for the Chicago game.

If Princeton wins from Chicago and Harvard defeats Centre, it probably will mean the passing of those two elevens from the Princeton and Harvard schedules.

Another game carrying much intersectional interest is that between Yale and Iowa. An added feature is that these two elevns are coached by brothers, Tad Jones at Yale, Howard at Iowa.

It is to be regretted that Yale and Iowa did not meet last year. The latter had a great team, led by the brilliant Devine, and now the "Big Ten" championship. Iowa has lost four or five stars. It hardly seems possible that Howard Jones will be able satisfactorily to fill the vacated positions.

Yale had a great young team last year that gave great promise, and seemed to need only experience. The season of 1922 should have supplied the experience.

Of much interest to eastern football enthusiasts is the resumption of athletics between Dartmouth and Harvard, after many years' break, due to alleged roughness on Dartmouth's part.

Dartmouth, by the way, has two big tasks, the making of a good showing against Harvard and the avenging of the overwhelming defeat Cornell handed Hanover last year.

A bit of zest has been added to the game by the introduction of the new play, which gives a team the right to make one play from scrimmage after scoring a touchdown.

To cross the line successfully or kick a goal adds a point to the score This play substitute for the goal after touchdown, which has been eliminated.

Coaches, officials and enthusiasts are divided as to the value of the new play. Time alone will tell. The games of 1922 will establish it as a fixture or label it a failure.

Perhaps the surest indication of the popularity which football is attaining is the fact that most of the leading institutions are building big stadiums to house the crowds.

University of Pennsylvania recently dedicated its new $125,000 stadium, seating 45,000. Ohio State will have a stadium soon of which the west may justly feel proud. Many other institutions are either building or promoting like stadiums.

College football is big business.

PAT MORAN FOOLS PESSIMISTS WITH HIS CINCI. TEAM OF 1922

Pat Moran became manager of the Phillies in 1915, succeeding Charley Dooin, who had piloted the club to sixth place in 1914.

Moran won the National League pennant with the Phillies in '15, steered them into second place in 1916 and 1917, fell to sixth place in 1918 and was fired.

Then he moved to Cincinnati, replacing Christy Mathewson, who had brought the Reds into third place in 1918.

Again he signalized his first year as manager of a team by winning the flag for Cincinnati in 1919. And again his team started slipping after winning a championship, falling to third place in 1920 and sixth place in 1921.

"Moran is a one-year manager," many close followers of baseball then said of him. "He won the flag for Philadelphia with a team Dooin had built and he did the same for Cincinnati with a club of Mathewson's construction.

"He wrecked two pennant-winning machines that he had little hand in making."

Kept Him Anyway.

Despite his failure in 1920 and 1021 the Cincinnati club retained Moran as manager for this year and this season has seen him stage a really spectacular comeback. Pat has just about lived down the opinion that he was a one-year manager and a team wrecker rather than a team builder.

This year he has almost completed the work of building a new championship team and he has done it largely with minor league players.

Of the men who worked for him when Cincinnati led the league in 1919 just seven remain. These are Eddy Roush and Pat Duncan, outfield regulars; Rube Bressler and Greasy Neale, outfield subs.; Ivy Wingo, regular catcher; Jake Daubert, first baseman, and Adolfo Luque, pitcher.

Many Old Aces Gone.

Hod Eller, Jimmy Ring, Dutch Ruether, Slim Sallee and Ray Fisher, his pitching aces of 1919, all are gone. So is Heinie Groh, his third sacker and captain; Larry Kopf, his shortstop; Morris Rath, his second baseman, and Bill Rariden, his other catcher.

His utility men of 1919, with the exception of Bressler, have faded from the Cincinnati picture.

In the places of these men are George Burns and Eppa Rixey, veterans, obtained in winter trades with other National League clubs, and the most capable crop of players any club has harvested in two years of minor league plucking for a mighty long time.

The foundation of this season's surprising team was laid last year when Sam Bohne, Bubbles Hargrave, Louie Fonseca and Pete Donohue were picked up.

Moran's Own Discoveries.

Donohue, now the most difficult pitcher in the league to defeat, was taken right from Texas Christian University, to which he will return this fall as a sophomore. Fonseca Bohne came from the Pacific Coast League and Hargrave from the American Association.

These chaps all made good last year and to them this year were added George Harper, Western League outfielder; Jimmy Caveney and Babe Pinelli, Coast League infielders; Johnny Couch, Coast League pitcher, and Cactus Keck, Western Association hurler.

Very Strong Team.

A few lesser lights from the minors also were taken on and have been retained for minor roles, but this two-year harvest of Donohue, Keck, Couch, Hargrave, Bohne, Fonseca, Caveney, Pinelli and Harper, added to Wingo, Luque, Daubert, Roush, Duncan, Burns and Rixey, has made the Reds an exceedingly strong team which has brilliant prospects for 1923.

But for a miserable start this year, due to Roush's holdout, injuries and the newness of the machine, the team Pat Moran has rebuilt would now have the 1922 pennant won.

Duncan and Mitchell Trim Hagen and Barnes.

PELHAM MANOR, N.Y., October 11 (Canadian Press). — George Dunca nand Abe Mitchell, British professionaly golf stars, yesterday defeated Walter Hagen, British open champion, and Jim Barnes, former American title holder, 5 up and 3 to play, in a 36-hole exhibition match over the links of the Pelham Country Club.

Admission proceeds for the match were turned over to the benefit of the Pelham Summer Home for Cardiac Children.

ST. LOUIS PURCHASED A NEW THIRD SACKER.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., October 11 (Canadian Press. — The St. Louis Ezell from Shreveport of the Texas League, it was announced yesterday. Ezell is a third baseman, and batted above the .300 mark in the season just closed. The purchase price was not disclosed.

The Chicago Americans also were after Ezell, it is said.

PLEASED THE FANS.

The Belleville Ontario has the following to say about the accomodations offered for last Saturday's attempted game between the Hillcrests and Belleville.

"Jake Solomon worked untiringly making arrangements on behalf of both teams. This act of courtesy on the part of the Peterboro manager is much appreciated by the Belleville club."

VANCOUVER ISLAND GOLFER'S PARADISE

Island Already Boasts of Seven Courses With Another One Under Construction.

VICTORIA, B.C., Oct. 11.—(Written for the Canadian Press by Archie Wills.) — Vancouver Island now lays claim sto the honor of being the golfer's paradise. Although, after counting in the Indians and Orientals, the Island can hardly muster more than 125,000 inhabitants, it boasts of no less than seven golf courses with another in the course of construction. Three of the courses have eighteen holes and are perfect in all respects. In addition to these facilities for the person who considers that no day has been properly ended unless he has engaged in eighteen holes, the Island boasts of a climate which makes it possible for the golfers to play 365 days in the year. There is no hard frost or snow in the winter time to make the courses unplayable and the temperature in Summer never gets so high that it makes a player want a seat around the ice-chest.

For many years Vancouver Island has been a sportsman's paradise through the abundance of game and fish and since the motor tourist began jaunting around the country the good roads on this island have attracted droves of sight-seers But the game, the fish, and the good roads have all been pushed in to the background as a result of the formidable drive which has been made by the Royal and Ancient game. The golf-bug which managed to eke out a fairly good existence on the Island before the craze beseiged the whole world, has bitten nearly every member of the population. It"s got to be that no one feels exactly at home unless he has on his golfing tweeds and his trusty clubs slung over his shoulder.

Thousands of visitors are enjoying rounds on the Island links. They come, some of them seeking relief from the prarie or eastern cold, others the torrid heat of the south, and they spend most of their time on the links. The courses are busy all day long and there is seldom a day when it is not possible for a person to get in his eighteen holes.

JACK BRITTON WON.

HAVANA, October 11 (Canadian Press). — Jack Britton, the welterweight champion, last night easily defeated Jimmy Kelly, of New York, in a 12-round decision bout here.

Altthough Britton landed almost at will, his blows failed to do much damage to his opponent. Kelly was unable to score a telling blow throughout the fight.

Brittons weight was announced at 149 pounds and Kellys as 149½.

NEW SWIMMING RECORD.

MIDDLESBOROUGH, England, October 11 (Canadian Press). — Jack Hatfield, an English swimmer, yesterday swam 500 metres in 6 minutes 46 1-5 seconds, breaking the world record of Norman Ross, the United States swimmer, 6 minutes 51 3-5 seconds, made in Chicago in 1921.

MINE ON STRIKE

PRAGUE Oct. 11. — (Canadian Press)— Forty three thousand coal miners of the Ostrau and Karwin districts went out on strike yesterday as the result of a wage dispute. The mines are at a standstill. Railroad lines from Upper Silesia have ceased to operate.

LAKEFIELD MASONS WIN AT SOFT BALL

Strong Soft Ball League Is Expected to Be Organized in Lakefield in Near Future.

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 11.—The Masons defeated the Cement Works, 18 to 16, in a fast softball game played last evening in the rink. The Masons staged a big rally in the seventh inning which netted six runs, which, followed by three more tallies in the eighth, game them the game.

The players were:

Cement Works—C. Ridpath, p; J. Ridpath, c; H. Wager, 1b; R. Hirsch, 2b; J. E. Generoux, 3b; B. Hull, ss; Sam Sherin, ss; W. Murduff, rf; G. Manning, lf.

Masons—Dr. J. C. Smith, p; G. G. Connell, c; T. B. Marling, 1b; B. Blewett, 2b; J. Hull, 3b; E. Northey, ss; B. Dench, ss; T. Spence, lf; J. W. Ridpath, rf.

Score by innings:

Cement Works ..... 314004031—16
Masons ..... 31310163x—18

Plans are under way for the organization of a strong softball league and already several teams have signified their intentions of entering the league as soon as it can be formed. The plan calls for two games a week and it is probable that all games will be played in the rink.

FOSTER MADE GOOD AS A UTILITY MAN

Cast Off From Boston Red Sox Proved a Valuable Player For the Browns.

"Youth must be served."

Yeh?

Tottering along under the weight of one score year and fourteen, including eleven season as an American league regular, Eddie Foster comes right up and swats that idea crack on the nose.

Manager Lee Fohl of the St. Louis Browns found his infield combination in bad shape, due to an injury to Third Baseman Frank Ellerbe. A successor had to be found.

This when Magnate Frazee of the Boston Red Sox decided Foster wasn't earning his salary as a bench warmer an the call for waivers had been flashed around the circuit.

The Browns seized the opportunity. They acquired Foster.

While not as fast afoot as once he was, Eddie was still one of the trickiest batters in the league. Fohl kept him from passing to the minors. In turn, Fohl feels that Eddie was the individual who enabled the Browns to make the race for the pennant as they did.

"All my boys performed nobly," he says, "but Eddie saved us when we were slipping."

But after all, 1922 marks Foster's passing as a regular.

"I am sticking around on nerve alone," he says. "My legs simply won't stand up under regular play. I can play utility roles, however, and I hope my work will keep me with the Browns next season.

Good judges think he'll last for several more years, as he plays any infield position except first.

Utility players are hard to get.

SWEDEN WILL HOLD INTERNATIONAL MEET

NEW YORK, October 11 (Canadian Press). — United States track and veld athletes will have an opportunity to compete in Sweden next summer if the invitation received by the Amateur Athletic Union yesterday is accepted.

The Swedish Athletic Association notiqed A. A. U. officials that a set of international games would be held July, to commemorate the 300th anniversary of the establishment of that city.

A stadium to seat some 20,000 spectators has been erected, and a fast track and infield installed. All running events will be at metric distances.

The programme is modelled after the Olympic Games, and will be held under the rules of the International Amateur Athletic Federation.

Chance and Oldfield May Buy Ball Club

NEW YORK, October 11 (Canadian Press). — Reports that Frank Chance, former Chicago Cub star and manager, and Barney Oldfield, wealthy automobile race driver, were contemplating the purchase of a baseball club in the east were heard here during the worlds series.

The pair sat together at the Polo Grounds, and were said later to have conferred with some of the major league club owners regarding their plans.

The C.G.E.-St. Aiden's game scheduled for today has been postponed till next Saturday and will be played in Toronto.

Knotty Lee was in town yesterday to see the Hillcrest-Belleville game scheduled for today. The game has been postponed and no date has been set for when it will be played.

—o—

The Lawn Bowlers have arranged a ten pin league of six teams and three mean each. The games will be played on the Watr Stret Alleys.

NEW INTERMEDIATE LEAGUE PROPOSED.

It is possible that next year an intermediate baseball league affiliated with the O.B.A.A. may be organized in the district in which Orono, Bowmanville, Whitby and Oshawa would be represented. The question of intermediate baseball has been suggested before but it is more than likely that steps will be taken soon to organize a league. Intermediate baseball would be a valuable feeder for the Central Ontario League and would tend to raise the standard of baseball in this district. While Orono and Whitby cannot turn out teams of senior calibre, they have lots of material for an intermediate series.

YANKS FELL DOWN IN PITCHING DEPT.

Contrary to Pre-Series Dope McGraw's Hurlers Outpitched Americans.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Official batting and fielding averages for the World's Series reveal the decisive superiority of the Giants over the Yankees in nearly every department of the game. The Yankees excelled in fielding, with a mark of .995 to .972 for the Giants, but in pitching, batting, base-running and generalship—the latter a vital factor that is not shown in the figures—the world's champions had a clear-cut advantage.

The Giants hit .300 as a team, collecting 50 hits and scoring 18 runs, while the Yankees batted only .201, making 12 hits and 11 runs.

Groh, Frisch and Emil Meusel were the batting heroes, although Young and Kelly also came through with some timely blows. Groh, with nine hits out of nineteen times at bat, for an average of .474 had the best record of any player on either team. Meusel made his five singles count, and drove in seven of the winners' runs.

Bob Meusel and Wally Pipp, with six hits apiece, led the Yankees in batting. Aaron Ward had the distinction of knocking out two home runs. They were the only hits he made, and came each time with no one on base.

Frisch and Groh also were fielding stars. The former's play in every department of the game was a scintillating spot in the aggressive work of McGraw's men.

The failure of Huggins' all-star pitching staff to come through, while the Giants' moundsmen showed unexpectedly good form, was the outstanding upset of the pre-series "dope," but the failure of "Babe" Ruth to show any prowess at bat whatever was a big disappointment to Yankee followers. Ruth got but two hits out of seventeen times at bat, and seldom was able to get the ball out of the infield. The nearest he came to a home run was in the fourth game, when he drove a towering fly to right centre that Cunningham caught a few feet from the bleachers.

FOURTH POSTPONEMENT.

Peterboro Baseball Club Elects Officers for 1923

At a meeting at the Empress hotel last night, the Peterborough Baseball Club was re-organized for next season, this year's officials being retained in office and a number of new members added.

It was felt that it was better to have a working organization ready for next spring than to leave the business over until the season was almost at hand.

Past President—F. D. Craig.
President—Ald. N. E. Phelan.

SAW HER DRESS WALKING WITH STRANGER INSIDE IT

CHICAGO, October 11. — H. C. Larsen isn't one of those unobservant mae creatures who can't ever remember what his best girl wore the last time he saw her.

Larsen saw some familiar clothes walking down Wabash avenue, and hurried forward to greet his fiancee, Miss Marian Rossan.

But there was a strange girl inside the clothes and Larsen followed her until she entered an equally strange apartment. He then called the poice and now Miss Emily Gibson, 19 years old, will be arraigned in court, charged with stealing a $50 dress and a lot of pretty lingerie from Miss Rossan.

Good Fishing.

Several fine salmon trout have been caught by Mr. Hilton in Loon Lake. Salmon fry were deposited in this lake many years ago and it was thought they had not survived; in fact, no one ever fished for them, it seems. This news will be an added attraction for this picturesque lake, which is already famous for its bass fishing.

THE BIG GAME HERE ON FRIDAY

Q. B. A. A. President Sets Date for Third Attempt For Play-off.

The Belleville-Hillcrest game, postponed from to-day, will be played at Riverside Park on Friday afternoon at 2.15 o'clock, word having been received to that effect from President Kennedy of the O.B.A.A. at noon to-day. The winners will have to meet Galt in the first game of the finals on Saturday.

Many fans from outside the city were here to-day for the play-off, failing to learn of the postponement until they arrived in Peterborough. "Red" Batstone, Hillcrest's third baseman, was in the same boat, coming up from Kingston last night for the game. So was Knotty Lee, the Toronto scout.

The weather conditions would have been splendid for to-day, although, of course, the grounds are not in the best of shape. If this weather continues until Friday the park will be fit and ready and the game will give the fans a chance to see the two teams at their best.

AT THE ROYAL.

"LIGHTS OF DESERT" ARE BRILLIANT LIGHTS

Last night marked the second showing of a most enjoyable picture at the Royal Theatre. In "Lights of the Desert," a Fox production, starring Shirley Mason, the lights shine brilliantly. Brightest of them is the dainty Shirley herself, who is delightful in the role of Yvonne Laraby, a showgirl stranded in a desert town in Nevada. Her acting surpasses anything she had done here for a long time. And that is saying much—for Miss Mason possesses talent far above the average. With her a smile radiates sunshine. Her walk and carriage are not exaggerated. Her gestures are expressive without being overdrawn. Her poise is perfect. The supporting cast is excellent. The leading man, Allan Forrest, is particularly good. The scenic beauty of the film is noticeable—which, indeed is true of all Fox pictures reflecting outdoor life. The story is worth while, the action flows smoothly, and the humorous touches are well placed.

Many pictures have come to us which were far more pretentious in setting, more intricate in plot, more gorgeous in gowns; but few productions have given more solid entertainment. And that is what we go to the theatre for—good acting, a well planned story, and worth while scenery. "Lights of the Desert" has all of these. It will be shown to-night for the last time. "SONYA" COMING TO THE GRAND ON SATURDAY, OCT. 14

The announcement that this city is to have an opportunity of witnessing a Marc Klaw production in the near future will, no doubt, be noted with great interest. Mr. Klaw was responsible for such productions as "Ben Hur" and has long been recognized as a producer of the finest plays on the American stage. His play "Sonya," a romantic three-act comedy, will be the attraction at the Grand on Saturday, October 14th, and is limited to two performances.

The story deals with a young Prince, heir apparent to the throne, who finds his life in the Royal Palace extremely dull and boresome. Hoping to bring about the undoing of the young Prince, his cousin, the villain of the play, brings to the Palace a young dancing girl, disguised as a boy, whom the Prince engages as a companion. To further his evil plans, the cousin instructs the girl Sonya to win the love of the Prince. They pretend to carry out this plan, but in reality they remain the best of friends and companions. Bringing her freshness and wholesome truth into his life, Sonya arouses in the Prince an hitherto unknown interest and love for his people, revealing to him their real condition. Their association leads to love and having transformed the Prince from a puppet to a real man, gives reason for a series of complications that hold the interest of the audience from beginning to end. It is an effective play, with dramatic intensity, which combined with plenty of comedy and romance, is bound to leave that satisfied feeling.

The cast of actors portraying "Sonya" is of unusual merit and the same careful staging and production will be followed which was evidenced during its long run last season at the 48th Street Theatre.

PETERBORO'S REPUTATION IS AT STAKE

We Must Show Our Love For Music

Peterborough has an opportunity it has not had for years. The De Feo Grand Opera Company who comes Friday to the Grand has been recognized as the best opera company that ever came to this country. At the Toronto Exhibition it made a sensation; in Montreal, where they have opera once or twice every season, this company won the pennant. And there is a good reason; the artists of this company are famous singers, coming from the best opera houses of the world.

Now Peterborough will have them for one evening on Friday the 13th. The question is whether the people of Peterborough will awaken to the fact that we have a chance of a lifetime to hear a real performance of good grand opera ,and will we give the De Feo Opera Company the rousing reception they so well deserve?

There are over 70 members in the company, which carries its own orchestra and chorus! the scenery and the costumes are brand new; the expense of bringing this company to Peterborough is tremendous; in spite of all this the price of the seats is not higher than for a drama or a musical comedy show; the Grand Opera House even packed to the door will hardly cover the expenses of the day.

But there is a great educational idea behind this enterprise; grand opera, which until now has been a luxury for the few, must and will become an artistic entertainment within the reach of everybody's purse; it is the cleanest and the most elevating kind of a performance that can be offered to everybody, old and young alike.

Nobody in Peterborough can afford to stay away from this unique affair; there is no excuse for it since even the prices have been lowered at a great sacrifice so that everybody should be able to come.

To-morrow we will say something more about the performance of Friday evening at the Grand.

Capitol Entertainment

VIOLA DANA AND MARY PICKFORD

Feature Program at the Capitol For Last Half of the Week.

Viola Dana sets the pace to the goal of hilarity and decidedly clever entertainment in her latest Metro production, "Glass Houses", which is to be the main feature of an attractive program at the Capitol Theatre starting on Thursday. Vivacious litle Miss Dana is seen as Joy Duval, who, with her sister, Cicily, loses the money they had inherited, Joy makes herself up as a caricature office type in "sensible" clothes and horn-rimmed glasse, takes the name of "Jane Brown", and becomes a companion to Aunt Harriet. The latter is mainly concerned with the reform of her nephew, Billy Norton.

One night Joy slips to her old home to collect some valuables which she had left behind. Upon her return to Aunt Harriet's she finds herself out, so goes to the garage to sleep. There also is Billy Norton, and to avoid a scandal he marries Joy, who to his delight, then apears in a smart little frock that sets off her chic beauty —quite different from the prim "Jane Brown".

But is is at this point that a lively series of sparkling adventures begin, adventures that give Viola Dana the merriest role of her career.

Appearing in "Glass Houses" with Miss Dana are Gaston Glass, Mayme Kelso, Helen Lynch, Claire DuBrey Ellsworth Gage and John Steppling. Harry Beaumont directed the production. The scenario is by Edith Kennedy, adapted from a story by Clara Genevieve Kennedy.

With "(Glass Houses" is presented a two-reel feature "Going Straight", starring Mary Pickford. This is a twelve-year old Pickford picture revived as a novelty with all the old-time methods and a score of old popular melodies. In "Going Straight Miss Pickford is co-star with King Baggott, who will be remembered as one of the stars of the silver sheet of several years ago. This is an old-time movele revived just for fun's

At the Royal Theatre to-morrow.

FROM THE NEW YORK DAILY NEWS:
"There's the funniest little boy—Richard Daniels—whose freckles rival those of young Wesley Barry, in this picture."

FROM THE NEW YORK AMERICAN:
"'My Wild Irish Rose' is a good picture, and it is well photographed."

FROM THE NEW YORK EVENING WORLD:
"If anyone enjoys ANY sort of entertainment this sort of weather, they will enjoy 'My Wild Irish Rose.'"

FROM THE NEW YORK EVENING TELEGRAM:
"'My Wild Irish Rose' is a strange coupling of two classics—a song and a story. It sips the sweetness from both Chauncey Olcott's song and Dion Boucicault's famous stage success. This appealing motion picture, which has the power to please all factions and offend none, is given a surrounding musical programme that is Celtic to the core, and is worthy of hearing, even as a separate entity.

NEW DIRECTORS FOR THE C. N. R.

Assumed Control of the Government System When Transference Executed.

TORONTO, Oct. 11.—(Canadian Press.)—The new directorate of the Canadian National Railway lines yesterday assumed control of the Government system at a meeting held in the local headquarters of the system. Retiring directors also held a brief final session and formally executed transference to new directors of the Canadian National Railways, Grand Trunk Railway and Canadian Northern Railway. Major Graham Bell, Vice-President of the Government controlled railways, presided in the absence of the President, Sir Henry Thornton, who is on his way to England, to wind up his affairs there before assuming his new duties in Canada. Retiring President and General Manager, Mr. Hanna, presided at the final meeting of the former Board. Following the meeting of the new directorate the following appointments were announced: W. D. Robb, Vice-President and General Manager of the Grand Trunk; S. J. Hungerford, Vice-President and General Manager of the Canadian Northern System; C. G. Bowker, General Superintendent in Toronto, was promoted to be Vice-President and Operating Manager of the Grand Trunk.

OTTAWA, Oct. 11. — (Canadian Press).—Nothing in the line of permanent appointments to either Grand Trunk or Canadian Northern positions was made at yesterday's meeting of the new directorate, according to a statement made this morning by Hon. George P. Graham on his return from Toronto. W. D. Robb had been appointed vice-president and general manager of the Grand Trunk by the old Grand Trunk Board some time ago, Mr. Graham pointed out, and was simply continuing in that position until the new board made its permanent appointments. S. J. Hungerford became general manager of the Canadian Northern on the retirement of D. B. Hanna, and he holds that office until the new board makes its appointments. The other men mentioned as appointed to Grand Trunk positions were appointed to them in the re-organization of the Grand Trunk staff necessitated by the change in Mr. Robb's title and duties.

Permanent appointments of the staff and vice-presidents will not be made until the return of Sir Henry W. Thornton from England, when the board will again meet. When these appointments are made it is considered to be very unlikely that separate vice-presidents and general managers will be named for the two entities of the joint system.

A MERRY SOCIAL FOR NORMALITES

Were Guests of St. Paul's Senior Guild

Monday evening last St. Paul's Presbyterian church was the scene of a very merry social gathering, when more than a hundred Normalites were the guests of St. Paul's Senior Guild.

After the Doxology and Oh, Canada were sung, the president, Mr. Ronald Deyell and Rev. Mr. Pogue extended a hearty welcome to the Normalites, who were then entertained with a musical programme and contests:

Solo—Miss Florrie Harrison.
Piano duet— Misses Wilson and Logan.
Solo—Mr. Jack Garden.
Guitar selection—Miss Daisy Davidson.
Quartette—Messrs. Garden, Farr, Donnelly and Chenhall.
Solo—Miss Hartley.
Piaon solo—Miss Neilson.
Quartette—Messrs. Garden, Farr, Donnelly and Chenhall.
Community singing.

The contests were enthusiastically entered into by all with varied and humorous results.

Light refreshments were then served and after a vote of thanks on the part of the Normalites for the enjoyable evening, the meeting was closed by singing 'God Save the King.'

Incidentally it may be mentioned that St. Paul's Guild has prepared an exceedingly interesting programme for the coming season. All young people are cordially invited to attend the meeting.

ANNUAL MEETING WOMEN'S ART ASSN.

Officers Elected—Mrs. F. C. Neal Re-elected President.

The annual meeting of the Women't Art Association took place in the studio at the Conservatory of Music on Monday afternoon, when the election of officers for the year took place as follows:

Hon. Pres., Mrs. A. C. McKay, of Toronto; President (re-elected by acclamation) Mrs. F. C. Neal; 1st Vice-Pres., Mrs. A. E. Sherwood; 2nd Vice-President, Mrs. V. Eastwood; 3rd Vice-President, Mrs. R. Gliddon; Recording Secretary, Miss Alford; Corresponding Secretary, Miss G. Reinhardt; Treasurer, Mrs. G. Porter; Assistant Treasurer, Mrs. W. Sangster.

Convenors of committees: Social—Mrs. W. R. Widdiss; Exhibition, Miss J. Hatton; Musical—Mrs. G. Gliddon; Press—Miss Maude Rush; Medals—Mrs. H. Rush; Dramatic—Mrs. W. McKee Bingham; Art Needlework, etc., and Telephone Mrs. W. H. Pretty; Archivist, Mrs. J. B. Mann. Executive—Mesdames Mowat, Palmer, Langley, G. S. Cameron, Cruikshank, Morphet, Borbridge, Devey and Miss Edwards.

It is intended to devote considerable attention this year to dramatic expression, and to art needlework and hand loom weaving.

The following report was read by the late Recording-Secretary, Mrs. J. E. R. Munro:

In looking over the past year's activities it seems to me that this has been one of the most successful years in the history of the Peterboro branch of the Women's Art Association. The passing months, with their delightful musicals, interesting and instructive exhibits, educational lectures and social intercourse, have been months of pleasure to us all.

Six executive meetings were held during the year, four being held in the studio, while the closing meeting in June was held at the home of the President. Mrs. Neal, and an opening autumn meeting took the form of a picnic at her summer cottage. The social and executive meetings, so graciously arranged by Mrs. Neal, did much to bind the members into a perfect working medium.

The year's activities were opened with a hallowe'en tea given by the members of the executive for the Association members. This informal afternoon was a most enjoyable introduction to the coming year.

Mr. Mallott gave a very interesting description of the Passion Play of Oberammergau, and his large collection of photographs served to make his already vivid picture more real.

The musicals under the direction of Mrs. Gliddon were most enjoyable, and a talk on Art given by Miss Wallis was a rare treat long to be remembered.

An exhibit open to the public for eight days was another fulfilment of one of the aims of the Association. Canvasses from the brushes of seven Canadian artists, known as the Group of Seven ,which represented in a strong, forceful and vivid manner their interpretation of the beauties of our rugged Northern Ontario, were hung on the studio walls, while an interesting and beautiful collection of Murray Bay homespuns, tooled leather, jewelry, etc., was displayed throughout the rooms.

The Dramatic Committee under the direction of Mrs. Bingham gave two afternoons to their particular branch of Art. The first consisted of a sketch of Shakespeare's historical play, King Edward VIII., with dramatization of a short scene, and delightful music from the play. The second, of a similar nature, was taken from Twelfth Night.

An enthusiastic sketch club met weekly in the studio where ideas and suggestions for mutual benefit were freely exchanged.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

OBITUARY

MRS. JOHN McKEE.

The death of Mrs. John McKee occurred at her daughter's home, 37 Jackson avenue, at 6.30 yesterday morning. The late Mrs. McKee was 64 years of age, and had been suffering from a lingering illness for some time. She leaves to mourn her loss a sorrowing husband, Mr. John McKee, two daughters, Mrs. Charlie Parks and Miss Elizabeth Sullivan, and one son, Mr. Alonzo Sullivan. Also two granddaughters, Mrs. Vincent Scully and Mrs. Leonard Smithson, all of this city.

The funeral will take place from the daughter's residence, Thursday morning at 9 a.m., to the Sacred Heart church, and thence to St. Peter's cemetery for interment.

John Joseph Hickey, dearly beloved son of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Hickey, 535 Reid Street, passed away at his home early Wednesday morning. During the war he was attached to the Royal Army Medical Corps, and while in service contracted the illness which caused his untimely death. Although it was realized that his recovery was unlikely, death came rather suddenly and unexpectedly. Until a week ago he had been frequently out driving and was exceptionally bright and active. He bore his illness with unfailing patience and fortitude, ever ready to submit to God's will, and his one thought was the comfort of his parents and other members of his family.

"Jack" Hickey, as he was known to his many friends in Peterborough, will be remembered as having been engaged in the retail shoe business with his father on Hunter Street, and his many old friends will recall his genial manner and pleasant smile. Besides his sorrowing parents he leaves to mourn his loss five brothers: Herbert, Frank, Henry, William and Butler, and two sisters, Mary and Kathleen, all of this city.

The funeral will take place on Friday morning at 9 o'clock from the family residence to St. Peter's Cathedral, and thence to St. Peter's Cemetery.

TO REBUILD TOWN BIGGER THAN EVER

None of the Citizens of Haileybury Are Leaving

HAILEBURY, October 11. Canadian Press. — "We will rebuild bigger and better," said Mayor Robert Leheup to-day.

He explained that while the limits of the town would be no larger than before, there would be greater fire restriction, and temporary buildings, he said, will be set back 50 feet from the street line.

None of the citizens of Haileybury are leaving, he claimed. Haileybury, however, is looking for help from the provincial government in the matter of its debenture debt of $250,000. The town had a high tax rate, namely 56 mills on the dollar.

During the fire 741 houses were burned, and 71 remain uninjured.

"We cannot saddle on the little ten per cent. of the town that is left the burden of that debt, with the high taxes that they are paying now," said the Mayor. "Of course, we expect the government to rebuild the court house, the mining record office and the schools as soon as possible."

There is a pledge signing campaign under way to get business men to agree to rebuild. Olready over 36 business men have signed such pledges, and work has actually begun on some.

BRITAIN NEEDS DOMINION TRADE

Neville Chamberlain Believes Coalition Not Yet Ended.

TORONTO, October 11. Canadian Press. — Britain needs trade with the Dominions now that most of the European trade has disappeared, Neville Chamberlain, a member of the British House of Commons, told the newspaper men on his arrival here to-day, after his trip across the continent.

Speaking anent the agitation for the resignation of Lloyd George, he stated that there was no doubt that Lloyd George was unpopular.

"Lloyd George," he said, "may be criticized unmercifully, but many would not carry that criticism to the point of defeating coalition. Any government which has been in power as long as that of Lloyd George is bound to be unpopular. Its opponents want their turn, and its friends feel that they have not been treated well enough." He did not think, however, that an election would give any party enough support to carry on, and that there would be again a coalition.

DEMAND DISBANDING OF CHINA'S HUGE ARMY.

PEKING, Oct. 11. — (Canadian Press).—Public demonstrations demanding the disbanding of China's huge army attended the celebration yesterday of the eleventh anniversary of the birth of the Chinese Republic. Thousands of persons, led by students, paraded the streets, displaying placards which ascribed China's present difficulties to the soldiers who are sapping the country's wealth and preventing the establishment of the Constitutional Government.

REDUCE TERM TO FOUR YEARS

The Methodist Conference Also Decided to Retain One Superintendent for All Canada.

TORONTO, October 12.—(Special to Examiner). — Without debate Methodist General Conference this morning accepted recommendation of general superintendency committee that there be one general superintendent of Methodist Church and that eight year term of superintendent be reduced to four years. This action automatically disposes of the movement to have a superintendent appointed for Western Canada.

Criticism which has been directed at management of Methodist church es finances and at activities of various central departments received its answer yesterday when Methodist general conference by vote of 173 to 1335 vetoed a budgeting plan for handling of church finances, passed a general resolution affirming the desirability of budget in principle and gave whole question of financial and departmental reorganization a four years hoist by referring it to the general conference special committee, postponement of immediate action on question which has been agitating Methodist church from one end of Dominion to other came after one of the longest and hardest fought debates of general conference's 1922 session.

New Steamer "City of Honolulu" Reported on Fire Two Days Run From Los Angeles.

LATE DESPATCHES

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., October 12 (Canadian Press). — Lifeboats were being lowered at 8.47 o'clock this morning by the passenger steamer City of Honolulu, which was on fire in the Pacific Ocean, according to a wireless message received here to-day.

A NEW STEAMER.

LOS ANGELES, al., October 12 (Canadian Press). — With some 300 passengers aboard, the Los Angeles Stemship Company's new steamer, City of Honolulu, was reported by wireless to-day on fire two days off shore from this port on the return trip of its first voyage between Los Angeles and Honolulu.

ABANDON SHIP.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., October 12 (Canadian Press). — The fire sweeping the steamer City of Honolulu was beyond control at 10.10 a.m. to-day, and the ship was being abandoned by the captain, chief engineer, first officer, and the radio operator, the last four aboard the vessel, a radio despatch received here to-day said.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY.

MONTRŞAL, October 12 (Canadian Press). — On a charge of having negligently signed a return to the Federal Government containing a false statement. Sir Montague Allan, president of the Merchants' Bank of Canada at the time of its absorption by the Bank of Montreal, this morning appeared before Chief Justice Decar in the Court of Sessions, and pleaded "not guilty."

The return in question concerned the bank's financial standing for the month of October, 1921.

D. C. Macarow, former general manager, was recently acquitted of the charge of having made false statement referred to above.

MAY STRIKE YET.

MONTREAL, October 12 (Canadian Press). — The question of accepting or rejecting wage cuts introduced by the Canadian railways and affecting their shopmen, will be submitted to a referendum.

This morning the men's representatives here sent out ballots to be returned on 1st November.

The shopmen authorised their officers to strike rather than to accept 12 to 20 per cent. cuts on 16th July.

A Conciliation Board inquired itno the matter, and a majority award favoured reductions.

Officials of the men and railways met last week to attempt to reach an agreement, but failed.

About 45,000 men are affected.

Mushroom Hunter Finds His Wine And Whiskey Gone

DETROIT, Oct. 12.—Charles Kleoponis ,gave Judge Thomas M. Cotter such a good recipe for curing a cold, and told such a straightforward story, that the judge put him on probation yesterday, when he pleaded guilty to a charge of violating the prohibition laws.

"I came back from hunting mushrooms and found the police had taken away two quarts of wine and some whisky from my home," he said. "I went to the station and gave myself up. I used the wine to make a cough medicine. I mix honey, cinnamon water and wine, and it does the work. If you can let me go, judge, I can get to work at 5 o'clock to-night," Kleoponis said.

The judge turned him over to probation officers with the order that he be permitted to go to work and come back later for investigation.

THREE POLICE CAPTIVES DIE

All Deaths Due to Fractured Skulls—Two Inquests Are Ordered.

DETROIT, Oct. 12. — For the third time in the last 10 days the death of a man under arrest by the police department is reported. The man was Peter Gray, arrested on a charge of violating the prohibition law, following a raid on his saloon

Malcolmson McDonald died in a cell in Police Headquarters after treatment in Receiving Hospital 10 days ago. Monday morning, Bucur Link, bartender at 1700 Davison avenue, died in Receiving Hospital. All three deaths were due to fractured skulls, according to Receiving Hospital reports.

Say Police Absolved.

Police officials absolve members of the department from any blame in connection with the deaths. In the McDonald case, Dr. James W. Inches, commissioner, stated that the man had broken his skull by falling down the steps of a hotel before his arrest. In a statement Supt. William P. Rutledge asserts that both Gray and Link died in a swoon, striking their heads while falling to the floor.

The coroner's office acquiesced in the finding of the police department in McDonald's case, critcising a Receiving Hospital interne for his treatment of the man. An autopsy is to be held over Gray's body. Harry S. Toy, assistant prosecutor, has ordered an inquest into Link's death. It will be held later in the week.

Receiving Hospital records list Link as "dying from injuries received while resisting arrest."

Hospital in Denial.

At a meeting of the board of public welfare commissioners, in charge of the administration of Receiving Hospital ,last week, it was officially stated that the board believed that McDonald' shead was not fractured when he was taken into the hospital.

Asked whether the statement meant that the board believed the fracture to have been inflicted in the police station afterwards, Dr. Stewart Hamilton, president of the board, said: "The statement speaks for itself."

"But it appears to intimate as much," he was reminded.

"Perhaps it does," he answered.

ATTRACT A GOOD CLASS OF SETTLERS.

Wider Dominion Publicity Scheme Will Be Adopted.

OTTAWA, Oct. 12 — (Canadian Press).—That the administration of the Department of Immigration and Colonization by a separate Minister, a wider publicity scheme to attract desirable immigrants to Canada and that the Government accept the offer of the British Government as outlined in the Empire Settlement Act of 1922, calling for joint action in securing settlers from the British Isles were among the measures urged upon Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior, by representatives of transportation interests.

After the conference Mr. Stewart intimated that the proposal would be thoroughly studied and representatives of transportation interests called to Ottawa in the near future, when a definite statement with regard to the whole situation would be made. Interests represented at the meeting included the Canadian National Railways, Canadian Pacific Railway and Steamships, Cunard Line, White Star Dominion Line, Anchor-Donaldson Line and the Canadian Colonization Association.

JURY LIST FOR ASSIZES HERE NEXT TUESDAY

Mr. Justice Middleton Will Preside—Action for Slander and Criminal Conversation.

WILL IN DISPUTE

The following are the jury cases on the docket of the assizes which open next Tuesday afternoon before Mr. Justice Middleton.

Elliott vs Robb

The plaintiff, George A. Elliott, a farmer of Dummer township claims $3000 and damages from William Robb of Norwood for alleged slander. The plaintiff's statement sets out that on or about November 29th 1921, the defendant in a converation with Earl Ivey falsely and maliciously said: "I can get no money and no satisfaction from George Elliott and he hasn't paid me any interest for the preceding year," and this remark was spoken to J. B. Pearce and J. F. Pearce. Also that in January 1922 defendant said to Richard Stinson: "George Elliott owes me $65.00 on his own property.'

Defendant denies having used the words complained of, and says plaintiff has failed to carry out the terms of an agreement by which the defendant agreed to sell him certain lands, and any conversation the defendant may have had concerning the plaintiff were referable only to the breach of the agreement. Mr. Robb counterclaims for $1900 interest due under the purchase. C. R. Widdifield for plaintiff and Gordon & O'Brien for defendant.

Jones vs Davis

In this action involving two Harvey township men, Edward Jones asks for $5000 damages against Alexander Davis for illicit intercourse with plaintiff's wife. Jones is a farm laborer and in November 1919 went to work for Alexander Davis on his farm in the township of Smith. Plaintiff's wife was also engaged as house keeper. In February, 1921 Jones noticed that defendant was paying attention to his wife, and alleges that he was afterwards dismissed and ordered from the place, his wife remaining with Davis.

On April 25th 1922, defendant retained a solicitor and had executed a separation agreement between the plaintiff and his wife and arranged the appointments by which the agreement was executed.

According to this agreement Davis paid Jones $50 for release of any rights or causes of action which he might have against Davis.

Plaintiff alleges that this release was obtained from him by the fraudulent misrepresentations and conspiracy of his wife and Davis and that advantage was taken of his illiteracy.

In the statement of defense agreements of release and separation are quoted. A clause in the latter is as follows: "The parties (Jones and his wife) hereto will henceforth live separate from each other and neither of them will take proceedings against the other for restitution of conjugal rights, or molest, or annoy or interfere with the other in any manner whatsoever".

Mrs. Jones retained custody of two children, also kept her property and agreed to pay all her own debts.

Defendant says Jones quit work of his own accord.

Gordon and O'Brien for plaintiffs and C. R. Widdifield for defendant.

Clemence vs Schneider-Rishor Ltd.

The plaintiffs are Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Clemence who have brought action for $2500 damages against the proprietors of the Regent Theatre for injury suffered by Mrs. Clemence from a fall in the theatre on December 11th 1920. While going to the gallery of the theatre to a seat plaintiff fell in the darkness at a step or drop in the floor that was unknown to her. By reason of the injuries Mrs. Clemence has been continuously confined to her home under doctor's and nurse's care and unable to walk as formerly without the aid of crutches and latterly a walking stick.

Defendants deny that the gallery was in darkness but was provided with proper lighting, and state that the construction of the gallery is the same as in other theatres.

Gordon and O'Brien for plaintiffs and Joseph Wearing for defendants.

Claim Over a Will

Ada Annie Edwards, daughter of the late John W. Edwards, butcher, Peterboro, and one of his heirs, is plaintiff in this case against the Trusts and Guarantee Company, Limited, administrators of the etate of the late J. W. Edward, who died intestate. Plaintiff alleges that before her father's death he gave her certain mortgages; also that after her mother's death in 1915 she worked at home in control of the house, then and subsequently conducted as

Peterboro Girls Might Try This Method of Getting a Real He Man

DETROIT, October 12. — This is Mrs. Grace McLeod's advice to women: "Don't stop to gossip when you go to the corner store. Hurry home, and maybe you can capture a man."

Mrs. McLeod caught one yesterday—a burglar. When she returned from a swift trip to a second-hand shop nearby, she found that someone had unlocked the door of her apartment, 1906 Canfield Avenue West. The man came out of her bedroom.

"Does William Peterson live here?" he asked.

"No, and that's a funny place to look for him," said Mrs. McLeod. "I'm going to call the butcher. There is a meat market in the building.

The intruder ran for the door, but Mrs. McLeod grappled with him. He dragged her down the short flight of steps leading to the street and broke away.

"Stop him! He's a thief!" yelled Mrs. McLeod, and chased him up Canfield Avenue. A dozen men joined her. The fugitive was captured by a street car crew at Canfield and Grand River Avenue, after a chase over fences and through an apartment house.

Patronman Audley Beck took him to Grand River Station, where a charge of robbery was entered against him.

He said he was Herman Andrews, 52 years old, no home, and confessed that he had served time for burglary. Four watches, four skeleton keys, and some rings were found in his pockets. Nothing had been taken from Mrs. McLeod's home.

TEN HENS TO FAMILY OF FIVE IS A PROFITABLE PROPOSITION

Prof. Elford, in Practical Address For the Benefit of City Dwellers, Describes How the High Price of Fresh Eggs Can Be Met.

AN INTERESTING LECTURE.

"Two hens to each member of the family is about the right proportion," said Professor F. C. Elford of the Dominion Experimental Farm, Ottawa, in one of the advisory passages of his address on the subject of "Poultry Keeping" in the Labour Hall last night. "If there were fifteen in the family that would mean a flock of thirty hens," Prof. Elford continued, "but I doubt that there are many of those families around. A family of five could keep ten hens in the backyard, and usually the table or kitchen scraps from a family of five persons are enough to keep ten hens going. I have figured out that the table scraps from a family of six persons for six months are worth, when turned into new laid eggs, fifty cents a month for each member of the family—that is, during the months of higher prices. If you consider the individual family that sum does not amount to very much, but figured out as a national asset it is tremendous."

Prof. Elford's address was given under the auspices of the Peterborough Poultry Association to an audience, including quite a number of women, that completely filled the Labour Hall. To mere consumers, apart from poultry producers and fanciers and their lesser kindred, it was an interesting and even challenging talk on the possibilities of poultry-keeping in towns and cities; to the producers it must have proved an encouraging and inspiring discussion; and to both groups of the audience it was a simple exposition of how an unpromising, prosaic and practical subject can be presented in an instructive and entertaining manner that held undivided attention. Mr. Thos. Darrah, President of the local association, acceptably fulfilled the duties of Chairman, and expressed his pleasure at the large attendance despite the unfavourable weather.

Some Failures.

Prof. Elford admitted that it would pay some poultry keepers to kill their hens and buy the eggs they required. It was found, he said, that twelve eggs a week would pay for the feed of ten hens. In other words, the eggs produced beyond the dozen represented profit or could be charged against labour or the cost of the hen-house.

"I kept ten hens," he said, "and the cost of feeding them worked out at less than 20 cents a dozen for new laid eggs when the market price in Ottawa was as high as $1.20 a dozen."

Relating his own experience and referring to the objections some neighbours were inclined to raise against the vocal activities of cockerels in summer, Prof. Elford said that about this time of the year he bought ten pullets and fed them for egg producing. Then, after keeping them all winter, he sold them when the price of eggs had fallen to their low level. They were worth about what he had paid for them, and as a result he had the advantage of cheap, new-laid eggs during the season of their high market price, and, in addition, he avoided neighbourhood complaints. This practice was merely a suggestion for city dwellers who hadn't adequate accomodation for hens the year round. All that was needed was room for a house about the size of a piano box, and a sunny exposure.

Industry's Development.

With a touch of the dry humour that brightened his whole address, Prof. Elford portrayed by contrast with the conditions and ideas of twenty-five years ago the vast changes and developments in the keeping of poultry. Nobody expected hens to lay in the winters of that time, but today farmers find that poultry is profitable.

Maintained Its Price.

"Is there any one thing produced on the farm that has kept its price as well as poultry?" he asked. "While other things have fallen until the receipts are not sufficient to pay for the cost of production, poultry has kept a fairly high price through it all. In some cases it has been too high, and I am not in favour of poultry men who can see nothing but high prices. With the price of feed down and other costs lower, new-laid eggs sold last year at the biggest price in our history. And this winter I think you will see eggs pretty nearly as high as last.

"Why is that? Because poultry producers are putting on the market a better article than they ever put on before, and also because of the conditions of supply and demand. In spite of all we have said about the price of eggs, we have not been able to produce as many eggs as our people need.

"When a farmer finds that other things are not panning out then he turns to poultry. Two questions face the poultryman: He must produce a better article than he ever produced, and give it to the consumer at a price the consumer can afford to buy. We might as well conclude to produce that article at a better price."

Prof. Elford said that one way of solving this problem was by culling the drones. Don't keep a bird that is not paying for itself, he advised.

Part of his address was directed to the consideration of methods of building up a poultry association which, he said, could be a great benefit to a city. He believed that poultry could be produced in Canada on as large a scale and as profitably as anywhere else.

"We have the men, the climate and cheaper feed," he said. Another expression was: "You can't freeze a healthy hen in a dry house."

A short programme was given including step dances by J. Sullivan and E. Leonard, accompanied by J. Mongraw; a reading by I. John, and short appreciative speeches by Mr. Tooms, M.P.A., and Mr. J. J. Turner.

France Cannot Meet Her Debts For Four Years

PARIS, Oct. 12.—(Canadian Press).—France will be unable to meet any part of her debts for the next four years, as all available receipts for that period must be devoted to reconstruction of devastated regions, according to the Paris Herald, which quotes "one of the highest authorities of the French Ministry of Finance."

The Government, adds the newspaper, is doing its utmost to find a new formula for the settlement of European debts and the reparations tangle, and will probably submit a detailed scheme drawn up by M. Poincare when the Inter-Allied Congress meets at Brussels.

THEIR DEATHS NOT CAUSED BY SNAKE BERRIES

According to Opinion of Mother of the Goodwin Children, Dead Under Peculiar Circumstauces

SYMPTOMS ALIKE

Mrs. George Goodwin, 298 Edinburgh street, whose home has witnessed the death of her two small children and little nephew within the last few days, is convinced that the children were not poisoned by eating snake berries. The report of a little playfellow of one of them that Jackie, the twelve-year old boy, had been eating them was, she considers, a confliction with the green acorns which all the children had been eating. These acorns were given them by children living at the corner, who have apparently suffered no ill effects from them. Mrs. Goodwin's theory is that the combination of the acorns and of damson plum preserves, which she was making last week, formed a poisonous mixture which resulted so fatally for the three little things. Jackie, she declares, was well acquainted with all sorts of poison berries, and would not be likely to eat the deadly snake berry. The jam which was made from the damson plums is now being eaten at the family table, with no ill effects, and Mrs. Goodwin declares that the children consumed exactly the same food as the adult members of the household, with the exception on occasions of the porridge which they regularly ate at breakfast.

A Peculiar Phase.

A peculiar phase of the three fatalities was the preliminary symptoms, almost identical in each case, when one child after another came home from school complaining of a very tired feeling, which later resulted in a condition of swollen glands closely resembling mumps, and in a bad throat. Jackie, who had been suffering for some time from a sore toe, came home from school on Thursday of the week previous, complaining of tiredness. He stayed in bed for most of the week, and on Sunday felt better and got up. After lying under a tree on the lawn for awhile, he went to bed again. On Monday morning his face was swollen and his throat sore. He died at 7 o'clock on Tuesday morning of this week.

Little Veon, the five-year old daughter of the house, came home from school on Wednesday last, feeling very tired. She went to bed with symptoms of upset stomach. The doctor, calling on Jackie next morning, went in to see the little girl also, and took a swab of her swollen throat. None of the swabs taken showed any sign of diphtheria. The little girl died before her brother, who had been sick longer than she had, her death occurring at six o'clock on Monday morning, while an increasing rate of speed marked the demise of the little cousin, Jimmy Pellow, whose symtoms extended over a period of about three days only, from the time when he was lying out in the sun on the lawn ,and came in, saying he was tired, until midnight of Tuesday night, when he died. None of the children complained of pain to any extent.

The little cousin, Jimmy, four years old, did not attend school, and Mrs. Goodwin is sure that he could not have eaten the snake berries referred to, as she is sure none were brought into the house. "Veon had no pockets in her dress to bring such things in, and I am sure that Jackie would not eat them, anyway," she declares. The green acorns, however, had been a favorite tidbit with the children for some time, and other children who were fond of them have not suffered in any way. It is the combination of these and the blue damson plums that is considered by the mother as the source of the trouble.

Eric, another small son of the house, has been in a run-down condition for a month past, and was prescribed a tonic by the doctor. He has been at home for some time. His throat also is slightly swollen and his stomach in weak shape.

Men Have Their Eyebrows Plucked And Use Perfumes

CHICAGO, Oct. 12. — Men have become better customers than women for scented soap, perfumes and toilet waters, according to speakers at the annual convention of the Barber Supply Dealers' Association of America.

Men also are having their eyebrows plucked, it was alleged ,and have become good customers for tweezers, toilet sets and creams. Among exhibits were several racks of old-fashioned individual shaving mugs, adorned with the owners' names, which, it was said, are coming back into favor.

A "come again hair cut," requiring attention after a week or ten days also was exhibited to the delegates as one means of stimulating business.

EULOGIZED WORK OF REV. J. R. WEBB

Murray Street Congregation Regret Severance of Happy Ties.

Feeling that he could not reconsider his decision, A largely attended special meeting of the members and congregation of Murray street Baptist church last night regretfully accepted the resignation of the pastor, Rev. J. R. Webb, who has accepted the invitation of the Kitchener Baptist church to become its pastor.

Mr. L. J. Petit, led a brief devotional exercise and then Dr. M. D. Scott took the chair. He reviewed the splendid accomplishments of Mr. and Mrs. Webb during the former's long pastorate of sixteen years. The chairman then asked Mr. A. J. Raddon, church clerk to present the following resolution, which was moved by Mr. Raddon and seconded by Mr. H. G. Webber:

Whereas, the resignation of our Pastor, Rev. J. R. Webb, has been presented to this church, and

Whereas, his reconsideration cannot be secured, and

Whereas, by his long and faithful self-sacrificing service of sixteen years he has brought the church business, membership, spiritual life and our beautiful House of Worship to their present splendid condition, be it

Resolved, that we the members and congregation of Murray Street Baptist Church do hereby express our extreme regret on the severence of this happy relationship of Pastor and people and do unanimously record herewith our disappointment, and feeling of great loss on the resignation of Rev. Mr. Webb, and be it further

Resolved, that we hold the fullest appreciation of the self-sacrifice and service of Rev. J. R. and Mrs. Webb through these many years, and offer our continued love and prayers as they take up their great work with the church to which they have been called.

Signed on behalf of Murray street Baptist Church, W. D. W. R. Breyfogle; For the Trustees, A. J. Raddon, Clerk for the Church.

There was evidences of sincere emotion as the resolution was put to vote and carried unanimously all standing. A score of heartfelt testimonials from among the members testified to the high regard in which Rev. Mr. Webb is held. H. G. Webber, W. R. Breyfogle, Robert Harding, Joseph Wearing, L. J. Petit, F. M. Somerville, Mrs. Robert Smith, Mr. Merrill and others spoke in a most earnest and eulogistic manner of the work and sacrifices of Mr. and Mrs. Webb during their long and yet all too short tenure here.

Mr. Webb has been appealed to by various Baptist churches during his service here, but disregarding many apparently more favorable situations, has chosen to remain with his Peterboro charge, until the call from Kitchener with its splendid opportunity for service, determined him to accept it.

The regret that is being generally expressed on Mr. Webb's decision, is not confined to his church circles. His citizenship here has counted for much. Mr. Joseph Wearing expressed the view that Mr. Webb was easily among the first four outstanding Baptist ministers in Canada

The meeting adjourned after singing "Blest be the tie that binds."

"We Came Here Without Knowing Each Other and Are Leaving as Good Friends" He Tells Turkish Representatives at Conference.

GREECE DECIDES TO SIGN ARMISTICE

MUDANIA, Oct. 12.—(Canadian Press).—At the conclusion of the conference here, which resulted in the signing of an armistice between the Turks and the Greek, Lieut.-General Sir Charles Harington, on behalf of the Allied delegates, said to the Turkish representatives:

"We came here without knowing each other, and we are leaving as good friends. It would have been impossible to reach such a happy termination of the conference unless we had faith in your sincerity of purpose, and we are ready to give sympathetic consideration to your claims.

"I thank you in the name of the associated Powers for your great patience and intelligent effort you made to achieve a successful issue of the conference, and before bidding you farewell I wish to express deep appreciation of the hospitality and kindness of the Turkish population and army. We have all worked earnestly for one specific object. Our efforts have borne abundant fruit. We must thank the representatives of the press for the valuable assistance they accorded us, which was no small factor in the success of the conference."

FLEEING FROM THRACE.

ATHENS, Oct. 12. — (Canadian Press).—The Greek Government, supported by private organizations, including America, is achieving extraordinary results in solving the problem presented by the presence of thousands of refugees from Asia Minor. The arrival here of Dr. Fridtjof Nansen will add to the strength of the support given by the League of Nations, but foreign assistance will be required if thousands of women and children are to be saved Clothing, especially undergarments, is badly needed. Newspapers report that the Greek residents of Eastern Thrace are already fleeing, fearing the arrival of the Turks, from whom they declare the Allied soldiers cannot protect them.

GREECE WILL SIGN.

PARIS, Oct. 12. — (Canadian Press).—Greece has decided to sign the Mudania armistice convention and evacuate Thrace, according to conditions stipulated in that document, the French Foreign Office was officially informed to-day.

OFFICIAL THANKS.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—(Canadian Press).—Lord Curzon, British Foreign Minister, in the name of the British Government, has officially thanked Sir Horace Rumbold, British High Commissioner in Constantinople, and General Sir Charles Harington, Commander of the British Forces in the Near East, for their tact and skill in handling the Mudania conference, it was announced to-day.

DOUBTING THOMAS

In speaking to one of our representatives of the article in last week's Examiner entitled, "Hard to Believe," a certain party said he had so little faith in its truthfulness that he did not read it all. Our Agent gave him the name and address ,told him to send the "clipping" and if he did not receive word back that the article was true in every particular, he would buy him the best suit of clothes in the city.

Realizing that there may be other doubting Thomases I wish to state over my own personal signature that the said article is true in every particular. The only reason the names and address is not published is that the great majority of people shrink from the notoriety ensuing from the publication of such a testimonial in a local paper over their own signature, but they are most willing to answer any private enquiries.

I will not only supply any one with the name and address of this party but will at the same time give the names and addresses of numerous persons in this city and vicinity who have been just as wonderfully helped by the use of Gallagher's Blood Purifier and the Kidney Remedy.

FINAL AGREEMENT BETWEEN ALLIES AND TURKS MADE

Document Was Signed at Midnight and Goes Into Effect Saturday Night at Midnight.

NEUTRAL ZONE.

MUDANIA, Oct. 12. —(Canadian Press.)—The final agreement on all points was reached by the conferees at eleven o'clock Tuesday evening, after two sessions of the delegates. Then followed a recess while the secretaries made formal copies which the delegates verified, and it was about daybreak before the final signatures were affixed.

The agreement is under date of midnight last night, however, and goes into effect, according to its final clause "three days after signature, that is, midnight, October 14-15."

The Greeks refused to sign the convention because they were out of touch with their home government and the terms were not fully approved by the Athens authorities. The Turks, however, will look to the Allies to see that the Greeks fulfill the conditions of the armistice, and the Allies gave assurance to to that effect.

The agreement provides that the Turks will be permitted a gendarmerie of 8,000 in Thrace and Ismid. They asked for 10,000, but a compromise was reached on the former figure.

The Thracian boundary as specified by the agreement is from the mouth of Maritza, along its course to the Bulgarian bounadry. The clause to which the Greeks object on this subject is presumably one referring to a small but important slice of land along the railroad near Adrianople.

Definite delimitation for the neutral zoneswas decided upon and was included in the agreement, although Ismet Pasha opposed the inclusion The demarkation follows a line 15 kilometres from the coast along the Straits of the Dardanelles and forty kilometres from the coast of the Bosphorus. It is provided that neither the Allied nor Nationalist troops may advance across these lines. The Allied representatives agreed not to increase the number of troops, nor to undertake the construction of fortifications.

The portion of the railroad along the right bank of the Maritza River from Svilegrad to Kule-Burgas will be subject to supervision to be determined by a mixed commission of the Allies, according to the agreement. This was done, it was said, with a view to maintaining free passage on this section of the railroad, which opens to the region of Adrianople.

GENERAL ELECTION IS EXPECTED IN ENGLAND BEFORE DECEMBER

Lloyd George Is Expected to Defend His Near East Policy With All His Old Time Force and Vigor —He Will Speak at Manchester on Saturday.

LONDON, Oct. 12. — (Canadian Press) — Political writers of all shades in last night's London papers declare that a general election in December is almost certain.

Gossip yesterday was largely concerned with the Premier's possible course in his speech at Manchester on Saturday when it is understood his main purpose will be to defend the government's Near Eastern policy. It is generally recognized that Lloyd George will be more than ready to meet his critics with all his old force, but there is a good deal of doubt whether, in his Saturday speech he will pay any special attention to the rebellion in the coalition. The Premier is more likely to give the country his opinion of the alleged mischief making in regard to the Near Eastern situation. He left London last night for the country and may possibly go direct to Manchester from his home.

The present political situation naturally increases interest in the Newport by-election where polling takes place next Wednesday to fill the house of commons vacancy caused by the death of Lewis Haslam (coalition-liberal). Three candidates, Conservative, Liberal and Labor are averaging eight meetings daily each. The riding is coalition but the local split between the coalition and the liberal-unionists will probably result in a labor success.

The London Evening Standard last night alluding to the statement yesterday that none of the Premier's conservative colleagues has any idea of leaving the ministry at this juncture, says that if the choice came between loyalty to the coalition and loyalty to the conservative party they would decide that disruption of conservatism would be a greater calamity than disruption of the coalition. The Standard, incidentally is a journal that has wobbled greatly in its former support of the coalition.

Temperance Hotel Was Running Still

SASKATOON, Oct 12.— (Canadian Press.)—J. Mulligan, owner of the Temperance Hotel at Allan, Sask., who is alleged to have been in possession of illicit liquor, was arrested by Canadian Mounted Police in a "still hunt" in the Watrous area on Tuesday, it was reported here last night.John Silversagle and J. Scham, farmers, were also rounded up on charges of breach of the Sasaktchewan Temperance Act.

Farmers in the vicinity rushed for home and emptied their mash to the four winds when the officers appeared, according to reports.

WOMAN OUTLIVED EVERY PERSON SHE MENTIONED IN WILL

Mrs. James Johnston, of Montreal, Lived to Be Over One Hundred Years of Age — Will a Quaint Document.

LARGE ESTATE.

MONTREAL, Oct. 12. —(Canadian Press.)—Living to be over one hundred years of age, Mrs. James Johnson is now found to have outlived everybody mentioned in her will, a quaint document published yesterday.

The testatrix "commends her soul to Almighty God in the hope of a blessed resurrection and her body to the grave to be interred according to my means and station in life." She willed that the present warehouse and pounds, at present occupied by the firm of James Johnston and Company, St. Helen street, should be mortgaged to secure her legacy to her son James, for $20,000. In the meantime the firm has gone out of business. She willed her daughter, Elizabeth B. $20,000 and the same property in St. Helen street was to be mortgaged to secure it.

She willed the residue to her husband long since dead on condition that "he shall procure and furnish my son and daughter with requisite and proper apparel, board and lodging and all other necessaries of life, until their respective marriages."

The testatrix nominated as executors James Johnston, Alexander Mitchell, Merchant, A. B. Stewart, official assignee, James Burnett, merchant, and Charles Wilkie of Quebec, all since dead. As an alternative executor she named Daniel Wilkie, bank manager, Toronto, since dead; also Gavin Burns, of Montreal, bank officer, since dead. The notaries, Wight and Boogan, are also dead.

He Wears His False Teeth in His Face Now

EDMONTON, Oct. 12.— (Canadian Press.)—J. Sullivan, of Sawridge, 164 miles north of Edmonton, on the Edmonton, Dunvegan and British Columbia Railway, is now wearing his false teeth again after carrying them around for some time, where he could not flash them when he smiled.

He swallowed them the other day while eating lunch .Anxious friends rushed him by speeder to High Prairie where a local doctor fished for them without success and then Sullivan was rushed to the General Hospital at Edmonton by the first train from the north.

Two doctors operated successfully and the misplaced molars are once more in the northend of their owner, instead of in his geographical centre.

Just what J. Sullivan had for lunch when he swallowed the teeth, history fails to disclose.

ELEPHANT SENT ON WILD RAMPAGE BY CHEW OF TOBACCO

Some One Gave "Topsy" Tobacco Instead of a Peanut and Damage Amounted to Thousands of Dollars.

TORE UP A SHOP.

WILMINGTON, N.C., Oct. 12. —(Canadian Press)—Topsy yesterday went on another "tobacco spree."

After being apprehended Tuesday night the "largest elephant in captivity" which has been terrorizing Wilmington for two days, again broke from re keeper and headed straight for the jungle cypress across the Cape Fear River.

It all happened because some person gave her a chew of tobacco, instead of a peanut during a circus performance.

All Tuesday Topsy trumpeted through the street of Wilmington, wrecking property, running people to their homes, climaxing her escape by practically demolishing a tailor shop. Finally, exhausted, she was surrounded and captured by a posse of circus attendants in a swamp near Greenfield Lake.

The rest appeared easy. But as she was about to board a train, she caught the aroma of tobacco and Topsy again became a terrified jungle beast. She plunged into the river and, with thousands watching, swam to the opposite bank where she tore into the welcoming cypress recess.

Property damaged as result of Topsy's "chew" is estimated in the thousands of dollars.

Decision to tender this relief was reached at a cabinet meeting here yesterday. The money and timber will be available immediately under charge of M. E. Normandeau, of the Colonization Department so that reconstruction may be completed before winter sets in.

NEGOTIATIONS IN PROSPECT FOR A TRADE TREATY WITH FRANCE

Present French Tariff Discriminates Against Some Classes of Canadian Goods — Trade Falling Off.

EXPORTS DECLINE.

OTTAWA, October 12 (Canadian Press). — Negotiations with the French Government, it is expected here, will shortly be resumed with a view to the conclusion of a new and possibly wider trade treaty between Canada and the French Republic.

Prior to proceeding to Geneva for the League of Nations Assembly, the Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance, conducted some preliminary negotiations with the French authorities, although, so far as the available advices indicate, he has not yet concluded the new agreement. He is now in London. He will, however, in all probability return to Paris for further negotiations, and confidence is expressed that not only will the negotiations for a treaty be successful, but that some present anomalies will be removed.

Of these, first and foremost, comes the unfavourable position of certain Canadian products in the French market as compared with those in the United States. This arises as the result of a French decree issued in March, 1921, which increased nearly all the rates of the French general tariff.

The decree was aimed at countries with depreciated currency like Germany and Austria. Its purpose was to prevent the French market from being flooded with the goods of countries whose currency was depreciated more than the franc. But it also hit Canada, although the Canadian dollar was at a premium as compared with the French franc.

Before the decree went into effect, the rates of the French general tariff were usually about 50 per cent. higher than the minimum tariff.

Under the provisions of the decree the general rates affected became in nearly all cases 300 per cent. higher than the minimum rates.

Canada, under a modus vivendi, arranged by Sir George Foster in January, 1921, had secured what is practically a continuance of the French minimum tariff on all Canadian items included in the Franco-Canadian trade agreement of 1907-1909.

The decree of March, 1921, did not affect the Canadian goods granted

AN INVESTIGATION NEEDED?

Three children in one household in Peterborough have passed away within a few hours of each other from some mysterious disease, the symptoms of which indicate that they had in some way been poisoned.

The suggestion is made that the children had eaten some poisonous berries.

How much there is to substantiate that theory is not known.

The case appears to many citizens as one that demands, in the public interest, a thorough investigation. So far as is possible all the facts entering into the history of the cases should be set forth so that other children may be protected from the same peril.

If poison berries were responsible for the triple tragedy, the fact should be established so that a widespread warning could be given for the benefit of other little ones in danger of meeting a similar fate.

There is so much that seems mysterious about the whole affair that it is hoped that a sincere effort will be made to establish the cause of death.

"HE GIVES TWICE WHO GIVES QUICKLY."

So far the response of Peterborough to the appeal on behalf of the fire sufferers of Northern Ontario is not as spontaneous as the urgency of the call necessitates.

Other communities are far outstripping this city in hastening aid to the northland. Probably the need has been more quickly grasped in other centres, for Peterborough's generosity in appeals of this kind has never been questioned.

It is necessary that the fact should be appreciated that thousands of people are not only homeless but are without warm clothes, and in many cases have but a modicum of food. They made their escape clad only in summer garb, and the result is that many of them are suffering from the cold, living in tents without fire in many cases, and unless relief is distributed on a comprehensive scale there is grave danger that an outbreak of influenza and pneumonia will add fresh horror to the situation.

Clothing, especially warm clothing for babies, boots, blankets, foodstuffs, and working tools are in immediate demand, and these articles may be left at the Fire Hall, or notice sent to the City Clerk's Office.

Cash donations will be received by the Chamber of Commerce, the City Clerk's Office or by The Examiner.

"He gives twice who gives quickly."

THE NEW BOARD.

The personnel of the new Railway Board has been approved of heartily by practically the whole Canadian press with one exception, a Toronto organ, which could not be satisfied if it were allowed to name the board itself.

Newspapers of all political colorings have seen in the appointment of Sir Henry Thornton and in the choosing of the members of the Board a praiseworthy attempt on the part of the Federal Government to give Canada's National Railways the business management that will be needed if the system is ever to be established on a paying basis.

This unanimity of opinion is a healthy sign.

It is proof that the newspapers have realized that the business of the nation is of more importance than political advantage.

The railway problem is one that demands the co-operation of Canadians generally.

It is too serious a matter for partisan treatment.

As the Ottawa Journal (Conservative) puts it: "With a public debt standing at more than two millions and a quarter, the man who for mere political gain seeks to undermine confidence in the management of an enterprise whose success is vital is nothing but an enemy to his country."

Canadians generally will wish the new Board complete success in their great task.

AN EXCHANGE PECULIARITY.

A peculiar thing about the exchange situation is that although Canadian money is accepted at American banks at par and American money is subject to a fractional discount at some Canadian banks, Canadians who visit United States cities find that their money is discounted from 10 to 20 per cent. by business places.

Cleveland is one city in which this practice is generally carried on.

A Canadian visitor wrote to the Cleveland Plain Dealer complaining that Canadian money was being heavily discounted and that newspaper sent a reporter to investigate the conditions, with the result that he found the complain to be completely justified.

On purchasing a twenty five-cent article in a drug store and tendering fifty cents in Canadian coins, the newspaper man received as change only fifteen cents.

On investigation he found that the bank exchange on Canadian money in Cleveland was but one-thirty-second of 1 per cent., or about $31 on $100,000.

"That means," remarked the reporter, "that if I offered $100,000 to the bank I would be given $99,969, but if I spent it at the drug store I'd get only $80,000 worth of merchandise."

There is no use arguing about the fairness or otherwise of this practice on the part of American business people. If they are suspicious of Canadian money and only accept it at a discount, they are within their legal rights possibly, although they do not show much business acumen.

Canadians have the remedy in their own hands. They can stay away from those cities in which their money is not accepted at its face value.

THE MINIMUM MARRIAGE AGE.

The Anglican Synod in session at London, Ontario, has been discussing a resolution to make the minimum age for marriage 21, says the Toronto Star. It will probably surprise most readers to learn that in Ontario, in 1920, nearly 11 per cent. of all the brides and grooms were not only under 21, but under 20. Of the brides alone, 19 per cent. or almost one in five, were in this category, with many more in the 20-year class, which is included in the 20-29 year group in Ontario statistics. Eighty per cent. of the brides were under 30 and 67 per cent. of the grooms. The average age of brides was just under 25 years, and of groom 28 3-4.

But if early marriages are more frequent than is generally thought, they are nevertheless not to be compared in number with those in the earlier period of Canadian history. Colbert, the French diplomatist, in a despatch to Talon, the French-Canadian administrator, laid down in 1668 the following principle:

"I beg you to commend it to the consideration of the whole people that their well-being, their subsistence, and all that most nearly concerns them depends on a general resolution, never to be broken, to marry youths at 18 or 19 years, and girls at 14 and 15."

How frequent were these "child marriages," is indicated in Skelton's outline of the genealogy of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. In 1662 Jacques Milot, age 27, married Jeanne Hebert, age only 12. Their eldest child, Madeline, at 14 married Francis Cottineau, called "Champlaurier" (probably from the fact that the family in France had possessed a field of oleanders), the founder of the Laurier family in Canada. The eldest son of this union, Jean Baptiste, at 26 married Catherine Lamorceux, a girl of 16.

The fact that the line of descent from these marriages included a man of the brilliance of Sir Wilfrid Laurier would not be accepted as an argument in favor of such unions to-day. Nor should it be. The times in which these people lived, and the conditions under which they existed in pioneer settlements, had much to do with the age at which matrimonial alliances were contracted. To-day's marriages are similarly affected by to-day's circumstances. And the fixation by church courts of a minimum marriage age of 21 would be quite ineffective in view of the fact that nearly one-fifth of the brides are now under 20.

BONAR LAW SPEAKS OUT.

Mr. Bonar Law's straight-from-the-shoulder declaration, meant for France, America, and for all others whom it may concern, is worth more to the Empire than a host of seasoned troops. It serves notice upon the world that continental diplomacy cannot divide Mr. Lloyd George from the British nation; it fixes responsibility for Europe's failure in the Near East; and it warns that England will not continue to play the Good Samaritan to small nationalities, or policeman for the world, while nations like France impede her efforts and nations like America stand aloof. That such a pronouncement was essential, let events of the week-end bear witness.

The history of Europe since the armistice fortifies every word that Mr. Bonar Law has uttered. In 1919 the Allied and Associated Powers (Mr. Wilson would not permit America to be one of the Allies) reached an agreement respecting Turkey. In that agreement (the Treaty of Sevres) they took into account the condition of the minorities in Asia Minor, who, in the early days of the Great War, had been subject to outrages of an appalling character. The massacres in Asia Minor in 1914 and 1915 took a toll of over a million of Christian lives. There was no known provocation, no insurrection, no rising against Turkish rule. It was purely wanton, and cold-blooded; and the Allies, considering the position as it then existed, felt it their solemn duty to provide against recurrence of such terrors.

The original idea, translated into a treaty, was that America should undertake the mandate for Armenia; that France should undertake the mandate for Cilicia, where there is a mixed population; that Italy should undertake the mandate for Adalia and surrounding territories; and that Greece should undertake the mandate for Southeastern Anatolia—the vilayet of Smyrna. It was an agreement, which, had it been accepted and honorably observed, might have obtained peace for Europe and protection for Christians, but it was broken before the ink with which it was written had dried. England, the perfidious Albion of her enemies' imagination, lived up to her part; but the others did not. America, in the teeth of President Wilson's high-sounding professions, would not undertake responsibility for Armenia; the French Government declined to continue responsibility for Cilicia; the Italians withdrew from Southern Anatolia; and the Greeks deposed Venezilos for Constantine. On top of it all, and worse than all, France, despite the Entente, despite its blood-sealed friendship for England, made a separate treaty with the Turkish Nationalists, who had risen from the ashes of the Sevres agreement.

Thus, through American aloofness, through French and Italian failure, through Greek greed and incompetence, and through Turkish lust for power, encouraged, if not deliberately fed, by France, and not through any blame, or at least through any vicious error, of England's, the Near East threatens to return to an old-time Balkan blood-feud.

* * *

Today, with the Greeks smashed in Asia Minor, with Smyrna in ashes, and a ferocious, hard-bitten, victory-exalted Turkish army on the banks of the Dardanelles, what is the position? For an answer, let us turn, not to an Englishman, but to an American, Mr. Henry W. Morgenthau, former United States Ambassador to Turkey, and an authority upon the Near East. Said Mr. Morgenthau the other day to American bankers:

"The world today should give thanks to England. Nothing has stopped the Turks from crossing over into Thrace, and then to Athens, but the British navy, and the British General, Harington. None of us know, except those who were behind the scenes, what a grand piece of work Great Britain did again. Great Britain saved the civilization of the world, within the last two weeks.

"Great Britain today is standing a tremendous strain to protect that which we call civilization. Let us realize that we are the guardians of civilization as well as Great Britain, and that we have to stand back of this, and do our share."

But although British troops, with thinned ranks, stood alone between the Turk and massacres and, conceivably, the lighting of a world conflagration in Thrace, many of those who ought to have stood with her were not to be found. France, that France which was our glorious ally in the war, withdrew her flag from Chanak, and made way for Kemal. The Straits, whose neutrality her Government had agreed to protect, was left to the lives of British soldiers and the guns of British ships. Nor was that all. For when British khaki and the British navy had alone halted the Turk, and a conference was called, French delegates at Mudania stood with the representatives of Kemal. Hence the declaration, honest, straightforward and solemn, of Mr. Bonar Law.—Ottawa Journal.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Dear Sir: I must apologise for the taking up more space in your valuable paper, after the lengthy report of the work of the Well Babies' Clinic given in yesterday's Examiner. But in justice to our Clinic Executive, and because of the absence from the city of the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. F. C. Neal, I feel called upon to express the regret of the Board of Management that we inadvertently omitted to acknowledge our indebtedenss to the Great War Veterans' Association. For the two years of our existence as an organization the G.W.V.A. has provided us with a well-lighted, well-heated and comfortable room for our mothers and babies, our physicians, and nurses, as also our equipment. Indeed we have been made so free of this room that we find ourselves calling it the "Baby Clinic Room" just as though we really had some claim to it. But this is far from being the case—we have possession of the room as a free gift from the G.W.V.A. We have often wished we had sufficient funds to express our gratitude in a more tangible way, but up to the present this has been impossible. We have in addition, the use of the kitchen conveniences served by the King's Daughters. We cannot estimate what an asset this gift of a room is to the Well Babies Clinic. I think I may venture the assertion that next the services of the medical staff, it is our biggest asset, giving ungrudgingly and with whole-heartedness. Hence this letter is a very slight expression of the real gratitude we feel toward the Great War Veterans' Association.

Yours sincerely,
ELIZ. KENDREY,
For the Board.

MOTOR LEAGUE TO HOLD A MEETING

The Executive of the Peterborough Branch of the Ontario Motor League will hold a meeting Friday at 5.15 p.m. in the Chamber of Commerce Rooms. At this meeting tourists' camping sites in the city will be discussed. At present there are no stopping-places provided for summer tourists, and such a move by the executive would doubtless be appreciated.

The extension of the Provincial Highway from Peterborough to Burleigh is now awaiting only the consent of the Hon. F. C. Biggs, as everything else has been arranged for.

Other matters to be considered will be the proposed ferry from Cobourg to Rochester, and a resolution will probably be framed calling to the attention of the Postmaster-General the need and desire of tourists to have small towns and villages, particularly those adjacent to the highways, conspicuously named, and a post office provided in each. Another matter that may come up for discussion is that of having lights placed on all vehicles in motion.

MEETING OF THE ENGINEERS TO-NIGHT

The local branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada will hold their first meeting of the fall season at the Chamber of Commerce at 8.15 o'clock this evening. Mr. George Hogarth, M.E.I.C., Chief Engineer of the Department of Public Highways of the Province will give an address on "Progress in Provincial Highway Construction," illustrated with lantern slides and moving pictures. Owing to the late arrival of Mr. Hogarth it will be impossible to hold the usual dinner at the Empress before the meeting, as was previously announced.

The executive desires as large an attendance as possible at this the first meeting of the season. The subject as presented by Mr. Hogarth, with the excellent pictures which he is bringing, showing various phases of the work on provincial highways, should prove very interesting.

THE MYSTERY MIND

The machine started. After some few moments it stopped. Renard and Vera left. Beside her Evil Eye again clutched her wrist. Then the fox and the snake-woman returned. With them was a third person, a heavy, bulky man who climbed in front with Renard. Was it the Strangler?

BEYOND DEATH

In the little room off the kitchen something soft struck the foot of Dupont as he entered to investigate. Returning to the kitchen for a lighted lamp, he was so faced in reference to the door that his eyes were shielded from the terrific glare of the explosion in the rooms in front. Thinking of Violet, of Randolph, of his men, he rushed out at once, revolver in hand, ready for any emergency.

The altar chamber was a total wreck. Several of the hangings were smoldering some of the plaster had been blown from the ceiling, while the pedestal of the altar itself was literally melted away by the heat of the great light.

Instantly Dupont understood that this was another trap, another plant of the gang. His first thought was that it presaged an attack. Calling to his forces feverishly, he took count of the casualties, learning that five of the detectives had been blinded, and were helpless, while three, in odd, out of the way places, like himself, had escaped.

Then he saw Randolph's predicament, and thought of Violet, forgotten in just the moment he prepared against a repetition of the previous fiasco, the incident of the bricks in an earlier haunt of the band.

"Violet" he called.

"I'm—I'm trying to get my sight back," moaned the adventurer. "She's down there, Bob, and she screamed, just this minute"

Dupont brushed by the other men, calling to the three detectives to follow, to bring torches. Rushing madly, recklessly, through the secret passageways, he found the guard at one end, with nothing to report. At the other, the operative, one of the best from the agency and the one in whose care he had left the prisoner, was lying unconscious, attacked brutally. The Strangler had disappeared.

Dupont leaned down to examine the man. He was alive, and, furthermore, revealed no marks of throttling. In Dupont's lap he opened his eyes feebly, enough to explain.

"They came from behind, Mr. Dupont," he whispered, with an effort.

"They must have come through the passage," insisted the hypnotist.

"No, they stole up on me from the bushes, a man and a girl."

"A girl? Miss Bronson?"

"No, one of the gang. She—she was worse than the fellow."

On the grass were the cut bonds of the Strangler. In the soft loam, about the underbrush, were footprints bearing out the story of the guard. He, fortunately, did no seem to be seriously hurt.

Dupont rushed back through the passage, searching it foot by foot. If two of the gang had come up from the outside, in what manner did they escape from the house? Were there other passages? Even in the basement room he failed to find trace of any other mode of exit. How the survivors of the gang escaped, what became of Violet—these things constituted a problem, a terrible mystery, which brought the perspiration to his face until it stood out in beads and streaking down through the dirt from underground.

He made a search of the house. The soft thing in the tiny room off the kitchen proved to be the body of Lydia. She lay in blood, and was not, as Dupont first thought, a victim of the bullets. In her side, protruding in mute, gruesome evidence, of the nature of her death, was one of the short-handled knives used by Vera Collins. Was Vera the slayer? He was destined never to know.

NORWOOD FAIR HAD ONE OF BEST DAYS ON RECORD IN ITS HISTORY

Between Six and Seven Thousand Persons Passed Through the Turnstiles—Exhibits Were Excellent—The Special Prizes.

NORWOOD, October 12. — The second day of Norwood's Fair opened yesterday bright and fair, and proved to be one of the most successful days in the long history of this annual event, with gate receipts totalling over $1,500 and an attendance of between six and seven thousand people.

The exhibits in all lines were above the average this year, according to the directors.

Mr. D. J. Jarvis, of Burlington, judge of the poultry exhibit, whose hundreds of entries orcupied one entire building, considered this section as one of the best judged by him in years. Between nine hundred and a thousand birds were shown, with H. T. Lush, of Peterborough, H. Curtis of Warkworth, and Dr Yea, of Colborne, the principal exhibitors, the best entries in the White Wyandotte, the Rhode Island Reds, the Houdans and the Leghorns.

The water fowl this year were exceptionally good samples.

Mr. Lush, with a hundred-odd entries, captured nearly a hundred firsts.

Owing to the rain of the previous day, the showing in sheep was rather light this year. Curtis, of Warkworth, having over forty of the sixty entries. Colts in the heavy classes, horses for agricultural purposes, and cattle in the beef and dairy classes were good, Ayrshires showing up the best in the latter section, and there was a large exhibit of hogs.

The large, commodious red brick building at the main entrance was attractively arranged with pendant streamers of coloured crepe paper, dozens of flags, and a decorative effect in a long raised centre aisle showing plants and flowers, flanked by well-scrubbed vegetables of every variety. The plants here were beautiful, specialising in tall effects in fuchsias, rubber plants, and climbing begonia, with a lively Star of Bethlehem.

Around the sides of the building were effectively arranged samples of womens work, screened in such a manner as to prevent the promiscuous handling which is complained of at other shows of this sort.

Apples and pressed leaves, wood carving, and pierced brass, painting and drawing, a fine showing of preserves, bread and home-made cooking of all sorts, were at one side, while the entire opposite wall was devoted to a display of fancy work, in quilts bedroom and table linen, and cushions.

The ladies of Norwood are evidently fond of colours. There were some exquisite examples of the dainty Bulgarian silk embroideries; a pair of net curtains delicately embroidered in pastel shades of silk; wonderfully worked towels, pieces done in crochet, eyelet, punch work, and coronation braid. A striking piece was done in faint yellow and pink roses on bolting cloth.

A long table held more useful things; knitted socks and gloves, work aprons, with a corner devoted to garden herbs; sage, savory and salsify. The Newcombe Piano agency of Havelock, with Mr. J. Craighead in charge, had an exhibit here, and a small inner room was filled with decorative examples of the craft of the McGill-Quinn handcraft products of Norwood, in reinforced wicker furniture, with demonstrators showing the method of construction.

Amusement Features.

Outside, there was plenty of amusement for the crowd. Norwood evidently didn't neglect its midway this year, and the patronage afforded it by the throng showed the popularity of the side show and the merry-go-round which tooted its cheer way for many circular miles during the afternoon. Brawny youths matched their muscles against the hammer and eight machine, the dark skinned wrestler and the Egyptian phrenologist fronted the tent where six allied shows attracted the curious ,and the dozen or more refreshment booths did a rushing business in hot dogs, lemonade and ice cream. The Wooler Brass Band, with eighteen good players ,and Arlie Marks' Scotch musicians, entertained the crowd.

Automobiles were on view in numbers; T. S. Tait and Son, of Campbellford with a Dodge; McLaughlins from Belleville and from A. Brown and Company's garage here; a Chevrolet from the Howson garage, and Durant's from J. E. A. Fitzgerald's stock; Fords from the Norwood agency, in a touring model and a tractor, and a particularly good showing from Moore and Brewer's Peterborough office, in a Reo sports model, a Reo speed waggon, an Essex touring car and a Dodge.

One tent was devoted to working models of the De Laval separators, while W. H. Buck, of Norwood, was showing the Renfrew separator, Coleman's Quick-Lite apparatus, and Tudhope steel ranges.

As usual, Gratton's exhibit had a constant and admiring attendance. The bright colors used in their section, in the large yellow and green signs with their fluttering flags; the tasteful display of men's and boys' clothing against an artistic background; the whole in the central section of the grounds, combined with the added attraction afforded by the tall piperwith his bare knees his bagpipes and his Highland costume, complete from shoes to bonnet, and the nimble footwork of the costume dancers of Irish jigs and Scotch reels, Annie Logan and Mary Hemphill, to draw an attentive crowd of spectators.

Baby Show.

In the large tent devoted to the baby show, with an exhibit of grains and roots on the side, competition among the mothers was keen, and the young doctor, a recent newcomer to the district, with the nurse who assisted him in judging the various entrants, had a difficult and rather uncomfortable time in making the final awards, which results in a tie for first place between the babies of Mrs. W. G. Shearer of R. R. No. 2, Hastings, and Mrs. Bert McNeely, of Norwood)prize $7.00.) The second prize of $5.00 went to Mrs. Ross Sherwin, of Meyersburg, whose baby won first prize at Warkworth baby show last week, and the third prize of $3.00 to Mrs. E. Hogg, of Norwood. There were fourteen entries, and the babies were judged, not on physical examination, but by points of growth, development, feeding and suitable clothing. Dr. J. A. McDonald, of Hastings, acted as judge, assisted by Miss K. Osborne, of Toronto, the Public Health nurse from the Provincial Board of Health in Toronto, who was in charge of a fine exhibit of babies' clothing, necessities of all sorts and literature that was distributed to many mothers attending.

The Horse Races.

The races comprised an open trot, a green race, and a farmers' race. The track accommodations at Norwood are marred by the absence of a barrier on one side. The constant stream of rapidly crossing pedestrians from one side to the other almost directly in the path of the racing horses, constituted uneasing menace to life, and caused the men in the judges stand to bawl themselves hoarse in a constant effort to prevent a fatality. Mr. J. B. Pearce, an honorary director and an attendant in the judges' stand for the last 50 years, was one of the most faithful members in this regard.

The open trot ($75, $50, $25) was won by Bessie Brooks, F. Montgomery, Peterboro, with Hazel H., E. W. Jones, Peterboro, second, and Darky Tod, M. Storey, Peterboro, third. Roy Mack, Dr. Johnston, Port Hope, also ran.

In the green race ($40, $25, $15) Major Hal. S. McQuigge, Havelock, won. Kitty Wills, Lloyd Hess, Hastings, came second, and Si Winger, W. Elmhurst, Indian River, third. Willa Mack, A. McLaughlin, Hastings, also ran, and Silver Tariff,owned by Isaiah Graham of Lakefield, was drawn.

The farmers' trot $25, $15, $10) resulted in a tie for first place, with first and second money divided between Polly Stout, owned by R. Elmhurst, of Lang, and Frank McCarrahan, owned by C. B. Fife, of Indian River. City Princess owned by W. Elmhurst, of Indian River, came 3rd.

The judges were George Lipsett of Peterboro, and E. Peate of Campbellford. C. R. Armstrong, timer, and Ira Nattrass of Millbrook, starter.

Frank McCarrahan, a horse, entered in the farmers' trot, created some excitement by a fall which resulted in a cut and bloody mouth, but went on immediately to win in the next heat.

Special Prizes.

The special prize offered by Mr. G. A. Gillespie for best factory cheese, $5, was won by Walter Bitten, of Norwood. The Peterborough Cereal's special prizes of $5, $3.50, $2.50 and $1 for best loaves from their flour was won by H. L. VanAllen of Stirling, Mrs. R. B. Gardiner, Norwood, and D. Barry, Norwood.

The Quaker Oats special in this class of a 98-lb. sack of Quaker flour went to J. E. Brown, Norwood; and the Campbell Flour Mills' specials of $5, $3, $2 and $1 to Mrs. H. McClure, Norwood, Mrs. H. M. Orr, R. R. No. 2, Hastings, and H. L. VanAllen, ofStirling.

The Barrie Company, Limited, two special prizes in the embroidery section of $2.50 each, were won by Mrs. Jas. Booth, 512 Chamberlain Street, Peterborough, and Mrs. W. A. McColl, of Wooller.

Wm. Lech & Sons' prize of $5 for best piece of fancy work on exhibition was won by Mrs. S. Pennock, Box 162, Gananoque.

D. Kerr, K.C., offered prizes for best window box of flowers, of $1.50 and $1, won by Mrs. M. Faux, Norwood and Mrs. Thos. Watson Norwood. Mr. Kerr's further prizes for best hanging basket of flowers, $1.50 and $1, went to Mrs. M. Faux of Norwood, also, in the first, and Wm. D. Lennox of Norwood.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church were busily engaged with service of hot meals during the first day, when the steady rain brought very few customers, and with yesterday's large crowds. The exterior of their building showed an exhibit of the work of the Artcraft Studio, Peterboro.

Officers for 1922 were:— E. Hawthorne, president, P. M. Grover, first vice president, W. Thompson, second vice-president and J. E. Roxburgh, secretary-treasurer. Directors:—A. Knox, Col. R. E. Birdsall, Wm. Brackenridge, J. F. Elliott, Thos. Dunham, G. Elmhirst, S. McGee, G. A. Brethen, M. P., D. Barrie, J. A. Robb, W. Barrie, Wm. Knox, J. D. O'Keefe, J. Davidson, W. Burgess. 98 Out of Every 100 Women Benefited

An Absolutely Reliable Statement Important to Every Woman

Remarkable Results Shown by a Nation Wide Canvass of Women Purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.
50,000 Women Answer

For some time a circular has been enclosed with each bottle of our medicine bearing this question: "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?"

Replies, to date, have been received from over 50,000 women answering that question.

98 per cent of which say YES.

That means that 98 out of every 100 women who take the medicine for the ailments for which it is recommended are benefited by it.

This is a most remarkable record of efficiency. We doubt if any other medicine in the world equals it.

Think of it—only two women out of 100 received no benefit—98 successes out of a possible 100.

Did you ever hear of anything like it? We must admit that we, ourselves, are astonished.

Of course we know that our medicine does benefit the large majority of women who take it. But that only two out of 100 received no benefit is most astonishing.

It only goes to prove, however, that a medicine specialized for certain definite ailments—not a cure all—one that is made by the most scientific process; not from drugs, but from a combination of nature's roots and herbs, can and does do more good than hastily prepared prescriptions.

You see, we have been making, improving and refining this medicine for over 50 years until it is so perfect and so well adapted to women's needs that it actually has the virtue to benefit 98 out of every 100 women who take it.

It's reliability and recognized efficiency has gained for it a sale in almost every country in the world—leading all others.

Such evidence should induce every woman suffering from any ailment peculiar to her sex to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and see if she can't be one of the 98

OSHKIGMONG

OSHKIGMONG, Oct. 12.—Last Sunday, J. Proser of Keswick preached here in the morning and Pahyapetadong of Christian Island in the evening to a large and attentive congregations. Mr. Proser's text was "O thou fool, this night thy soul shall be required of thee". St. Luke 12:20. Pahyapetadong's text was "I will arise and go to my father", St. Luke 15:18. both of the services were impressive.

NEGOTIATIONS IN PROSPECT

the French minimum tariff under the modus vivendi. But it seriously affected all Canadian goods not granted the minimum tariff. Furthermore, the decree was held by the French authorities not to be applicable to imports from the United States, although it was held to be applicable to Canadian goods outside the scope of the modus vivendi.

The result is that on Canadian goods (other than those which under the modus vivendi are entitled to the French minimum tariff) France levies—so Canadian manufacturers have complained to the Government—double to three times as much duty as she levies on similar goods imported from the United ... Among others it is urged, the following Canadian products suffer under this alleged tariff discrimination, if shipped to France.

Wrought iron, iron bars, steel bars, tubes, welded or not, furniture, pianos and organs, phonographs, varnishes machine tools locks many forms of hardware metallurgical alloys and substances, valves, brass goods, agricultural implements, parts, shafts, screws, bolts, etc.

Furthermore ,apart from the effect on Canadian trade of the French decree, the present negotiations with France are considered to be of the greatest consequence in developing the commercial relations of the two countries.

The present modus vivendi as the term implies, is only a temporary measure and the proposed agreement is to take its place in a more permanent and probably wider form.

Of late Canadian trade with France has fallen off considerably in volume. In the twelve months ending August, 1922, Canadian exports to France were 10,500,000, while in the corresponding twelve months of the year previous they were $23,700,000. Imports from France did not decline nearly so heavily. In the twelve months ending August, 1922, they were $12,500,000; in the twelve months ending August, 1921, $14,700,000.

MRS. D. EASSON BURNED, DEATH

Died in Nicholls Hospital This Afternoon- Clothes Caught Fire.

Mrs. D. E. Easson, 190 Barnardo avenue, wis the victim this morning of an accident which resulted in her death this afternoon. It is supposed that Mrs. Easson, who was alone in the house, was putting something in the furnace which caught fire before the door closed and ignited her clothing. A neighbor, Mrs. A. H. Boomer, heard her screaming about half-past eleven this morning, and rushed into the house, to find the unfortunate woman in the hall, her clothing almost burned from her body. Her face and head were not as badly burned as her body, which was seriously effected. Dr. G. S. Cameron was called and Mrs. Easson rushed to Nicholls Hospital, where he was attended by her own physician, Dr. A. Moir.

WHY BABIES CRY

It's often hard to find the trouble—It may be teeth—it may be stomach—but oh! so often it is just a chafed irritated skin on which poor Soap has been used.

The remedy for this is so simple! Hours of suffering—night after night of disturbance—have been avoided by mothers, who have insisted on—Baby's Own Soap. Of course it costs a little more, a very little more, however—than what is often bought and used—but four generations of Canadian Mothers are there to vouch for its purity, for the soothing healing effect on Baby's delicate skin, for the lovely pure flower fragrance it leaves when Baby fresh and clean is taken from his bath.

Don't you think, Madam, it's worth paying the 15c. a cake, a little less if you buy a box (3 cakes) which your dealer asks for Baby's Own Soap. Adv.

Sermons

(By T. Tooms.)

Having read a small booklet entitled "The Well Frog," by Elis P. Butler, a few of his remarks may prove to be pertinent to some of us. He starts off with the need for a song that would begin this verse: "Father, Dear our whole caboodle will go on the rocks."

As stated by Mr. Butler, most of us can look back and reflect. We are living in a capitalist age; and that it takes six dollars to buy a ham. Therefore, if one could write an article that would preevnt people from making fool investments he would prove to be as valuable a citizen as General Pershing and J. P. Morgan rolled into one; because in 10 years' time enough money might be saved to pay off the national debt. Making an investment is often a wise thing to do. Though my experience is, stocks and bonds usually decline when I invest, they go up when the other fellow has them. How many people in Peterboro have thoroughly neat stocks at the present moment that are worth about two cents per ton. "You know, one of papa's mistakes." When we think how many nights we worked until midnight to earn those few hundred dollars, when we were getting about $15 or $20 per week. We look at the magnificent office building of a company that represents thousands of dollars in the one building. The friend on the inside wishes to put us wise, offers us shares, and we purchase a sheet of paper labelled 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock. Then discover we could not sell that paper for enough to buy the sand in the mortar that holds one stone in its place. It is a great deal more pleasant to be stung to death by a personal friend. He can sting so much deeper.

We are not so particular when it comes to lending money. We can lend money to an absolute stranger, but when we buy stocks, then only can we do it from a personal friend, in whom we have the utmost confidence. We are always willing to accept a favor, but I wish my friends would sometimes sell me stock that did not immediately droop like a wilted petunia.

Sometime ago a man who had bought one hundred dollars' worth of Victory bonds was sore because they were selling at $95 on the stock exchange. The poor goof did not know when he was well off. His bond paid him at least 4%, and when it was due he would get one hundred dollars; ands if he sells now he would only lose five dollars, and that he would charge up to the patriotic account, and swell out his chest for the rest of his life.

What we people in Canada need as much as liquor prohibition laws is a fool investment prohibitory law. The "Father, dear father, come home with me now," sob story, never came within miles of some of us; what we need is a song that begins "Father, dear father, quit buying bum stocks, or our whole caboodle will go on the rocks," because anyway you look at it, a dollar is a dollar, and usually a "dollar saved" represents the thin edge peeled off a great many dollars earned, and it usually stands for many hours of hard toil.

There are enough no account, absolutely defunct stocks and bonds owned in North America to reach from Wall street to Mount Copernicus on the Moon, and wrap around the mountain three times, and back to New York.

I may have a keen sense of humour, but I have not yet been able to laugh when I think of paying twelve dollars per year for a safe deposit box in which to keep wad stock that no bank would lend me ten cents on.

You may never have invested. You may not yet have joined the order of "Well Frogs." You may still have the dollar you saved away in the old sock or savings bank, but sooner or later the temptation to invest will come to you. When it does, I beg of you to do one or two things:

1st: Ask your banker, or any banker, what he thinks of the proposed investment.

2nd: Send it to me. If you send it to me I will send you stocks that I will guarantee is not worth a cent. If you are going to make the kind of investment you probably will make I may as well have your money as any one else, but whatever the amount you may be able to save for investment, take a hunch from me, and before you invest, go to a banker and ask him this question regarding the stock or bond you propose to buy "How much will your bank lend me on it?" I think it is a marvellous sight that all over North America, to-day thousands of hard earned dollars, each good for approximately half a bushel of wheat for just such stocks that in a year or so will be worthless.

I wonder if you have bought your lemons yet;

Or will you buy them to-morrow.

ODDS AGAINST A GENERAL ELECTION

But Lloyd George May Fire First Gun at Manchester.

LONDON, Oct. 12. — (Canadian Press).—Odds of nearly two to one against an election before the end of the year are being accepted in the London insurance market, notwithstanding positive assertions in the press and in political circles that an appeal to the country before Christmas is inevitable.

The discrepancy thus manifested is significant of the complete uncertainty surrounding the political situation for the moment. Morning newspapers again give over their chief columns to discussion, predictions and supposed revelations. Prime Minister Lloyd George's friends continue to insist that he will not resign, while others assert with equal confidence that he has determined to ask the country for a vote of confidence at the polls, and that his speech at Manchester on Saturday will be the first gun fired in a great electoral campaign.

HALIFAX, N.S., October 12 (Canadian Press). — H.M.S. Patriot, convoying Canada's champion fishing schooner Bluenose to Gloucester, Mass., for the International series of races to be sailed off that port, commencing next week, is out of touch of her charge.

A radio from Commander Jones, of the destroyer, received by the senior naval officer at this station this morning states that the line with which he was towing the schooner parted in thick, heavy weather at midnight, when the pair were approximately ten miles south of Brazil Rock.

Commander Jones stated that he would endeavour to re-establish contact with the fishermen, and failing to do so, would proceed to Gloucester.

FREAKISH TRICKS PLAYED BY FIRE

Two Strange Stories Are Brought From North Cobalt.

TORONTO, Oct. 12.—(Canadian Press.)— Stories of freakish tricks played by the disastrous fire in the North continue to reach the city. Two strange yarns were brought yesterday by a resident of ill-fated North Cobalt. William Horn, a returned soldier, owns three houses in North Cobalt, each in different parts of the town, and though adjoining buildings were destroyed all three of his dwellings escaped injury. In the midst of the destruction they stand isolated remnants of a town that was. Horn was asked how he explained it. He replied that after his experiences in France he was immune from fire. A farmer in the same neighborhood had six haystacks in a row, east and west, eight feet apart. The fire destroyed two at each end and left centre two The tremendous wind kept the heat and sparks from jumping the eight foot gap.

NOT DEPRIVING MEN OF THEIR SMOKES W.C.T.U. A XIOUS FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

OSHAWA, Ont., Oct. 12.—(Canadian Press.)—Addressing the provincial W.C.T.U. convention, which is in session here, Mrs. Denyes, of Ottawa, declared that the organization has been misunderstood with reference to its attitude toward smoking. She averred that the W.C.T.U. had no intention to take the smokes away from the veterans of the war or other men who were accustomed to the use of the weed, but they aimed to prevent boys and girls becoming addicted to the habit.

A strong plea was made for the returned soldiers by Mrs. Gordon of Ottawa, who urged that veterans be engaged for any jobs that are available, and that the public patronize the attractive wares turned out by men blinded during the war.

Mrs. Huskett, of Ottawa, in speaking on law enforcement and legislation," this morning expressed the fervent hope that the "slimy head of the Liberty Leaguers would not rise up in Ortario again."

There were five contestants in the oratory contest, Jean Dewar, Milton; Viola Claughton, Uxbridge; Viola Clothier, Ottawa, and Violet Patchell, Port Credit. These ladies were all silver medalists as a result of the elimination contests held in their districts, and Miss Jean Dewar captured the gold medal at the convention here.

The local branch of the W.C.T.U. this morning showed its appreciation of the work being done by Mrs. Will Pugsley, of Toronto, president of the provincial association, by presenting her with a large bouquet of flowers.

Is Your Vacuum Cleaner Hard on Rugs?

If It's a Hoover It's Not

Although Electric Vacuum Cleaners are now used in millions of homes and are regarded as indispensable by their owners, occasionally the question still arises whether this method of cleaning is injurious to rugs.

Statements that it is sometimes have gained wide circulation. Traced down, however, these statements have proved groundless. Prejudice, misunderstanding, imagination, and in certain instances pure maliciousness have been their inspiration.

HERE IS WHAT A USER SAYS

"We were unable to find an electric cleaner that would meet our needs until we secured The Hoover, which eliminated the wear (in rugs) entirely and saved three-fourths of the expense We now have 18 Hoovers. Because of their satisfactory service, and the fact that our rugs wear from three to five years longer than formerly, I say without the slightest hesitation that The Hoover produces the best results in cleaning and is more economical (from viewpoint of rug and cleaner) than any machine which I have ever seen demonstrated."

Baseball Club's Dance a Successful Event — The Women's Institute Raised $55 For Hospital.

NEWS PARAGRAPHS.

MILLBROOK, Oct. 12. — The dance held in the Town Hall on Monday evening, under the auspices of the baseball club, was a very enjoyable and successful event, though owing to the muddy condition of the roads the attendance was somewhat smaller than the boys had anticipated. Excellent music was furnished by Blood's orchestra, of Port Hope, and everything possible was done to add to the pleasure and comfort of the guests of the evening, who were present from Cobourg, Port Hope, Oshawa, Bethany, Peterboro, and the surrounding neighborhood. Supper was served about midnight, and afterwards dancing was resumed for another hour or two the guests being reluctant to bring so enjoyable an occasion to a close. The object in holding the dance was to procure funds to assist in having an open-air hockey rink this winter, and it is unfortunate that more support was not given the club in this worthy undertaking. Amongst those present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hall, of Peterboro, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Harrington, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Sayles, Rev. and Mrs. C. R. Spence, Mr. and Mrs. H. Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Moncrief, Misses Hilda and Thelma Spencer, Miss M. O'Brian, Miss Muriel Smith, Misses Janet and Alice Needler, Miss A. McConnachie, Miss I. Handley, Miss F. Anniversary Services

The fortieth anniversary of the Methodist church, Millbrook, will be held on Sunday, October 15th., Rev. Archer Wallace, D.D., of Toronto, having charge of the services morning and evening. Dr. Wallace's sermons were much enjoyed when he preached here last January, and many are looking forward to hearing him again next Sunday. The choir is preparing special music. A thankoffering of $600 is being asked by the trustees this amount being necessary for them to meet the financial obligations of the church. The annual supper, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid, will be held on Tuesday October 17th, the programme being furnished by the Victoria College quartette, who will not only give musical numbers, but also readings, violin and cornet solos, their accompanist being W. H. Clarke, whose father was at one time a resident of Millbrook. Mrs. W. R. Widdis, of Peterboro, whose ability as a soloist is well known, many from this vicinity having enjoyed her singing here ond at other point, will also assist with the programme.

Rebekah's Meet

The "Golden Sheaf" Rebekah Lodge held their usual meeting on Tuesday evening the heavy rain unfortunately preventing many of the members from being present, The Noble Grand, Sister M. Bradley, occupied the chair, and amongst the important business items discussed was the acceptance of an invitation from "Golden Links" Lodge, Peterboro, for the degree staff to visit their Lodge on Tuesday, November 7th., and put on their work. Owing to the fact that several members of the degree team have important engagements for the date in question, it was finally decided to accept the invitation providing it would be convenient for the Peterboro Lodge to choose November 21st for the visit, that being their next regular night of meeting. The matter of appointing another warden also received attention, as Miss Florence Clarke, who formerly held the office, has been absent all summer, and since her recent marriage to Mr. W. Harkness, is now residing in Bowmanville Arrangements for practice for the degree staff were also discussed, the leader in this work making it clear that certain evenings must be kept free for necessary rehearsals for the next few weeks. After the Lodge was closed the members adjourned to Robinson's restaurant and enjoyed refreshments and a social time before leaving for their various homes.

Why Stay Fat? You Can Reduce

The answer of most fat people is that it is too hard, too troublesome and too dangerous to force the weight down. Marmola Prescription Tablets overcome all these difficulties. They are absolutely harmless, entail no dieting or exercise, and have the added advantage of cheapness. A case is sold at one dollar by all druggists the world over, or send the price direct to the Marmola Co., 4612 Woodward avenue, Detroit, Mich. Now that you know this, you have no excuse for being fat, but can reduce steadily and easily without going through long sieges of tiresome exercise and starvation diet or fear of bad effects.

COST OF BRITISH OCCUPATION LARGE.

Expected to Raise Differences Between Britain and Turkey.

LONDON, Oct. 12.— (Canadian Press.)— One of the questions on which it is expected there will be important differences between the Turks and the British is the cost of British occupation of Constantinople and other areas in Asia Minor since 1918. The British have kept careful accounts of expenditures which are regarded as an ultimate charge against Turkey. It is believed that the bill will run into a hundred million pounds sterling without regard to what claims might be advanced by France, which maintained 20,000 troops in these regions for a year and a half. It has long been the contention of Kemalists that these charges are unjust, they claiming that it was possible to give them peace three years ago. When the first conference assembles this financial question will be introduced in connection with the Ottoman public debt in which France is a large sharer.

The White Star liner Homeric, which cleared from Southampton to-day with the usual supply of liquor for the bar, would be immune, however, and will not be molested when she entrs New York, as she left her home port prior to October 14.

CONVENTION OF THE G.W.V.A. AUXILIARY.

The members of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the G.W.V.A. are making arrangements for the convention to be held here on the 17th and 18th of this month, when between 50 and 60 members of the Auxiliaries from the province are expected. The billeting committee is headed by Mrs. J. Mills, with Mesdames Devey, McLeod, Welsh and McKinstry. Each auxiliary sending delegates pays for their expenses, but the ladies here provide lunches for the two days, a matter requiring some thoughtful consideration and preparation for the number involved.

The Auxiliary, whose funds are somewhat low at present, and upon whom demands for relief work have already been made this season, is contemplating holding a bazaar in November.

Catarrh Of The Stomach Is Dangerous

"Thousands Have It and Don't Know It," Says Physician. Frequently Mistaken for Indigestion—How To Recognize and Treat.

"Thousands of people suffer more or less constantly from furred, coated tongue, bad breath, sour burning stomach, frequent vomiting, rumbling in stomach, bitter eructations, gas, wind and stomach acidity, and call it indigestion when in reality their trouble is due to gastric catarrh of the stomach," writes a New York physician.

Catarrh of the stomach is dangerous, because the mucous membrane lining of the stomach is thickened and a coating of phlegm covers the surface so that the digestive fluids cannot mix with the food and digest them. This condition soon breeds deadly disease in the fermented, unassimilated food. The blood is polluted and carries the infection throughout the body. Gastric ulcers are apt to form and frequently an ulcer is the first sign of a deadly cancer.

In catarrh of the stomach a good and safe treatment is to take before meals a teaspoonful of pure Bisurated Magnesia in half a glass of hot water as hot as you can comfortably drink it. The hot water washes the mucous from the stomach walls and draws the blood to the stomach, while the Bisurated Magnesia is an excellent solvent for mucus and increases the efficiency of the hot water treatment. Moreover, the Bisurated Magnesia will serve as a powerful but harmless antacid which will neutralize any excess hydrochloric acid that may be in your stomach, and sweeten its food contents. Easy, natural digestion without distress of any kind should soon follow. Bisurated Magnesia is not a laxative, is harmless, pleasant, and easy to take, and can be obtained from any local druggist. Don't confuse Bisurated Magnesia with other forms of magnesia, milks, citrates, etc., but get it in the pure Bisurated form (powder or tablets), especially prepared for this purpose.

SPENT A TRUIY DELIGHTFUL DAY.

Those of the members of the Executive of the Women's Art Association who were fortunate enough to be able to accept the hospitality of the President Mrs. Neal, at her beautiful home on the Otonabee River near Hiawatha on October 3, enjoyed something unique in the history of the branch.

The ladies arrived by motor and after enjoying the beauty of the surroundings sat down to a delicious luncheon served out of doors, Miss Katherine E. Wallis being the guest of honor.

At a meeting following the luncheon the program for the coming year was discussed and valuable suggestions made. After further enjoyment of a very delightful day made possible by the kindness of the President the guests left for home.

BIG CONVENTION OF WOMEN NEXT MONTH

On November 8th, 9th and 10th, over three hundred members of the Women's Missionary Society of the Baptist church will meet at Murray street church here in convention when reports of missionary activities will be heard for the district of Western Ontario.

A number of the ladies will be here for one day only, other sections for two days, while some will remain for three days. Arrangements have been under way for a month past for their reception and billeting, which is a matter of some magnitude when the number involved is considered. The ladies of St. Paul's Presbyterian church will probably act as hostesses at luncheon on one of the days that the visiting ladies are in Peterboro.

SHOULD HOLD A BABY SHOW HERE.

This year, numerous enquiries were made to the directors of Peterboro's annual exhibition as to the chances of holding a baby show in connection with the event. There was no show her this year, but the success in other places is a sufficient guarantee of it popularity. Down in Warkworth last week, one of the most crowded sections of on the grounds was the large tent devoted to the exhibition of all sorts and conditions of babies. Here men and women congregated all afternoon, and passed close about the mothers with their babies, and the doctor who carefully examined and considered the various entrants. Twins in spotless white, marked in the French fashion with blue ribbons for the boy, and pink for the girl, were centres of interest. The little things seemed to mind their publicity not at all, regarding the audience with bright or indifferent countenances. countenances according to their several dispositions.

ONE OF THE FINEST IN THIS PROVINCE.

The Young People's Temple, which is under construction on Aylmer street, in connection with the Salvation Army work, is progressing rapidly, and promises, when completed, to be one of the finest gathering places of its kind in the province. There will be two gymnasiums, one for boys and one for girls, equipped with the very latest ideas in apparatus for physical development, several Sunday school rooms, and what is called the Good Samaritan room, for special purpose. The new addition to the Temple will probably be ready for occupation about the 18th of November, when the re-modelled large Temple will also be in good shape.

Two eggs, 2-3 cup sugar, 1-2 cup grated chocolate, 1-2 cup chopped walnut or pecan meats, 1-2 cup of citron and sultana raisins, chopped, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla extract, 1 cup sifted flour, 1 1-2 teaspoons baking powder.

Beat eggs until thick. Add the remaining ingredients and mix thoroughly.

Drop by the teaspoonful on a buttered tin; spread slightly.

Place half a nut meat on top of each and bake about ten minutes in a moderately hot oven. This recipe will make from 24 to 30 small cakes.

GRANDMA USED SAGE TEA TO DARKEN HAIR

She Mixed Sulphur With It to Restore Colour, Gloss, Youthfulness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn grey, streaked, and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked, or grey. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, grey, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time ;by morning all grey hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft, and luxuriant.

HONEYMOON ISLAND.

A romantic superstition has earned for Norfolk Island, in the Pacific Ocean, the nickname of "Honeymoon Island." It is believed that if the first month of married life is spent there the couple concerned will enjoy long life, health, wealth and happiness. Without this legend it would be an ideal place for a honeymoon, for it has been called the most beautiful spot on earth.

This earthly paradise started its career as a convict station. The history of those early days is a tale of horror. Ruins of the famous "silent cells" are still to be seen. These cells, made of concrete, four feet thick, were just large enough to enable a man to stand up or lie down. On the walls can be seen the prayers carved by convicts. Known as "the tombs," the silent cells provided the worst form of punishment, and those confined in them rarely came out sane. Hardly a day passed without a murder taking place, and the convicts became worse than savages. Some even became cannibals.

There are only eight families on the island. Money is very scarce, five pounds being all that is handled in the course of a year. The islanders, however, are entirely self-supporting, and have everything they need, as well as a number of luxuries. The island has its own government, which is presided over by a governor sent out from Australia.

IF YOU ARE WELL BRED

You are as solicitous of the comfort of your fellow passenger on a train as you would be of your friends.

You do not keep your window open if you know it is causing discomfort to others.

Nor do you spread your hand luggage and parcels in the aisle for others to stumble over. You are courteous to all the employees and remeber that you are not the only person on the train requiring attention.

BED sheets and counterpanes—bath towels and bath mats that you dread to clean on wash day.

Just let them soak themselves perfectly clean with Rinso—the new scientific form of Soap in granules.

Do not put the Rinso direct from the package into the tub. Make the Rinso liquid first.

Mix half a package of Rinso in a little cool water until it is like cream. Then add two quarts of boiling water and when the froth subsides put it in a tub of cool or lukewarm water and you will have enough for a batch of clothes.
If the clothes are extra soiled, use more Rinso.

TIMELY HINTS.

Exercising for beauty is a thousand times more effective and lasting in its results than any cosmetic.

It seems impossible that any woman who knows this, realizes its full meaning, should continue to neglect to exercise.

True, it is comparatively easy to buy cosmetics which will improve your looks. These cosmetics are all very well and good in their places, but don't allow yourself to depend on them entirely.

For instance, suppose you are feeling a bit sluggish and your complexion has taken on a sallowness which is most unbecoming. Instead of hiding the sallowness with powder, why not take a walk first and see what nature and sunshine will do for your looks? Banish the sallowness, and then apply a little powder. It will be twice as effective.

No woman is as attractive when she is feeling dull and listless as when her radiant looks reveal that she is vibrating and pulsating with life.

Keep these contrasting pictures before your mind. Think of the woman of vitality. Her healthy hair has a beautiful sheen, her eyes are sparkling, and her clear complexion shows a glow that is altogether youthful.

Get a mental picture now of the same woman when she has allowed inaction to cover her with a cloak of lassitude. The hair which should be so healthy and lovely has lost its beauty. The attractive sparkle of her eyes is replaced by a dull, dead look, and the sallowness of her skin expresses the dulness of her body.

The best time thoroughly to wake yourself up and star on a day of action is the instant you get up in the morning.

After your bath, put on a loose kimona or something equally comfortable. If you find it difficult to become interested in exercise which you make up for yourself, I advise using light-weight dumbbells and trying a few simple movements with them, which I will describe for you.

I should advise dumbbells weighing a pound or something under, for you do not want very heavy ones. Also, the simpler the exercise the better, if you are just beginning.

Try alternating these two exercises:

Stand facing an open window, chest out, chin in and arms bent so that you are resting a dumbbell on either shoulder.

Counting and breathing deeply, stretch your arms straight up over your head. Be careful not to slant them inward or outward—stretch them perfectly straight.

Lower to shoulder position.

Repeat this ten times, drop your hands at your sides and rest a minute.

Now stretch your arms out horizontally from your shoulders

On count two, bring them up in semi-circles till the dumbbells are held up over the head as they were in the foregoing exercise. Repeat this, also, ten times.

When you have had time to master these I will give more advanced exercises.

NO MAN WORKS HERE.

Bukharest is a land where nobody goes home, it is the last stronghold of Bohemia. Montenegro is the land where no man works, writes Thomas Stewart Ryan in Leslie's. Then how do the Montenegrins live? To the bewilderment of the natives, you ask that question—you the newcomer from a world that figures in economics. "Do you expect the men to work?" the native retorts scornfully. They are stalwart, fighting men, these mountaineers. They pack rifles, bejeweled pistols, and knives won from the Turks, and since the war, hand grenades. They work! They leave shopkeeping to Germans, Greeks, and Albanians. But what of the other work, you insist—the road mending and farming, the hewing of wood, and drawing of water? Foreigners couldn't do that. No, prisoners of war mend the roads, he admits. And the rest—

Well, you can quite easily see for yourself when you enter the country. The women do it.

The women do it, and so the men can sit round in the kafenas, roar out the songs of ancient heroes, and drink the distilled juice of the plum, the mighty rakijis. The women walk behind with their burdens and the men stride before them with rifles and multicolored umbrellas.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE

The Liburnian girl practices long distance throwing before her marriage. That is because when the wedding dinner is over the bride must throw a cake (kolark) over the bridegrooms' house.

The superstition is that the higher she throws it, the happier she will be. And since houser in this country are low and cakes hard, the bride may have a favorable omen with a little preliminary practice.

PREMIER APPEALS FOR SUBSCRIPTIONS

Ten Thousand People in Northern Ontario Have Lost Everything.

TORONTO, October 12 (Canadian Press). — Premier Drury has issued an appeal for public subscriptions for the relief of Northern Ontario fire sufferers.

The Provincial Government, in council yesterday, started off a subscription list with a contribution of $100,000.

The Dominion Government has met the Provinces appeal for a Federal donation of a like amount.

The statement reads in part:

"I desire to express the gratitude of the Government for the generous contribution which the people of Ontario have made to the emergency needs of the sufferers in the Northern fire area. Thanks to this generosity, the sufferings of the people in that area have been mitigated, and their present needs are being taken care of in a manner which at least ensures the absence of acute suffering from want or exposure. It is to be hoped, however, that those who have already contributed so generously will realise the ultimate resuirements of the situation.

"In an area extending from Haileybury north to Englehart and for some distance west of the T. and N. O. Railway eastward to the boundary of the Province of Quebec there are approximately 10000 people who have lost literally everything they have. Their homes and household effects have been destroyed, and they are left in very many cases with practically nothing in the world but the clothes they are wearing.

"Further, they are facing in the immediate future the rigours of a northern winter. It is probable that many of them can find no means of remunerative employment through the winter months, and that during those months they must depend for shelter, warmth, and food on the aid which may be sent to them."

LILY OBJECTS.

Dear Jeanette:

By the sacred name of woman which you will find at the end of this letter, I protest against the exclusion by men of women from Protestant pulpits. I see now why Prohibition was called tyranny. We are getting a dose of it but it will never go down.

OSHAWA LOOKING FOR GOOD HOCKEY SEASON

Motor Town Boys Are Watching Port Hope Closely and Working Up a Strong Team For the Winter Sport.

The Oshawa Reformer has the following on the hockey situation in this district.

How does the hockey situation look in Oshawa this year? According to the followers of the winter's most popular pastime, Oshawa will be back stronger than ever in O.H.A. circles, both in junior and intermediate series. Last year the intermediates made a creditable showing but there was very little material from which to select a first class sextette. However, this year it is expected there will be a larger number of players turn out when the time comes.

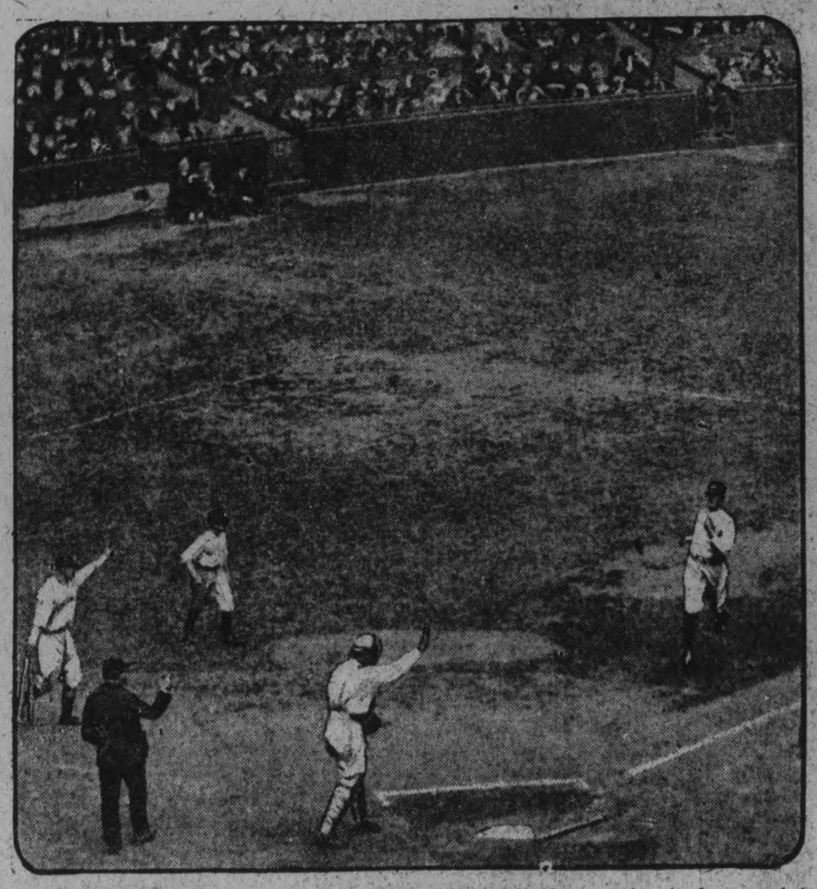
During the last two seasons keen rivalry has sprung up between Oshawa and Port Hope, the latter team eliminating the locals on both accasions. Port Hope will present a stronger line-up than usual owing to their forces being strengthened by one or two Belleville players and other newcomers. The Oshawa team will also trot out one or two new ones. Sammy Lowe, who starred at left wing for Port Hope, is back in Oshawa again ready to answer the call, while Wilbur, the star of last year's Cobourg juniors, is eligible for intermediate company. Another player new to local fans is Kerr, formerly of Campbellford. These players, all of whom are valuable men, will fit in very nicely with those of last year. With such prospects ahead much enthusiasm is being shown at the present time. It is understood that an organization meeting will be held earlier than usual to overcome the difficulties encountered last year. There will be no delay in entering two teams in the O.H.A. as there has been in the past.

Practically every team in this group will present stronger lineups than has been seen for several years. Whitby used a number of juniors last year, who showed the world of speed but lack of experience prevented them from figuring in the district title. They may be counted upon to have an aggregation worth while.

Bowmanville are out for the group championship, being able to draw from last year's juniors and Lloyd Chambers, a member of the Lindsay Midgets for two or three years, who pitches for the Hosiery Town's Central League ball team, will be a tower of strength to their roster. Altogether the teams which will compete in this section will be so much stronger that the winners will have to fight every inch of the way.

Oshawa has boasted of having teams of championship calibre and on several occasions the Ontario honors have been lost by the narrowest of margins. While the championship is not everything, it is the desire of every team to gain such a distinction and local fans are hoping to see an Oshawa sextette go a long way in the race for the O. H. A. title.

DUGAN SCORING FIRST RUN



FIRST WORLD SERIES RUN—Dugan, Yankee third baseman, is shown scoring the first run of the series in the sixth inning of the opening game. He scored from second on Babe Ruth's pretty single to right center, and Stengel's fumble let Ruth reach second. Snyder, Giant catcher, is signalling Stengel not to throw home, while Wally Pipp, just going up to bat, is wigwagging Ruth to hold second.

Gloucester is Ready For The Fisherman's Classic

Elimination Races Will Be Held To-Day to Decide Which American Boat Will Sail Against the "Bluenose," the Present Title Holder — Four American Boats After the Honor.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Oct. 12.—(Canadian Press.)—With word that the Canadian Schooner Bluenose had set out for this port yesterday to defend here her honors as international champion, four schooners of the United States' fishing fleet that have entered for selection as challenger were prepared last night to take up the elimination racing tests beginning to-day. At least two races will be held.

The Henry Ford, out of Gloucester, and the Elizabeth Howard, a New York schooner, named by Gloucestermen, broke out sail and had trial spins off Cape Ann. The Henry Ford impressed observers. The Elizabeth Howard was in stays most of the time. The Yankee and the L. A. Dunton, both Boston boats, finished "slicking up" on the stocks and slid down to the water again, in fair shape for the races.

Gloucester was agog over the coming competition, but race talk was hushed for a time yesterday by news of the loss of another Gloucester vessel, the Marshal Foch on the Sable Island bar. It was there that the Esperanto, first winner of the International Fishermen's Cup, was wrecked, and there too rest the bones ofthe Puritan, built this spring as a likely candidate for racing honors. News of the Foch loss appeared first to be that of tragedy, but when word came later that Captain John Whittle and seven others of the 21-man crew had been landed, hope rose that the missing men would be heard from soon.

Talk turned again to the races and the loss of the chooner Pride of the Fleet when she was launched three years ago was dismissedwith the remark "we can build new boats. We think only of our men. It looks as if they would turn up all right."

Lacking only the Mayflower, the Boston fishing schooner which is still ruled out of Cup competition because of the Nova Scotia trustees' contention that she is not a typical fisherman, to-day's races will bring together the four fastest schooners of the United States' fleet. They are much of a kind, this quartette of vessels, all modern and built within three years, two of them taken from the Elsie, last year's Gloucester representative with improvements over that basic model, the Yankee, a somewhat reduced and revised Mayflower ,and the Henry Ford, the latest word in schooner building at this port. All are sailing vessels exclusively, notwithstanding the tendency to turn to power as aid to the fisheries.

Captain Marty Welsh, skipper of the successful Esperanto, and of the unsuccessful Elsie, will hold no helm in to-day's race. He will be a spectator for the first time since these races were instituted. His crew is scattered among the racing vessels and others that are still on the fishing banks.

The Henry Ford will be handled by Captain Clayton Morrissey, her part owner. The Elizabeth Howard will have Captain Ben Pipe in charge. Captain Mike Brophy will pilot his pride, the Yankee, and the L .A. Dunton will race as she fishes, with Captain Felix Hogan as skipper.

Since diamonds were first mined in South Africa 25 gems weighing over 100 carats have been found.

REPORT OF BALL PLAYERS STRIKE NOT TAKEN SERIOUSLY BY OWNERS

NEW YORK, October 12 (Canadion Press). — Reports that Major League baseball players were organising an association to present demands to the club owners and to call a strike next spring unless they were met, were not taken seriously by Gotham magnates yesterday.

None denied the existence of a movement which has been under way about a year under the direction of Raymond J Cannon, a lawyer of Chicago and Milwaukee, but all of them professed ignorance of the movement's present extent, its purposes, and its membership

There has been little secrecy about Cannon's work As the attorney for Oscar "Happy" Felsch and others of the Chicago "Black Sox," who were barred for ever from organised baseball following the 1919 World's Series scandal, Cannon is well known to the magnates

From what can be learned, it appears that the movement is based on the dissatisfaction of some players with the manner in which Commissioner K M Landis has handled their affairs It is said that the specific aims of the new association include representation onthe Advisory Council, elimination of the ten-day clause in contracts and the establishing of a Board of Arbitration to hear the players' grievances

Specific cases upon which this dissatisfaction is supposed to be based are said to include those of Eddie Roush, the Cincinnati star, who held out for a time for a salary of $18,000; Babe Ruth and Bob Meusel, of the Yankees, and Bill Piercy, of the Boston Red Sox, who were suspended for barnstorming after the World's Series last year.

The players identified with the movement also are said to nurse a belief that some ball players who have incurred the displeasure of their employers, have been shunted out of the big leagues through secret agreements among the owners, each of whom is alleged to have agreed not to claim the ousted man, under the waiver rule.

The players, it is also reported, seeing that Cannon's connection with the Black Sox has resulted in the report that his main effort is to have the barred players returned to the fold, are insisting that the constitution of the association provide that the former White Sox players remain for ever outside the barrier.

According to those in a position to know, the groundwork of the association was laid in the National League, and gained such headway that it was discussed by the magnates at their last joint meeting in Chicago this summer. The clubs of the older league are said to be fairly well organised and players of more than half of the American clubs are claimed to have been enrolled.

"I never knew of a more inauspicious time to start a ball players' union," President John A. Heydler, of the National League, said to the Associated Press in discussing the report. "Salaries are higher now than ever before, and playing conditions are better. The club owners have met virtually all the players' requests.

"If a player has a grievance he can take it to Commissioner Landis, one of the fairest men in the world. No, I don't think the players should be represented on the Advisory Council. The Advisory Council is virtually Landis alone. His is the last word, though President Johnson himself are members. The talk about railroading a player is silly."

INJURIES FOLLOW THE BAD WEATHER.

Walter Camp, the famous United States college rugby coach said in a wire from New York yesterday: "It is no wonder that reports today from various football camps told of hospital lists. The weather this week nearly everywhere in the east at least, has been conductive to injuries. It is a wise coach who has refrained from driving too hard on slippery fields this week in his desire to perfect certain plays on which he counts on coming out at the long end of next Saturday's scores. It is strange that the same happens every year. However, injuries in the big camps are not as bad as they have been in former years after two or three days of bad weather.

LEAFS GRAB GALLAGHER.

"Teddy" Gallagher, who twirled for the Oshawa Central League team this past summer, has returned to Kingston, where he will remain until next February. He will then join the Leafs and go south with them on their training trip. Should Gallagher not make good with the big show, he will possibly go to one of the M. O. clubs.

BALTIMORE TEAM PLAY AT ST. PAUL

Little World's Series Will Be Continued To-Day—Orioles Have Big Lead.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Canadian Press)—With only one victory in four starts chalked up at Baltimore, members of the St. Paul team, winners of the American Association pennant, who arrived yesterday with their opponents, hoped for a better showing in the remaining games of the little world series with Baltimore. International League champions, which begins today.

Under the original schedule games were to be resumed here yesterday, but a postponed game at Baltimore last week set the program back one day.

Sheehan for the Saints and Bentley for the Orioles were the likely pitching selections today.

Both teams went through practice sessions yesterday. Indications that the fair, cool weather of the past few days would remain for the first game at least.

GAME POSTPONED.

The Strathcona vs. Peterborough rugby match, which was slated for Saturday, has been postponed owing to Riverside Park being pre-engaged for baseball. But there will be an O. R. F. U. practice, time and place to be announced later.

LANDS KNOCKOUT

INTERNATIONALS NEED MONTREAL

The League Would Be Strengthened If Canadian Team Replaced One of the Weaker Cities.

The visit of Frank Chance and with him Barney Oldfield, the wealthy automobile racer in Montreal, may have several results. The International League needs Montreal or some other baseball city in place of some of the towns now on the circuit. Reading and Syracuse are over their heads and Jersey City and Newark have never been better than weak sisters. Rochester, under George Stallings, came back this summer to something like its former strength in playing and attendance. Buffalo did pretty well and with winning ball is as good as any town on the circuit. Toronto was a negligible quantity in attendance because of in and out baseball of its team. Ordinarily this city is second to nothing in minor league baseball in attendance, but it must have a team in the running.

The circuit certainly needs mending and most of the teams need more than that—a whole recasting is in order with many of them.

As has been remarked before the Baltimore brand of team is the standard for this league to get the fans out—not the Newark kind or the Toronto for that matter. Building up seven other teams is what the fans demand, not the pulling down of Baltimore to the lower levels.—Toronto Telegram.

WHITE SOX LOST THE THIRD GAME

Ernie Osborne Turned in His Second Victory to Date in the Chicago City Championship.

CHICAGO, October 12 (Canadian Press), — The Chicago Nationals defeated their American League rivals, 8 to 5, yesterday in the third game to decide the city championship The series now stands two games to one in favour of the Nationals.

Ernie Osborne, who pitched the Cubs to the first victory, came back yesterday, with plenty of rest, owing to the four postponements, and the open date last Friday, and triumphed over "Red" Star Faber, star of over "Red" Faber, star of the White Sox pitching staff, who won the opening game.

Faber was no match for the Cubs yesterday, and they lambasted his offerings hard in two innings for five runs. Ted Blankenship came to the rescue, but before he had settled down Grimes uncorked a home run drive into the right field bleachers in the seventh inning with two teammates on the bases, and broke the tie which the Sox had worked up to in the sixth. Score:

Nationals ..... 300020300—8 12 3
Americans ..... 201002000—5 9 1

CURVE BALL IS GREAT STRAIN ON A PITCHER

World's Greatest Pitcher Tells Why Constant Use of Curve Ball Tends to Shorten One's Career — Is Strong For Speed.

By WALTER JOHNSTON.

What type of delivery places the greatest strain on the pitcher's arm?

The curve ball is the toughest ball for the pitcher. It is unquestionably the hardest of all types, unless it is the spitball.

I never used the spitball to any great extent. One year, when every pitcher was using it, I learned how to throw it. I did so simply to keep up with the times, rather than the thought of using it.

Occasionally in a pinch with two strikes on the batter I would throw him a spitball. His great suprise more than any deceptive break I got on the ball, made it rather effective.

One season I threw perhaps fifty spitballs all year, so I am not competent to spea kon just what effect its constant use has on the arm. However, the fact that most spitball pitchers have had a short career ,makes it seem that it is a hard delivery on the arm.

Since the spitball is now passed, only a very few pitchers being permitted to use it, a comparison between the two is of no particular moment.

I do know that the curve is very trying on the arms from my own experience. In the days when I used a fast ball almost entirely, I would finish a game almost as fresh as I started.

Later, in games in which I frequently used a curve, my arm would feel as if it was dead, and I would be as tired as some fellow who had been using a pick and shovel all day.

A catcher can be of great assistance to a pitcher in his selection of stuff. Some catchers seem to think that every delivery should be a curve. A pitcher hates to be constantly disagreeing with his receiver, and very often pitches contrary to his desire.

When "Gabby" Strbe was catching it was easy going. He was very complimentary to me and would always say:

"Why use a curve Walter, when they can't see your fast one?"

"Our girls don't know how to love," writes an American singer. But they are practicing.

ADANACS ARE OUT OF RUNNING

Peterboro Juniors Beated 5 to 2 in O.B.A.A. Semi-Final.

The Adanacs ran into an unexpected snag at Oakville yesterday, when they were defeated 5-2 by the Welland Juniors in a junior O.B.A.A. semi-final game, the local juniors being as a result eliminated from the running.

The game was played on a muddy diamond, and the players on both teams were handicapped by the conditions. The Adanacs, however, have no excuses to offer. They were off-color in their fielding as the records of eight errors behind Shaughnessy will show, and their defensive lapses were costly, while they got few breaks.

The Peterboro Juniors got away to a good start in the first inning, when Hap Wilgar hit for the circuit, with one on, giving the Adanacs a two-run lead which they held until the fourth, when Welland scored a counter. The ultimate winners tied the score in the fifth, and went ahead in the sixth, adding two more counters in the next innings. The Adanacs filled the bases with one out in the eighth but Batten's tap in front of the plate stuck in the mud and a double play resulted. The fielding feature was a good catch by Jeff Hardill.

The score by innings:

Peterboro ..... 200000000—2 5 8
Welland ..... 00011120x—5 7 4

The teams:

Welland — Upper m; Bruno c; Staley 3b; Hunter 1b; L. Cox p; Hamblin rf; Moloney 2b; C. Cox ss; Heaslop lf.

Peterboro — Hensley ss; McLean 3b; Jeff Hardill m; Wilgar c; Batten 2b; C. Turner rf; J. Hardill 1b; Shaughnessy p; Bradshaw lf.

The decision, a formal statement said, was reached at a meeting yesterday afternoon of Jacob Ruppert and T. L. Huston, owners of the Yankees.

A SPECIAL TRAIN FROM BELLEVILLE

Big Game Will Take Place at Riverside Park To-morrow.

Although to-day's weather is more suitable for football than baseball the probabilities for to-morrow call for decreased winds and fair and cool weather which should allow Hillcrests and Belleville to play the decisive game of the O.B.A.A. senior semi-finals under good conditions. To-day's high wind is doing a fine service in drying up Riverside Park, and the footing should be fast.

Hillcrests will be at their strongest to-morrow with both Batsone and Conacher in line. Despite that Belleville are confident, and the reports from the Central League camp are to the effect that Williams' arm is in better shape than ever.

The Belleville fans are sticking nobly to their team, and are running an excursion train, leaving Belleville at 9.30 or 10 a.m.

The game is called for 2.15 o'clock and will be in charge of Umpire Halliman of Toronto, and Kay, of Peterboro.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Peterborough, Oct. 12th, 1922.
Peterborough Examiner Office,
Peterborough, Ontario.

Mr. Edtior,—We beg to draw your attention to last night's edition announcing the play-off between Hillcrests and Belleville, Riverside Park, on Friday afternoon.

You will kindly note that the schedule for this year has been Wednesday and Saturday afternoons. As the majority of the fans are poor factory men and laborers we would like to know why this has been changed from a Saturday game to a Friday game. Seeing that rain checks were issued last game which are of no use to this class of fan I think it would be only fair that the baseball fans as a whole demand a refund in place of rain checks as this does not seem a square deal the way it is being handled.

NO NEW HOCKEY RINK AT OTTAWA

Both Option on Land and Option on Playing Rights of the Club Have Lapsed.

OTTAWA, Oct. 12.—(Canadian Press)—The proposition launched by certain interest some time ago for erection of a stadium, which in the winter was presumably to be used as the home of the Ottawa Hockey Club, at the southwest corner of King Edward avenue and York street, has, it is understood, been abandoned. The option on the land has lapsed, it is said.

A general meeting of the shareholders is to be called shortly, and it is understood that the proposition will be advanced, that a summer amusement park, somewhat similar to Dominion Park, Montreal, will be operated in the south end of the city.

The lapsing of the option leaves the Stadium Company of Ottawa without land for its original project. The option on this property was taken nearly a year ago at $55,000, of which about $4,500 was paid in cash. Since then the sale of stock has been promoted.

From the proceeds of the sale of stock, it is understood, that there is still considerable balance on hand, and though the option of the Gas Company has expired, efforts may be taken in an attempt to reimburse shareholders through the operation of a summer amusement company.

The option secured by the Stadium of Ottawa, Limited, for the playing rights of the Ottawa Hockey Club, have, it is also stated, lapsed with the option on the land. And it is now up to the Ottawa Hockey Club to build a rink of its own, or secure playing quarters after the end of the season of 1922-23.

The stadium project, as originally promoted, called for an outlay of around $300,000 for a very large modern building, including an up-to-date artificial ice making plant.

FIVE THOUSAND SAW FINAL LACROSSE GAME

ORANGEVILLE, Oct. 12.—(Canadian Press).—Five thousand people packed Idyl Wyld Park yesterday afternoon to witness the final game between Weston, O. A. L. A. Senior champions, and Orangeville Dufferins, Intermediate champions, for the championship of Ontario. The Intermediates proved themselves the speedier team and repeated their 1920 performance against St. Simons by defeating the Senior champions by 5 to 3. It was brilliant lacrosse all the way, and for the greater part of the time the contending teams appeared to be very well matched.

SOLICITOR GRAND TRUNK DIED THIS MORNING.

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 12.—(Canadian Press).—William Edgar Foster, K.C., solicitor for the Grand Trunk Railway, succumbed early to-day after an illness extending over the past two years. For the past five months he had been in Belleville, residing at the home of his sister, Mrs. Alfred Gillen, 115 Dundas Street. For some time he had not been able to attend to the duties in connection with the solicitorship of the railway, owing to failing health.

BOWLING NEWS.

The Water Street Bowling Alleys are now going strong, and this season will see a number of new five and ten-pin leagues. The Lawn Bowlers are having a league of their own, and expect the Quaker Oats also to have a league, and De Laval will be starting their league shortly. The Bell Telephone Co. are getting together for the season. The Mercantile League is getting in entries now, and several other factories are talking about putting in a league. The Alleys have all been fixed up for the coming season.

PETERBOROUGH MALE VOICE CHOIR.

The Executive of the above choir met last night in the Farm and Dairy Office, Hunter Street, and a great amount of very important business was transacted. Mr. Fred. Skitch ably presided over the meeting, which was well attended. Plans were arranged for a busy winter session, both musically and socially, and they feel confident that all members will appreciate the efforts of the executive officers. A committee was struck last night with the object of arranging a concert in the near future towards some community effort.

Billy goes to him and there learns that Angel Face Ann has planned a big killing at the ball. Billy rushes to the hotel and upon finding Joy insists on saving her from the police While she is trying to get him home so that she can have him examined as to his mental condition, the real Angel Face Ann comes upon the scene.

Viola Dana enacts the principal role in this, her gayest, comedy of adventure and hilarious complications.

The production was directed by Harry Beaumont and the scenario written by Edith Kennedy from a story by Clara Genevieve Kennedy.

AT THE GRAND.

DELIGHTFUL COMEDY.

Among the first productions to be seen in this city, this season, will come Marc Klaw's delightful comedy "Sonya". It is to be the attraction at the Grand on Saturday, October 14 and is limited to two performances, matinee and night.

Whether founded on fact or fancy, "Sonya" is a play full of romance, laughter and dramatic intensity, which has no trouble in holding the attention throughout. The action of the play occurs in the Royal Palace of a small kingdom in Eastern Europe. Behind palace wall, the young prince is bored with life as outlined by his rugged old Uncle. He resorts to rigorous athletics for his chief amusement and a profligate cousin loses no chance in trying to cause the young nobleman's donwfall. He brings a young gymnastic instructor to the Prince. All is well and good. But, to his astonishment, the boy proves to be a beautiful young dancing girl, who has been admonished to use her charms on the Prince. She is naturally a kindly girl and together they turn the tables on the wicked cousin. The Prince has fallen wildly in love with her and their friendship blooms into true love. Sonya tells him of his people and brings him into realization of his own strength and manliness. This has not been the expected development, and naturally it gives rise to complications of plot and counter-plot which in the end, finds the Uncle sanctioning the union of the lovers and all's well.

Mr. Klaw has selected the cast with care and has staged the entire production with the same attention to detail which characterizes all of his productions. With the introduction of vocal music in the first act, the play offers a variety of entertainment which is bound to be most satisfying.

GIVE YOUR PATRONAGE TO THE OPERA

Usually when a show comes to town no special appeal is necessary and nobody would think of extending a special invitation to the public. But this time the reputation of our city is at stake. The question is whether our population loves enough music of a higher grade to support one performance of Grand Opera.

That the merits of the De Feo Grand Opera Company are of the highest order is an established fact; the Toronto and Montreal critics have proclaimed that this is the best opera company that ever came to Canada. We must be grateful that Peterboro has been included in their itinerary. The capacity of the Grand Opera House is too small for the population of our town and vicinity to leave even one empty seat on Friday night. There is no excuse for it, and nobody needs to regret the next day that he did not come.

The singers all come from the principal stages in Europe and America. The standard of production is the same as in the best opera house in the world. But the prices have been made so low a to give everybody a chance to hear what is best in musical drama.

The local clubs and organizations have all promised to agitate among their members in favor of this great artistic event. This must be done by every individual, and we must see that on Friday night every seat in the Grand Opera House is occupied.

Tomorrow we will give some details about the Opera, Lucia de Lamermoor which is to be performed, and about the principals.

WEDDING BELLS

LOWE—SANDERS.

At Knox Church on the afternoon of Saturday, October 7th at 2.30 o'clock, Miss Edith Nona Sanders and Mr. Thomas William Lowe were united in marriage. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Jas. A. MacKenzie. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Suddards were the attendants.

Mr. and Mrs. Lowe will reside in Peterboro.

FULTON—PEARSON.

At Knox Manse on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, Gladys Maude, daughter of Mr. N. Pearson of Hall's Bridge, and Mr. Robert James Fulton, also of Hall's Bridge, were united in marriage, the Rev. J. A. MacKenzie officiating.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Fulton left on the 3.50 C.P.R. train for Toronto, Niagara Falls and Buffalo. On their return they will reside at Hall's Bridge.

LUCANO—DAVIES.

St. Peter's Cathedral was the scene on Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock of a very pretty wedding, when Esther Davies became the bride of Harry Lucano, Rev. M. O'Brien performing the ceremony.

The bride was beautifully gowned in white silk canton crepe, with the conventional orange blossoms holding her long tulle veil in place, and bouquet of cream ophelia roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Alena Hobbins, wore peach-colored georgette crepe with black velvet hat and carried pink ophelia roses. The best man was Mr. Ralph Lucano, brother of the bridegroom.

After the ceremony a reception was held at their home, Stewart street, Mr and Mrs. Lucano leaving later by the noon G.T.R. train for a honeymoon in Toronto and Buffalo. The bride travelled in a suit of nigger brown velour with seal collar and hat of French blue velvet.

The young people were recipients of a large number of handsome gifts.

LECH—LOUCKS.

A wedding of unusual interest was solemnised on Wednesday, 11th October, in the Methodist Church, Campbellford, when Mina Eleanor, only daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. F. Loucks, was united in marriage to Cyril Karl Lech, son of Mr. and Mrs. K. G. Lech, Peterborough — Rev. H. B. Kenny officiating.

Additional interest was given the occasion in that it was the wedding anniversary of the bride's father and mother, and at the same hour, eleven o'clock.

The church was beautifully decorated. A canopied arch led from the walk to the entrance of the church, and in each of the aisles were two arches of English ivy. The guest pews were tastefully ornamented with white satin ribbon and rosebuds, and the gallery richly adorned with oak leaves, the altar being banked with a profusion of ferns and palms.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore an exquisite gown of ivory chiffon velvet, beautifully draped with girdle of pearls. The court train was a panel of pearl embroidered silk marquisette with a border of chiffon velvet lined with silver cloth and over this fell the bridal veil from a cornet of lovely old Venetian lace and orange blossoms. She wore shoes of silver. Her bouquet was of orchids and roses, with lily of the valley and maidenhair fern.

Her attendants were Mrs. James Macdonald Shook, of Toronto, as matron of honour, Miss Kathleen B. Ferris and Miss Helen Denmark, of Campbellford, and Miss Betty Diamond, of Toronto, as bridesmaids. They wore gowns of georgette in the soft shades of pink, mauve, yellow, and pale green, trimmed with silver, and large black picture hats of chiffon velvet, trimmed with silver. Each carried a shower bouquet of Linnet roses tied with tulle to match the gowns. Little Misses Marjorie Shook, of Toronto and Eileen Linton, of Campbellford, made charming flower girls, in fluffy frocks of white organdy with silver wreaths in their hair, and carried baskets of sweetheart roses.

Mr. Keith Lech, brother of the groom, acted as best man, and the ushers were Mr. Allan Rae and Mr. Walter Metherell, of Peterborough.

The wedding music was rendered by Mr. R. T. Cowell, A.R.C.O., who played softly throughout the ceremony. During the signing of the register, Mrs. Fred DeF. Free sang very acceptably, "O Promise Me."

After the ceremony, Dr. and Mrs. Loucks held a reception at their residence, which was artistically decorated with 'mums and roses Mrs. Loucks wearing a draped black charmeuse gown, with Spanish lace trimmings and black velvet hat, with glycerined ostrich feathers. She wore a corsage bouquet of orchids and lily of the valley.

Mrs. Lech, mother of the groom, was becomingly gowned in bowered amethyst satin, and carried pink roses.

The bride's going-away costume was becomingly gowned in flowered wool crepe with collar and cuffs of brown fox, brown hat, and brown suede shoes On their return they will reside in Peterborough.

The out-of-town guests included: Miss Irene O'Connell, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Walters, of Montreal; Miss Helena Walters, of Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. Gilman, Mr. and Mrs. McNab, of Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Doak, of Toronto; Mrs. Bird and Miss Kingston, Stirling; Mr. Frank Linton, Mr. Orville Moore, and Mr. Roy, of Peterborough.

BRYANT'S LETTER.

Bryant Brothers' Wednesday letter contained the following references to the Canadian and mining markets:

Canadian Market — Trading today was scattered fairly well through the list and the highest prices on the recovery were made in a number of instances. Brazilian was favorably affected by the distinctly favorably forerun news and advanced to 43. Abitibi gained nearly 2 points, and Brompton sold at 36. An interesting bit of news was the declaration by Detroit United of a 6 per cent. dividend. The stock gained nearly four points. Steel of Canada gained 2 points to 68. On the close the market looked healthy and indicated that the present strength would continue.

Mining — The mining market continued to show consistent strength in to-day's trading. Tech Hughes sold at 90 up 5 points, and West Tree at 18, Atlas at 32 1-2 was a point higher. A government report on the West Tree camp will be issued shortly. Cons. West Dome Lake sold up 2 1-2 points to 40. Baldwin closed at 11 1-4 bid, was a new high. On a further advance in these shares it might be well to take some profits. Beaver sold at around 33 1-2. It is reported that the vein on Kirkland Lake which Beaver controls ran $23 per ton over a width of 40 feet at the 1000 feet level. This is very important, and looks the biggest strike it made in this camp. The shares of both Kirkland Lake and Beaver should double in price within a reasonable time. Dome, McIntyre and Holly were all fractionally higher.

Rails as a group look safest of all stocks and likely to do about as well as any. Equipment companies are entering upon an era of big business and prosperity that is likely to carry will into next year——Clark, Childs & Company.

Would use some care in following Standard Oils now and would prefer those which have not exceeded their previous high points this year.—Halle & Stieglitz.

The investment demand for sound securities has not been fully expressed. Public apathy towards speculative stocks may find wholesome solution in a technical reaction.—Pell & White.

Although adverse exchange conditions no longer exist, American enterprises continue to establish themselves in Canada, and this in itself is a striking testimony to the soundness of economic conditions in this country—Canadian Bank of Commerce.

We would expect profit taking to develop soon, but advise purchasing on any recession brought about in consequence.—Josephthal & Co.

The official assurance that England will pay war debts has gone far in the direction of stabilizing banking sentiment with regard to international affairs.

Reports from New England business interests of high standing show that there is a steady extension of activity and increase in volume of general trade.

CONSTRUCTIVE FUNDAMENTALS OVERLOOKED

Throughout the entire period of recovery in the stock market during the past year or more the greatest error of judgment on the part of the bear element and those who did not have the courage to confidently take the long side, has been their failure to grasp the basic idea that the whole civilized world is slowly but surely moving forward constructively—that with the ending of the war it has ceased to move destructively.

This inability to visualize broadly has been responsible for repeated opposition to the improvement and estimates of the probable duration of technical readjustment reactions in the market that have been frequently in accurate.

Too much attention has been given to disturbing surface features, which have been unduly magnified in the newspapers because most of the latter do not give adequate attention or space to the weight of economic fundamentals and develop ments accompanying them.

The point emphasiezd is that the same mistakes have recently been repeated— and yet business is but getting in step and entering an era which promises a gradually broadening expansion that cannot fail to have favorable effects on the prices of securities representing well managed enterprises whose net earnings display increasing tendencies.

IN MEMORIAM.

MANDAM.— In fond and loving memory of my dear husband and father, Samuel Mandam, who departed this life Oct .12th, 1921:

One year has passed and still we miss him, never will his memory fade. A loving husband, a father kind, no better friend on earth we find. For all of us he did his best, may God grant him eternal rest. A bitter grief, a shock severe, to part with him we loved so dear, but God alone who thought it best, did ease his pain and give him rest. Do not ask us if we miss him, none can ever fill his place. We shall ne'er forget his footsteps nor his happy, smiling face.

DARK DAYS FOR GERMANY SAYS CROWN PRINCE

Surprised at Indifference of America Who He Believes Could Steady Europe.

DEADLY ISOLATION

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 13. — Regret that he cannot go back to Germany to aid in reuniting his country is the principal emotion of the former crown prince in exile at Wieringen, Holland, according to an authorized interview with him, printed by the Baltimore Sun. The cabled interview, which is copyrighted by that paper, was given to Henry L. Mencken, the critic and essayist, who has been in central Europe for several months.

Mr. Mencken comments on the dreariness of the island, which is entirely cut off from the mainland for weeks during the winter. His narrative proceeds:

"But this deadly isolation has failed to make any noticeable impression on the spirit or frame of the ex-prince. There are touches of gray in his sandy hair, but he still is erect as a drill sergeant and as quick in speech and movement. Very tall, slim, and lithe, and now smooth shaven, he looks much like a big boy.

No Illusion in Prince's Views

"But certainly there is nothing immature about his ideas. Among all the Germans I have talked to during the last six weeks, ranging from high officials to newspaper editors and from university professors to business men, I can recall none whose views of past and present events contains less of illusion. He discusses the war objectively and with great shrewdness and accepts his present position uncomplainingly. It is uncomfortable, but so is every other German position.

" 'Germany,' he said, 'faces stupendous tasks and almost intolerable burdens, and it is naturally hard for any German to have to stand by with out taking a hand. I sincerely wish I could be more actively employed, but certainly have no desire to complicate the present situation by raising factional questions. It would be absurd, of course, to say dynastic considerations do not interest me, but they assuredly take second place in my thoughts.

Is For the Common Good

" 'In such days as these I am, first of all, a German citizen and soldier. As such my duty is precisely that of every other god German—to subordinate personal fortunes and even personal opinions to the common good. What we need to-day above all is national unity. A thoroughly united Germany would be unbreakable.'

"I asked the former prince if he would vote, supposing nimself at home.

" 'Certainly,' he answered. 'My wife always votes. Why shouldn't I?'

"Watchful Maj. Mueldner evidently feared I would ask him how he would vote, but the ex-kaiser's son himself saved the situation.

" 'I refuse to answer,' he said with a smile. 'The ballot is secret by law and I always try to obey the laws.'

War Stories Do Not Anger Him.

"The ex-prince takes a philosophical view of the extravagant tales about him circulated in America during the war. For example, the stories of wholesale burglaries in France. He collects such fables with humor.

REAL AND TANGIBLE BENEFITS FROM OUR PROVINCIAL HIGHWAYS

Emphasized by George Hogarth, M.E.I.C. in an Entertaining Address Before Local Branch of Canadian Engineering Institute.

IMPROVEMENTS MAKE FOR SAFER TRAFFIC

The first meeting of the fall session of the local branch of the Engineering Institute was held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms last night, when Mr. George Hogarth, M.E.I.C., addressed the meeting on the progress of "Highway Construction in Ontario". The speaker treated this subject in a very entertaining manner and showed a number of interesting slides and moving pictures depicting types of roads, types of road making equipment, bridges and other permanent structures also "before" and "after" effects.

The direct benefit of good highways was emphasized by Mr. Hogarth, and he showed how the paved roads already constructed, notably the Toronto-Hamilton route, had proven even to the most skeptical the real and tangible benefits which had accrued from the construction of permanent highways. Traffic on these highways was increasing daily, he said, and the extent to which the use of motor trucks would increase due to good roads was hard to estimate. Property values have increased enormously along the permanent highways, especially in the vicinity of cities. Farm property had been transformed into first class residential property in many localities. He illustrated this point by means of slides showing the high class of residences which were being built on some of our permanent highways at considerable distances from the cities.

Indirect Benefits

There were, he said, many indirect benefits derived from our good roads The construction of roads necessitates the construction of side ditches to drain the highway, drainage being a most important factor in highway construction. These ditches have been a boon to the farmer in drain ing his land and in many cases had transformed land which had hitherto been marshy and in same cases completely under water to land which was producing crops. The social life of the whole people; particularly the rural population had been changed, he said, with the advent of god roads. Another indirect benefit, he said was the number of tourists which our roads attracted to this province. The amount of money brought to the country by tourists in one season would pay for a good many miles of highway. The money spent on highways, Mr. Hogarth said, would be returned to the country in a few years. This had been proven in the case of the Toronto-Hamilton and Niagara Falls roads.

Roads Under Construction

The Department of Highways has at present 1812 miles of highway under construction. The type of roadway constructed was made suitable to the volume and class of traffic to be handled. A traffic census is taken periodically on the various highways, and in this way a close check is kept on traffic development. A recent traffic census on the Toronto-Hamilton highway had shown that over 12,500 vehicles passed the point of observation in a period of 15 hours The aim of the department, he said, was to have a first class highway from the Michigan border to the Quebec border, connecting all of the cities and as many as possible of the country towns. The speaker showed slides depicting typical cross-sections of roadway to take care of power and telephone services, drainage, trees, in some cases sidewalks in the vicinity of towns and cities; and, where required electric railways. There have been constructed this season approximately 100 miles of pavement, 55 miles of which was in concrete and the remainder in asphaltic concrete. There had been constructed this season, also 11 1-4 miles of bituminous penetration road way, 45 miles of Macadam and 140 miles of Macadam base course. This latter type is made from 5 to 7 inches thick and after being allowed to settle for a year or two is given an asphalt top course.

WOMAN LIVED HAPPILY WITH TWO HUSBANDS

But Hubbies Couldn't Agree and Number Two Pined For a Home of His Own.

WIFE IS JAILED

PONTIAC, Mich., Oct. 13.—Mildred Kecke, plump and rosy, lived happily with her two husbands, Max Kecke and George Razos, until her second husband tried to coax her away to a home just big enough for two.

Now Mildred Kecke is in jail, weeping bitterly over it all; Max Kecke is vowing vengeance at his home, 66 East Pike street where he is consoling Willie, his 11-year-old son, and George Razos, the new husband is wondering how it happened and wishing he had back his freedom and the $115 he spent supporting the Kecke family since he took Mildred for his bride Sept. 22.

Things might have gone on indefinitely had Razos the new husband been a willing provider. But when he saw his earnings going to feed the family while Kecke's went into the bank, he said to his bride, "We'll move from here."

"I wouldn't go with him and leave my old husband" said Mildred, wiping the tears from her blue eyes as she faced a visitor in the Oakland County jail. "Pop is as good old man. I love him like a father. He has always been good to me. I've been a good wife to him for 15 years.

"I tell you, that man Razos must have hypnotized me. Why else did I marry him? Se scared me, that's what he did. He said to me. "You do just what I say. Don't you dare do anything else. If anybody asks if you have ever been married before, you tell them no. I thought that was all there was to it.

"Pop knew I was going to marry George. He knew all about it. That day I went to see him where he works in the bake shop and I said to him. 'Pop, George is asking me to marry him again. What shall I do about it?' He said to me 'if you think it is all right, go ahead.' If he had said 'Don't do it,' I would not have married George, and been in this trouble.

"But Pop said to go ahead and we did. On the way down, we stopped to get out shoes shined. When we came out, we met Pop on the street. Good bye, and good luck,' he said and went his way, and we went ours.

George Wanted Love Nest.

"When we came back, we all four lived in the house together. We got along all right, until George wanted me to move out with him He wanted me to move and leave the old man and Willie alone."

She said this with a show of indignation.

"Because I wouldn't then he goes and puts me in jail. I am in jail, while he is free. It isn't right. As though I would leave Pop.

"When George came to board with us, he kept saying Pop was too old for me, I should marry him,

In Death of Maj.-Gen. Sir J. Carson Canada Loses Distinguished Citizen

MONTREAL, Oct. 13.—(Special.)—Major-General Sir John Carson died here this morning, on his birthday, in his 58th year. He had been ailing since February, 1921, when he suffered a stroke. A few months ago he was forced to give up his business interests, and ten days ago suffered a further relapse. The end came this morning, after several hours of unconscoiusness. In civil life he was an insurance and mining expert with an important place in the financial life of Canada. He was in the militia 31 years and held the long service decoration. Early in the Great War he was sent to London as special representative of the Minister of Militia, and later was put in charge of the Canaad Records Office. For his services he was decorated with Commander of the Bath in 1916,and Knighted in 1917. On the resignation of Sir Sam Hughes as Minister of Militia he gave up his post and since then has not been connected with the militia.

In 1919, in association with the late Robert Reford and Col. W. I. Gear, Sir John formed the Crown Trust Company. He was also mildly interested in Cobalt and Porcupine mining interests.

He is survived by his widow and twodaughters, Mrs. I. P. Rexford and Mrs. J. F. Wallace, of Peterborough. His son, Captain Clontarf Carson, was killed in action in August, 1918.

DISPUTE OVER ARMISTICE LINE

British Claim Turks Have Penetrated Four Miles Inside Boundary.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 13.—(Canadian Press.) —A dispute exists between British and Turkish military men in the field as to whether the movement of Turkish troops on Ismid Peninsula, reported Thursday, constitutes an invasion of Mudania armistice line. According to British interpretation Turkish cavalry is occupying the village of Balchik, penetrated four miles inside the boundary, but when a British officer requested their withdrawal, a Nationalist officer replied that the movement did not infringe upon the Mudania line.

SIMOPOULOS WILL SIGN.

ATHENS, Oct. 13. — (Canadian Press.)—M. Simopoulos, the Greek High Commissioner in Constantinople, will sign the armistice protocol on behalf of Greece, according to a semi-official source.

GENERAL RETIREMENT.

CHANAK, Oct. 13. —(Canadian Press.) — A general retirement of Turkish troops from the immediate vicinity of Chanak is in progress.

GETS WARM PRAISE.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 13.—(Canadian Press.) — Allied circles to-day unite in giving General Sir Charles Harington warmest praise for his skillful handling of the difficult armistice negotiations. He had received from the British Cabinet permission to employ the fullest military measures to bring the belligerents to terms, but despite strong pressure from some of his own officers and continued importunities from abroad, he refused to countenance a resort to arms, and placed all his faith in an appeal to reason.

When the Mudania conference seemed headed for the rocks, General Harington addressed to Ismet Pasha, Nationalist representative, a stern warning declaring that Great Britain was nearing the end of her patience. When he spoke he carried in his pocket two ultimatums, either of which meant war. One demanded immediate acceptance of Allied terms, the other demanded that the Turks withdraw at Chanak.

"I was prepared to use them as a last weapon, and time seemed to have come," General Harington informed the Associated Press. "I decided not to remove them from my pocket until I had tried persuasion once more. I told Ismet that England had said her last word, had made her last concession. He saw me fingering the ultimatum in my pocket and asked, 'Is it your final word?' I replied that it was. Somehow his bellicose air changed, he softened into an attitude of compromise and conciliation. Then the tide changed and peace appeared on the horizon for the first time."

INSURANCE CO. IS HARD SMITTEN BY THE FIRE

TORONTO, Oct. 13.—(Canadian Press).—Hard smitten by its losses in the Great Northern Ontario fire, Timiskaming Mutual Fire Insurance Co., of New Liskeard is to be financially supported by the Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Companies of Ontario, if recommendation of executive of Associated Companies is implemented by members throughout Ontario. Secretary Treasurer J. J. Stewart of Brampton, announced yesterday at an executive meeting of the Mutual Fire Underwriters Association for Ontario, at which such action was unanimously approved.

The Temiskaming Mutual Fire Insurance Company has its head office at New Liskeard and was organized two years ago as a farmer's cooperative enterprise. It had been making excellent progress, and at date of fire carried a total amount of insurance of about $400,000. It's total losses during the first two years of its existence were only $90 but the Haileybury conflagration which swept the district so disastrously resulted in insured losses reported to date of about $40,000, with a possibility of that amount reaching $50,000. This large sum is proposed to be raised by 71 companies in Ontario, by subscription of 12 cents for each $1,000 of risk carried by them. The executive is sending out its resolution and an appeal to member companies, asking confirmatory action, and holds little doubt of an immediate response from all companies.

MAINTAIN AND DEFEND PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

This Was Resolved at Meeting in Toronto To-Day.

TORONTO, Oct. 13.—(Canadian Press).—At a meeting this morning of the Presbyterian Association in St. Andrew's Church, convened to oppose Church union, a resolution was passed unanimously by a standing vote, pledging those present to maintain and defend the Presbyterian Church in Canada. This was followed by the singing of a Psalm with deep emotion.

It was further resolved to appoint a committee tt protect the property rights of the minority, should the proposed union be effected, and this committee was empowered to employ legal counsel. A proposal was made, but dropped after discussion, to apply for an injunction forbidding a union committee from paying its expenses out of the missionary funds.

CANADIAN GENERAL MAY MOVE TORONTO PLANTS, NEW LOCATION

The Constantly Increasing Burden of Taxation is Too Heavy — Company Employs 4,000 Men in Normal Times.

MAYOR IS HOPEFUL

A rumour has been current that the Canadian General Electric Company is seriously considering the removal of its large manufacturing works from Toronto, and Mr. E. G. Patterson, the local manager, in answer to The Examiner's enquiry, admitted that such a report was not without foundation.

He intimated that because of the constantly increasing burden of taxation in that city with no compensating advantage and unfavorable labor conditions, the company would make no further extensions there and would in all probability remove certain departments at once and eventually transfer the entire equipment to a more favourably situated location.

The company employs in normal times in Toronto about 4,000 people, and consequently pays out very large sums for wages, so that their works will no doubt be eagerly sought after by other municipalities, many of which are able to offer cheap power, free sites and taxation exemption.

The principal electrical works of the company is already located in this city, and Mr. Patterson pointed out that it also has a complet. plant with ample room for extension at Rockfield, near Montreal, where labor conditions are good and where they enjoy a fixed assessment.

Mayor W. H. Taylor, when interviewed on this matter to-day, stated that he had not heard of the contemplated removal, but was hopeful that the company would think seriously of coming to Peterboro, as they had plenty of accommodation for an increased working staff, and would be very welcome to the city. 'Evidently they have discovered that there is no place like Peterboro," he said.

Federal Cabinet In Session Today

OTTAWA, Oct. 13.— (Canadian Press.)—The Cabinet will meet this afternoon for the first time this week.

With the most important item of business, appointment of a Board to control Canadian National Railways, disposed of, a number of other matters that are scheduled for consideration either this afternoon or in the near future. During the past week representatives of the transportation interests met Hon. Charles Stewart, Minster of the Interior, and urged upon him the advisability of adopting certain measures for increasing immigration to Canada.

The suggestions made will be laid before the Government by the Minister, possibly this afternoon.

BERLIN CURBS ITS LANDLORDS

Radical Regulations Force 300 House Owners to Live on Charity.

BERLIN, Oct. 13.—German governmental regulations relative to housing, so radical that they amount almost to communism, are responsible for a series of anomalous situations of which might be cited the facts that:

Three hundred Berlin landlords are living on charity.

Owners of the largest and most attractive apartment buildings in the city are unable to occupy a portion of their own property.

With few exceptions every landlord is losing money.

And, despite the acute housing shortage, rent still represents the smallest item of expense in the tenant's household budget.

This data was recently obtained by Judge Harry Robitzek, of the Municipal Court Borough of the Bronx, New York, who spent some time in investigating the housing situation here.

Berlin is far from being a landlord's paradise. Dwellings of all sorts are under the direct control of housing committees and, theoretically at least, rooms can be obtained only through them. Of course, the law is gotten around, tenants make exchanges among themselves and not infrequently the landlord who believes he is able to escape detection, disposes of rooms to the highest bidder and at rates in excess of the legal scale.

Legal Scale Low.

As a matter of fact, the legal scale is ridiculously low. To protect the workman from a possible housing crisis, the government has set five per cent. of his salary as his rent standard. Even before the war the workman's rent ran to 21 per cent of his salary.

Let the currency fluctuate ever so wildly, the five per cent. rule continues in force. Now and then, to be sure, an austere body of gentlemen from the "Wohnugsamt" calls, looks over the dwelling and authorizes a slight increase. But there is little hope of profit for the landlord.

Of course, if it is rooms to be let, instead of apartments, the landlord is often able to make a pretty penny on the side by means of "extras," the number of which not infrequently stagger the foreign lodger. Let us say he requires a study in addition to his sleeping room. This is gladly yielded him— for a consideration. Should there be a piano in the room, he is required to pay for the use of it, though he may know not on note from another. He pays extra for his light, and since it is impossible to determine just how much he uses, he doubtless pays a goodly share of the family's light bill, too. He pays for the gas with which his bath water is heated. Quite right. But then, he finds a charge on his weekly reckoning "For use of the bathroom." Servants cost the pensionkeeper nothing, their wages being

BE CRIMINAL TO BREAK UP THE COALITION

Chamberlain, the British Govt. Leader, Bids for Administration's Retention.

NO ELECTION DATE

BIRMINGHAM, Oct. 13.—(Canadian Press).—Austin Chamberlain, Government leader, addressing the Midland Conservative Club here today, declared it would be criminal to break up the present Coalition in view of the Labor menace.

"I don't pretend to say when the election will occur," said Mr. Chamberlain. "It is the undoubted right of the Prime Minister to choose."

At another point Mr. Chamberlain said: "I have worked with Mr. Lloyd George in perfect harmony. I know not when the election will come."

Mr. Chamberlain's speech had been eagerly awaited in the hope that it would indicate what the Prime Minister's political stand would be in event of a general election, and how far the Conservatives, of whom Mr. Chamberlain is the leader, would support Mr. Lloyd George. Mr. Chamberlain's declaration in favor of the continuance of the Coalition was immediately seized upon by his hearers as meaning that the Premier would fight for the Coalition, and that Mr. Chamberlain would give him his support.

MUCH SPECULATION.

LONDON, Oct. 13. — (Canadian Press). — There was considerable speculation in political circles this morning when King George gave an audience to the Prime Minister as to whether the latter would raise the question of calling a general election. It is stated in Downing Street, however, that Mr. Lloyd George was merely reporting on the Near East situation, and would not touch upon domestic politics.

INVESTIGATING THE CHILDREN'S DEATHS

Dr. T. N. Greer Stated That Inquest Was Not Necessary.

Dr. T. N. Greer, coroner, told The Examiner this afternoon that he was personally investigating the deaths of the three children, who were reported poisoned by eating snake berries, in an effort to ascertain the cause of the fatal illness which has so far been not clearly determined.

"I have just begun collecting the facts," said Dr. Greer, "as I want to satisfy myself about the nature of the illness, but I don't think an inquest is necessary."

Eric Goodwin, another member of the family of George Goodwin, 208 Edinburgh Street, who has been in somewhat poor health for six weeks or more, is up and around and is really not ill, Mr. Goodwin informed The Examiner this afternoon.

The "Thomas" was due in San Francisco to-morrow, but it is expected that she will be at least a day late.

OPPOSITION TO CHURCH UNION

Fresbyterian Leaders Urge the Advisability of Keeping Their Church Separate.

TORONTO, Oct. 13.—(Canadian Press.)—Opposition to the church union movement, for which bills are at present being prepared, was strongly expressed last night at the convocation in New St. Andrew's Church of those interested in continuance of the Presbyterian church in Canada, at which 700 people were present. The platform was occupied by prominent Presbyterian leaders, who urged advisability of keeping the church separate.

Convocation will be continued today, when those present will be asked to pass the following resolution:

"We, members of the Presbyterian Church Association of Ontario, whilst affirming our belief in spiritual units of all believers, our cordiality towards our brethren of other communions, and our willingness for all feasible co-operation with them, in the interests of the Kingdom of God express our conviction that the time has not arisen for a discontinuance of the Presbyterian church."

It was urged that continuance of the union agitation would result in an inevitable disruption, and that in any case the Presbyterian church would be continued.

The applause with which the speaker's remarks were greeted indicated a decided leaning in favor of the motion.

CRUDE GAMING OUTFIT TAKEN

Home-Made Boards Were Operated at Norwood Fair Contrary to Agricultural Societies Act.

In the eternal quest for easy money, Morris Rath, of Montreal, set up two home-made gambling devices at the Norwood Fair on Wednesday afternoon, and started to operate them at the expense of the rural crowd, who on many a midway had never before seen anything just like these contrivances.

Provincial Constable George Cookman and Inspector Boyd had interrupted Rath's activities at Keene a few days previously, but he moved his clumsy boards to Norwood, and had taken from men of gaming proclivities who are willing to try anything once a fairly fat roll before his outfit was closed up and seized by the officers.

Yesterday he pleaded guilty before Magistrate Langley to a breach of the recent amendment to the Agricultural Societies Act technically described as Sec. 32, Subsection 4, which was intended to stamp out gambling at Ontario's fall fairs, and he was fined $150.00, and costs, amounting to $165.66. He is still in the County Jail, but it is understood that arrangements are being made to help him pay his way to freedom. He had about $100.00 in his possession when arrested.

If the two boards are Rath's handiwork, he rates low as a carpenter, and a journeyman tinker would be ashamed of the crude apparatus. One is a wheel of fortune, consisting of a base made by nailing several narrow boards together. A wobbly circle of two-inch nails was pegged on the board, and a movable arrow was mounted somewhere in the neighbourhood of the centre. Figures from

ARMY FLIERS WON RACING EVENTS AT MOUNT CLEMENS

Lieut. Eric H. Nelson Won Race For Multi-Motored Planes — Lieut. H. H. Harris Won Commercial Plane Race.

MADE FAST TIME.

MOUNNT CLEMENS, Mich., Oct. 13 .Canadian Press. — Piloting a heavy Martin transport, driven by two 400 horsepower Liberty motors, Lieut. Eric H. Nelson, of Mont-Clair, N. J., won the Detroit News aerial mail trophy race for multi-motored planes here yesterday. He covered the 240 mile triangular course at an average speed of 105.1 miles an hour.

The Detroit Aviation Country Club Trophy Race, flown over the same course, was won by Lieut. Harold H. Harris, one of the two army entrants in the "Honeymoon Express," equipped with a 400 horse power 12 motor.

Lieutenant Harris average 135 miles an hour in this event, which was for light commercial planes, finishing four laps ahead of C. S. Jones, in a Curtiss Oriole, who averaged 110 miles an hour.

A stiff northwest wind blowing at the tails of the big planes in the Detroit News event made necessary the abandonment of the original plan of starting all of the craft together. Consequently the planes, each weighing five cons and having a wing spread of 70 feet, took the air one after another, Lieut. Nelson's plane being the last to cross the starting line. The Transport began at once to overhaul the other racers and before the race was three fourths over it was seen that unless forced down, Lieut. Nelson would win.

All but one plane of the nine entered in the two events finished. Jas. M. Johnson, in a Vought V. L-7, was forced down in the fourth lap, when dirt fouled his carburetor. He landed near the Mount Clemens Golf Club and ran into a ditch, damaging his landing gear, and both wings. Neither Johnson nor his two partners were injured.

ALL PASSENGERS SAVED FROM SHIP BURNED IN MID-PACIFIC

West Faralon Rescued Both Passengers and Crew From Ill-Fated City of Honolulu Which Fell Prey to the Flames While in Mid-Ocean--Smooth Sea Aided Rescue Work.

SAN FRANCISCO, October 13 (Canadian Press). — All the passengers, officers, and crew of the burning steamship City of Honolulu, which was abandoned at 10.10 a.m. yesterday, are safe, according to the wireless advices received by the Federal Telegraph Company by the freight steamer West Faralon.

The West Faralon reached the scene early yesterday afternoon, and had taken most of the people aboard by 3.41 p.m.

The City of Honolulu carried 72 passengers and 145 officers and members of the crew, a total of 217.

The fire broke out aboard the City of Honolulu yesterday morning, and spread so rapidly that all those aboard had to take to the small boats.

The sea was smooth when the ship was abandoned.

The ship was homeward-bound to San Pedro, California, from Honolulu, and was 1,045 miles east of Honolulu and 670 miles south-west of San Pedro when the fire started.

Captain H. R. Lester, of the City of Honolulu, reported late in the afternoon that all were aboard the West Faralon.

The condition of the City of Honolulu was reported as a gigantic pillar of flame and smoke, and was declared by Captain Lester to be critical. The West Faralon lay a mile away.

Although three other vessels, the Matson liner Enterprise, the United States Army transport Thomas, and the private yacht Casiana, of Edward L. Doheny, Los Angeles oil magnate, heard the distress signals from the City of Honolulu before the West Faralon did, the freighter was only 50 miles away when it started to the rescue shortly before noon.

Conditions were favourable, both for the small boats of the City of Honolulu to ride safe and for the West Faralon to make fast time, and by 2.45 p.m. the rescuing steamer had reached the scene, and was beginning to take the passengers aboard. All had reached the deck by 3.40 p.m., the messages stated.

Only brief messages had been received here early last night, so it was not known under what circumstances the passengers and crew escaped from the burning vessel. Apparently the sea remained smooth throughout the day, for Captain H. M. Walk, of the West Faralon, reported conditions were favourable.

As the West Faralon, a Shipping Board freighter, operated by Struthers & Barry, of San Francisco, has only limited accommodations, it is believed that many of those rescued from the City of Honolulu will have to remain on her decks until larger vessels arrive.

The West Faralons registered tonnage is 7,451. She was bound from San Francisco for Yokohama.

Less than half a dozen of the passengers were from the Eastern part of the United States. A large number were from Honolulu, Los Angeles and other Southern California points, while the remainder came from other parts of the Pacific Coast.

Fifty-six of the passengers were in the saloon, the other 16 being third-class. Thirty-four of the saloon passengers were women One woman was travelling third-class with a baby girl 23 months old

The City of Honolulu was formerly the German liner Frederich Der Grosse, built at Stettin in 1898, and used in Transatlantic travel until 1914, when she was interned in a United States harbour When the United States entered the war the liner was re-named the Huron, and used as a transport carrying troops to France.

After the war, the Huron was brought to San Pedro, California, and was reconditioned for the Los Angeles Steamship Company.

The City of Honolulu and her companion ship, the City of Los Angeles, formerly the German steamer Kronprinzessin Cecilie, recently began the first direct passenger service with Honolulu that Los Angeles ever had.

The City of Honolulu's registered tonnage is 10,688, her length 523 feet. The vessel has twin screws.

The tug Sea Lion and the United States Coastguard steamer Shawnee left here late yesterday to go to the scene of the burning City of Honolulu to render whatever assistance they could.

HONOLULU, T.H., October 13 (Canadian Press). — The collector of customs here, after a re-check of the passenger list of the burning steamer City of Honolulu, said that the total number of passengers on board was 73, of which 57 were cabin pasengers and 16 steerage.

TO ASK CANADA PARTICIPATE IN EMPIRE EXHIBIT

Exhibition Is Designed to Display the Natural Resources of Various Countries Within the Empire.

AT WEMBLEY PARK.

OTTAWA, Oct. 13. —(Canadian Press).— Representatives of the British Empire Exhibition of 1924, headed by Major E. A. Belcher, Assistant General Manager, will interview the Prime Minister and Cabinet to-day to urge an early decision as to Canadian participation in the exhibition. With the exception of Canada and Newfoundland, all parts of the empire have indicated the extent of their participation. India has applied for 100,000 square feet of space for her pavilion, involving an estimated cost of $825,000. The commonwealth of Australia has reserved a site of approximately 150,000 square feet and made an appropriation of $1,250,000. The federated Malay Straites and Straite Settlements have intimated that they will apply for 50,000 square feet Burmah has applied for a site and the Gold Coast has decided to apply for 15,000 square feet. The requirements of Nigeria are understood to be about 17,500 square feet

It now remains for the Dominion Government to determine the extent of Canada's participation and the approximate area it is proposed to occupy. The suggestion is made that Canada should participate at least equally with Australia.

The exhibition will be held at Wembley Park near London. It is designed to furnish a display of the natural resources of the various countries within the empire and the activities, industrial and social, of their people.

TO PAY AMERICA.

LONDON, Oct. 11. — (Canadian Press).—The British Government is proceeding with arrangements under which it will be paying £50,000,000 to the United States on Monday next as the yearly interest on its war loan, it was stated to-day.

CANADA'S WHEAT THIS YEAR WOULD FEED MILLIONS.

A Graphic Illustration of Dominion's Tremendous Grain Crop.

MONTREAL, Oct. 13.—A graphic illustration of Canada's tremendous wheat crop is shown in the statement that the largest Trans-Atlantic cargo carrier of the Canadian Pacific is the S.S. Bosworth. The possible capacity of this steamship is 332,000 bushels of wheat. To carry Canada's 343,000,000 bushels of wheat it would take 914 steamships of the Bosworth's capacity to convey the exportable portion of the wheat crop to three prarie provinces across the ocean. No such Armada ever put to sea in the world's history. Statistics show that 000,000 bushels of wheat are equivalent to 20,580,000,000 pounds of wheat, or 10,290,000 tons or 73,500,000 barrels of flour, which could be made in 12,862,500,000 loaves of bread weighing 24 oz. each, enough to feed 35, 239,726 people with one loaf per diem for a whole year. These figures do not take into account the enormous crop of oats, or the large crops of barley and rye and Canada still has immense sections of arable land that are untouched.

These 343,000,000 bushels of wheat would require 257,250 (40-ton) freight cars loaded to their capacity. If this string of 237,250 cars were placed in line together it would make a train 946 miles long, or one extending from Montreal to a point 26 miles west of Swift Current, Sask. to say nothing of the locomotives allowing 35 cars to a locomotive it would require 7,350 to haul 257,250 cars 1,7350 cars running at intervals of five minutes.

Apart would take 25½ days to pass a given point. The addition of 7,350 locomotives (average length 81 feet, 9½ inches) to the 257,250 cars would make the total length of cars and locomotives comdistance from Montreal to Medicine Hat, Alberta.

FRENCH LINE WILL CONTEST NEW U.S. PROHIBITION RULING

Will Fight Seizure of Ships Through U. S. Supreme Courts and Will Carry Case to International Court of Justice If Necessary.

PARIS, Oct. 13. — Canadian Press.)— The French Line has decided to fight the Washington ruling against the carrying of liquor by foreign-owned liners within territorial waters, in the Supreme Court, and in the event of an adverse decision there, will move to obtain an appeal to the International Court of Justice at The Hague, it was learned yesterday.

"Liquor as usual," up to the three mile limit, was the decision of the Board of Directors of the French Line made yesterday after two long sessions. "Then seal up the bars and let international law take its course.

This was the only information obtainable at the general offices of the French Line last evening.

The British lines are said to be in perfect harmony with the French company in this view. The first test case is likely to arise when the White Star Liner Majestic, which is scheduled to sail from Cherbourg October 18, reaches New York.

The steamer Homeric, which cleared yesterday from Cherbourg, and French liner Lafayette, sailing Saturday, are within the limit set by the latest Washington edict.

The French Government has decided to await developments, leaving the question for the present entirely in the hands of the shipping companies. They will, however, make representations should the vested rights of its nationals, represented by sailors and stokers aboard French-owned ships and flying the French flag, be deprived of their half or entire litre of wine.

M. Rio is preparing the data on the subject for Premier Poincare. The latter may take the matter up with Washington should the French owned ships be seized. M. Rio has asked the opinions of French experts on international law. Among them is professor F. Larnaude, dean of the Sorbonne Law School, who, with Gabriel Hanotaux, prepared the French thesis for the League of Nations covenant.

Concerning the privilege of the United States to accept or reject the jurisdiction of the International Court of Justice at The Hague, members of the Cabinet have expressed the opinion that, although the United States is not a member of the League of Nations, it has one judge sitting therein in the person of John Bassett Moore. It is the opinion here that the United States Government would be unwilling to go on record as refusing to arbitrate a matter of this sort before such a tribunal.

French Line officials are absolutely appalled at the Washington reports that their ships are liable to seizure as common smugglers. They declare that, outside the financial loss which would be irremediable, there is the question of personal privilege and liberty on which they would be unwilling to yield.

"It cannot be true," said General Manager O J. Dal Piaz, of the French Line, to the Associated Press last evening. "We have not been officially informed of such radical changes and shall continue as heretofore."

"Taking wine away from our sailors and stokers is just like taking milk away from babies," said M. Villiers, head quartermaster of the

MONTAGUE ALLEN'S TRIAL WAS OPENED OVER BANK FAILURE

Counsel For the Defence Brought Out a New Point Regarding Salary Paid Former Bank President.

CASE ADJOURNED.

MONTREAL, Oct. 13.—(Canadian Press.) — Sir Montague Allan appeared before Chief Justice Decarle in the Court of Special Sessions here yesterday on a charge of having, as President of the defunct Merchants' Bank of Canada, been guilty of negligently signing a return of the banks affairs, that of October 1921, which was alleged to have contained false statements.

Evidence by officers of the bank and by the trustees of the stock broking firm of Thornton, Davidson, and Company, which involved the bank in a loss of $5,000,000, was heard and covered much of the ground gone over in the hearing of the charge against the former General Manager, D.C. Macarow. There was nothing very new except a point brought out by counsel for the defence to the effect that Sir Montagu had not been paid a salary which would indicate that he had been supposed to devote all his time to the affairs of the bank. This amounted to $,6000 per annum and was a part of a sum voted annually by the shareholders to be split up between the president and directors, according to the evidence of J. M. Kilbourne, Secretary of the bank.

The case was adjourned until to-day.

REV. CANON SCOTT.

For the services in connection with the observance of Armistice Day, the local branch of the Great War Veterans' Association has been endeavoring to secure the presence of Rev. Canon Scott, of Quebec, one of the best beloved "padres" of the Canadian corps.

It is to be hoped that the effort will be successful and that the citizens will unite in giving Canon Scott the welcome his great record at the front so richly merits.

No chaplain was better known or more popular than this lion-hearted "padre" from Quebec, who went overseas with the 1st Canadian Division, and was at the front from the arrival of the first Canadians in France until the end.

His eagerness to be in the front line and his courage under all circumstances were proverbial throughout the Canadian corps, and the Great War Veterans could secure no more representative or better orator for the Armistice Day proceedings.

A visit from Canon Scott would be an event of importance, and those who know him and those who know his record will unite in the hope that it may be possible for him to come to Peterborough on Armistice Day.

SPEEDING AND GOOD ROADS.

It is an important factor entering into the question of speeding that the very people who are most interested in good roads are doing their utmost to destroy them.

Hon. Mr. Perran, head of the Quebec road department, brings the matter to public attention when he declares: "I defy any contractor to maintain 1,500 miles of roads if automobile tourists do not understand that they must not exceed the speed limit. Let me tell you that the damage caused by automobile trucks is insignificant compared to that caused by automobiles going at more than 30 miles an hour."

Mr. Perran adds that the damage caused to Quebec roads from this cause this season is not less than two million dollars.

Quebec's experience is of course duplicated in Ontario.

This province is spending many millions on road improvements.

How much will it cost to keep Hon. Mr. Biggs' roads in repair if motorists continue to use them as speedways?

In our own neighborhood the Port Hope-Peterborough highway furnishes a good example. The majority of motorists travelling over this section of roadway are inclined to forget the speed limit, tempted by the excellent condition of the highway.

How long will it remain excellent if the speeding is continued?

NO TIME TO BE LOST.

The desperate need of the northland is emphasized by Premier Drury's appeal on behalf of the fire victims.

Although many communities have already made handsome contributions in money and material to the relief work, much of what has been accomplished has been only temporary in its nature.

Only the fringe of the relief that will be necessary to place the ten thousand homeless in comfortable circumstances for the winter has been touched. In fact in some of the districts all that it has been possible to do has been to supply food.

The greatest need for the present is warm clothing for babies, winter underwear in large quantities, boots, rubbers, clothes and heavy bedding.

It will take large supplies of these articles to enable the survivors to face the cold weather that has set in, and there is no time to be lost in furnishing these necessaries.

The Northern Ontario Fire Committee and the Provincial Police are doing splendid work in superintending the relief work and in distributing supplies over the large area affected by the fire.

It is the duty of the rest of the province to see that those in charge of relief are furnished with the supplies that are needed.

Peterborough's response to the appeal should be whole-hearted and immediate; there is no time to be lost.

RECKLESS DRIVING.

A big Chicago newspaper carries as one of the three planks in its platform for a better city the significant words, "Stop reckless driving."

That plank might well be adopted in every urban centre, so long as irresponsible motorists continue to take chances in disobeying the regulations.

The wonder is not that there are so many accidents but rather that their number is not multiplied.

Here are three typical cases noticed in Peterborough in the past few days. There was no accident in any of the three instances, fortunately, but it was not the drivers' fault that no one was hurt.

At the noon hour on Saturday, one of the busiest hours of the day, a car travelling north on George Street "cut the corner" at Charlotte Street, swinging into the latter thoroughfare at least ten feet on the wrong side. An accident was unavoidable had there been another automobile reaching the corner from the west at the same time.

A heavy truck shot down George Street across Hunter, travelling well above the speed limit, and swerving around another car as the corner was reached. Another vehicle coming east along Hunter Street could not have dodged the truck—yet the latter, after its mad dash over the intersection, stopped in the next block.

The driver of a third car, seeing that a street car ahead of him was slowing up to stop at a corner, shot ahead at full speed in an effort to shoot past before the car stopped, with the result that he had to swerve into the curb to avoid hitting two people who alighted from the trolley. In this case too the motorist slowed down in the next block, indicating that there had been no particular need for hurry or any justification for the risk of accident he had taken.

This sort of gambling with death or injury goes on all day long. The police get a lot of the offenders and are grumbled at for being "too officious" as a consequence, but there cannot possibly be a policeman on duty in every block, and many of the guilty ones manage to escape undetected.

ON THE WAY UP.

Last year, although sales fell off sharply, Sears-Roebuck Company of Chicago pulled through with a turnover of $178,000,000. Practically all of this was mail-order business, says The London Advertiser.

It's sometimes interesting to note where these big things start, and this time it is necessary to go back to the year 1884 and look up a 17-year-old railroad agent at North Redwood, Minn. On the company's payroll his name appeared as Richard W. Sears.

While he did the odd jobs around the station, Sears looked out for the big chance. One day it started to come because a consignment of watches had been refused by a local dealer, and so were left at the station. Sears didn't ship them back—that would have been the easy way out, but he wrote to the firm making them, and suggested that he could sell these watches.

For customers he wrote railroad friends up and down the line. In his letters he did not offer anything for nothing, painting golden promises. Instead, he said he had good watches which he would sell at a very small margin of profit. In describing them he went into elaborate details to putting the watches before the eye of the prospective buyer.

The watch deal proved so successful that young Sears quit his railroad job and went into the mail-order business.

Here was a young fellow, marooned in a small village, so dull that only two trains a day went through. It was about the last place on earth that most of us would look for a big opportunity. And, after thinking it over, it will be realized that Sears did not find his opportunity, he created it.

Opportunity is in the individual. Geographical location has very little to do with it.

And what Sears did, starting in his dusty telegraph office, can be duplicated today by other young men, provided they have vision and "the real stuff" in them.

IF CANADA PULLS OUT?

That he intends to move that Canada withdraw from the League of Nations is the statement of Major Power, M.P. of South Quebec, says the London Advertiser. The reasons advanced are that membership in this League is getting Canada drawn into all sorts of entangling alliances in other parts of the world, and it is his desire that we shall be free on this score.

It would not be surprising were the Major to secure quite a following in the House of Commons on a question of this sort—not enough to carry Canada out of the League, but enough to show that there is a division of opinion on the matter.

Canada is the same as any other free nation of the world, in that she can retain membership in the League of Nations, or she can drop out and go her own gait.

All the other nations have exactly the same privilege.

It comes down to this point, that the nations of the world can come together to settle their disputes at an international arbitration tribunal, or they can disperse and settle them by artillery and poison gas.

The fact that it is either one thing or the other is what makes people stop and think.

No nation can stand to one side and take a disinterested or semi-benevolent attitude

The nation is either in the League of Nations or out of it.

The nation is either willing to settle disputes by arbitration, or make secret alliances that have damned Europe for years.

The League of Nations is not a well-oiled machine that takes troubles in at one end and turns out smiles at the other.

It is an effort of serious-minded men, who have seen death, murder, carnage and slaughter under the guise of war, and who want to see it no more.

The suggestion thrown into the House of Commons: "Come on, let's pull out of this thing," may receive some support, but in the name of common humanity what better thing have they to advance?

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

He gives twice who gives quickly.

A new Board of Harbor Commissioners for Belleville has been named. Being a harbor commissioner in Belleville must be a good deal like being an admiral in the Swiss navy.

Sam. Hunter's cartoon on the necessity of a slower speed limit for motor cars in the cities which appeared in yesterday's Globe affords some food for thought.

A campaign is on foot to eliminate the advertising posters and signs which deface the scenery along Ontario roads. Those who drive slowly enough to be annoyed by this advertising will support the movement.

The political warfare in England is about over. Lloyd George is to make a speech—and that will settle the argument.

The elephant who went mad after eating a chew of tobacco will furnish a weighty argument for the anti-tobacco forces.

Many a ball fan to-day is likely to resemble Canada's representative in the international fishing boat race.

Greece has accepted the Mudania terms and will evacuate Thrace. The Greeks had small chance to do anything else.

Lloyd George is still a favorite in the British political sweepstakes. The little Welshman is at his best when the fighting is hot.

The United States seems to be striving to make the world dry for democracy—and everything else.

A ROYAL TRAGEDY.

The ex-Empress Charlotte of Mexico is living today and reassuming her native Belgian nationality. Hers has been a tragic fate. Called to the imperial throne of Mexico, with her husband, June 12, 1864, she and Maximillian met with trouble almost from the day of their landing.

Within three years and five days the Emperor was stood up against a wall and shot. Instinctively fearing the worst, Charlotte had escaped to Europe, and from court to court she pursued her way, begging on bended knee literally and in deepest anguish for intervention to save her husband's life. The tragedy drove her mad, and for over 50 years this once beautiful woman has been a hopeless lunatic, daily preparing for and hourly expecting the husband who she is certain will arrive at any moment. He was a Hapsburg, and she the sister of Leopold II., of Belgium, cousin of Queen Victoria.

OPPOSE CHAMBERLAIN

LONDON, Oct. 13.—(Canadian Press).—Discussion of political cris is again fills principal columns of newspapers this morning. The outstanding feature of situation is an increased indication of the hardening of conservative opposition to Austen Chamberlain's continuance as leader of the Unionist party unless he cuts loose from Prime Minister Lloyd George and his coalition That he will do this is regarded in some quarters as altogether unlikely. It is recalled that he has been in close agreement with Lloyd George on all great political questions since the beginning of their association and he has confessed to friends that he cannot and does not wish to escape his share of responsibility for the course which has been followed.

AMERICAN SHIPS MAY RELOAD THEIR LIQUOR

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—(Canadian Press.)—In an order promulgating tentative regulations for enforcement of Attorney General Daugherty's bone-dry prohibition ruling, the Bureau of Internal Revenue announced yesterday that United States' ships which voluntarily had surrendered their stocks of liquor in American ports, would be permitted to take such stocks aboard again provided they are sailing prior to October 14.

THE MYSTERY MIND

Arthur B. Reeve and John W. Grey

The other detectives, as they recovered from the glare of the explosion, aided in the search of the premises, the grounds, even the barns and outbuildings Dupont settled down in the principal room, to think his problem out. With him was Randolph, now able to use his eyes to a slight extent. Before them were the bodies of Case and Dupree, the victims of the adventurer, caught by Randolph before they dreamed any of the ring of attackers had approached the house closely.

"Bob" Randolph's voice was very subdued.

"Yes, Bing?"

"This was my fault. She wanted to come, but I shouldn't have stood for it. Now I'm in the mess. I stick with you to the very finish, get that? The very finish"

Silently, Dupont put out a hand, and they clasped. It was the resealing of a friendship, the making of an offensive and defensive alliance.

"Bob" This was after an interval of thought by both.

"Yes?"

"Can't you use some of those tricks you learned from the savages when we were travelling—some of your hypnotism, or occultism, to learn what they're up to, where they've taken the girl?"

Dupont gazed down at the little hunchback. If only Case were alive The undersized man had been a remarkable subject. Once before Dupont had actually used the man's mind for his own purposes against the wishes of the very will which dwelt within the mind. Undoubtedly Case knew the plans and preparations. Hypnotized, he would have to give them to Dupont. But Case was dead.

Suddenly, on unaccountable impulse, Dupont leaned forward. It was horrible, but there was something in the wide-open eyes of the hunchback which seemed to tell him that his former subject was not dead, but was living—yet it was inconceivable. He felt the pulse. There was not the faintest flutter. There was no breathing, no symptoms which any physician would recognize as indicative of life. The body was warm. That was all, and that was easily accountable.

However, something urged the hypnotist. He fixed his gaze upon eyes apparently sightless, and obtained, almost to his terror, the reaction of malice and defiance. Was it wholly a psychic phenomenon?

"Are you Case?" he asked, finally, aloud.

The answer seemed to be spoken within, to echo within the physical confines of his own brain. "I am"

"Are you alive or dead?" This question he framed mentally, without utterance.

The reply came as before. "I am dead by all human standards. In the astral world I am dying, but am still alive."

"Can you answer my questions?"

"I must if you demand it of me. I do not wish to do so."

"Where is Violet?"

"In the hands of Evil Eye."

"Where is he taking her? Where is she?"

"He is taking her to the Cavern of the Skull, in the temple of the Devil God, at the headwaters of the Orinoco. Dick Renard and Vera Collins and the Strangler are with Evil Eye. Now are you satisfied? Now will you let me die, free of your control?"

Dupont shuddered. Aloud he muttered, "Violet, I shall follow you to the Orinoco or to the ends of Africa or Asia or of the world itself"

Deep in his consciousness, replacing the voice of Case, there came the mocking, malignant influence he knew. It spoke in sepulchral tones, which echoed with deep vibrations through space.

"Fool You know who I am?"

Dupont formed and held the answer in his brain. "The Mystery Mind"

"You would match your power against the Devil God? You would follow the girl to the Cavern of the Skull?"

"I do not fear, and I shall win," was the assertion of the hypnotist.

The Mystery Mind began to laugh. The hollow cadences of mirth grew louder and louder until they rang with thunder peal in Dupont's consciousness. Then they died away like the rumbling of a wave, defeated and vanquished in its attack upon the rocks of a mountain coast.

Dupont came to himself with a start. He glanced at the body of Case. Then he straightened, in surprise, in amazement, in fright. He looked at Randolph, but Randolph had not stirred. Nevertheless, the eyes of the hunchback were closed.

FRENCH LINE

French Line to the Associated Press correspondent. "I am positive that we would be unable to muster crews for New York should the edict be upheld. Wine is one of the primest necessities of life for these boys."

The financial loss to the French Line would be hundreds of thousands of francs monthly. On one trip in August with 1,011 passengers aboard, the steamer Paris sold 1,260 bottles of champagne, 252 bottles of fine Burgundy and Bordeaux wines and 87 bottles of liquor. Besides this, there was the ordinary red and white wine, which was allotted to each passenger with the noon and evening meals.

The White Star Majestic and Cunard Liner Aquitania are reported to sell similar amounts of extra fine wines, but beer takes the place of ordinary wines, and whiskey the fine brandy.

The Paris evening papers take a decided attitude against the American ruling. La Liberte says:

"Wine is our patrimony, the same as our literature, or art and our science. It cannot be taken away from us."

Syrup Pepsin Loved By Hosts of Babies

Half a teaspoonful will make a fretful youngster happy and playful

THE mother has her choice of many remedies for her baby's minor ills, but she should be careful which remedy she selects lest she do the child harm. What might be safe for herself may do injury to an infant. You will find that if the little one cries and doesn't want to play that its bowels are constipated. First look carefully to the diet and give the child one-half teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin. You will then see results in a few hours. You will not have to force it on babies or children: they actually ask for it, it is so pleasant-tasting and free from griping.

Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin is a compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with agreeable aromatics. The ingredients are stated on the package. It is a mild, gentle vegetable laxative that everyone finds effective and pleasant. It is better for you and yours than purgatives, coal-tar drugs, or salt waters and powders, which may concentrate the blood and dry up the skin; or mercurial calomel, which may salivate and loosen the teeth.

Use a safe laxative like Syrup Pepsin, and especially for the children, for invalids, growing girls, nursing mothers, elderly people, and persons recently operated upon who need bowel action with the least strain. Mrs. H. Lefever of Medicine Hat, Alberta, always gives her little girl Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin, and Mrs. May Stephen Sharpe of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., is never without it in her home. Your druggist will supply you, and it costs only a cent a dose. Try it in constipation, colic, biliousness, flatulency, headaches, and to break up fevers and colds.

ANY FAMILY MAY TRY IT FREE

Thousands of parents are asking themselves, "Where can I find a trustworthy laxative that anyone in the family can use when constipated?" I urge you to try my Laxative Syrup Pepsin. I will gladly provide a liberal free sample bottle, sufficient for an adequate test. Write me where to send it. Address Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 23 Caldwell Building, Toronto, Ont. Do it now!

TO REMODEL HIGH SCHOOL, MILLBROOK

Additional Accommodation Will Be Provided.

MILLBROOK, October 13.—The re-modelling and enlarging of the Millbrook High School building will make it one of the finest structures in Millbrook. The old school had only four classrooms, one of which was divided into two, so as to accomodate the increase of scholars.

The new addition is 51 feet by 43 feet, thus making the whole building a structure 100 feet by 55 feet.

The new building will be of brick on a concrete foundation, some of the old windows will be closed and others inserted, and a new chimney is to be erected.

The school, when complete, will have six classrooms, one library, one science laboratory, a play-room for the boys and one for the girls in the basement, two lavatories and a boiler room. There will also be two large corridors and a teachers' rest room.

A new steam heating system will be installed, also new ventilation and complete electric lighting systems.

The new classrooms have adjoining cloakrooms, while in the old classrooms lockers are to be added. Drinking fountains are also to be provided in the corridors.

A main feature of this new school is that one large classroom and the library will be joined by folding-doors, so that a spacious assembly hall will be available by throwing the two rooms into one.

Millbrook School Board is inviting tenders for this work, in The Examiner. W. H. Barry, Peterborough, is the architect.

Plowing Match A Big Success

LINDSAY, October 13 (Canadian Press). — Although the weather conditions have not been favourable as expected, large crowds gathered on Wednesday and Thursday for the annual Provincial Plowmen's Association match held at the House of Refuge Farm and adjacent farms.

One thousand attended the first day and 7,000 yesterday.

It is expected that to-day's crowd will be a record one.

The class of ploughing both tractor and team work, is of the very best type. There are many tents of exhibitors on the grounds.

A CURE FOUND FOR DIABETES

Experiments With Serum Have Proved An Unqualified Success.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 13. — (Canadian Press.)—After years of investigation and research in which the medical science was at a standstill to discover some remedy for the successful treatment of diabetes, physiologists at the University of Toronto have prepared a serum which is now pronounced an "absolute cure for the disease." A small quantity of serum was sent to the University of Pennsylvania a week ago for the physicians of that institution to use experimentally on diabetes patients. After several injections had been administered to three cases seelcted for the purpose, yesterday Dr. Alfred Stengel, Professor of Medicine in the Medical School of the University, pronounced the experiments an unqualified success.

CRUDE GAMING OUTFIT TAKEN

a calendar were pasted at each nail, the strange device being used in the usual way of wheels of fortune for the operator and misfortune for his patrons.

The other gambling property was a 'roll down" board, and it was even rougher and cruder than the wheel. It is made of a board about a foot and one-half wide and four feet long, with strips raised along each side to guide the balls that were rolled along this miniature alley. At the operator's end he had nailed a set of tins that are probably found in every kitchen and are known as "pattie pans." In household science they are probably used for making bran muffins and other such confections. The top of the tin was flush with the surface of the alley, and little balls that were rolled expectantly along the board by the players would drop into one or other of the individual "pattie" sections, each of which was numbered.

Such was Rath's outfit, which the police are showing to some of their visitors, and which may be stored away for a while in the Department's Museum.

The Record That Wrecked Record Prices

A story is told of a man who stood on Brooklyn Bridge years ago and offered to sell genuine five dollar gold pieces for $4.50. He stood there for an hour amid the crowded traffic without making a single sale. People were actually afraid to buy those genuine five dollar gold pieces for $4.50 because they did not think that such a thing was possible.

Exactly the same thing applies to some people who as yet have not tried Apex 10-inch double-sided Phonograph Records at 65c because they refuse to believe it possible that they can be superior to other records sold at 75c.

To these people we now suggest that they purchase just one Apex 10-inch double-sided Record at 65c; and compare it on their own phonograph with other records for which they have paid more.

A single trial will convince those people as it has already convinced thousands of others who tried Apex 10-inch double-sided Phonograph Records at 65c, and now buy no other kind.

A SAFETY PIN IN STOMACH

Was Extracted by One of Most Remarkable Operations on Record.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 11.—An operation by which an open safety pin was taken from the stomach of Mac Asbill, Jr. 6-month-old son of a well known Atlanta attorney, was to day characterized by doctors as one of the mose remarkable feats in the history of surgery.

By means of a wire loop at the end of a rod a foot and a half long, the point of the pin, which rested just at the entrance of the baby's stomach was pushed under the safety catch and then the pin was drawn out with out injury to the child.

In addition to the wire loop, the doctor used a tiny pair of pinchers on the end of a long pieces of wire and lowered down the baby's throat a tiny electric light to enable him to see.

Done in 15 Minutes

The entire operation was performed without aneesthic and lasted about 15 minutes. The child had swallowed the pin while in bed. His mother was attracted by his screams She noticed that the safety pin used to fasten the blankets in which he was wrapped was missing. Careful search failing to locate the missing pin the doctor was called as a precaution.

The infant was removed to a local sanitorium and an X-ray taken. It revealed the pin, open, just at the entrance to the stomach.

Specialists at first said there was a possibility the pin eventually would pass through the stomach without injury. Some hours late, however the child developed pain and cried. Another picture showed that the pin had moved up a trifle and that the sharp point was pressing on the flesh.

A surgical operation was felt to be impossible because of the location of the obstacle. Dr. J. H. Buff, a specialist studied the X-Ray picture and said he was certain he could get the pin.

Child Bound to the Table

He decided against any anesthetic as dangerous, so he bound the child to the operating table. Attendants held its hands, but it was too exhausted with crying to make trouble

Dr. Buff tied the cord of an electroscope about his head. Then with his right hand he manipulated the pinchers and wire loop after first lowering the tiny light down the baby's throat. At one time the instruments had to be withdrawn because the breathing was interfered with.

After several efforts Dr. Buff caught the pin with the pinchers. Holding it steady he manipulated the wire loop over the butt of the pin and began to pull on it. The loop slipped along the pin, and pushed the point toward the catch. Finally the point slipped under the catch and then it was a comparatively easy task to get the pin out through the throat.

The child quickly recovered from its experience and seemed as well as ever to-day.

EXECUTIONS AND RECONSTRUCTION RUSSIA'S POLICY.

Cracking of Rifles Are Heard Simultaneously With Tattoo of Workmen's Hammers in the Whole Land.

RIGA, Oct. 10. — (Associated Press)—The cracking of the rifles of squads of executioners continues throughout Russia, and may be heard simultaneously with the tattoo of workemen's hammers engaged in the actual repair and reconstruction of buildings throughout the land.

That reconstruction has begun and is slowly continuing without important assistance from foreign countries, and that the Soviet has not changed its unrelenting and ruthless policy toward its political foes, are two outstanding phases of the Russian situation evident to the correspondent of The Associated Press who has come to Riga after an eight-months' stay in Russia.

Hardly a day passes but somewhere in the country the death sentence for political offenses is made effective, but at the same time no day dawns without the beginning of some new task, the purpose of which is to put in order buildings and strets that were wrecked during the revolution. Prisoners doomed to die look from their windows on bustling street scenes and smiling people who have forgotten politics in the pleasure of buildings and streets that were opens up.

There have been no changes in the fundamental policies of the Soviet government, but its tactics now seem to be strikingly summed up in the phrase of a foreign observer in Moscow: "Assist or wink at anything which ultimately help us in the reconstruction of Russia; relentlessly crush anyone who dares to raise his hand against us politically."

Speculators flourish, but the government is busy devising means to get their money away from them. These men pay heavy taxes; dine at stupendous prices in tax-burdened restaurants, and play baccarat for high stakes at night in the casinoes from which the government takes the lion's share of the profits. To the speculators the government is like the Gods of Olympus, permitting its children to play at business, but threatening them with a thunderbolt if they dare to take part in the political game.

The government makes no secret of its dictatorship, and the people are becoming accustomed to this and are even happy in their daily lives under it. Under the iron hand of dictatorship the existence of the masses in Russia is beginning to run smoothly. While the correspondent was in Moscow he was assured by government leaders that no political freedom would be granted Russia. But this seems not to worry the people, and tired of war and strife, they now see ample food before them, coupled with the possibilities of personal advancement.

Throughout Soviet Russia there is not today, nor has there been for months, a single important uprising. The Communist control is tighter and more complete than ever. The Committee of Investigation is outweeding, trying and convicting various minor officials who accepted bribes, and is thus endeavoring to build up a bureaucratic machine which will operate strictly in accordance with order from the Central Government

The old Cheka has been abolished and in its stead there has come up the organization known as the Political Police. The latter does not interfere in men's private lives, but in politics they are as omnipotent as ever. At one time the policital police could shoot people first and try them afterwards. Today the method is to have a court trial first and then carry out the execution, or to send suspects into exile without trial.

To foreigners in Russia the leaders make no effort to conceal their policy. They are not ashamed. They have confidence in the policy of doing wrong that good ultimately may come, and they apparently are succeeding, slowly and painfully, in reconstructing Russia, but along their own lines, and without any important sacrifice of principle.

The evidence of reconstruction in the land is more superficial than really deep-seated. Streets are being repaved, buildings reconstructed and railroad passenger traffic is becoming normal. Industrial plants, however, if in no worse condition than a year ago, certainly are in no better shape. These plants need foreign capital, but lacking this on terms to which the Communists can consent, the government is ready to wait until it has a surplus of exports from agriculture. This it hopes for in 1923, and then and thereafter it sees money with which it will be able to establish industries itself.

In the meantime, with evidence at hand of enough food to feed practically the entire population; with a fuel supply exceeding that of last year, and with textile works producing a considerable amount of clothing, the government expects the population to be fed, and warmed, and clad, not necessarily very well, but still well enough to weather another year without foreign loans.

To feed the few hundred thousands of people who still suffer from the Russian famine, the government still looks to foreign air. This will permit it to devote most of the available famine and church funds to constructive agricultural betterment, and to the purchase of harvesting machinery, horses, etc.

Nikolai Lenine, Premier of Russia, though far from strong as the result of his recent illness, has been the guiding mind in these general policies.

I.—The Various Versions.

The Bibles that are in common use in our homes today are the descendants of a number of earlier versions, some of which will be described in a later article.

The Bible was originally written in two languages, Hebrew and Greek, many centuries before the invention of printing. During that period the text was copied and recopied by many generations of scribes, for hundreds of years in the case of the New Testament, and for thousands of years in the case of the Old Testament. In this process many variations naturally crept in, and the original texts gradually became lost through the fortunes of war, fire, etc. As a result no original manuscript of the Scriptures has come down to our time. Indeed we have none which includes even the major part of the Old Testament books that go back beyond the tenth century of our era, more than a thousand years after these books were written.

The marginal readings with which we are familiar, testify not only to the different translations that are possible for a given text, but show also that there was considerable variety in the text itself. This was partly explained by the early form of Hebrew writing, in which there was at one time no division between the words, while there were no vowels in use until some time between 600 and 900 A.D., the division coming in verses and chapters coming several centuries later.

This would often render uncertain reading that was intended in a given place. If we had simply the three consonants BRD, the word represented might be any of the following,—bard, bird, brad, bred, bride, bored, etc. It might be that more than one of these words would be appropriate for a given sentence, e.g., 'the bird sang beautifully,' or 'the bride sang beautifully.' The context would often determine the word to be chosen.

If we had a longer succession of consonants, BTRDLNG, we might read 'better dealing,' bitter dealing', 'butter dealing,' 'but read long' or 'battered long' according to the vowel chosen and the place of division between the consonants. Two possible readings might even be mutually contradictory. GDSNW HR could be 'God is nowhere.' shows that this is what actually happened. In I. Chron. 17:10 the Greek version read certain consonants as one word, making the meaning 'and I shall make thee great,' while the Hebrew text, as reflected in our version, separated them in two words, signifying 'Moreover, I tell thee.' In Psalm 106:7, where the Hebrew has two words which we translate 'at the sea' the Septuagint read one, to be translated 'going up.' There are many similar instances.

Another set of cases indicates that the scribes sometimes wrote from dictation, variations being due to the ear instead of the eye. There are two entirely different Hebrew words, one meaning 'not' and the other 'his' or 'its' but both pronounced alike, 'lo'. The translations show that some scribes wrote one word when the other was intended, just as we might write 'air,' for 'heir' if someone were dictating to us. In Psalm 100:3 the Authorized and the Revised versions show that the two possibilities, the translations being respectively, 'It is he that hath made us and not ourselves,' and 'It is he that hath made us and we are his."

These are some of the circumstances which have given us different traslations of certain passages and different versions of the Bible as a whole. Most of the variations, however, are relatively unimportant. One Biblical scholar declares that not one of them "affects an article of faith or a precept of duty which is not abundantly sustained by other and undoubted passages, or by the whole tenor of Scripture reading."

The Bounteous Crop of the Canadian Harvest will have a far-reaching effect on every walk of life in every section of the Dominion.

Railroads and steamships will be busy transporting the crops—all kinds of manufactured goods will be in greater demand—more and more labor will be employed—financial obligations will be discharged—and a feeling of confidence and optimism will permeate the land.

Bumper crops in the country mean more business in the cities; and when business is good in the cities, the farmers get a wider market for their produce.

Prosperity is indelibly associated with efficiency, whether it be agriculture or commerce—and the use of

MARRIAGE A LA MODE.

The number of attendants a bride selects to be members of the wedding party has become much smaller than formerly, even at the most formal weddings.

The impressive escort for the bride originates in England, where at one time it indicated the financial rating of the bride's family.

There have been as many as a hundred bridemaids at old English ceremonies.

This Little Black Book Contains The Best Plan of Insurance For You

THE most sensible way to buy life insurance is to take the Mutual Life Agent into your confidence.

Tell him your circumstances.

Then with the aid of the "Little Black Book," which every Mutual Life Agent carries, he will help you to select the plan of life insurance best suited to your needs.

The young unmarried man who buys insurance as an investment for his savings needs a plan of insurance different from that of the man who takes out insurance to protect his wife and family of young children.

The capitalist with very heavy financial responsibilities requires a plan different from that of the man on straight salary.

The farmer who has his farm bought and paid for requires a policy different from the one carried by a farmer with a mortgage to pay off.

The "Little Black Book" contains Mutual Life plans for everybody. It contains plans of insurance with which you are not familiar—one of these unfamiliar plans might be the very best for you. Consult the Mutual Life Agent.

Attempted Escape By Shamming Dea h

ST. HYACINTHE, Quebec, October 13 (Canadian Press).— Joseph Robert, prisoner in the jail here, shammed death yesterday in an effort to escape.

The doctor of the prison being summoned, he was recalled to life by a few sharp cuffs. It was then found that he had removed some bricks from the wall of the cell, but finding that the aperture thus made only led to the jailers' room, had given up the attempt, and pretended to be dead.

When first admitted to the jail, Robert refused food, and it was only under the threat of the lash that he abandoned this hunger strike.

He will be examined as to his sanity.

1—Plenty of Power—and then some
2—Long Life
3—Freedom from Repairs

A real battery means so much to you that you should ask, in buying a new car, if it is Exide equipped.

If you have any trouble in finding an Exide when you need to replace your present battery, just write us or our nearest district distributor.

If you don't feel warranted in buying a new Exide Battery at this time, ask our nearest Service Station—before you consider getting a substitute make of battery—whether your present battery cannot be rebuilt with genuine Exide parts:

FARM YOUNG PEOPLE MEET.

Interest Running High in Club Competition—Business and Pleasure.

Nothing daunted by the downpour of rain and the muddy roads, the farm young people held their regular monthly meeting in the C. F.O. Rooms, Simcoe Street. In the absence of the President, Roy Sanderson very ably filled the office of chairman.

Interest is running higher and higher in the club program competition now under way. The club is divided into two teams under Miss Pearl Petrie and Mr. Stanley Whitfield as captains. Marks are given to each team for new members brought in and for contributions from its members towards the programme. The next and last meeting during the competition will be held on Tuesday, November 14 and on November 28, the losing team is to banquet the winners.

To date, Miss Petrie's team is in the lead, seven new members being brought in last evening, which together with contributions to the program, made in all 1180 marks as against Mr. Widdifield's team's 440. Counting 1295-1060, the total score to date is 2375—1500 in favour of Miss Petrie's team.

The early part of the evening was spent in various enjoyable games. This was followed by a good programme.

Miss Clara Raddon gave a piano solo and a humorous recitation.

Miss Mae Petrie gave a speech on "The Farm As A Builder Of Manhood" in which she quoted extracts from Professor J. B. Reynolds' address, and stressed the fact that the great majority of leaders in town or country, in all walks of life, came immediately or almost immediately from the farms, and she showed why this was so.

Mr. Carl Wilson gave a splendid address on "The Benefits Derived from U.F.Y.P.O. Meetings." He mentioned the various kinds of social activities and the pleasure in forming new acquaintances. Continuing he said, that if our parents had had the opportunity that the U.F.Y.P.O. members now have for training in public speaking and debating, they would have been better able to take their place in the world today. And if more people studied both sides of public and political questions, as is the privilege of U.F. Y.P.O. club members to-day, there would be no such thing as "bribery."

Mr. James C. Petrie contributed several humorous solos.

Mr. Roy Sanderson's recitation 'Andy McGrew" was received with much applause.

Messrs. Harold Lewis, Earl Petrie and other contributed humourous stories and short speeches.

Miss Pearl Petrie gave a carefully prepared address on "Education." The work of our association she said, is planned along the lines of organization, education and co-operation and of these education is the most important. In many respect this is an age of youth, but history shows that in the past exceptional men have risen superior to their tender years and have prepared themselves for and accepted highest responsibility at a time of life when most young people are thinking of pleasure. She quoted the definition of education as follows:—"Education consists in the formation of the mind, the regulation of the heart and the establishment of right principles." She showed that our real education as an organization does not depend merely upon the amount of schooling our individual members have but rather upon our putting into our work the right spirit of love of mankind, of our country and of brotherhood. Thus, true education expresses itself in service for others.

At the close of the meeting corn was popped and a social time enjoyed.

Executive meeting to be held next Saturday evening, when suggestions and resolutions for the Provincial Convention will be prepared.

The club has also arranged to hold a Hallowe'en party in the C. F. rooms, Simcoe street on Tuesday, October 31. The Young people will come in costume and the committee in charge (Roy Sanderson convenor, Harold Lewis, Carl Wilson, Beatrice Whitfield and Mr. Tully) are arranging a splendid evening's entertainment.

"Whoopee! Rheumatism Pains and Agony All Gone. Ironized Yeast Is Surely Wonderful!"

queer poisons, joint poisons, muscle poisons, acid poisons are formed instead of the healthy flesh and the rich blood you used to have in days gone by? If you hobble in your gait, if pains distort your body, if bending over is an unspeakable agony, if dull pains make you breathe heavily and moan, do not grumble at the roughness of the way,—smile sweetly, there is a rainbow ahead. Things are different now than they used to be, in the days of liniments, salves, complicated drugs, and all that,—remember? The happy secret today is Ironized Yeast, one of the greatest body-and-blood builders of all time. Begin taking Ironized Yeast today. Beware of imitations and substitutes, because Ironized Yeast is not a mere combination of yeast and iron, but is yeast Ironized, which is a substance all by itself. AN AMUSING ERROR IN HER TRANSLATION

MOSCOW, Oct. 13.—(Associated Press Higher education having been the privilege of the comparatively well-to-do in Russia, the offices of the American Relief Administration here are crowded with princesses and an occasional countess. For the A.R.A. needed a numerous staff of translators and found them among the educated young women of the city, many of whom were adorned with titles.

They did well, for the English governesses who went out to Russia in the old days before the war were conscientious young women and owrked hard. But a translator often has his own point of view as to what is worth translating, and sometimes amusing errors creep in. One young woman, a countess, whose duty it was to translate the Moscow papers, invariably added a list of the current theatrical entertainments. Based on her previous training, this was her idea of real news. One of her notes recorded that "The Shaver of Seville" would be given in Moscow that night.

How's Your Stomach?

Vim, Vigor and Health Follow This Advice

Theodore, Sask. —"It is a pleasu: to me to write few lines about Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I used this medicine and can say it is just what I wanted and needed. The sour stomach, heartburn after eating and the gas are gone and I am able to take cold water again. Before I had to take the water hot on account of the stomach trouble. I recommend 'Golden Medical Discovery' to every one who knows what a weak stomach is."—W. E. Waugh.

Need a Tonic?

Health Is Your Most Valuable Asset. Do Not Neglect It!

Hattonford, Alta.—"Being rundown after the flu, I was in a weakened condition, had dizzy spells and short breathing, followed by faintness. It seemed as though I'd never feel well again, but I was determined not to give up. Hearing of Dr. Pierce's famous 'Golden Medical Discovery' I sent for a bottle, followed the directions, and soon felt less tired and faint, and finally I got back to my normal state. I have thanked God many times for restoring my health, and I gladly recommend this 'Medical Discovery,' for it is so pure, and worth a trial to anyone who is rundown."—Mrs. Gertrude White, Crystal Springs Farm.

Golden Medical Discovery is put up in Dr. Pierce's Laboratory in Bridgeburg, Ont., and sold by all druggists in both tablets and liquid.

IF SKIN BREAKS OUT IS FIERY ITCHY OR ROUGH, USE SULPHUR

Just the moment you apply Mentho-Sulphur to an itching, burning or broken out skin, the itching stops and healing begins, says a noted skin specialist. This sulphur preparation, made into a pleasant cold cream, gives such a quick relief, even to fiery eczema, that nothing has ever been found to take its place.

Because of its germ destroying properties, it quickly subdues the itching, cools the irritation and heals the eczema right up, leaving a clear, smooth skin in place of ugly eruptions, rash, pimples or roughness.

You do not have to wait for improvement. It quickly shows. You can get a little jar of Mentho-Sulphur at any drug store.

METHODIST CLERGY MUST NOT SMOKE

Such is a New Ruling of Conference

TORONTO, Oct. 13—(Canadian Press).—By an amendment inserted in the discipline code of the Methodist Church last night by conference candidates for ministry must pledge themselves never to smoke. Previously they were not permitted to smoke while probationers, but the rule now extends to their whole lives as ministers of the church. By another amendment the period of university training necessary before ordination was extended from three to four years with two years as a probationer on mission circuit.

The debate or smoking was forced on Conference by Rev. W. E. Millson and his action received almost unanimous support of the delegates. A memorial on the subject which has been presented was thrown out by the committee on courses of study with the result that Rev. Mr. Millson went right over the head of the committee and in an amendment to report drew this matter to the attention of conference. After the pledge that they must not smoke while in training, probationers must now consent to continue to abstain therefrom.

Rev. E. W. Edwards of Seaforth and Rev. W. B. Smith of Sault Ste. Marie who supported the stand of Mr. Millson urged the necessity of Methodist clergy leading people on all moral grounds.

NEW CAPITAL IS DISCOVERED BY THE UTILITY COMPANIES

Class of Investors in the United States is Only Equalled By Owners of Liberty Bonds.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—(Associated Press).—The financing of public utilities by the users of the commodity supplied, an experiment born of wartime exigencies, has grown so fast in the post-war period that to-day "customer ownership" of telephone, electric, gas, water and power plants has created a class of investors in the United States only equalled in numbers by the owners of Liberty Bonds. A source of new investment capital especially for the development of public utilities, untouched by financing campaigns in use before the war, has been tapped, and combinations of companies serving the public with daily utilities are being organized to sell their securities direct to customers. As the result of this "customer ownership" movement, more than 50,000 persons in the state of Illinois alone are now owners of securities of their local utilities, and new capital is being sought by this method in nearly every state in the union.

Foremost in the movement are the Bell Telephone Securities Company, handling the securities of the subsidiary telephone companies of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company; the Henry L. Doherty and Company combination of electric, gas and power companies; the American Water Works and Electric Company, with water works and street railway companies throughout the country, and the Utility Securities Company, recently organized by a large group of Middle Western utilities to dispose of their securities direct to customers.

Although the method of financing was employed to some extent before the war by public utilities, locally and on a small scale, the results achieved recently have encouraged the companies to organize their efforts on a national basis, and the new "customer ownership" movement bids fair to establish itself as an accepted and important branch of the investment banking machinery of the United States.

The American Telephone Company alone has 200,000 security holders to-day, an increase of more than 50 per cent in the past five years, due in large measure to the use of direct selling methods to customers. Other large combinations of public utilities have increased their numbers of security holders by the same method, and it is asserted that the numbers are daily growing larger.

One group of electric light and power companies scattered throughout the United States has secured more than 200,000 customer-owners by this method in the past eight years. Nearly half of the new stockholders were obtained in 1921. More than six per cent of the customers served by the 84 companies are now stockholders.

Money available for investment purposes in the usual quarters would have cost the companies more than they could afford to pay, and many of the companies turned to their customers and employes for aid in new financing. The results during the war period were encouraging, and more and more securities were placed in the hands of customers, most of whom had never before owned a security of any kind.

The cost of distributing new securities by this method has been greater in some instances than by the pre war methods, but satisfaction has been expressed with the results attained. Most of the issues whose total value is many millions of dollars, are preferred stock bearing a good rate of interest, and many of them are sold on the partial payment basis. The directors of these various sales organizations are unanimous in warning the public to exercise caution in buying securities of this character, and to become familiar with the financial background and possibilities of a public utility, before investing in its securities.

Escaped From Haileybury Inferno

Mr. James Daw, principal of the Haileybury Business College, and his family were among the refugees from the town who spent the first night after the fire on the beach and in the icy lake waters. Mr. Daw was so badly burned that a copper in his pocket was defaced on side by the intense heat of the fire. Baby Audrey (left) was the first prize baby at Haileybury Horticultural Show this summer.

Above is shown all that remains of the Bond home near Heaslip. Below is the roothouse, in which Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bond, their eight children, and John Marshall a brother of Mrs. Bond, who has a nearby farm, sought refuge only to perish when the firse swept over the land and the roothouse caved in. Marshall (shown inset), aged 58, went to notify the Bond family, and his body was found outspread toward the younger children, as if trying to shield them.

1,500,000 RADIO SETS.

There are 1,500,000 radio receiving sets in use in the United States, estimates the National Radio Chamber of Commerce. Within the next five years this figure will rise to 6,500,000, says the same authority. That is about equal to the number of phonographs in use to-day.

URGES NATIONAL LABOR LAW

Senator Lodge Favors 48-Hour Restriction for Women and Children.

HOLYOKE, Mass., Oct. 13.—Senator Lodge, in an address here tonight, advocated a national law, patterned after the Massachusetts 48-hour statute, limiting the hours of labor for women and children. He also favored a constitutional amendment prohibiting child labor, if a bill regulating employment of children could not be framed to meet the approval of the Supreme Court.

"The principal reason for legislation of this character" he said, "is that humanity and the best interests of the whole community alike demand it, and it will also have the effect of avoiding the condition which now exists of putting a premium upon those States which disregard what humanity and progress demand and penalizes those States which have the best and most advanced legislation on this subject. This should not be. The evil can only be met and remedied by a uniform and universal law applying to all the States of the Union alike.

AMERICAN MULE REIGNS SUPREME IN ARMENIA

ERIVAN, Oct. 13.— (Associated Press).—The American mule is 2.06 times as efficient as the Armenian ox, and 2.68 times as efficient as the Caucasian horse, according to figures reported by the American farming experts in charge of the agricultural program of the Near East in the Caucasus.

These computations are made on a cost-efficiency basis, taking into consideration capital investment, upkeep, length of service, and amount of work accomplished. The mule beats even the tractor in small farming operations, but farms of more than 500 acres bring down tractor costs per unit of work done to a basis below that of the mule.

American mules were introduced here about a year ago. American relief organizations now use 300 of these animals on their various agricultural relief projects. Plans for the breeding of the American type mule on Armenian soil will be shortly carried into effect in northern Armenia.

RUSSIA IS FAVORED.

Everyone Should Drink Hot Water in the Morning

Wash away all stomach, liver, and bowel poisons before breakfast.

To feel your best day in and day out, to feel clean inside; no sour bile to coat your tongue and sicken your breath or dull your head; no constipation, bilious attacks, sick headache, colds, rheumatism or gassy, acid stomach, you must bathe on the inside like you bathe outside. This is vastly more important, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do.
